While we American people have boasted much of the possibility of the humblest citizen among us rising to the pinnacle of fame and position—and it is true—yet it carries with it the possibility of the unworthy, incompetent rising to such positions of influence and power as an official that our freedom becomes to us a curse instead of a blessing. And you have doubtless heard that in Europe it was quite different; the ladder by which one rose to the place of rulership was well-guarded there. But we have to reconsider and admit that Russia, Germany and Italy stand as three denials of our claim. Really there is no way to prevent the unworthy, the unfit for positions of high trust and responsibility from reaching them except the will of the people. Let it be in a democracy or in a Totalitarian state. The dictators rule only so long as the people let them rule. Hence the great importance of giving greater consideration to the low and the lowly; to the ignorant and the educated, to the good and the bad. But above all, the Church, if it is to save itself, must let its concern for the welfare of the race express itself more outwardly and constantly. If the Church has nothing better to offer; if its leaders are selfish seekers after honor, riches and pleasures more than after God, then the lowest may take the place highest in our midst. It happens in a revolution. And no country is absolutely safe from such a turmoil. Only the grace of God can save a nation from destruction.

Answer to Brother Alexander

Brother S. A. Alexander asked the Editor to say what he thought was the meaning of the 27th verse of I Sam., 15th chapter, "And as Samuel turned about to go away, he laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent." The question is, who is the "he" in the verse? Is it Saul or Samuel? We think it refers to Saul. And if we supply the name it would read like this, And as Samuel turned about to go away, Saul laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent. As we see it Saul was not yet ready to end the conference and in his attempt to detain Samuel, he tore his mantle. Then said Samuel, "The Lord has rent the kingdom of Israel from thee this day."

What Is Efficiency?

It is doing things, not wishing you could do them, or dreaming about them or wondering if you can do them.

It is the power to learn how to do things by doing them, as learning to walk by walking, or learning to sell goods by selling them. It is knowing how to apply theory to practice.

It is the trick of turning defeat into experience and using it to achieve success. It is the ability to mass one's personality to any given time or place; it is skill in quick mobilization of one's resources. It is making everything of the past minister to the future.

It is the elimination of the three microbes of weakness—regret, worry, and fear. It is self-reliance clothed with modesty. It is persistence plus politeness. It is the hand of steel in a velvet glove.

It is alertness, presence of mind, readiness to adjust one's self to the unexpected.

It is sacrificing personal feeling to the will to win. It is impinging the ego against combination of events—lucky fate, custom and prejudice, until they give way.

It is the massing of theme against the universe. It is the sum of three qualities, purpose, practice and patience. It is the measure of a man, the real size of his soul. It is the ability to use one's passions, likes, dislikes, habits, experience, education, mind, body, and heart—and not be used by these things.

It is self-mastery, concentration, vision and common sense. It is the sum total of all that is in man.

DR. FRANK CRANE.

WE MUST MAKE UP OUR MINDS

Jesus Christ rose in the hearts and lives of a handful of fishermen and they went out and revolutionized the world. And if only we would allow him to rise in us today we could do the same to the utter confusion of dictators and others who seek to usurp the place of God.

The rise of Communism and Fascism is due largely to the complacency of those of us who call ourselves Christians. The world today is surrendering its liberties to small men who have seized circumstances and exploited them to their own advantage whilst announcing that they are lovers of liberty and peace.

What an amazing thing this is, the surrendering by the people of their rights and the delirious acceptance of the dictator. Who would have believed it to be possible twenty years ago when the civilized nations bled themselves to make the world safe for democracy?

After centuries of religious struggle for liberty and the rights of democracy we see people throwing them away, even gleefully. We have lived to hear dictators actually hold up to scorn the rights of the common people. We are back in an age of cruelty when might is right and the damned Jew is an animal to be hunted and persecuted. And this, in the year of our Lord, 1938!

The followers of Christ, the Prince of Peace and liberty, have gone quietly to sleep. We are resting. We are too tired to organize again for the defense of our hard-won liberty. Somehow, we have lost our radiance and our zeal — and for the plain and simple reason that we have cut our communications with our base; we have cast loose from our moorings and are adrift.

Drift—that is the watchword of us ordinary followers of the Master in these days; and the dictators and the demagogues—always keen opportunists—have seen their chance and jumped in, And assuredly they will find a footing in this land of the free if this Christian drift is allowed to continue. America is ripe for a pagan Know-All who shall come in and take away our freedom whilst we Christians, the only real keepers of freedom, are comfortably sleeping. For believe it or not, the militant Church of Jesus Christ is the only force that can smash the dictators. The blind-bat dictator of Germany will find that out before he has finished with Martin Niemoller. The only force that can overcome Totalitarianism, in one form or another, is the mighty evangel of Jesus, working through men and women pre-occupied with Christ.

America cannot retain her freedom if America's Church remains weak. Unless Christ is allowed to rise in America she cannot but go the way of those desperate nations which, in their hopeless confusion, surrender their freedom and their very life into the hands of bullies and political racketeers. It is Christ or chaos in these desperate days; and whilst we still have some measure of freedom in our land we can make our choice. The days for complacent, irresponsible, drifting, inactive Church members are gone. We must make up our minds once and for all about Christ and His Church—and if we do not hurry, our minds will be made up for us by someone other than Christ.—Reynold B. Boden in "Advance."

Ignorance About the Bible

Concerning the Bible, there is a vast ignorance. Students pore over Milton and Shakespeare never to meet them again, yet they neglect the greatest Book of all and meet it almost every day. We pass a laborious examination on Tennyson and bid him a long farewell, but we make no study of the Bible, the message from whose pages is read to us every Sunday.

And so there comes to be a natural and dark misunderstanding about the Scriptures. This ignorance has its humorous as well as its serious side, and many funny stories are told to illustrate the case. Here are a few examples.

A certain man was telling of his Biblical understanding. His friend insisted that he did not know much about the Bible. In fact, he said, "I'll give you $5 to say the Lord's prayer." The first man started in, "Now I lay me down to sleep . . ." As he wound up the little prayer his challenging friend said, "Here is your five; I had no idea you could do it."

Another individual said that all he knew about Abraham Lincoln was what he read in the Bible, and that was not much.

Then there was the boaster who declared that the epistles were the wives of the apostles.

A certain student (not at High Point College, however) gave this historical information about the patriarchs: "Abraham was the father of Lot and had ten wives. One was called Hismale, and the other Hagar. He kept one at home and the other he sent into the desert where she became a pillow of salt in the daytime and a pillow of fire by night."

Some one said that the Tower of Babel was a place where Solomon kept his wives.

This one makes me think of another story about Solomon. A certain person declared that Solomon had three hundred wives and seven hundred porcupines.

Then there was the fellow who wrote this: "Esau was a man who wrote fables and sold his copyright for a mess of potash."

Another lad, on being asked who was sorry when the Prodigal Son returned, said, "The fatted calf."

This illuminating answer was given about a character in the New Testament: "Lazarus used to eat the food out of the rich man's stable."

A certain individual, on being asked in what order do the Prophets come, replied, "One after another."

I have before me now this little bit of information about Job — not written by any of my students: "Job had one trouble after another. He lost all his cattle and all his children, and then he had to go and live alone with his wife in the desert."

A very religious young lady had just married. Her friends in the office where she worked decided to send greetings. So they thought a verse of Scripture would be nice. Consequently they instructed the telegraph operator to wire her First John four-eighteen, which speaks of living in love and "perfect love casteth out fear." But the operator, knowing little about the Bible, turned to the Gospel of John and wired the young bride John four-eighteen, which reads, "For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband."

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

International Sunday School Lesson for September 25, 1938

By REV. O. L. EASTER

Lesson Text—Psalm 23 and 27.

Golden Text—"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."—Psalm 23:1.

In our last two lessons we have been touching on the great life of David in our studies in the lives of his contemporaries, Saul and Jonathan. To know a man's associates is to a great extent to know his own life. In his contact with King Saul Young David met with treachery, hatred, jealousy and danger. After his victory over Goliath there on the plains and he had felt the triumphant support of the great God, Jehovah, David in Saul met with the opposing forces of principalities and powers and wickedness in high places that every God-used life will always encounter. Then in that noble friendship that he found with Jonathan David encountered also those saving virtues in human nature that redeem it from the shame and failure of a Saul.

Someone has said in response to this presence of a Jonathan with a Saul that "man is both the glory and the shame of the universe." Truly, upon the hearts and lives of mankind is written the story of heaven and hell—God and sin. If a heart is found, like David's, to be tuned after God's own heart then out of that heart will be heard the very harmonies of heaven. It was Jesus of Nazarus who came to reveal God in His fulness, who said that the greatest expression and the truest sample of the realm of God was to be found in the sterling virtues and humble attitude of a little child.

As we study the noble life of David from the simplicity of shepherding his father's sheep to the complicity of shepherding the flocks of the House of Israel we are thrilling to the glory of the universe — a righteous man in tune with the Almighty. Yes, we call up before us just here his great sin, but even in his deep sin David showed himself in touch with God. His broken and contrite spirit enabled the mighty powers of God's salvation through mercy to go into action and to restore that soul. Indeed, it is the shame of the universe when a human heart lets sin lead it into the valley of death, but when that heart lets arise its feeble voice of repentance to the great Shepherd who leaves the ninety and nine for the one lost sheep and thus lets his soul be restored—then that life is still showing forth the glory of the universe. If only Saul who in his youth had shown himself humble and noble should have in his sin and pride as king let God restore his soul.

Thus in David we see not a perfect man but one who had a triumphant faith in God. Great it was for David to be able to sing of the Lord that "he preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies." Thus to feel that Jehovah would provide strength and comfort in his fight with the Goliaths of his life. But greater still is his triumph realized when he comes to the knowledge that God can and will restore his soul after he has succumbed to the presence of his enemies. Only a faith that embraces a God of salvation and forgiveness can be a triumphant faith for mankind.

"For all we like sheep have gone astray."

It is not surprising then that out of David's full cup which ran over with the goodness and mercy of God there came forth many psalms of triumph and praise. A triumphant religion is always a singing religion—Christianity is a religion with a song. In a world that offers so much of darkness and fear, yea even the valley of death, a heart is bursting with a song of relief when through that darkness it feels the rod and staff of God. And so we hear the "sweet singer of Israel" singing his songs of faith and courage.

> "I will sing of the mercies of the Lord forever;
> With my mouth will I make known
>
> "The Lord is my light and my salvation; > Whom shall I fear?" Psalm 27:1.

"For a day in thy court is better than a thousand. I had rather be a door-keeper in the house of my God than to dwell in the tents of wickedness." Psalm 84:10.

COMMITTEE MEETS

The Committee on Membership and Temporal Economy met in Memphis, Tenn., September 6 and 7. This committee was appointed by the joint commission on Methodist Union in the meeting held in Evanston, Ill., June 30-July 1. The committee is composed of six representatives from the two larger bodies of Methodism, and three from our group. All members were present except Honorable Nate S. Williamson, of our Church, and Dr. George W. Henson, of the M. E. Church. Each Church is represented on the committee by a chairman. Dr. L. B. Smith serves in this capacity from our Church, Bishop Frederick D. Leete from the M. E. Church, and Bishop Frank Smith from the Southern Church. They preside over the meetings in turn. Full programs, with three sessions a day, characterized the Memphis meeting. Substantial progress was made in the work committed to the committee. Probably the most important matter to be worked out by this committee is that of formulating a plan by which the benevolences of the Church are to be raised and distributed. The plan is not ready for publication, but this phase of it seems to be assured, viz., the principle of voluntary acceptance on the part of charges, of the amount of the askings of the Church that they will accept. That is to say, when a budget is presented to the charge from the Annual Conference, the charge will decide whether it can accept it all, and if not, what part it can accept. The amount accepted will constitute the budget for the charge. It is the same practice that we now have in vogue in our North Carolina Conference.

Other matters involved in the Union and assigned to this committee, include stewards, pastoral support, lay-activities, trustees of Church property of all sorts, and Church membership. The committee has a major task, but the work was well begun in Memphis, and will be completed in a second meeting to be held in Nashville, Tenn., November 24, Thanksgiving Day.

Seven other like committees are working on definite phases involved in the plan of Union which will make these three Churches organically one. It is easy to see that this is a matter of no small moment. Many questions arise that must be answered; many intricacies are involved, legal questions must be settled, and the forms and practices of the three Churches over long periods of years must be taken into account. But the work goes forward in a surprisingly rapid and harmonious manner. All of these eight committees will be ready with their completed reports for the meeting of the full commission in Jackson, Miss., on the 24th of next January.

When the work is completed a perfect Church will not have been set up. That is not to be expected, of course. And every individual will not have incorporated in the new Church all of his ideas as to what the Church should be. But it is my opinion that we will have a Church organically constructed for the highest measure of efficiency, and yet for the maximum of simplicity in its operations. From the highest position in the Church down to the individual member in the local Church, and from the individual member in the local Church up to the highest position in the Church there will be a bond of union that will make the new Church one great organic whole. And the step with which this new Church will move out to its world-tasks will be so regular and so steady and so certain that eight million Methodists will strike a new spiritual stride as they march in solid front to make righteousness real in the earth.

S. W. TAYLOR.

IT AIN'T RIGHT, BRETHREN

What ain't? Why, keeping us waiting for the names of the delegates. Up to this writing I have received just sixty names. I should have eighty-nine. Where are those twenty-nine? While we wait for them we are held up. I can't make out the Conference roll; Brother Pritchard can't make out the Conference committees; the Entertainment Committee can't assign homes.

Now I know none of the brethren would deliberately delay our work. They have just been negligent. But won't you please stop being that way, and send in that card? Just this much, and no more:

Name of Delegate......................

Address of Delegate ....

Pastor ....

Charge ....

Thanks,

A COLLIE SAVES TWO LIVES

William Workman's father gave him a collie dog. William had seen John Campbell's dog swim into the creek and bring out sticks for hours at a time, but the dog would not bring out anything else. William told John that he would not permit his collie to swim into the water and fetch out anything except something useful. John laughed at him.

Day after day William took old "Lige," his dog, to the creek. He carried with him a cap, a woolen hat, a derby, a straw hat, and two dolls, one dressed as a girl, the other wore trousers. One by one William tossed all of these things into the middle of the creek until old Lige became expert in swimming in and catching them in his mouth, and then he would hurry out to the bank as quickly as possible. Sometimes old Lige would dive and get them as they sank.

Two years after William Workman had trained his collie to do this kind of work, he was out on the river with his father fishing on the Fourth of July. As usual, there were hundreds of other people on the river, some fishing, some boating and some swimming.

Just before noon they were startled at the cry of a small boy and girl, and, on running up the bank, they saw the two children being carried down the stream. The father had no boat and he himself was such a poor swimmer that it was dangerous for him to jump into the water. Calling quickly to old Lige, William Workman threw a clod of dirt that struck the water by the side of the little boy who was all but drowned. Instantly the dog was in the water, and in less than ten minutes he had both of the children safely out on the bank.

The father of the two children hugged and kissed old Lige as he would have had the dog been a man. In a few minutes a very large crowd gathered about to learn what the faithful collie dog had done, and they all praised William Workman for his wisdom in training his dog to swim in the water and carry out something useful.—Our Dumb Animals.

JANE ADDAMS' BURGLARS

A recent magazine tells the story of two occasions on which burglars broke into the home of Jane Addams, that great-hearted social worker. The first time, Miss Addams had her small nephew asleep in the next room. When she waked up and saw the burglar, her only thought was that the child should not be frightened.

"Don't make any noise," she said quietly to the man. He was so startled that he jumped for the window. Then her thought shifted to him.

"You'll be hurt if you go that way," she warned him, still quietly. "Go down by the stairs and let yourself out," and the burglar meekly obeyed.

The second time a housebreaker tried it, Miss Addams asked him pleasantly, why he was doing such a dangerous thing. He answered her frankly that he was out of employment and desperate enough to try anything. She told him to go away and come the next morning and she thought she could get him a job. He took her at her word, came next day, and she found employment for him.

One interesting thing about these two incidents is that Jane Addams, following her own rules of life, never thought of herself at all, and so had no time for fear. She was accustomed to helping all sorts of people and looking after everybody, and she made no exception for burglars. Another interesting thing was that even a burglar could see this fact, and behave accordingly. Such sincerity and kindness as hers were convincing, even to a criminal.

Most of us go through life without meeting burglars in the dead of night. We need not practice behavior for such improbable occasions. But it is worth while to consider how valuable such an attitude as that of Jane Addams is in other events of life. To meet each stranger with sincerity and kindness—what an asset in successful living that would be. To think of other people always and of ourselves not at all—is there any better rule for working out a crisis?

Miss Addams was noted for her brilliancy of mind. But she was far more noted for her warm and steadfast heart. She put both into the service of others all her life. A great many persons besides burglars were impressed by her in a remarkable degree. These two incidents help to explain why.—Mildred Elliott, in Girl's World.

Constantly reaching out for something just beyond your grasp tends to bring discontent rather than happiness. It is destructive to your tranquility of mind to envy others what you have not, to want too many of the things you see around you, and to dwell overmuch upon your own desires.

Form good habits. Cultivate laughter and good cheer. Be tolerant of other people's opinions. Constantly apply the Golden Rule. Have a daily playtime. Breathe deeply. Be systematic and orderly in the details of your work. Avoid the desire to set other people right and to reform the whole world.

Aim to influence other lives for good by the force of your example. Have a definite daily program. Form good habits and let them work for you automatically.

What We Admire in Our Pastor

Having served as a pastor and having also served in other capacities, I have frequently heard people say what they disliked so much in their pastors. We are here suggesting that you sit down and make a list of the things you like in your pastor. You like the way he speaks, his manner towards others, his consideration of others, his concern for the unsaved, his willingness to cooperate in community projects, his faithfulness to all the claims of the Church. You like his sincerity, his frankness, his outspoken opposition to evil, etc.

It would do you lots of good and we believe increase your esteem of your pastor as a leader if you would sit down at once and study him carefully to find all the excellent points of his life and conduct. And in doing this make no record of those things which you dislike. Let them be for the time being ignored. Emphasize the good.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SECRETARIES

In the August-September issue of The Missionary Record, there are suggestions given for the using of the children and young people's study books on India. If you have not already secured copies of these books, please do so at once and begin using them in correlation with the suggestions in the Record. In the "How to Use," which comes with the study books, there are many fine and helpful suggestions for using these books with your groups.

It makes a splendid program for the children, supplying the worship, study, and handwork periods and is interesting and stimulating to the children. Many requests have I had saying "We have no material for interesting programs." Believe me, Young People's Secretaries, we do have plenty of material for interesting programs in these study books, and the Missionary Record. On the back of the poster sent you sometime ago, there is a list of these study books. Order yours immediately and begin the study with the children!

I want to share a personal experience with you. At one of the meetings of the Children's circle, we decided each of us would put aside a penny a day until our next meeting for the children of India to be used through the Minnis fund. I have never seen a better response on the part of any group. On the day of our meeting, we had a worship service with many of the children taking part—"Other Countries Share With Us—Let us share our greatest gift, Jesus Christ, with them." Toward the close of the worship period, the children came by the table and very reverently and joyfully put their offering into the World Bank for the taking of the gospel of Jesus Christ to the boys and girls of India. It was a lovely service and the deep impression it made upon me has remained.

I write this with the hope of giving you a suggestion for your own groups of children. Where you do not have separate missionary groups, carry on the work through the Sunday church school classes. It is the most excellent opportunity!

Can I help you? If so, please write me at Route 1, Greensboro, N. C.

Young People's Work.

THIRTEENTH DISTRICT MISSION STUDY

The Thirteenth District will hold a Mission Study day at Pleasant Hill church, West Forsyth, Thursday, September 29 at 10:30 a. m.

Devotionals will be conducted by Milna Long. A review of "Moving Millions" will be given by Mrs. Edgar Waller, of the hostess church. "City Shadows" will be reviewed by Mrs. Ralph Merritt, of Hickory Ridge church.

Mrs. T. L. Speas will have charge of the memorial service.

There will be a discussion of Auxiliary problems in which we invite the pastors to participate. Other items on program not listed here.

We are anxious that every church in the district have a good attendance. Please make it a point to be there and let's have a profitable and pleasant day together.

Picnic dinner will be served on the grounds.

ANNA COX,
District Chairman.

A Scottish cleric owned a farm, which was as economically as possible. One day, taking a stroll, he saw his ploughman sitting idle on the handle of his plough, while the horses took a needed rest. He was paying the man sixpence an hour and so he gently, but reproachfully said: "John, wouldn't it be a good plan for you to have a pair of shears and be trimming these bushes along the fence while the horses are resting?"

John returned the minister's gaze and answered: "And might I suggest that you take a bowl of potatoes into the pulpit and peel 'em during the anthem?"—Exchange.

Clothing and Other Gifts

West End, Greensboro, 3 extra dresses, 7 cakes and 9 packages of cookies for school lunches.

Circle No. 2, First Church, Burlington, a lot of extra clothing and 3 large boxes of cakes and cookies for school lunches.

Mr. Frank Mather, Westminster, Md., a box of books for our library and a large package of coupons.

We thank you for all this help. Only one and a half months until Conference. Many Sunday schools are behind with their offerings. We want to make a good report and you want a good report from your church at Conference. Please look up your records and see if you are to be on the honor roll. Help us to make a good report. Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His blessed service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

Wednesday, Sept. 28—How God worked through Jesus, John 17:1-8.

Thursday, September 29—God at work in us, Phil. 2:12-16.

Friday, Sept. 30—God at work in His world, Ps. 121:1-8.

Saturday, Oct. 1—Doing God's work, I Cor. 15:58.

The text—John 5:17; 9:14; 14; 10 (Consecration Meeting.)

To the Leader

This is the first in a series of three topics on "Work." Introduce the series and relate your topic to the succeeding two. In this meeting endeavor to show how God is working in the world through nature, events and persons. Try to point out the way God works through individuals and groups of individuals in church.

Topic Hints

"My Father Worketh."

Everywhere in the Bible we read that our Father worked. In the records, in history, and in nature we know that God worked. We can see His hand upon the nations and communities that have chosen His way.

God created the world for men. He thought of every possible thing a man would need. The acute ear, the sensitive eye and blessings without end He showered upon these creatures. He revealed His love by sending His son Jesus Christ. God works for man's good. "He leads us over some easy places for encouragement and over some difficult places for our development." The unfolding of mysteries to explorers and scientists has been but the work of God.

They who once probed and doubted now believe
The men of science, for they humbly learn
There is a Will that guides the atom's course;
A Power that directs what they discern
In light and air, in star and wave and sod;
Beyond electrons they discover—God.

From research they derive a new faith that Sustains foundations of our ancient creeds;
They grope through matter toward an utmost Light
—Adelaide P. Love.

"My Father worketh in men." After creating men with many abilities and placing them in a world he had made for them, he gave man a soul. All that he had given man was but for the purpose of man's using what had been given him. He gave them a free-will to choose and become perfect in heart that they might see Him. When men get the spirit of God, when they reach high ideals and become thoughtful and sympathetic of others they begin to know God. He begins His work in them.

God does His work in our universe through men. The characters of the Old and New Testament, the founders of the church, teachers, and others have carried the message of God. Then too, God gives His co-operation to these men. He is always ready and waiting to help those who seek him. The finest things ever created are those done by man in cooperation with the Father.

Hands

We are the hands of labor
We seize the axe, and the forests fall,
We take up the pick, and the mountains open,
We run the soil of all lands through our fingers, and the world is fed.
We dig the coal, and men are warmed
We wrench the ore from the heart of its Mother Earth, and a new civilization is born.

We move the chisel through the marble; we bring the brush to the empty canvas; we pose the pen above the unmarked page; and ageless beauty is released.

We clinch in hate against oppressors; we open to soothe; we spread wide to plead; we point the way to a better world.

We lie idly in the market places of the world, crying out only for a chance to labor—and for justice.

For, when God needed a link between his unfinished world, and the brain that could dream of its completion, He created us—hands.

We express the fellowship of all men with him who said, "My Father worketh and I work, too." —P. R. H.

Rev. Raymond W. White sums up our Father's work thus: "Growing flowers, golden fields of maturing grain, wild birds winging their way across continents, the cattle on a thousand hills—how can these be except as God brings to pass the conditions that make them possible?" "When a scientist discovers a new truth it is as though God were using science to reveal more of Himself to man." "When a humanitarian touches a blighted area of human life, it is as though God Himself were ministering to needs of underprivileged men and women." God is working everywhere but it takes a man of God to recognize His work."

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Denton-Canaan. — Revivals: At both churches the summer revivals have been conducted. At Canaan the revival began on the second Sunday in August. The Sunday services were largely attended. A number of friends of the church and former members were present. Among them were Rev. C. E. Ridge and family and Brother Ira Ridge and family of High Point; their mother and other brothers and sisters were also present. Mrs. Smith, of Winston-Salem, presented to the church a beautiful pulpit chair in honor of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Lalier, all of whom were former members of Canaan church. Through the week the attendance and interest were good. There were a number of conversions and rededications. Five joined the church. The pastor did the preaching.

At Denton the revival began on the fourth Sunday night in August and closed on Tuesday night, September 6. Brother Whitehead did the preaching and did it well. We were all highly pleased with the preacher and his good work. The morning services, which were conducted at the 10 o'clock hour were especially impressive. The visible results were not just what we had hoped for but this is partly accounted for in the fact that we had a nice ingathering at Easter and during the year. One joined the church. This revival was by no means a failure.

Finances: Duplex envelopes are being used at both the churches and by this means our Annual Conference have been ready at each time when they have come due. The World Service has been cared for through the special services. The pastor's salary is not quite up to date but it is not far behind and it is all 100 per cent good. That which is most beautiful about it all is in the fact that the people are learning to pay as they go and make paying a contribution to Kingdom service and do it with a spirit of worship.

Visitors: This pastor has never done much visiting among former parishioners but it certainly is a great pleasure to have those whom we have tried to serve and have learned to love in other days come our way. The Denton parsonage has been favored recently by a number of such good people. The list follows: From Tabernacle, one of the Auxiliary circles picnicked with us, Miss Ethel Fields called to see us; from Forsyth, Mr. Ira Baity and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Baity, Jr; from Spring Church, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Demick and party on their way to California. We were glad to have all these good people with us and would be glad to have them as well as many more whom we have served to come at any time.

Birthday: On Sunday, September 11, a large number of relatives and friends of our good Brother, M. C. Cranford, gathered in the municipal park of High Point, and gave him a great dinner. This was to celebrate his birthday at which time he was so many years young. After the dinner we were invited to the home of Mrs. Hedrick, the daughter of Brother Cranford, where the Denton chorus rendered a number of musical numbers and highly entertained the company. Brother Cranford, his son, Colon C., and family, are all members of the Denton church but have recently moved to High Point. They are of our best and we very much dislike to give them up but since they live near Rankin Memorial Brother Suits will give them pastoral attention.

Removed: Brother J. W. Wright and family who for a number of years have been good workers in the Denton church have recently moved to the city of Hickory, N. C. We shall greatly miss them.

At School: Mr. Clinard Nance and Mr. J. Norman Hunt, two of our fine young men of Canaan, are attending a commercial school at Winston-Salem. Miss Golden Morris and Miss Ruth Morris, of Denton, are attending a commercial school in Bennettsville, S. C. Miss Virginia Curry is in High Point College. Miss Inza Hill has returned to her work at Rankin high school near Greensboro, where she is head of the commercial department. We are glad to note that our Brother Marvin Sexton, who has for a number of years been teaching elsewhere is now in the Denton school teaching music. We are glad to have his efficient services in our church work. We are glad to welcome the Denton high school teachers back to our community. Quite a number of these teachers worship and work in our church.

Our sick: Brother Godwin Loflin, who found it necessary to spend some days in one of the High Point hospitals is now at home and is well on the way to recovery. Mrs. Pegram Sexton, who has been sick for some time, is not quite as well as usual. Mrs. Martha Sexton, because of a fall, is confined to her bed.

Our Wedding Bells: Wedding bells continue to ring in Denton. On Thursday night, September 8, Miss Kate Sexton, the beautiful daughter of the late John Sexton and Mrs. Nancy Sexton, became the bride of Mr. Wilson Russel. The wedding took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, Mrs. Kearns being the sister of the bride. A number of relatives and friends were present. The pastor officiated. After the vows were heard the happy couple immediately went to Asheville and other places of interest. Mrs. Russel is one of the fine young people of our church, while Mr. Russel is a member of the Methodist Episcopal, South. They will live in Denton where Mr. Russel is in business.

GEO. L. CURRY, Pastor.

First Church, Thomasville, J. T. Bowman, Pastor, Sept. 19.—Our revival services began on Sunday, September 4, and came to a close Friday night, September 16. Rev. W. L. Harkey, of Lincolnton, assisted the pastor in the preaching. He came to us on Monday evening remaining through Friday evening's service when he had to return to his own charge to preach Sunday morning, then he again returned to us and remained through Wednesday evening's service. Rev. Mr. Harkey gave us some real soul-stirring messages which made us realize more fully the great responsibility that rests upon us as professed followers of the lowly Nazarine.

On the first Sunday of the revival the Christians were called upon to reconsecrate their lives to Christ's service in celebrating the Lord's Supper. This service was in charge of the pastor and again at the evening service Mr. Bowman brought us a very challenging message. There were several reclamations and conversions and we feel that the church as a whole has been greatly revived.

The doors of the church were to have been opened yesterday for the reception of members but this was postponed until next Sunday because of the inability of our pastor to be with us. He had the misfortune of falling last Friday morning and breaking his right arm. It was paining him very much yesterday morning but later in the day he was resting more comfortably. We hope he will be able to be with us again soon. In the absence of our pastor yesterday the pulpit was filled by Rev. J. Clyde Auman, who brought us a very inspiring message based on Phil. 3:1-11.

At the regular evening worship hour a song service under the leadership of Mrs. J. T. Bowman, was greatly enjoyed. All the regular services of our church have been resumed and if we may judge from the attendance yesterday we can say that the year's work is off to a good finish.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow (Tuesday) night. Rev. J. A. Neilson, of the Baptist Orphanage, will be guest speaker.

MRS. W. A. LEONARD, Asst. Reporter.

First Church, Henderson, T. J. Whitehead, Pastor, Sept. 19.—September is here and with it a feeling of sadness mingled with joy—sadness because so many of our young people are leaving for college, others to teach, and then a feeling of joy because these boys and girls have the courage to take advantage of these splendid opportunities to prepare for their life's work. We shall miss them but tender thoughts, loving prayers and best wishes go with them. Those who have gone from our church are Misses Nellie Gray Kittrell, Nancy Parham, Mary Mitchell Baity and Ralph Hight to High Point College; Miss Lucille Finch has entered Shenandoah college, Dayton, Va., and George Gooch is attending Virginia Episcopal school, Lynchburg, Va.

Miss Mary Young is teaching in Rio Grande, Ohio; Miss Eleanor Young at Belmont, N. C.; Miss Margaret Hight in Maryland; and Miss Mary Parham in Aycock school, Henderson.

The Auxiliary was delightfully entertained Monday afternoon, August 29, in the home of Mrs. Clyde L. Finch. In the absence of the president, Miss Elizabeth Fox presided and Miss Margaret Hight led the devotional exercises.

Miss Mary Young gave a most interesting review of the mission study book, "Moving Millions," which was very much enjoyed and appreciated. Mrs. Finch closed the meeting with an earnest prayer for missions.

The Baraca class sponsored a Brunswick stew at the King's Daughters park Wednesday afternoon, August 31, for the members of the church and Sunday school. The weather was ideal, the park beautiful, the stew delicious and everybody seemed in a happy mood. Mr. Carlstrom asked the blessing and after about 165 guests had enjoyed the stew Miss Elizabeth Fox in her usual pleasing manner, and in behalf of the church and Sunday school thanked the class for their hospitality.

In the absence of our pastor, September 4, who was conducting a revival at Denton, N. C., Mr. Bruce Wilson, a young student from Louisburg college, preached for us and Mr. Colton rendered a beautiful solo, "The Ninety and Nine." The congregation appreciated these young men and wish for them much success.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. W. T. Nuckles and Mrs. R. J. Daniel in the passing of their uncle, Mr. Luther Ball, of Dabney.

Misses Irene Jackson and Marjorie Cawthorne united with the church Sunday. We welcome these young people gladly. We need them.

Circle No. 1 met at the King's Daughters park September 12 with Mrs. Roy Dixon as hostess. Circle No. 2 was entertained by Mrs. McFarland and No. 4 had their meeting in the Philathea class room in the church Monday evening.

We were pleased to have Mr. J. W. Whitehead, of Graham, to worship with us Sunday. Mr. Whitehead has been visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Whitehead.

At the morning service yesterday our pastor gave us a splendid sermon on the subject: "Thy kingdom come—here?" There was no evening service as we united with the congregation of the First Methodist church to hear a program by the children from the Methodist orphanage. This will be one of the institutions of the United Methodist church.

At a called meeting of the fourth quarterly conference and Workers' council September 12 Sunday school officers were elected and the Sunday school organized on closely graded basis. Officers elected were as follows: Superintendent, Clyde L. Finch; assistant superintendent, Robert Oakley; secretary-treasurer, E. O. Falkner; assistant secretary-treasurer, Ralph Grissom; committee elected to nominate church officers for the coming year were Mrs. Clyde L. Finch, Miss Elizabeth Fox, Mr. E. O. Falkner.

The fourth Sunday was set apart to reorganize Sunday school and the first Sunday in October as Rally day for the Sunday school and church loyalty day.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor.—Our church work has been going on very nicely since our last report. Our pastor has filled his regular appointments, bringing us helpful and inspiring messages each time.

Our revival meeting began the fourth Sunday in August with Rev. R. C. Stubbins assisting our pastor. Brother Stubbins was with us both services Sunday and remained throughout the week. We were glad to have one of our superannuates, Rev. W. M. Pike, and Mrs. Pike, to be with us. Rev. Mr. Pike served this charge several years about 40 years ago. We were also glad to have Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Williams. Rev. Mr. Williams is one of the Orange county boys who entered into the ministry. We are always glad to have them return and our thoughts and prayers continue to follow them. Mr. T. O. Pender, a former member of our church, was present for most of our services to direct the singing. We had some special selections with Miss Edith Dixon of Mebane and Miss Mary Jordan of Hillsboro, at the piano We feel that everyone enjoyed all these services and appreciated everyone that took a part.

A survey, which was made in our community for the benefit of Sunday school attendance has proved very successful. We are glad to have some new members in our Sunday school and we hope they will continue to attend regularly. We wish that more of our church members would come to Sunday school and take an active part. We are sorry that some of our members have had to be absent due to sickness and other causes and wish for them a speedy recovery and their return to church.

Community Church, Thomasville, J. Clyde Auman, Pastor.—Our hearts go out in sympathy for our pastor in the death of his mother, Mrs. Jefferson Auman, who passed early Sunday morning.

Our church is cooperating in a city-wide "go to church week." Special appeal has been made by radio, house to house canvas and other means to get the people to attend church. Practically all the churches in town are having services each evening this week at 7:15. We are using as our slogan "A Christian can know Christ."

We were glad to have Rev. Tom Sykes, of this city, bring us the messages on Sunday and morning evenings. During the remainder of the week our pastor will have charge of services. Wednesday night has been set apart as "family night" at which time he will speak to the head of families in particular. Thursday night will be "Young People's Night," and Friday night, "Children's night." We invite anyone who can to come and worship with us, and we covet your prayers in this our city-wide revival.

Fairview, Anderson Charge.—The Fairview Ladies' Aid society held its September meeting in the home of Mrs. Carl Watson with Mrs. O. M. Watson serving as joint hostess. During the busines session it was voted to send immediately a contribution to missions. After the Bible study Dr. T. M. Johnson discussed a part of the mission study book, which is about India. It was so interesting that a number of women expressed the desire to read the book, thus Dr. Johnson is going to get more copies of it.

The Fellowship club was happy to have present last Friday evening a group of boys and girls from Liberty Hill church.

Much interest has been shown in the sign which has recently been placed in the Lord's Acre project, a four-acre field of cotton that the Fellowship club has tended.

Dr. Thomas Carter, internationally known as a prison evangelist and criminologist, addressed a large audience at Fairview last Friday evening, September 16, at 8 p. m. He used as his text Acts 16:25. He related his own marvelous experience in being converted from a prisoner in the Arizona State prison to a prison evangelist and the founder of the Inter-Church Prison Evangelistic association, which specializes in revivals in jails and prisons and conducts Christian training homes for men released from prisons. In 1922, he was released and since that time has conducted services in jails and prisons in 46 states in the United States, in Canada and in Old Mexico.

The Oyer Musical party of Greenville, accompanied the Carters and rendered a 30-minute musical program prior to Dr. Carter's sermon.

Enfield-Whitakers' Charge, Whitakers' Church, D. R. Williams, Pastor, Sept. 19.—We are still alive as a church, all our organizations are doing fairly well, but could do better. About three weeks ago we had a fine Sunday school picnic, all the children of the other schools were invited and we had a big crowd and a splendid dinner, thanks to the Men's Bible class.

Our pastor's physician has ordered him back to the hospital so he did not fill his appointment last night, however we hope he will soon be back and stronger for his work.

Some of our sick people are better; others are not doing so well.

We are hoping to have a Rally day service soon.

MISS MOLLIE WHELESS, Reporter.

First Church, Burlington, F. W. Paschall, Pastor.—Our pastor, his wife and family have returned from their vacation. They report that they had a good rest but were glad to be home again and we're might glad to have them back, too. During the absence of our pastor, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon and a few of the children from High Point were here on Sunday morning, August 28. The children rendered a musical program after which Dr. Dixon made some remarks about the Home. We always enjoy having Dr. and Mrs. Dixon with us and trust they will come back real soon. They were entertained in the homes here.

On Sunday morning, September 4, Mr. Wilson Cheek, a local boy who is studying for the ministry, preached for us. He is a student at the Theological Seminary of the Evangelical and Reformed church, located at Lancaster, Pa. A large crowd heard him. His message was very interesting and helpful. We enjoyed having him so much. At the evening service, Miss Lula Riddle and her students put on a musical program. The entire service was turned over to her. Everybody enjoyed it.

On Sunday, September 11, Dr. J. E. Pritchard, president of the Annual Conference, was with us at the 11 o'clock hour. We were so glad to have he and Mrs. Pritchard both visit us. Dr. Pritchard preached a "sermon." He said at a lot of places he went, the people probably expected an address, but he most always preached a "sermon." He used as his theme, "Interested in Others." It made us feel at home to hear Dr. Pritchard again. Twenty-three years ago he was pastor of this church. Before he started preaching, he told some interesting things that happened during his pastorate here. Some of them brought laughter and some brought tears. At the evening service Dr. Paschall filled the pulpit. He used as his theme, "God's Love."

The Young People's organization which meets every Sunday evening at 6:30 is quite active under the leadership of Miss Glenna Teer. They met together Sunday afternoon, September 11, and made a trip to the Bible room at the Pomona "Y" in Greensboro.

Some work has been done on our church recently which has improved the looks 100%. The church has been painted outside and inside. New paper has been put up and all the benches repainted. New glass windows have been installed and several improvements made. We feel very proud of the committee in charge of this and assure them that their work is greatly appreciated. The church is old but when it is cleaned up real good, it still looks good.

Revival services will begin in this church on the first Sunday in October. Let us pray earnestly and daily for these services. Dr. N. G. Bethea will do the preaching. Cottage prayer meetings will be held the week prior to the first Sunday.

A Fellowship Supper is being held in the Hut Wednesday night, September 21. The committee in charge is planning a big time. Trust that everybody will come out and help support this Fellowship campaign.

REPORTER.

Central Church, Asheboro. — The revival which began at Central church Wednesday evening, September 7, will continue through Sunday, September 25. Rev. J. C. Madison, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, in High Point, has been speaking three times each day and will continue during the week. The day services are at 9 a. m., and 3 p. m. On Tuesday evening Mr. Madison delivered a message primarily to 'teen-age young people and the afternoon services have been largely for young people. Rev. C. E. Ridge, pastor of Shiloh charge of the denomination, is leading the congregational singing. The attendance has been good and it is hoped that the spiritual life of the church is being revived. The excellent messages by Rev. Mr. Madison are deeply appreciated.

Dr. S. W. Taylor, pastor of Central church, selected Joshua 24:15, for his discourse at the morning worship hour last Sunday.

William Lewis returned to his Baltimore home last Friday after serving for three months as director of religious education at Central church. He will continue his theological course at Westminster Seminary this month.

The Senior Philathea class observed the annual birthday party Friday evening at the home of Miss Louise Swaim on S. Fayetteville street, with several class members acting as hostesses. The committee to select officers for the new year both in the church and the church school are C. Earl Bulla, chairman, Mrs. Daniel Henley, Mrs. D. D. Almond, Mrs. J. S. Lewis, Carmen Parks, and Mrs. W. C. Hammer.

The college contingent of Central church have departed to the various institutions during the past week. Miss Catherine Phillips, Miss Clara Louise Cox, Miss Louise Rich, Miss Helen E. Brown, Harris Lamb, Thomas McDowell, M. C. Henderson, Jr., Jack Pugh and Lacy Lewis, Jr., have entered High Point college; Miss Elizabeth Phillips, Miss Helen M. Brown, and Miss Martha Mendenhall, Woman's college, Greensboro; Hal Hammer Walker, Cicero Holder, University of North Carolina; June Lutterloh, Guilford college; Bill Bulla and Johnny Redding, State college, Raleigh; and Miss Jane Page Walker, Valli Crucis.

Mrs. C. F. Smith, who has been ill for many days, is slowly improving; Mary Jane Ross, daughter of the L. F. Rosses, is better from an ear infection; Mrs. Lundy Frye, of the Flags Spring church, is recovering from a fall when she suffered a fractured hip-bone.

Miss Catherine Presnell, of Baltimore, is with her parents for a vacation visit; Miss Enolia Presnell has arrived from Charlotte to resume her duties as second grade teacher in the Fayetteville Street school; and Miss Kate Hammer, who returned September 1, from a 40-day visit in England and on the European continent, is still sharing the wonderful vacation with her numerous friends.

Dr. Taylor was awakened Friday evening by strange noises in the chicken house. With visions of chicken thieves before him, he set out to investigate. Reaching inside the hen house, he found an egg shell where once an egg had been. Then he turned on his flash light, and dazzled the eyes of the "thief," a fine well-fed 'possum. Now, says the honorable pastor, if someone will just furnish the "red yams," a good meal is in the offing!

CLETA RICH.

Shady Grove Church, Connelly Springs Charge, Herman Yokeley, Pastor. — Our church services are still improving.

Our Sunday school, September 18, had 129 scholars and six teachers present. We hope it will go to 200 in the near future.

Rev. Mr. Yokeley filled his regular appointment Sunday night; a large number was present; seven members were received into the church. Our pastor brought us another wonderful message, using as his subject, "Salvation." All seemed to enjoy it very much.

Our new church is not completed yet, but we believe with the Lord's help it will be before the year is gone. We are so glad we can have services in it now.

The interest is still good in the Ladies' Aid society; pray that we might grow stronger in the Master's work.

MRS. RUTH AIKEN.

Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Charge, J. R. Anderson, Pastor, Sept. 19.—The first Sunday in October at 7:15 p. m., the second week of our revival will begin. The pastor will do the preaching.

The third Sunday in October at 11 a. m. the vote on change or no change of pastor will be taken.

The fifth Sunday in October our Conference President, Dr. J. E. Pritchard, will preach. We are looking forward with pleasure to his visit.

The Herald committee has been asked to put on a special drive to raise our quota.

Circle No. 2 will give an oyster and Brunswick stew at Mrs. Linnie Bailey's home Saturday evening. Plates will be sold for 25c. The proceeds will be used on painting the church.

Circle No. 1 will meet September 30 at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Slocum Johnson.

Plans are being made to cover and paint the church. Pledges have been made to buy the roofing. We wonder if some of our members who are too far away to attend the regular services would like to have a part in the improvement of our church. If so donations sent to the treasurer, Mrs. L. P. Holt, Route 1, Graham, N. C., will be appreciated.

The pastor preached on "Divine Sustainance and Guidance," Luke 14:17. Come for all things are now ready. God asks for volunteers. He does not force any one to follow Him.

REPORTER.

Sapling Ridge Church, Alamance Charge, H. L. Isley, Pastor, Sept. 18.—There hasn't been a report from our church in some time but our work is going on smoothly. Mr. Isley brought us a wonderful message on the second Sunday afternoon, his text being taken from the 12th chapter of Romans.

Sunday school was held at 10 o'clock; the attendance was not very large, but we hope to get others interested enough to come to church.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Saturday afternoon, September 17, with Mrs. H. K. Webster. About half of our number were absent, there being only 11 present. We hope they can be with us at our next meeting. Our Auxiliary is making pleasing success in the sale of flavoring.

The sick list of Sapling Ridge church includes the names of Mr. Will Pugh, Mr. Rhupus Johnson, Mr. A. G. Campbell and Mr. Jim Johnson. We are hoping they will soon be able to be back at church and fill their respective places.

Pray for us that our church may continue to grow in grace and that it might be a blessing to the community.

MRS. FRANK WEBSTER, Reporter.

Rankin Memorial, High Point, Edw. Suits, Pastor, Sept. 19.—The reporter has failed to send any news from this church for some time; but activities have not ceased during this period.

Since vacation days are over, and folks have gone back to work at their regular posts, interest seems to be picking up somewhat. There were 170 present in Sunday school on last Sunday, which was again of about 20 more than on the previous Sabbath. We hope that those who haven't yet started back to Sunday school and church will soon be there to fill their places again.

Our fall revival is scheduled to begin on the second Sunday in October. We are hoping that much good will be done during this series of meetings.

Our pastor has been bringing some good messages at the morning services on some of the things that are necessary for a revival meeting. This last Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour he preached on "Preparation." At the evening services he has been preaching about some "Character" in the Bible. These have also been interesting sermons.

The Senior C. E. society is planning to present a play entitled "Old Fashioned Mother" on Friday night of this week (Sept. 23) in the basement of the church. They have been spending quite a bit of time in getting this up, and we believe it will be good. The public is invited and a small admission will be made.

We are sorry to report that several of our members are on the sick list. Mrs. Amick, Amelia Bradley, and J. A. Bowers are among those sick. Mrs. J. S. Loflin has been suffering from injuries received when her hand was caught in the wringer of a washing machine. We trust that all of these will soon be well again. Mrs. Rouse has also been sick but she was able to be back at church on this past Sunday.

Since the last time any report was sent from our church, the death angel has visited in our midst on two occasions, claiming one of our members, and a son of another member. Our hearts were made very sad some time ago when Mason Pegram, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pegram, was taken from us as the victim of an automobile accident. Our hearts went out in sympathy for the bereaved ones, who felt so keenly the loss of this young man. Then a few weeks later Herbert Chase Hoover, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Ava Payne Hoover, was claimed by death. Our deepest sympathy went out to the family of this little boy.

The reporter regrets that she failed to send a report of the series of meetings which Dr. N. G. Bethea, of Greensboro, conducted for us several months ago. The messages which Dr. Bethea delivered during that meeting were splendid ones; but the meeting closed without some souls being saved that we thought ought to have been brought into the Kingdom. We thought that our visiting did all he could to bring the messages as forceful as needs be; but something seemed to hinder the progress of the revival at that time. We trust that on the second Sunday in October when the next meeting is scheduled to begin, that our hearts will be prepared for a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit; and that many souls may be brought to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. We covet the prayers of the Christian people for a wonderful revival at our church at the appointed time.

Calvary, Greensboro, R. C. Stubbins, Pastor, Sept. 19.—Our pastor continues to bring us wonderful messages. He delivered a most impressive one Sunday morning, his subject being "An Ideal Life.'

Our Woman's Auxiliary met Monday evening in the hut. Our annual Thank-offering service was held. A Thank-offering play, "The Lighted Highway," was presented by eight women under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Gerringer, Thank-offering secretary. Mrs. R. C. Stubbins conducted a very impressive devotional program, using "Lights—Visible and Invisible" for a subject.

The members of our church are looking forward with great enthusiasm to entertaining our Annual Conference which comes to us November 9.

Mrs. Numa Causey and Numa Causey, Jr., united with our church Sunday morning.

Our sympathy goes out to two of our members, Mrs. Robah H. Fields and Mr. Leroy Candle, whose mother, Mrs. E. A. Caudle, passed away last week.

Rally day will be observed at all our services on the first Sunday in October. A play, "The Trial of Every Man's Church," will be presented at the evening hour, 7:30, under the direction of Mrs. Floyd G. Reynolds. The Senior C. E. society will have charge of this evening service.

The young people entering college from our church are: Miss Rebecca Hines, U. N. C., Greensboro; Ernest Curtis, State college, Raleigh; Billy Caudle, Guilford College; Miss Sarah Lou Gerringer, John Frank Williams and Morris Campbell, High Point College.

The Baraca class recently entertained the Myrtle Bates' class with a watermellon slicing on the church grounds. Much interest is being shown in the Baraca class, due to the fine messages the teacher, J. C. Coe, brings each Sunday.

The Senior, Intermediate and Junior C. E. societies have resumed their regular Sunday evening meetings, which are held at 6:45 o'clock. Much enthusiasm is being shown in each society.

The Senior and Intermediate societies are planning to attend the quarterly C. E. rally of the Greensboro Union, which will be held in the First M. P. church, Gibsonville, Tuesday, October 11 at 8 o'clock.

Floyd Reynolds, who for the past five years has been scout master of Troop No. 7 recently resigned because of other activities. The troop has been very fortunate however in securing J. Fletcher Caudle as their new scoutmaster. He is well qualified for this duty because of the various training courses he has taken, given by the Boy Scout council.

Pleasant Gap, Democrat Charge, W. C. Clark, Pastor.—Perhaps some have wondered what we are doing at this place, or if this church still exists. It certainly does. Our Sunday school is going good. The attendance is better this year than for several years.

A Christian Endeavor society has been organized. This is the first Christian Endeavor work that has been carried on at Pleasant Gap since the writer can remember. Much interest is being shown. We have about 30 young people in attendance, most of whom are active members.

Our revival meeting closed last week. The Rev. Boyd Clubb, of Spartanburg, S. C., was pulpit help. The services were well attended and his sermons were appreciated by all who heard him. There were 11 conversions and 12 additions to the church; two came by letter from other denominations and ten were converts who received baptism on the third Sunday of this month.

We feel that everyone has been blessed, the church being greatly revived, and the community been made better. We are grateful to Him who has blessed us so wonderfully.

REPORTER.

Siler City Church, A. M. Smith, Pastor, Sept. 20—On the third Sunday morning, our pastor filled his appointment with another of his good messages. At the close of this message the Lord's Supper was administered to the greater part of the congregation. At the evening service, Rev. Leo Pittard, of Moriah M. P. church, was with us and filled the pulpit for our pastor. This was another fine message and everyone enjoyed it very much. Special music was furnished at the morning service with Mrs. V. M. Duncan, Misses Joy Holt and Doris Fox, singing a lovely trio, "Marvelous Grace." At the evening service Mrs. Duncan and Miss Holt sang very impressively as a duet, "It Pays to Serve Jesus."

Our Sunday school is coming along fine in the banner contest. It was won the second Sunday by the Philatheas, and on the third Sunday by Miss Sallie Smith's class.

The C. E. society met in the home of Misses Mattie and Novia Jordan on the third Sunday evening. This service was held for their mother and father who are not able to attend church.

Circle No. 1 met in the home of Mrs. D. L. Johnson Wednesday night, September 14, with 12 members and one new member present. Mrs. T. J. Smith, the chairman, had charge of the devotionals and business. It was decided on and plans laid to feed Rotarians on Monday, September 26. Mrs. T. C. Fox was given a handkerchief shower, for her birthday, which was a great surprise to her. Mrs. Fox received another birthday surprise Sunday when she returned home from church and found a long table on the lawn loaded down with all kinds of good things to eat. Her children, relatives and neighbors did this for her because everyone loves her and we all wish for her many more happy birthdays.

Circle No. 2 met in the home of Miss Cleta Andrew on Tuesday night, September 13, but the reporter does not know of any business that was transacted at that time.

Mr. L. L. Wrenn is confined to his home because of illness. The Philathea class and entire church is missing him and hoping and praying that he may soon be back in his accustomed place.

Mr. T. L. Smith is our delegate to Annual Conference with Mr. Routh, of Bonlee, alternate.

Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor, Sept. 19.—The summer has been filled with revival meetings for some of us. It is a pleasure to settle down in the parsonage after spending a big portion of the summer in revivals. As a matter of fact it is our first breathing-spell since coming to Orange Charge. During the winter I was in school at Duke, and almost immediately upon graduation was plunged into special meetings. I have assisted in four and have been assisted in four, making a total of eight weeks. While I enjoyed each one of these meetings, it is with a sign of relief that this work is terminated with only pastoral duties to engage my attention.

For the most part this has been a profitable year with us. Perhaps our greatest visible achievement has been with regard to the Fellowship Crusade. The committees of each of the four churches have worked faithfully, and the entire membership has cooperated nicely to make this achievement possible. The entire amount of $500 will have been sent to Treasurer Allen by the first of October. Our members have responded loyally to meet this emergency.

The revivals on the charge consumed most of the month of August. Each of them proved to be of great spiritual benefit to all the churches. We had good preaching and good attendance. Twenty-six have been added to the church rolls as a result of these efforts, and there may yet be others to join. Two of the churches, Hebron and Efland, put on Vacation Church schools in conjunction with their revivals with good results. It has truly been a session of ingathering and spiritual edification.

Our third quarterly conference, which was held at Efland church the first Sunday in September, revealed the fact that all the churches are behind some with the finances. However, I feel safe in prophesying that all conference claims and pastor's salary will be paid up by the time of our Annual Conference. I am confident that Mr. Ben F. Wilson, of Hebron church, our delegate-elect, will be sent up to Greensboro with a good report.

It is our school days once more, and we had the pleasure Sunday of welcoming to our Efland church the new principal of Efland high school, Mr. O. G. Thompson, and his family who have moved from Burlington, as well as three other new teachers together with those who were with us last year. We hope that this will be the best year that the school has yet had.

Committees have been set up in all the churches to get up the Rally day programs. We are expecting good programs and good offerings to apply on our W. S. budget. The Auxiliaries of Efland and Chestnut Ridge are planning Thank-offering services on the fifth Sunday in October. A group of children from the Home will render a program at Efland at 11 a. m. and at Chestnut Ridge at 7 p. m. The ladies of each church will give picnic lunches for the children.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Union Grove on the third Sunday in October, following the 3 o'clock service. We are expecting some good reports at that time.

We are trying to organize Christian Endeavor societies at Efland and Chestnut Ridge. The fourth Sunday afternoon following the church service has been set as the time for organizing at Chestnut Ridge, while Wednesday night, September 28, at 8 o'clock has been set as the time for organizing at Efland. It is our sincere hope that these meetings will be well attended by the young people of the respective churches, and sufficient interest manifest to justify an effort at organization. Hebron has been a society, and we are looking to P. N. Thompson, Jr., to get things going there again soon.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Charge, J. W. Braxton, Pastor.—Rev. J. W. Braxton brought us a forceful message Sunday morning, September 18, on the subject, "Measure of Goodness." He told us that a loving spirit was the key to goodness. We had several visitors for this service and was glad to have them worship with us.

The Mission Band held a regular meeting, September 7, at the home of Mrs. Trixie Suits with Mrs. Maude Smith associate hostess. During the business meeting a collection was taken to help clothe needy children of the community. Guests were invited to the lawn around a large bonfire where they roasted weiners and marshmallows. Cookies and iced lemonade was also served. Games were played with the bonfire providing light. Others who joined in the games besides the hostess and members were Mrs. Clyde Hurson and Mrs. R. C. Causey. An evening of fun and good entertainment was enjoyed by all.

The parsonage stove has been paid for by Pleasant Union and Mt. Pleasant churches.

Rev. Mr. Braxton is in Reidsville, assisting Rev. Geo. Brown in a meeting there.

S. Dewey Murray, age 40, was claimed by death on Wednesday night, September 14. Mr. Murray has been ill only a short time and death came as a shock to all. He is survived by his wife, the former Allie Hicks, one son, James; three sisters and four brothers: Mrs. Wilbur Foster, Liberty; Mrs. Arthur Coble, Mrs. Marvin Coble and R. R. Murray, of Burlington; Gurney and Arthur Murray, of Kimesville; and T. W. Murray, of Greensboro. Funeral services were held at Mt. Zion Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. L. A. Nall, assisted by Rev. J. W. Braxton. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Efland, Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor, Sept. 19.—Another year is almost gone. What have we accomplished for the Master? This question faces us as we review our work. While there is much we would like to do we feel that we have had a very successful year. Not that we are satisfied, no. Our goals have not all been reached, but most are in reaching distance.

The third quarterly conference met at Efland. Some reports were very good while there were others we hope to improve before this quarter is up. The Ladies' Auxiliary, the Fellowship Crusade and the Sunday schools all made very encouraging reports. The Crusade committees have worked faithfully and can almost see themselves on the honor roll now. An interesting feature of this meeting was a review of the goals our pastor set for us in the beginning of the year. A number of these have been reached and some others will be. Mr. Ben F. Wilson, of the Hebron church, was elected as delegate to the Annual Conference. We are confident Mr. Wilson will ably represent Orange charge and do his best in transacting the business of the church.

The sermon Brother Morris brought us yesterday was very fitting just at the close of the revival season. An interesting point was year-around-Christians and not revival-season ones.

A very impressive service followed the sermon when 13 young people were baptized and received as members of the church. These boys and girls all are members of our Sunday school and we are glad to welcome them into the church.

Plans are on the way for Rally day on the third Sunday in October.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

In Memory of Mrs. J. A. Auman

It is with deep sorrow that the members of Fair Grove church, Seagrove-Love Joy circuit, record the passing of our much-loved sister, Mrs. Lizzie Lawrence Auman, widow of the late Jefferson Auman, on September 10, 1938.

Mrs. Auman was the oldest member of our church, being 79 years and two days old. She was converted at the age of 10 years and joined the Christian church. After her marriage to Mr. Auman 60 years ago she joined Fairgrove church and has remained a faithful member until death.

We hesitate to put into mere words a tribute to one so worthy of the best and deepest eulogy the heart can offer, although she will no longer be with us in the flesh, her spirit remains with us, and will continue to influence our lives, leading onward and upward.

Resolved, That, we bow in humble submission to the will of God.

Second, That we hold in remembrance the life of the deceased and be true to the cause she loved so well.

Third, That we embody the goodness of her life in our lives, that her work may live after her.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the M. P. Herald, the Randolph County papers and to the family of the deceased.

Herbert Claiborne Alston

Funeral services for Herbert Claiborne Alston, of Enfield, who would have reached his 78th birthday on September 8, and who died at the home of his son, R. W. Alston near here, on Friday night, following a lingering illness of heart trouble, were held Sunday afternoon from his son's home at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. D. R. Williams, pastor of the M. P. church of Enfield, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Sam Hable, Jr., pastor of the Enfield Baptist church. Interment followed in Elwood cemetery at Enfield.

Mr. Alston was married December 16, 1885, to Miss Sallie Ann Whitehead of Hill's Cross Roads. She preceded him to the grave several years ago. He is survived by his son, Reginald Whitaker Alston and three grandchildren.

Brother Alston was a good man, a good citizen, and loved by all who knew him. A member of Enfield M. P. church.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

Williams

Elizabeth Vuncannon Williams, was born May 20, 1854, and died September 7, 1938, age 84 years 3 months and 18 days. She was united in marriage in 1871 to John Tyson Williams who died 11 years ago. To this union were born 12 children and seven survive. They are W. R. Williams, Asheboro, N. C., route 3; Mrs. S. C. Stuart, Burlington, Route 1; Mrs. C. E. Durham, Greensboro, N C.; Noah Williams, Seagrove, N. C.; Y. C. Williams, Haw River, N. C.; Mrs. O. J. Sink, Asheboro, N. C., Route 3; and Lacy Williams, of Detroit, Mich She is survived by 20 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; also a host of friends and relatives.

She united with the church when very young. She was a charter member of New Hope Methodist Protestant church, and remained a faithful member until death. It was always an inspiration to be in her presence.

The funeral was held at Pisgah M. E. church September 9, at 11 o'clock. Her remains were laid to rest beneath a mound of beautiful flowers. The writer was assisted by Rev. E. G. Cowan and Rev. H. W. Bell.

May the children be comforted by these words:

"Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and pain;
Put aside her glasses and rocker;
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's mansion she's entered,
Never to sigh or to weep,
After long years with life's struggles
Mother has fallen asleep.

"Near her loved ones we laid her,
Low in the churchyard to lie,
And though our hearts are near broken,
Yet we would not question why.
She does not rest 'neath the grasses,
Though o'er her dear grave they creep,
She's gone into the kingdom,
Mother has fallen asleep.

"Rest the tired feet now forever,
Dear wrinkled hands are so still,
Blast of the earth shall no longer
Throw o'er our loved ones a chill.
Angels through Heaven will guide her,
Jesus will still bless and keep,
Not for the world would we wake her,
Mother has fallen asleep.

"Beautiful rest for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true,
When our life's journey is ended
We shall again be with you.
This helps to quiet our weeping,
Hark! Angel music so sweet,
He giveth to his beloved
Beautiful, beautiful sleep."

In Loving Memory

It is with sad hearts that, we, the members of the Efland Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Protestant church record the passing of Mrs. Pearl Efland Dunn, beloved wife of our Sunday school superintendent, Brother J. M. Dunn.

We shall greatly miss her in her accustomed place in the choir, in the circle and Auxiliary meetings, and in her Sunday school class of young girls which she had taught for a number of years.

Mrs. Dunn was particularly interested in the spiritual and social welfare of the young people and was always ready and willing to serve, whenever called upon, in all activities of the church and community.

She served as grade mother of the senior class in our high school for a number of years and presented a Bible to each member of the class for graduation, expressing the desire that it would ever be their guide.

Her passing is greatly regretted and her presence sorely missed by the members of Circle No. 2, of which she was a most loyal and devoted member.

We sympathize most deeply with her bereaved husband and relatives and pray our Heavenly Father to comfort and sustain them.

Therefore, be it resolved that a copy of this memoriam be sent to the bereaved husband and a copy be recorded in the minutes of the Auxiliary; also, that a copy be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald and to the Missionary Record for publication.

Mrs. Lizzie Auman

Mrs. Lizzie Auman, widow of J. A. Auman, of Seagrove, N. C., Route 1, passed to her reward early Sunday morning, September 11, 1938, at the ripe age of 79 years and two days.

Mrs. Auman was the oldest member of Fairgrove Methodist Protestant church, and one of its most loyal.

For a number of years she had taught a class in the Sunday school, until about two years ago she resigned because of failing health.

Mrs. Auman was a good neighbor, and was loved by all who knew her, for her sunny disposition and cheerful smiles, she will be very sorely missed in the community, at the church, in the Sunday school but most particularly in the home.

Her life was a benediction to her children and to all who knew her, as her pastor it was always a great privilege to me to visit her in her home, and during her first illness she was so cheerful, so pleasant in spite of her suffering, she never complained, and she remarked to members of the family some time before the end came, in fact, some time before she became confined to her bed, that she had nothing to fear, that she was ready to go, and was just simply waiting for the call of her Heavenly Father which she knew was coming soon.

Surviving, are two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Austin, of High Point, N. C.; Mrs. J. D. Lilly of Seagrove, N. C.; six sons, C. B. Auman, of Biscoe, N. C.; Rev. J. Clyde Auman, of Thomasville, N. C.; E. L. Auman, F. R. Auman, and E. W. Auman, all of High Point, N. C., and M. C. Auman of Seagrove, N. C.; 27 grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Annie Lee Beck, of Greensboro, N. C.; two brothers, O. D. Lawrence, of Seagrove, N. C., and J. I. Lawrence, of Austin, Tex., and a great number of nephews and nieces, and of course, a great host of friends who mourn her going.

The funeral was conducted on Monday afternoon at Fairgrove M. P. church by her pastor, Rev. E. G. Cowan, assisted by Rev. J. C. Madison, of High Point. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

Other ministers present were: Dr. J. E. Pritchard, High Point; Dr. S. W. Taylor, Asheboro; Rev. W. H. Neese, near Thomasville; Rev. J. T. Bowman, Thomasville; and Rev. W. L. Harkey, of Lincolnton. These acted as an escort of honor for the body while it lay in state in the church for one-half hour before the funeral services. Rev. R. E. Heath, a Baptist minister of Balfour, and a friend of the deceased was also present at the funeral.

Her body was laid to rest under a mound of most beautiful flowers to await the resurrection morning. The floral offerings were profuse, and the great throng of people which more than filled the church attested the great esteem in which she was held by those who knew her.

We again extend our heartfelt sympathy to the loved ones.

E. G. COWAN, Pastor.

WANTED: A PERFECT MINISTER

Our wardens have gone traveling; they're on a mission bent,
To pick us out a rector—one with whom we'll be content.

He mustn't be too High, and he mustn't be too Low;
We'd like him very plastic, a man made out of dough.

He mustn't be too short, and he mustn't be too tall,
And he must not have opinions that will clash with ours at all.

He mustn't be too young, and he mustn't be too old,
And he must be very humble and never speak out bold.

He must please the rich and haughty, and the poor and humble, too,
And he must always praise us all for anything we do.

He must be very tactful, and have pleasant things to say,
And when we disobey him, he must look the other way.

Our wardens seem to think that they can find the very man;
But, do you know, I'm doubtful if they ever really can.

Just look who is on the front line again! Cook, of course. We always look for him to be there. The biggest amount of cash for Friendship-Love's Grove and he put Mill Grove over on subsidy. We need Cooks, glad we got one like this one, but unless the rations are forthcoming the cook cannot supply the meal. But here is a Cook that brought it all ready to assimilate into that which is helping us go along at a much better pace than if we did not have it. Thank you Brother Cook, and the good people that helped you to do it, for were it not for cooperation failure would be stamped upon everything. No man liveth unto himself the good book tells us, and that other part which we must all do sooner or later will not be done unto ourselves. And the better we do the living the better will we do the dying. The same thing is true of the Herald. Every one of us Methodist Protestants must suffer, and if we let this interest die, what will be the result. It is easy to see.

We appreciate the check from Brother Dixon for subsidy as well as Mill Grove. This gives us exactly 25 that have paid their apportionment for this and a number of others have paid in part and expect to pay out soon.

I often wonder how many are in my congregation that would like to hear a new voice week after next. But what they are interested in is not so much the new voice as carrying out the plans the Master has left for them. The agitator of the other kind we dread and yet we have them. Novelty is what they seek and not Christ. Wonder if we ever thought about our own responsibility in regard to the church paper? There are many of us who should put forth efforts for the institution, not the man in charge of it. For back of that which we need to make the work go, is Christ Jesus. Are we doing our part?

Hard Times Testing Us

By W. E. Saunders, D.D.

These hard times are a test of us, a test of our ability to change. Can we move on with the advancing purpose of the God of the ages? If not, we shall surely be smashed. Some folk are talking about going back. They are not students of history or they should know that the world has never gone back to any previous conditions. If that is the hope of any of you who come here this day with your minds perplexed and worried, you have indeed good grounds for despondency. The historical perspective allows us to look no way except ahead. The world has always struggled against change and the struggle has always been useless and futile. The test of hard times is the test of our adaptability. The economic world never will return from this machine age to previous conditions, even though so great a personality as Gandhi sponsors a movement back to hand tools. The test of hard times is the test of adaptability to change.

But most important is the test of our religion. These hard times bring a new and challenging test of the message of the Christian Church. What has the Church to say in these days? Has it anything to say? If ever the world had a right to expect a message from the Church it is now. If there is any place to which the world has a right to turn in its perplexity and agony it is the Church. This is an unparalleled opportunity for the organization that speaks in the name of Jesus of Nazareth. G. K. Chesterton is quoted as saying that this is the day in which we build eight million dollar moving picture palaces to show thirty-cent pictures in. Now is the time for the Church body authoritatively to give the message of God. And there is a more important test of religion in these times, the test of our personal religion. An area of prosperity such as that in which the present generation has been raised, does not make for a deep personal religious experience.

Some one has pictured us as "A generation with its Bible yet unread, living on the rumors of the faith of the fathers." Certainly today has its quota of troubled hearts. Yes, our personal religion is being tested. Some souls are leaving faith as trouble hits. Some, when the going is hard, are deserting. There is but one thing more sure than trouble and that is the love of God the Father. Today we shall need to do some deep thinking as to what God really wants for us. There are those who are afraid that we have thought that what God really wanted for us was comfort, motor cars, electricity, music, books, and we have felt that if we didn't get them life has cheated us. Now is the time for us to realize what God wants us to have is real faith which can be tested, courage which face hard things, sincerity and consecration which are not depended upon without pay or reward.

Conference Calendar

Annual Conference, Calvary, Greensboro______November 9-14
Payments to be made on: A. C. Expenses, January and February; High Point College, March, April; Church Extension, May, June; A. C. Debt, July, August; Superannuates, September, October.

Conversions and Accessions

Last week I promised to give information this week as to the number of conversions and accessions as reported by the pastors in the third quarterly report. The quarter ended August 6. Since then quite a number of revivals have been held and many conversions and accessions have been reported to the HERALD which are not included in the quarterly reports. But eighty-seven charges of the ninety charges in the Conference report the number of conversions for the first three quartres as 1,125 while the number of accessions is given as 1,033.

Revising Church Rolls

From now until Conference meets local churches on circuits and quarterly conferences on stations will be revising the Church register. The discipline of the Church is very specific as to how members may be discontinued. I am presuming that all of the pastors have the discipline which contains our present law in regard to dropping members. This is found in Chapter 1, Section 1, pages 45 and 46 of the 1928 discipline. Of course there may be cases where it is necessary to drop names from the roll as in cases where the people cannot be located but I am asking that an effort be made to get the members to renew their covenant with the Church before they are turned out wholesale.

The Work Is Being Delayed

My work of appointing committees for the Annual Conference is being held up, due to the fact that a good many of the pastors have failed so far to send the name of the delegate to the secretary, Dr. Bates. The quarter ended August 6, so it does seem that all of the third quarterly conferences have been held before this time. So, Brother Pastor, rush the name of your delegate to the secretary. And remember also that the election law of the North Carolina Conference provides for the election of the alternate delegate in the fourth quarterly conference rather than in the third.

A Sunday Morning at Community Church

My appointment last Sunday morning was with the Community Church, Thomasville, Rev. J. Clyde Auman, pastor. This Church building was erected by the late Mr. C. F. Finch and became one of the appointments in our Conference in 1923. This auditorium is one of the largest in the Conference and without doubt has the most expensive appearance. The congregation last Sunday was said to be unusually good although it will be a long time before membership will be large enough to fill the auditorium even if all of them should come to the same service, a thing which is seldom done anywhere. But the people were very attentive and seemed to appreciate the sermon. One of the beautiful things about this Church is the devotion of Mrs. Finch to the Church which her late husband erected, although her membership continues to remain in the Baptist denomination. She is the faithful organist at the Community Church and it is said she seldom ever misses a service. Brother Finch, before his death made provision for a substantial part of the finances for the Church. In the membership of the Church are some of the most loyal members to be found anywhere, so the work moves on. Brother Auman, the pastor is wide awake to all the needs of the Church and easily ranks as one of our most successful pastors. The finances of the Church are practically up-to-date and assurances were given that everything in the regular budgets would be paid in full. Those who are in close touch with the work of the Church say that it is in the best condition now that it has ever been in. It was a great pleasure to be there for the morning service.

A Sunday Evening at Denton

I was at the Denton Church, Rev. G. L. Curry, pastor, for the evening hour last Sunday. While I had been in Denton a good many times in the years gone by, this was my first visit to the present Church building. This building is of brick construction and has a substantial appearance. The auditorium is large enough for any ordinary occasion and there are a good many Sunday School rooms. This congregation is said to be different from our congregations in a good many places in the fact that the majority of the business men of the town are in our Church. It is also said that the most of these substantial business men were students in the school which Rev. G. L. Reynolds, then known as Professor Reynolds, conducted in Denton a good many years ago. While it seemed necessary to discontinue the school after the state began to establish high schools everywhere yet this school moulded the characters of the young people of the town so that even yet the influence of the school is felt. To my way of thinking this is a great compliment to Brother Reynolds. It is also true that Brother Reynolds' offer to educate children free of charge was one of the determining factors in the establishing of our orphanage at Denton, now our Children's Home at High Point. There was a splendid congregation present for a Sunday night service and it was a pleasure to preach to them. This is Brother Curry's first year at this Church and he and his family are delighted with the Church and the Church seems to be pleased with them. Brother Curry is one of our hardest and most successful workers. The Church is running practically on schedule with all of the Annual and General Conference interests and it is expected that a good report will be made to Conference.

Are you, gentle reader, keeping up with the march of time? When you read this there will remain six weeks in which to finish the work of the Conference year in your Church.

The student enrollment at High Point College exceeds this year all previous years, we are pleased to note.

Last week's Herald carried the news of the illness of Rev. D. R. Williams, and that Pastor Bowman had broken his arm; we trust both may soon be in their normal health and condition.

The trouble-maker usually gets into more trouble for himself than he makes for others. The law of retribution appears to hound down the trouble-maker and compel him to swallow the bad medicine he has prepared for others. The rank weeds of his sowing become a part of his harvest and he learns to his sorrow, that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

A European war could be averted tomorrow if Hitler and Mussolini should get a case of genuine religion. Wars in all ages have usually been caused by the greed and selfish ambition of some ruler. Duplicity and brutality are twin disturbers of the world peace wherever they are found.

We appreciate most sincerely the response to our appeal for renewals and payments on subsidy. The amount for Children's Home was $100, the total amount given by that institution to the maintenance of the Herald, instead of $30. Thanks to every one.

Brother Bethea reports the death of H. B. Neville. Brother Neville was for forty years steward at Eden Church, Halifax Charge. He conducted the funeral of this good man.

What Would Hitler Do With America?

While this leader of fascism is seeking for self-determination of German people in the land of the Czechs, let us see what it would mean to put the same principle in operation in America were all foreign countries to demand the same privilege of the foreign-born peoples in this country. Here is the way they show up:

Germany has 6,800,000, Italy 4,500,000, British empire 3,300,000, Poland 3,300,000, Canada 3,100,000, Scandinavia 3,100,000, Irish 3,100,000, Russia 2,600,000, Mexico 1,400,000, Czechoslovakia 1,300,000, Austria 900,000, Hungary 680,000, French 500,000, which does not include 3,900,000 other peoples from some seventy foreign countries. Here we have something like a third of our population made up of foreign born peoples. And were an ism to be propagated today to demand self-determination among all these peoples as to whether they would be loyal to the United States or to the country from whence they came, it is easy to see the turmoil we would be thrown into. We believe all normal people want peace, are opposed to war in every form, but when a ruler ignores the rights of all other people, and many of his own, to gratify an insane ambition, we praise a people who has the courage to set a line beyond which this aggressor cannot go unmolested.

Gracious Words

Mankind does not have an implement which can accomplish more than speech. While words without works is void, words may inspire the most sacrificial, golden deeds done this side of heaven. Centuries ago the writer of the Proverbs said, "Words fitly spoken are apples of gold in pictures of silver. As an earring of gold, and as an ornament of fine gold, so is a wise reprover upon an obedient ear."

It is so easy for us to lose sight of the importance of kindly speech. We once heard a Veteran say that he had seen the pulse beat of a spirited horse increased greatly by an unkind tone of voice to it. How profoundly is man moved by words. Speech may urge him to deeds of great kindness, or to the most brutal act. St. James declared the tongue to be as a fire, a world of iniquity . . . setting on fire the course of nature with the fire of hell. No one questions the truth of his words as he has seen anger kindled by an untruthful, unkind word. These words not only blanche the face, they wrankle the souls of men. Some one said:

> "Words are wonderful things;
> Like the bees, have terrible stings."

The Christian should acquire the artistry of gracious speech. The kindly word in the kindly tone heals old wounds, is a shield against anger, soothes the brow of care, and gives swings of peace to the soul setting sail for the eternal shores. Our Lord stretched across the horizon of the lives of his disciplse a bow of promise in these words, "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me."

However much people may want wealth, success, knowledge; however hard they may be bent upon pleasure, all of these things reach them through speech. And so is it with the Christian life; men are won by words, we are kept by the Spirit through words. When Elijah was in the very depth of despair under the juniper tree the Lord reached his discouraged heart through words. You can acquire the use of correct, kindly speech, even though you may never get wealth or a college education. All who will may learn the art of speaking kindly. Yes, and all of us SHOULD learn that art.

What You Want Your Church to Be

I think most of us want our Church building to be kept in good repair, the interior to be kept clean, seats well dusted, all papers and song books kept in their proper places. A dirty Church floor and pews indicate a careless, indifferent people.

As to the services. All who attend Church services are human beings and as such really like to be recognized by the pastor and Church members when present even though they are not members there. And if they are members there, they like to have an opportunity to express their social instincts in friendly greetings of the pastor and members of the congregation.

As to the music; it must be a small per cent of the attendants upon a religious service who really care for classical music from the choir. Not much of this sort of music gets inside the heads of the attendants much less into their hearts. When it comes to singing, nothing so appeals to the majority of Church-goers as the soul-stirring hymns which have moved their fathers and forefathers in a worship service. Of course, new hymns and tunes which are worshipful in their influence are most acceptable to the religious-minded Church attendant. But what the devout worshipper wants is a heart-warming experience, not an exhibition of the latest jazz or the newly-acquired skill of some person to sing classical music because it is classical. We admit that there are some soul-moving melodies from the classics, nevertheless, the great hymns which have stood the test of time and human experience are much preferred. What the serious-minded Church attendant wants is a renewal of his strength that he may overcome the temptations of the morrow; that he may have a true conception of his duty, and have it made known to him beyond a peradventure that God really cares for him. These are far more important to him than the order of service or the exhibition of a perfect skill in music.

And if the sermon and the service can so produce in his heart the feeling that God is in that place, he can well forget all else—such as how the people were dressed, how the choir sang and whether the preacher used notes and was educated or not. I do pity the critic who attends a religious service. There are so many things for him to criticize, as a rule, that he must be entirely overworked as he leaves the Church steps after a preaching service. The way the service was conducted, how the choir sang, the preacher's "Atrocious grammar," or style, the women's hats, etc., these are enough to keep the "real critic" working overtime for several days. And when all this is finally disposed of to his entire satisfaction, think how empty his heart is, how poverty-stricken his soul. What a spiritual derelect is he, out in the waste places of pendantry "Where he can hear nobody pray."

Recently I heard one person ask another how she managed to be engaged in so many community activities since she had some small children, did her own household work and looked after the chores on the farm, that so many women have to look after; she replied that she discovered years ago that people even though very busy did the things they wanted to do.

I believe it can be stated truthfully that the Lord never called a disciple into his group who was a loafer. Read the list and you will find the men engaged in some worth while activity when called. Our experience in getting Church work done is that we must depend upon busy people to get it done. Leave it to that larger class of the membership who have time on their hands for fishing, hunting, motoring, pictures, card parties, etc., and you will surely get poor results. If they attempt the task at all, it is rarely well done. They do not visit the sick, clean off Church grounds, see that the Church is kept clean, (in rural centers) they do not "have time" to teach a class in Sunday School, or to attend quarterly conferences or act as an officer of the Church. But turn one of these jobs over to some women who is consecrated, and although she may have several small children to take care of, and do her household work, she'll find time to teach a class in the Sunday School or be an officer in the Auxiliary—she'll do well what is committed to her hands. And the same is true of busy men who love their Lord; trust them with an arduous task, it will be well done. But these loafers—they will very likely fail you. It is too bad, because these idlers need to do something worth while for their Church, to sacrifice some selfish pleasures for their Lord, in order that they shall grow in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

A New Idea on Genesis

In his book, The Real Meaning of Genesis, David Murray has given us a new idea. I have mentioned it on class a number of times. He claims that the book is a separate and complete work, intensely valuable even if we did not have any more of the Old Testament. The author of Genesis is trying to answer the question, How shall man attain the highest and best life? What means shall the Creator employ to bring man up to His will and expectations?

Now, in answering this great question Genesis shows that five methods were tried and given as failures. These were Environment, Efficiency, Ecclesiasticism, Punishment, and Nationalism. Let us look into this argument.

First, Environment. The Garden of Eden was the perfect environment. There was beauty, food, flowers, rivers, and comradeship. God provided richly for man's needs. He put everything at his disposal; all man had to do was to enjoy it and be happy. But environment failed. God cannot make man by good surroundings alone. Adam and Eve had a perfect chance and bungled it. No, soft surroundings cannot make the rich, full life, whether this good surroundings is provided by home, school, community or government. And so God turned from the environmental method; gave it up in disappointment. He could not make man that way.

Then, Efficiency. Here we have the Cain and Abel story. The very name, Cain, means "to get," in other words, a go-getter. He was efficient; able to do things. He was successful, and when his brother seemed to be favored above him, Cain just could not stand it. He would not let any man beat him. Business is business. Let every fellow look out for himself. "Am I my brother's keeper?" Like hundreds of others since his day, Cain made a success at the expense of his character. But what of it? He was a man of affairs, practical and exacting. In the competitive struggle he would win! Let others take care of themselves. But hard-driving efficiency, like environment, is not able to make man. Efficiency had failed.

Third, Ecclesiasticism. Beginning with Gen. 4:25, we have the account of Seth whose son was Enos. "Then began men to call upon the name of Jehovah." God's new experiment, since both Environment and Efficiency failed, was formalism in religion. But Ecclesiasticism soon went to seed, became soul-less and without power. It degenerated as it usually does and these ecclesiastical "sons of God were soon marrying the daughters of men." The leaders of organized religion married the pleasures of earth, and so corrupted the Church. Thus Ecclesiasticism alone cannot make man as God would have him make.

Fourth, Punishment. The story of the flood comes in here. The Creator now turns to punishment in the effort to build a people worthy of His name. But this too ends in failure. Noah himself, the one chosen as the best example of the day, gets drunk celebrating his safe landing after the deluge and disgraces himself as if nothing had happened. To emphasize the severity of the punishment, the author goes into detail. The punishment was complete. "All flesh died." The disaster was universal and thorough, yet man is so proned to sin that punishment will never keep him from it. So Punishment is not the way to redeem the world.

Fifth, Nationalism. The Tower of Babel illustrates this experiment. Men of a certain language came together to build a vast nation. They determined to build even to the skies, hoping, of course, that they could go on and on and save themselves while other nations took what was left. Has God not now struck the right solution? Is Nationalism the way to bring the human race to its best? Well, the Tower of Babel gives the answer, and the answer is No. Nation fighting, exploiting, persecuting other nations will never make man. It will always wind up in a confusion of tongues. Nationalism failed then, as it fails now, simply because it rests on misunderstanding—confusion of tongues. Germany now does not see like England, and England does not see eye to eye with Italy. So it all comes tumbling down in death and disaster. Nationalism is not God's way to redeem mankind.

Finally, here is the way, namely, the God-directed life. And this, the right way, is shown in Abraham. God called him and he, by faith, followed. "Now Jehovah said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from the kindred, and from thy father's house, unto the land that I will show thee . . . So Abram went, as Jehovah had spoken unto him." The remainder of the book of Genesis unfolds the family records of those who, descending from the patriarch, seek to find the Lord's hand in walking the roads of life. Not Environment, Efficiency, Ecclesiasticism, Punishment, nor Nationalism, but the God-directed life is the real way to make and redeem mankind. Unless God builds a person or a people they labor in vain that build them. It takes God to redeem man.

THE ONE TRUE GOD

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, October 2, 1938

By J. C. MADISON

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:2-3; Isaiah 45:22; Mark 12:28-34; 1 Cor. 8:4-6.

Today at the beginning of another quarter we begin the study of that expression attributed to Moses which we call the Ten Commandments. Some may discuss at length the origin of these laws found in the Decalogue. Others may question the description of the situation in which they are supposed to have been given. Still others may have arguments concerning the authorship. In my mind these commandments are expressions of certain moral laws which are basic in our universe. Neither the origin nor the authorship affect their truth. Had the Bible never been written they would still have been true. They are laws of life which we must deal intelligently or else they deal with us.

In regard to the origin of the Decalogue we know that much of Hebrew law can be traced to other and much older codes of legislation. The Code of King Hammurabi, supposedly formulated in the twentieth century B. C., apparently had much influence upon the early law makers of Israel. This is a fact which neither adds to nor takes from the sigsifiicance of these laws. The Decalogue, however, show less dependence upon former legislative expressions than do the other laws found in the Covenant Code recorded in the twenty-first through the twenty-third chapters of Exodus. And the most original apparently in the Decalogue is found in this first commandment which we are studying today. Though the law-giver, supposedly Moses, admits the existence of other gods he proclaims that there is but one god for Israel. Thus we have the beginning of an idea that was to grow until a day when the prophets of Israel went forth declaring that there is but one god, that at the center of life and of the universe there is unity rather than division. "Hear, O Israel; the Lord our God, the Lord is one." In making this statement Jesus was simply expressing a profound truth which came to birth in the Ten Commandments, was reemphasized and purified by the prophets, and became the accepted teaching of the Jewish religion.

It is difficult for us of the twentieth century to realize just how revolutionary the teaching of monetheism at first was. It came like a bomb-shell in a polytheistic world. It was destined not only to have influence upon man's thinking but upon man's relationship to God and to his fellowman. If God is One then that means that we can deal with Him in honor, and if there is but one God and Father then that means that all men are brothers. In my mind this idea of one and only one God is one of the most profound steps forward ever made in the development of religion.

Another important step forward in man's thinking about God came when the prophets, accepting His unity, proclaimed for Him the attribute of justice. At one time the world thought of Him as possessed of all the jealousies, hatreds, and weaknesses of mankind. Revolutionary was the message that God was not nearly so much concerned for sacrifices as for justice between men. It is a consideration of no small significance to believe that there is in the universe a supreme power that supports us in our most noble ambitions and approves of strict ethical dealings between man and man. It is one thing to deal with a god of whim and fancy but quite another to deal with an Ethical Being Who responds to man in strict justice . . . "what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Probably the most profound truth about God was revealed through Christ. Christ accepted His unity and His ethical nature but He goes further to reveal that His true nature is love. Christ teaches us that at the center of the universe there is love as well as justice, that there is mercy and forgiveness for sin as well as condemnation. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." So as we see Christ in all His love and passion for men, never so much concerned for what a person has been as for what he may yet be, we see God himself. He is a Being not only to be feared and reverenced but to be loved as a Father. We may now approach Him with a faith that He will not only respond in justice but that that justice will be motivated by love. In the words of Dr. William Ernest Hocking: "I believe that Christianity has given the name Christ to what we might call the voice of God to man; and I like to think of the word Christ as meaning what I might call the human face of God. The veil of reality has been broken, as though some being had come towards us out of the darkness; and we can say to the universe, not 'It is there,' but 'Thou art there and thou carest for me'."

Now if God is and these ideas about Him are true they come to represent the most profound truth in all the universe. If they are false they represent the greatest error in human thought. Either God is or He is not. If He is then our indifference to Him is our greatest sin. If He is not then the pious beliefs which we express in creed but not in deed become our greatest shame. In other words if we believe in God we should have courage to proceed upon that belief. Jehovah will be the one and only God in our lives, challenging our love, respect and obedience, or else He will not be there at all. So we hear Him say,, "I am Jehovah thy God. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

OUR STORY PAGE

PEACETIME HEROES

Jimmy was curled up in the big armchair in front of the gas-log reading a book that he had borrowed from the school library. He had no lessons, because tomorrow was Armistice Day.

Florence came over to see what book Jimmy was reading. "It's about heroes, isn't it?" she asked.

Florence knew the kind of stories that Jimmy enjoyed so much. He was always pleased to read or hear about people who did brave deeds or hard tasks.

"Yes, but these stories aren't about soldier heroes, Florence," answered Jimmy. "They tell about explorers, and the hard times they've had discovering new lands; and inventors, and what a lot of patience their inventions sometimes took. There are other stories, too, that I haven't read yet."

Jimmy showed Florence a picture of Thomas Edison bending over his work-table. "My book says that it took Mr. Edison a long time to find out how to make the electric bulbs that we use now. He tried all sorts of materials that didn't suit before he found the right ones."

"I would get impatient and give up," declared Florence. But then she glanced at the bright electric light beside the armchair and thought how helpful it was for seeing and reading. "Well, maybe I wouldn't give up right off, and anyhow, we are certainly glad that Mr. Edison didn't," she said. Jimmy smiled at that, and so did daddy, across the room.

"Electric bulbs are useful things," daddy agreed.

"Other men have done fine things, too, haven't they, daddy?" said Jimmy eagerly. "One story in my book tells how General Goethals and his workers built the Panama Canal, and what a job it was, because the earth and rocks often slid right back where the men had been digging."

"Yes, that was a great job of engineering," agreed daddy. "Probably there is also a story or two about doctor heroes in your book, Jimmy."

"Some doctors have worked hard like Mr. Edison, trying to find what causes diseases, Florence," daddy explained. "Often it has been very dangerous for them, too, for they could easily catch the disease which they were studying. But they kept on, in order to learn about it and make the world healthier."

Florence and Jimmy stared at the bright gas-log, thinking of the men and women who quietly work so hard and do so much in different ways to make everyone else happier and better off.

"We're glad there are such people in the world," said Jimmy. "When we think of heroes we often think first of generals or soldiers, but others have done splendid things, too."

"We have many peacetime heroes," agreed daddy.

"And I'm glad to have peace, so that men and women can work and study instead of having to go to war," put in Florence. "Inventions and cures and all those good things help people around the world."

"Yes, Florence, peace and friendship do indeed help all the people," said daddy.

Florence and Jimmy were still thinking about the peacetime heroes the next day as they watched the Armistice parade. They hoped that there would be peace, so that men could work together for the good of all. Maybe they could have some part themselves some day.—Grace Helen Davis in Junior World.

IN QUEST OF GREATNESS

What is a great man? One high in public life or one rich as Midas? The dweller in the big house on the hill looking askance at all whose wealth is consumed daily in the grim battle for food, raiment, and shelter for himself and his family? These may be great judged by certain false standards, but not how far they may fail in the true tests of life.

Here's a really great one. "He was the only man I ever met who made me feel he had never noticed that I was black." That is what the brilliant Frederick Dougles, coal-black Negro orator, once said of Abraham Lincoln.

And this one. "The Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus, for he oft refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chain"—a tribute of real worth from one of the finest, Paul.

A famed missionary from Africa was quitting a place where he had delivered a lecture. A lad lingered near the door, half afraid of the prominent visitor. "Well, my lad, do you think you would like to be a missionary?" And that night David Livingstone began the thinking that was to take him ultimately to Central Africa—his death sentence of love.

About the richest man in town was he, but how he loved his Master. He was convenor of a billeting committee for a great gathering of young people. Two colored girls arrived at his desk—the only two at the gathering. "Well, you two ladies are my guests. We have just room for two at our house." And he took them home to his splendid home, drove them back to the church in the morning and then suspecting that their purses were far from filled, he said: "Now, I go home to all my meals daily—I'll just pick you up at noon and again at evening and we will have our lunch and dinner together as a family while you are here." He would not let them risk a snub or slight from some thoughtless host. Well did he know, too, that their status was secure at that Convention when it was known that they were his guests. "Those girls were a delight to us," he added after they had gone. "We enjoyed every moment of their stay with us."

Another convention—not Baptist this time. A judge, high in legal circles, and his wife had promised to care for two delegates. A white man arrived and was welcomed and then, just at tea time, the second came—black, very black, indeed. It was evident that the first guest was disturbed; he was quite rude to his fellow delegate. At the conclusion of the family meal the judge spoke to his white guest—perhaps it was his years on the bench that made him direct. "You were quite disturbed by this colored man and quite rude to him. I am very sorry and I have apologized to him for the offense. He acted the part of a Christian gentleman. My friend, the colored man, will be our guest during this convention. If you cannot be gracious to him, you will have to seek another place of entertainment." He remained, but that night he must have been amazed to discover that the judge and the colored man—a railway porter—had become so engrossed in conversation in the library after dinner that the black delegate had missed the convention.—Two great men—one a judge and the other a porter.

A great man—he was rich, some say he counted his fortune in millions. But once he had worked for ten or twelve dollars each week and he had found two treasures—he knew Jesus well and he knew that however poor a man might be, he had a responsibility to him. One day he heard that an old employee of one of his numerous firms was very ill, not likely to recover. An elevator man, I think. Then it dawned upon him that in all the years he had gone up and down that elevator he had never discovered if the man was a Christian or not. A five hundred mile journey, both ways, to the bedside of the almost unknown to ask forgiveness for his failure and to seek to bring a little cheer to the poor old master's man he found.

And still another. Once this man had been poor, with apparently no hope of success in his little business. There was many an uncomfortable arrival of the sheriff in those days when only two or three were in his employ. But he had grown very, very rich and even the King had been pleased to confer honors upon him. Unlike many, however, he was always loyal to the two or three who stayed with him in the days when the pay envelope was very uncertain. One day, traveling afar, he heard that one of his old friends was slipping away slowly, but certainly. At once he re-arranged his itinerary and began the long trip home as fast as possible. The wire brought him frequent bulletins from his home city. And then one night, just at dark, he arrived. A dash to the hospital, to sit for hours holding his old employee-associate's hand—and watch him go away. Wealth—position—power all forgotten; two old friends sitting together awaiting the summons.

What made Gladstone so wonderful? Probably a great heart—rather than a great head. Recall that day when he appeared in the House of Commons to deal with a matter of supreme importance—he came directly from an all-night vigil at the dying bed of an almost nameless crossing sweeper. That night William Ewart Gladstone was not Premier of Great Britain, but just a Christian man seeking to help a lonely sick man "cross the bar."

Greatness is goodness—and goodness is Godness. A man is great, not because of wealth or place or power, but only if he is a servant of others. That was Jesus' way—"I came not to be ministered unto but to minister." And He ministered—to weary bodies and sin-sick souls, even to Calvary.

A self-centered life cannot be great.

JOHN WYCLIF

Many fail to realize that leaders of the English people were declaring their independence of the Church of Rome long before the final break which came during the reign of Henry VIII.

One of the very early leaders to take his stand in this matter was John Wyclif, who lived in the fourteenth century.

He was born about 1320, in Yorkshire. He became Master of Balliol College, Oxford, in 1361—the year of the Black Plague. In 1365, he became Warden of Canterbury Hall, from which position he was expelled, because of his teachings, and which action was confirmed by a Papal Bull in 1370.

In 1374, he was presented by King Edward III, to the rectorship of Lutterworth, in Leicestershire, a position which he held until his death.

It was about 1363, that he became conspicuous in English national life, where he appeared first as a statesman and diplomatist, rather than a theologian. He energetically defended the autonomy, the rights and interests of the Kingdom, especially against the claims and pretensions of the court of Rome.

He became known as the most learned man of his day in England, and in addition to his fame as a scholar, possessed great popular influence as a powerful preacher in the mother tongue.

He became a leader in the cause of national and religious freedom, and efforts were made to bring him within the power of the Roman authorities for trial and punishment as a heretic. This was prevented by the King and the authorities of his university. Many attempts to condemn and silence him were thwarted, especially in his later years. From his chapel and lecture room now went forth an organized succession of "Poor Priests," clad in coarse garments, barefoot, and with staff in hand, to carry the sacred fire to the common people of the land. His followers, who were numerous, became known by the name of "Lollards."

From the ablest of these Wyclif chose assistants, and with their help began and finished a translation of the Bible into the vernacular. Copies of this, the earliest complete translation of the Bible into English, were carried by the "Poor Priests" through all the Kingdom, and this, together with the poems of Chaucer, exerted on Middle English the same creative power that Shakespeare and the King James' Version had on modern English.

In 1384, this great scholar and early Protestant found peace, as he passed from this life into the greater knowledge and clearer vision of the life of the Immortals.

The hatred of Rome, however, pursued him beyond the grave, for, by order of the Council of Constance, his remains were dug up, in 1428, and burned, the ashes being scattered upon the river Swift.

But the influence of Wyclif and his teachings, and especially his Bible, were indestructible and have been of inestimable value in the development of the free England of today.—Rev. John T. Walker in Supreme Council Bulletin.

WOMEN'S QUARTERLY MEETING PROGRAM

October 7—10:30 A. M.—Concord, N. C.

The main feature of the program for this quarterly meeting of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work will be addresses by Rev. and Mrs. Paul F. Warner, returned missionaries from Japan.

Mrs. C. W. Bates, Mrs. W. C. Hammer and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson will each speak on our progress and plans to promote further progress, from their official viewpoints.

All departmental secretaries will be given opportunity to present plans for furthering their departments, and the regular official reports will be given.

We hope for a full attendance of Auxiliary representatives.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS,
President of N. C. Branch.

REVIEWS OF THREE OF OUR HOME MISSION STUDY BOOKS

The American City and Its Church, by Samuel C. Kincheloe, cloth, $1, paper, 60 cents. My Community, My Church and Me!, by Wilbur C. Hallenbeck, paper, 35 cents. City Shadows, by Robert W. Searle, cloth $1, paper 60 cents.

The year the cycle of missionary education studies returns to the theme of the city and its church. As aids to an understanding of organized religion in urban civilization, three excellent books are provided.

The main study book by Dr. Samuel C. Kincheloe, of Chicago Theological Seminary, while written in popular vein, is more definitely sociological in conception than most of the previous treatments of the same theme. It is essentially the story of the influence of the city on the church, and the resulting characteristics and prospects of the church in an urban environment. Professor Kincheloe traverses the inevitable ground presented by the city and its problems, but is always mindful of actual people living in concrete situations. When he generalizes, as is necessary in so short a book, as to housing, delinquency, etc., it is with a clear sense of the bearings of these things upon the family and its sanctities and the lives of the individuals who compose it.

Perplexed and tried by the vicissitudes of urban change, the church makes such adjustments as it can and is not altogether unsuccessful. Dr. Kincheloe's book furnishes an excellent popular introduction to urban religious problems.

True to his calling as a professor of education, Dr. Hallenbeck attempts to carry learning over into action. He invites Dr. Kincheloe's readers to use the results of their studies in a series of projects in their own communities. "My Community, My Church and Me!" shows how to set up a religiously motivated study of any particular urban situation, combining research and discussion on the part of a local cooperative group which is in a position to assume real responsibility.

After the religious people of the city have established the facts by direct investigation, Dr. Hallenbeck's book will help them to evaluate their findings in the light of Christian ideals and to determine objectives, both immediate and more ultimate.

Dr. Searle's poignantly written series of vignettes of types of urban people under pressure of adverse surroundings, personalizes the problems of which Dr. Kincheloe writes, and identifies the people for whose sake Dr. Hallenbeck would like to mobilize the Christian forces for action. The neglected child, the unstable immigrant family, the disintegrated American home, the mentally handicapped, and the unemployed—all figure graphically in a series of brief but striking sketches based on the author's experience as a metropolitan pastor, now secretary of the New York Federation of Churches.

Approaching the problem of urban religion, as these books do, from the three-fold standpoint of knowledge, feeling and action, every church ought to find one or another of them useful.

THANK-OFFERING

Thank-offering boxes, envelopes, worship services and pageants should be in use now, and may be had by writing Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, Secretary Thank-Offering, Asheboro, N. C.

Let us all observe Thank-Offering month personally, as Auxiliaries and churches.

BENEVOLENCES AND STEWARDSHIP

All other activities began in with renewed interest their fall work, after a summer slump, due to hot weather, to vacations, or perhaps from mere habit; and we, too, in this department of Benevolences and Stewardship wish to put on renewed energy. We appeal to every local Auxiliary secretary to keep her work, its needs, before the church group. Those faithful women who have canned fruits and vegetables for the Children's Home deserve much praise for their loyalty, especially do we feel grateful to the Graham Auxiliary for their splendid donation on Children's Home day. Their secretary of Benevolence had a unique plan to raise that birthday offering, and we are proud of her success.

With such a splendid group of women for the work of Benevolences and Stewardship we desire to get in touch with every one of you in order to make progress. Our field is large, there is much we can do by a united effort. With the varied causes for our deep concern,—from our little ones at the Children's Home to the dear old folk at the Home for the aged and our very own ministers of the Superannuate Fund. Then, too, there is our Bethel Home, the house of healing, where we can help make the sick comfortable; and our aid in contributions, through our local church, to the American Bible society, to spread the gospel.

One project now working, is the donation of cakes and cookies, from various Auxiliaries, to the Children's Home to assist Mrs. Dixon in the school lunches for 104 boys and girls. This is a great help, for most of us would find packing lunches for three or four each morning a job to us—but oh! just think of 104 lunches five mornings every week. We are working out a schedule of dates, hoping to keep a necessary supply for the entire school year. So when I write your Auxiliary for a gift of cakes for a certain day, please let me know if I may depend on it. If there is some date you prefer to take cakes to the Home just let me know at once, please, before I have other plans made.

Our main objective just now is to get every Secretary of Bevenolence to assist in arousing the interest of each man, woman and child to the financial needs of the Children's Home for the best Thanksgiving offering this year.

May I remind you, Secretary of Benevolence, to confer with your pastor about the Superannuate Fund and assist him in raising the quota for your church. We must not forget to help our few aged ministers.

Along in the new mission study book we suggest that every group have a course in Stewardship; give at least one program at an Auxiliary meeting on this subject, and present a Stewardship pageant in the church. There is good material in the Missionary Record for this, as well as a list of material from which you can order supplies.

Have you read that article in the August-September Record on "The Stewardship Movement—Whence and Whither?" I hope each Auxiliary will use it in a regular meeting as it is splendid.

These books I find especially good and suggest them added to your reading list:

"The Victory of Mary Christopher," by Calkins; "Stewardship for All of Life," by Lovejoy; "Speculating in Futures," by Lovejoy; "Dealing Squarely With God," by Cushman.

Wishing all of you the best cooperation in each of your undertakings, I am,

Very sincerely,
MRS. J. H. STONE,
Sec. Benevolences and Stewardship,
N. C. Branch.

MINNIS' FUND

We are coming along very well but let's rally to call and put this over.

A new Auxiliary at Chapel Hill-Davidson charge, has contributed to this fund. This Auxiliary was organized in May and has begun by responding to call for Minnis' Fund. We trust they will give liberally since this will count on their World Service budget of their church.

The Friendship C. E. society on Haw River circuit, will be responsible for $19.50 of Minnis' salary. That is fine, now won't more C. E. societies, Sunday school classes or some group of young people follow their examlpe and make a pledge or contribution now.

You of course read report of Minnis' Fund last week by Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, of Denton, Treasurer of N. C. Branch. Was your church, or group in that? Well then see how fast we can work and send in your money and be proud to help, not only the Minnises but help your pastor go to Conference with World Service paid in full.

Yours for Minnis Fund,
MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON.

Clothing and Other Gifts

The most of the fall outfits for our girls are in, and for the most part the dresses are beautiful. A few of our boys are provided for, but some 40 of the boys will have to have winter clothing yet.

Wanted

Forty men's classes which will contribute $8 to buy winter clothing and a pair of shoes for a boy. Last year we had the Biltmore jeans out of which to have suits made for our boys, but this year we haven't. But with what the boys now have we can outfit each one fairly well on $8 per boy.

We thank you for a quick and hearty response to this.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Grace church, Greensboro, several packages of cakes and cup cakes for school lunches.

The Ladies' Aid Society, Canaan, North Davidson, 36 half-gallon cans of fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. W. H. Neese, one pair of shoes.

We are thankful for all these gifts of money and substance, and ask that you do your best to help us make a good report to Conference for your charge.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

CHURCH WORK — GOD'S WORK

The Christian Endeavor Topic for October 9, 1938

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings

Monday, October 3—A Hard Task. Hag. 2:1-5.

Tuesday, October 4—A Child in Church Work, I Sam. 2:18.

Wednesday, October 5—A Church Founded. Acts 2:36-47.

Thursday, October 6—Preaching in God's Work, Heb. 2:1-4.

Friday, October 7 — Working for God's People, I Pet. 5:1-11.

Saturday, October 8—Paul as a Church Worker, Phil. 4:1-7.

The word church has many different shades of meaning. Especially do we find this true in the New Testament. But regardless of the shade of meaning or of the place or time the true church is always a divine institution. It is a religious assembly selected and called out of the world by the doctrine of the gospel to worship the true God in Christ according to the word. I Cor. 1-2, Rev. 2:7. It is all the elect of God, of what nation soever, from the beginning to the end of the world, who make but one body, whereof Jesus Christ is the Head, Col. 1:18. It is the faithful of a family or group together with such Christians as were want to assemble with them for solemn worship, Rom. 16:5. But whatever its form or its name God instituted the formation and directed the obedient individually and collectively.

This divinely instituted church has many phases to its work—work that has to be done if the church is to fulfill its place in the world. The work of the church is God's work and should be considered as such. All of the work of the church should be done in a spirit of worship whether it be evangelizing or merely physical work on the church building and grounds.

Paul in his letter to the Ephesians says that the church should be sanctified and cleansed with the washing of water by the word. The church should be presented to God without a spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.

As with everything else we get out of our church work just what we put into it. And while leading others to Christ is the most important work of the church, if the physical work of the church carries with it a religious experience it too can be of great value to the worker as well as to the church. In fact our religious experience would mean a lot more to most of us if the experience were strong enough to make us want to do something constructive for our church—for God's church.

I know a man who is a wonderful craftsman. Who before the depression had a good business employing several men, and yet time after time you could go to his place of business and fail to find him there. Usually one of his men would say that he could be found at his church. When he became discouraged—when things didn't go just right he would leave his work and go to his church—not to sit and meditate or to pray as some people would do, but to work some. He would find something around the church that needed mending or repairing. Many times even late at night his car could be seen parked in front of the church and his whistle could be heard coming from the church where he was worshiping God and enjoying a religious experience in doing God's work.

That man lost his business. During the depression he has had a hard struggle but he has always remained cheerful and driven away his worries with his tools in the church. One of his employees made the statement that if he spent as much time at his place of business as he did at church he would have a prosperous business—but he is happier doing the church work—God's Work.

The Carpenter

Silent at Joseph's side He stood,
And smoothed and trimmed the shapeless word.
And with firm hand, assured and slow,
Drove in each nail with measured blow.

Absorbed, He planned a wooden cask,
Nor asked for any greater task,
Content to make, with humble tools,
Tables and little children's stools.

Lord, give me careful hands to make Such simple things as for Thy sake.
Happy within Thine House to dwell
If I may make one table well.

SERMONS AT WOMAN'S COLLEGE

Greensboro

Dates for University sermons of the academic year at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina have been announced by Dr. W. C. Jackson, dean of administration. Four eminent religious leaders will address students in Aycock auditorium at the college on the following Sunday evenings: October 2, November 20, January 15, and March 5.

The speaker for the first date is Dr. W. A. Smart, Emory university, Georgia, and Rabbi James Heller, Cincinnati Ohio, will speak November 20. Ministers to fill the January and March engagements will be announced later in the year.

Dr. Smart was ordained into the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1907, and has held pastorates in Lynchburg, Va., Portsmouth, Va., and Charlottesville, Va. For the past 25 years he has been on the faculty of Emory university as professor of Biblical theology. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Smart holds the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Southern Methodist university and from Ohio Wesleyan university.

Dr. Smart is a native of South Carolina and a graduate of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He was also graduated from Union Theological seminary. The public, as well as members of the college community, is invited to attend the series of University sermons which Dr. Smart's address will open, announces Dr. Jackson.

The hour is 7:00 o'clock.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

West End, Greensboro.—Thought the reporter would have something in this week about our fine Anniversary day. With the concessions made by the Finance company that made the loan, and the fine spirit of cooperation on the part of all departments of the church and Sunday school, we have the debt reduced now to $6,000. Looks the best it has since coming here. This has been done despite the predictions of the prophets of doom, some of which would like to come in now and help to ride in on the easiest work to do, for the folks now believe it can be done, even the most pessimistic of four years ago.

The Gift service arranged by the program committee was very impressive and the writer believes this was a service that was really helpful to all present. The Berrier quartette from Lexington, Shiloh charge, gave us a number of inspiring selections. Everybody enjoyed them. Come again, young people. Then in the afternoon Rev. Tom Sykes gave us a fine address on our responsibility in the stewardship of life. Those who have heard him know something of what we got, those who have not heard him have missed much. He is one of the unique speakers of this country. The day passed off to the profit of all who attended these services.

A good year. Thirty-three accessions, much done in the way of church improvement, finances somewhat behind on other interests. but the chairman of the Board of Stewards promises activity through October that should meet all claims.

N. G. BETHEA.

Littleton Church, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—It has been quite a while since a report was made from us busy workers. Guess some may think probably we are not doing anything to report, but let's hope no one will get that impression.

The third quarterly conference was held on Saturday evening, September 10, at 2 o'clock, at our church. All the churches on the charge were represented well. Miss Annie Perkinson was elected delegate to attend the Annual Conference in November.

The Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Frank King, Tuesday evening. There were nearly all the members present and we had the pleasure of having one of our former pastors, Rev. R. L. Vickery, of Danville, Va., with us. He had been helping in a revival at Vaughn's church on the charge. Mrs. Bud Perry had charge of the program for the evening. We sang a hymn at the opening of the meeting, Mr. Vickery led in prayer. And then we sang another song, after which Mrs. Bud Perry read the meditation, and we all join in the responsive reading. Then Miss Louise King gave us an interesting talk on railroads in China. Our business discussion for the meeting was making a quilt. We began on the quilt on Thursday after the meeting was held on Tuesday evening. Then the meeting came to a close, after a refreshing ice course and cakes were served. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Sallie Williams, our president.

Our pastor, has filled his regular appointments during the weeks we have failed to report. And I must say, congratulations to our pastor on how he gets along with his work so well, in all he undertakes.

Our Sunday school attendance has been very well throughout the summer, considering the vacation days. But now they are over for the summer and we are hoping to have more of our members and others to attend regularly.

We have a contest on now, that's been of great help to keep our members attending so regularly. We chose green and gold for our colors this time. The greens are a little ahead at the present, but the yellow is not far behind us by no means.

On the third Sunday morning we are to have our regular services, and on the third Sunday night, we are going to have our Children's day program. And we are looking forward with pleasure of making this one of the best programs we have had this year. So let's hope by God's help, that we can continue to work for the Lord and do good at all times.

ANNIE PERKINSON, Reporter.

Harmony Church, Yarborough Charge, T. H. Vickery, Pastor, Sept. 25.—Have been waiting to see the report our pastor was going to make but guess he has been so busy getting started back to school.

We have all been busy and much is being accomplished. We have raised almost enough money to get our church painted. Work is to begin next week.

Our pastor is going to Wofford College this year and we thought by being nearer he would get to be with us more often. Rev. Mr. Vickery was with us today for his regular appointment.

He brought with him one of his school friends, a Rev. Mr. Carver. We were indeed glad to have him and hope to have him come back whenever possible.

It isn't long until we send our delegate, Mr. Ralph Hughes, to Conference but we have a good bit of work to do to have a 100% report, which we are hoping to accomplish.

Glad to have had the report from Yarborough's Chapel. Come on, don't let it be the first and last.

Glen Raven Church, Charles Coble, Pastor.—Our church is moving along very nicely. We have been so unsettled for so long. We were all so grieved by the sickness and death of our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler. Our deepest sympathy and most sincere prayers go to his family and loved ones. When our work here is done we are called to our new work in Heaven.

The different organizations are doing nice work. The Ladies' Aid has had two Brunswick stew suppers in the last little while. These ladies are truly carrying their part of the finance of the church. They are getting along nicely with the payment on the furnace.

The Christian Endeavor is steadily increasing in membership and in interest. We have been having services at the county jail and these services are very beneficial to each of us as well as the inmates. At our last meeting there were ten inmates and each of them gave their hearts to Christ. There were seven men and three women. Our prayers are that they may be sincere in their decision and that they will continue in His wonderful love. The Endeavor has enjoyed so much getting together clothing for our little girl at the Home. We still call her our "little girl" although she is 15 years old.

We have just concluded a two weeks' revival with Dr. Fred W. Paschall helping. We had a good meeting. There were only about six conversions but those of us who are striving to walk in the Light were wonderfully blessed by Dr. Paschalls' inspiring messages.

Vestal Johnson has returned to Oak Ridge to continue his studies there.

We had a Home-coming day the second Sunday. There were not so many there but those who were there enjoyed the fellowship very much. Dr. R. M. Andrews preached at the 11 o'clock hour and he brought us a most inspiring message. We had a basket dinner and in the afternoon a prayer service.

Please remember our church in your prayers.

Kernersville-South Winston Charge, Sept. 26—The reporters at the churches of this charge seem to have gone on a strike, so the reporting is shifted to the pastor. We had very interesting services at all of the five churches during the past two Sundays. On the third Sunday we had the usual attendance and interest at the Kernersville church. The Lord's Supper was administered to the usual number of members. In the afternoon at 3 p. m. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church, Greensboro, delivered an interesting sermon, discussing the text: "The People Had a Mind to Work." Following the sermon the third objective of the Fellowship Crusade was presented, and a total of 14 subscriptions were received, the money to be paid by the last Sunday before the Annual Conference meets. The pastor went to South Winston church for the 7:30 p. m. service where the usual size congregation was present.

The services were held the past Sunday, at Ai church at 10 a. m., and at Sandy Ridge at 11 a. m. A larger congregation was present at Ai than had been present for some time. Also there was a larger congregation present at Sandy Ridge. An improvement in the singing and an increase in the number in the choir were results of the singing school which has been conducted at this church for the past four weeks. No service was held at the Kernersville church Sunday night, but members and the pastor attended the special evangelistic service at the Kernersville M. E. church at 7:30 and heard Rev. C. C. Herbert, of Walkertown, who delivered the sermon.

Announcement was made at Sandy Ridge church Sunday morning that a revival meeting will begin in that church the second Sunday in October, with Rev. Fred R. Love, of Pleasant Grove church, doing the preaching. A community singing will be held during the morning and afternoon and the first revival service will be at 7:30 p. m.

The pastor and family appreciate very much a number of gifts from members and friends since our last report to the Herald.

Mrs. J. W. Corum, of the Kernersville church, has supplied us with milk and butter for the past several weeks. Mrs. June Hester, a member of Pine Grove church, has been very generous with a variety of gifts. No visit has been made to that home without something was placed in the car. Brother Jeosph Dean, also of Pine Grove church, has made gifts from time to time. Brother Kermit Ingram, of the Kernersville church, and his mother, have been liberal with gifts. While the pastor was at Ai church Sunday morning Mrs. W. B. Warren placed a gift in the car. We are grateful for all these gifts.

Mrs. C. J. Broadway, a member of Ai church, is now a member of the great family of Herald subscribers, having given her subscription to the pastor last Sunday. We hope others will follow Mrs. Broadway's example.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

West End, Greensboro, Dr. N. G. Bethea, Pastor.—Three weeks ago our church celebrated its 21st anniversary. During these 21 years, we have had our ups and downs in attendance, finances, and our spiritual life. We believe that we are in better shape financially than we have been in a long time. The organizations of the church and Sunday school raised $1,000 for our church debt as an anniversary gift. In the afternoon Rev. Tom Sykes, of Thomasville, brought us a splendid message on "Stewardship." The entire day was an inspiration to all of us, especially the older members, who have been with us since we organized our church.

Last Sunday morning all departments of the Sunday school assembled together for a Promotion day service. The children were very proud of the certificates they were given. At the close of this service the superintendent of the Sunday school presented Mr. S. E. Ratledge with a gold watch and chain. This was a gift from the Sunday school in appreciation of the ten years' faithful service Mr. Ratledge has served as secretary of the Sunday school. During those years he has not been absent a single Sunday, and so we honor Mr. Ratledge. We wish that God would give us more Sunday school officials and members like him.

REPORTER.

First M. P. Church, Danville, Va., R. L. Vickery, Pastor.—We had so many pleasant surprises last Sunday that it's hard to decide which was the most pleasant. The Christian Endeavor society set aside September 25 for the observance of Parents' day, and asked all members of Christian Endeavor and all parents in the church to attend. Mr. Ira Elliott had charge of the program, and we had such a splendid service that we're thinking of taking back seats every Sunday and letting the adults give the speeches. We really did enjoy having our parents with us and listening to them talk and sing. Next Sunday, October 2, the society will observe Founders' and Members' day. We wish to urge all young people to come out to these meetings, because you need the Christian Endeavor society and the Christian Endeavor society needs you.

At the evening preaching service we had quite a number of visitors. Mr. Herbert Garmon, of Charlotte, N. C., brought us a big sermon in a big way. He says he's every inch for the Lord, so we're just glad he is large and has more to give to God. We were also glad to see our former pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris, of Orange charge, in the audience. We are always happy to have him, and all other visitors worship with us at any and all times.

Our delegate to Conference this year will be Mr. A. E. Rice. We're glad to have him represent our church, and are hoping to send with him a good report on the last year's work.

The Ladies' Auxiliary had charge of Wednesday night prayer meeting last week. The Auxiliary is always coming along and helping out, and they really live up to their name. They had a good crowd out and everyone seemed to enjoy the service very much. Mr. Garmon is leader of the prayer service for this week, so all of you who possibly can, come out to the prayer meetings, help with your presence, your prayers, your talents, and let us try to labor as our Master would have us.

ELEANOR TANNER, Reporter.

Concord, E. O. Peeler, Pastor, Sept. 25—Since our last report our pastor has been holding some real good services on Sundays and in our mid-week prayer services. We are so glad to see more of our folks attending the mid-week services. Mr. D. D. Nash will conduct our service this Wednesday night and he will preach for us tonight as our pastor was called out of town to help in a funeral of a friend. We were very happy to have Rev. L. R. Medlin preach for us this morning. He gave us a beautiful message and at the close of the service a consecration service and prayer was held. For the past several weeks we are holding our services on the Evangelistic plan. We know that the revival must start in the church before we can reach the outside.

We were so happy to have Mrs. Ruth Newton come into our church family. Her husband, Mr. William Newton, has been a member for a long time and Mrs. Newton came to us from the M. E. church.

Mr. William Newton has been confined to bed for four weeks from injuries in an auto wreck. We hope he will soon be able to be out and come back to church. His friends are all interested and were so glad to know that X-ray shows that only one bone is cracked, but he is badly bruised.

On Friday night of this week Mr. James Blackwelder and Miss Ruth White will be married in our church. James is one of our ushers and a very fine boy, one we are proud of. Miss White is a member of Epworth Methodist church and a very fine girl.

On Friday night, October 7, we will hold a membership meeting. We hope to have all members that live near enough to be present and just have a real get-together fellowship meeting.

We are very happy to know that Mrs. Marvin Blackwelder has returned to her home from the hospital where she underwent a serious operation. She is getting along nicely.

We are so sorry that Mrs. Whisnant does not improve very much, she has been confined to bed for four or five weeks with a severe cold. We miss her so much; she always took part in all church work. We hope if it is the Father's will that she will soon be well again.

R. B. Lowder underwent an appendicitis operation and is getting along fine. Mr. Erskin Newton is confined to his home with stomach trouble. Mrs. R. O. Atwell has improved some since our last report. We have so much sickness and sadness in our church family.

Our pastor is on the go most all the time and we just pray the Father to give him health and strength; he is so good and so sympathetic we don't know how we could get along without him. For more than a week our pastor and family, with all the church family, were much in prayer for Mr. Roland Haupt, who had an infection from a boil on his nose. Mr. Haupt became very ill on Tuesday and was rushed to a hospital in Charlotte and everything doctors, nurses, medicine, prayers and all could do was done. The Father said come up higher. On Saturday night near midnight our pastor and family with relatives and some of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Haupt were in prayer at the parsonage. Oh, how we miss Roland because he was always at church and interested in everything the church did; he was one of our ushers and one of our stewards and taught a class of our boys. But it means so much to know that if we live right we can see Roland again. I won't ever forget the time when he was converted and joined the church. He was the brightest and happiest looking young man I think I ever saw. Our hearts go out in sympathy to Mrs. Haupt and Roland's mother. They are so sad and lonely but they sorrow not as those who have no hope. Roland and Edna have always been so thoughtful of other people and they are both loved and have many many friends. Our church did not hold near all the friends even with chairs in the isles. The flowers were many and very beautiful.

Gibsonville, O. B. Williams, Pastor.—Last Sunday morning our pastor gave a very interesting talk on "Positiveness of the Divine Life." For his evening service he chose for his subject, "The Christian Brotherhood." Three new members united with the church at the morning service. Sunday was promotion day in the Sunday school; the program being under the direction of Mrs. D. M. Davidson, superintendent of the primary department. The children gave a very impressive program showing that great progress is being made.

The new basement at the church is near completion; and the new furnace is to be installed very soon.

The Young Women's Sunday school class enjoyed a picnic supper at Rock Creek club house last Saturday evening. They were accompanied by their teacher, Mr. D. M. Davidson, and assistant teacher, Mrs. O. B. Williams.

Mrs. W. E. Anderson is still confined to her bed; she has not recovered as rapidly as had been hoped for from a recent operation at the hospital in Greensboro.

Mrs. T. Lowell Wells and son, Tommy, have returned to Washington, D. C., after spending the summer with Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Williams at the parsonage.

Our young people in the church who have returned to college are: Hal Yow, High Point College; Jeanne Owen, W. C. U. N. C.; Camille Kivette, Elon College; Coble Shoffner, High Point College; Wesley Randolph entered Wake Forest College for his freshman year; and Miss Lillie Mae Rountree, Elon College.

Mrs. O. B. Williams entertained Circle No. 1 of the Women's Auxiliary last Wednesday evening with Mrs. Frank Owen, president, in the chair. Mrs. Noma Jones led the devotionals and the program was directed by Mrs. W. T. Jennings, assisted by Mrs. Richard Wynne, who had for her topic, "Furtherance in Fellowship." Mrs. A. B. Owen discussed "Spiritual Retreat in Japan."

On Tuesday evening Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. Walter Allred with Mrs. Clayton Faucette presiding. Miss Margaret Faucette conducted the devotionals. For the program, Mrs. Frank Owen gave the second chapter of the mission book, "Moving Millions."

North Davidson Charge. — Our special meeting began at Spring Hill on the third Sunday in September, and ran through Friday night. The attendance and interest were very encouraging. There were nine reclamations and conversions. Six young people are to be received next Sunday. Brother Easter, of Lebanon church, was our helper. Everybody seemed highly pleased with him and Mrs. Easter. Brother Easter and his splendid wife are young people of the highest type.

The Ladies' Aid presented 100 Cokesbury hymnals to the church during the meeting; these books improved the singing perhaps 100%. We thank the ladies for the splendid presentation to the church and to the congregation.

On yesterday at Mount Pleasant, Mr. Vergil Morris was received into membership. His forward step was a delight to his many friends.

Haw River Circuit.—I am glad to report that Friendship church has paid all claims except pastor's salary. This will be in hand in full as soon as the folks can get hold of a little "tobacco money." The Herald subscription quota will be met. So the church will have stars all the way across the chart. The other churches are farther behind, but not so far but that they can make a clean sweep of it.

We have had the privilege of having Rev. Arthur Gillespie to make the address at two of our fall Thank-offering services. He is a missionary home on furlough from China, where he is under the direction of the Baptist Board of Missions. We are hoping to have him in the service at Friendship next Sunday.

I was very much surprised when I went by Fair Grove church last week to see painters busy on the outside of the building. It was all spick and span yesterday. A good part of the cost of the job was raised at a farmers' supper some weeks ago. The balance will be raised by private subscription.

At the communion service yesterday at Fair Grove we had the use of linen communion cloths made and presented by Mrs. E. A. Spencer. We are very grateful to her for this splendid gift, which adds so much to the appearance of the Lord's Table.

Some 18 of our young people are attending college this fall. We miss them in the services; but are glad they have the opportunity of further study.

The Friendship Christian Endeavor society had a combined social and business meeting last Saturday night. They voted to take a week of the Minnis' salary, $19.50. They are planning a Rally day program for this coming Sunday night. They also voted to join the Guilford City-County union. The societies at Mizpah and Fair Grove are doing good work.

Midway raised its apportionment for Herald Subsidy yesterday. This makes it 50-50, two of the churches not having raised theirs yet. But it will come presently. Then it'll be 100.

Friendship Church, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, Sept. 26.—We are very glad to report our church is moving along fine with its work. Our pastor filled his appointment Sunday morning. His text was, not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord. This was a very impressive sermon.

September is the month set apart to finish raising the Fellowship Crusade fund. We are within $9 of having our goal in which we hope to raise. Last Saturday night we gave an oyster and chicken pie supper at the church hut, and made more than $30 which is to be applied on World Service. We were very glad to have visitors from other communities come out to our hut for supper.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Charge, J. W. Braxton, Pastor.—The Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary will sponsor an amateur program and weiner sale at Nathaniel Greene school Saturday night, October 8. Several good entertainers have been secured. Come out and join us for an evening of good entertainment and help a good cause.

The Business Girls' circle held its regular meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Milloway in Greensboro Saturday evening, September 24. A program was rendered with Mrs. Floyd Amick talking on the subject, "What Our Country Owes to Missions." A bountiful picnic supper was spread and Mrs. Milloway, always the thoughtful hostess, provided oyster soup, coffee and ice tea to go with the picnic baskets. It was a pleasure to meet with Rev. and Mrs. Milloway, who served this church faithfully for several years and was loved by all who knew them.

The regular meeting of the Auxiliary was held after the Sunday school hour, September 25. Mrs. Louise Shoffner had charge and presented members of the "Sunshine Mission Band," in an interesting program. During the business session the treasurer, Miss Sallie Amick, made a report that the Minnis' fund had been paid. Paid $85 on missionary budget, local budget paid in full, and that $11.75 was on hand at present.

The local Grange will sponsor a flower show at Nathaniel Greene school on Monday night, October 3. Ten blue ribbon prizes will be awarded. Games will be played for entertainment. Miss Rebecca Mae Causey has charge of the program.

We want to thank Mr. B. J. Gregson, of Liberty, who presented the church with a glider for the stage in the Sunday school auditorium.

Officers for the primary department of the Sunday school elected for the following year are: Mrs. Grace Stafford, superintendent; Mrs. Louise Shoffner, first assistant superintendent; and Mrs. Janet Stafford, second assistant superintendent.

We appreciate the Woman's Bible class placing flowers in the vestibule of the church each Sunday. During the month of August Mrs. C. A. Coley and Mrs. R. C. Causey placed them there and for the month of September Mrs. J. T. Shoffner is responsible for them.

Mrs. J. W. Braxton and daughter, Minnie Alice, are spending a few days in Durham, visiting relatives.

First M. P. Church, High Point.—Twice this past week our hearts have been saddened because of deaths in our church family. On Wednesday morning James Hinkle, the only son of Mrs. J. W. Hinkle, passed away at Burrus Memorial hospital after an illness of several days. Funeral services were conducted at the home Thursday afternoon by Mr. Madison. James was a very popular boy in High Point and was planning to enter the University at Chapel Hill for continued studies this fall.

On Friday morning, "Squire" John M. Davis, died at his home and funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon from Fairfield M. P. church, of which he was a member. The services were in charge of Mr. Madison and Dr. P. E. Lindley. His daughter, Miss Myrtle Davis, is church secretary. Our deepest sympathy goes to the bereaved families of these two deceased.

Rev. Mr. Madison has been in Asheboro the past two weeks, helping Dr. S. W. Taylor in a meeting at the Central M. P. church. He has filled his appointments for the past two Sundays at our church, however, except for last night's services when Mr. C. E. Anderson, an experienced minister of New York state, who is doing some special work at High Point College, preached.

The nominating committee for the official board of the church for next year has completed its work. The election will be held next Sunday morning.

Next Sunday morning Rally day will be observed. Children will worship with their parents, and an offering for World Service will be taken. At the Sunday evening service Dr. Giovanni Sperandeo, an Italian lyric tenor, will give a program of sacred music. He will be accompanied by his wife who is also an accomplished musician. We are looking forward to this program.

Community Methodist Protestant Church, Thomasville.—Last Sunday we had Dr. J. E. Pritchard, the president of the Conference with us at the morning service and were highly benefitted by his splendid message.

This coming Sunday is Rally day and a special program is in preparation for the occasion which we trust will be in many ways a "red letter" day for the church. C. R. Reed, Mrs. T. L. Einstean, Mrs. J. R. Sechrest, and John R. Perry make up the Rally Day Booster committee, and as the result of their efforts we expect an increase in church and Sunday school attendance next Sunday. The Rally day program is in charge of Mrs. C. D. Crutchfield, assisted by Mrs. C. F. Finch. The play, "The Trial of Everman's Church" will be given.

On the second Sunday morning the Auxiliary will have charge and their fall Thankoffering service will be held at this time. Mrs. W. F. Warner, of Baltimore, will have charge of the devotions and Mrs. Paul F. Warner will make the address. Brother Warner will be along but will be elsewhere at this hour. Will expect him to preach in the evening service.

Recently Wiley Taylor has been in the hospital for an operation but at this writing is well on the way to recovery.

Mrs. Virgil Ward, after a second operation, is convalescing in her home and expect to be able to be out again after a few weeks.

Mr. Fait Hill, the husband of Mrs. Hill, a member of our church, has recently undergone an operation and at this writing is still in the City Memorial hospital. He expects, however, to return home this week.

October will be Loyalty Month for Community church, during which month an effort will be put forth to encourage the membership to attend church more regular. A careful record of each member's attendance will be kept. J. CLYDE AUMAN, Pastor.

Friendship Church, Chase City Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—We were again glad to have our pastor fill his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He brought to us a beautiful message from I Kings 17th chapter and again at night on the 18th chapter of Kings.

Every one was pleased to have as our guest, Miss Nancy Wilson, from Weavers' Chapel, Littleton charge.

I am sure everyone is glad to hear that Mr. O. E. Lenhart's small son has returned from the hospital and is improving nicely. We are sorry to report Mrs. Emma Wilson Ramey on the sick list but we hope she will soon recover.

We are looking forward to the next fourth Sunday. Our pastor plans several days in our community will preach for us. We hope to have electric lights installed in church by that time.

PAULINE JARRELL, Reporter.

Alamance Charge.—A very gratifying number was present at Rock Creek last Sunday for the morning worship service, the attendance being real good, considering the membership. The Sunday school attendance showing an increase of 32 over the same time last year. At the close of the service the report of the committee to nominate the officials for next year was adopted as a whole, as follows: Trustees, J. W. McPherson, M. E. Graves, D. L. McPherson, F. D. Hornaday, and Geo. Bishop; stewards, R. B. Hornaday, J. L. Culberson, Howard Graves and Wake Spoon; class leaders, C. L. Moser, H. C. McPherson and O. N. Hornaday. Mrs. Mattie McPherson, who has served very efficiently as Sunday school superintendent for four years, refused to serve any longer. Mr. Leonard Russell, a splendid young man of the community, who married Nurseryman J. L. Spoon's daughter, was elected as her successor. Mr. F. D. Hornaday, Jr., was made assistant superintendent.

Since our last report our revival meetings have been held at Center, Bethel, and Rock Creek, with Revs. Charles Cable, C. L. Spencer, and Earl A. Cook as pulpit help in the order named. We are grateful to these brethren for their gospel messages and the work they helped to do in the community. There were 10 conversions and we have had 19 accessions so far this year. The pastor was pleased to have Rev. A. O. Lindley preach on Sunday afternoon of the meeting at Center, Rev. H. S. B. Thompson at Bethel and Professor Eugene H. Thompson at Rock Creek. These brethren were at their home churches and the people were glad to hear them.

Brothers Lonnie McPherson, William A. Seawell, and Grady Braxton, small son of Mrs. Algie Braxton, have recently returned from the hospital where they had operations. Others are sick in their homes. We hope for all of these a speedy recovery.

The following have remembered the pastor and wife with donations since the last report: Mrs. H. K. Webster, Mrs. John Glenn, Mrs. E. M. Lindley, Mr. J. W. Whitehead, Mrs. Algie Braxton, Mrs. Herbert Foust, Mrs. Edgar Foust, Mrs. J. L. Spoon, Mrs. Dewitt McPherson, Mrs. C. M. Braxton, and Mrs. Clark. They all have our sincere thanks.

We are endeavoring to close our fourth year on this charge in a successful way.

H. L. ISLEY, Pastor.

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Charge, J. B. Trogdon, Pastor, Sept. 26.—Sunday was a good day for us. Our pastor seemed to be at his best and his sermon was enjoyed very much. Due to the revival at Fairfield which has been in progress for some time our revival will begin on the first Sunday in October, not on the fourth Sunday in September as was reported. We extend a cordial invitation to all to attend our revival services.

Our Sunday school is still moving on and all seem to be interested in the study of the Word and may we so study and obey it that it will be a lamp unto our feet and a light to our pathway.

The Christian Endeavor society, we feel, is doing good work; new officers were elected last Sunday night with Mrs. Lola Hill president; Mr. Paul Kersey, vice-president; and Mrs. Paul Kersey, secretary.

NOTE OF THANKS

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway wish to express their appreciation to Rev. J. W. Braxton, who is pastor of the Mount Pleasant M. P. church and his Business Women's Missionary circle, for having them hold their regular monthly meeting Saturday evening, September 24, at their home.

After the meeting, the ladies served a delicious picnic supper, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

Rev. and Mrs. Millaway, also wish to thank them for the surprise pounding which they received.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Jarrell

Avery Jarrell was born September 16, 1885, and departed this life June 24, 1938, age 52 years, 8 months and 8 days.

Brother Jarrell was born in Rutherford county, N. C. He professed faith in Christ at the age of 23 and united with Mount Pleasant church on the Cleveland charge. He was married to Miss Myrtle Turner February 9, 1911. To this union five daughters and two sons were born.

A few years after his marriage, he moved to Mecklenburg county, Va., near Chase City, and when the Friendship Methodist Protestant church was built in 1925 near Chase City, Brother Jarrell and his wife moved their membership to this church where he remained a faithful member until death.

For about 19 years Brother Jarrell was afflicted. He suffered much but bore it patiently.

On Saturday afternoon, June 25, his funeral was conducted at Friendship church by the writer, assisted by Rev. H. W. Landrum, after which the body was laid to rest in the Friendship cemetery to await the Resurrection.

Brother Jarrell leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Jarrell, of Chase City, Va.; five daughters, Mrs. Ima Morris, of Chase City, Va.; Mrs. Edna Towery, of Hopewell, Va.; Mrs. Eloise Yancey, of Clarkville, Va.; Miss Pauline and Tessie Jarrell, of Chase City; and two sons, Fortune and Ivy Jarrell, of Chase City, Va., and many relatives and friends.

JAMES H. TROLINGER, Pastor.

Bell

Helen Marie Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bell, was born September 18, 1931, departed this life August 23, 1938, age 6 years, 11 months and 5 days.

Helen had not been sick, she retired at night seemingly as well as usual; next morning it was learned that some time in the night her spirit had quietly departed this life to be with the Lord.

Helen was a sweet child and had a lovely disposition; she found it easy to make friends.

The funeral was conducted at Friendship Methodist Protestant church, August 24, by Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Black Branch Baptist church, after which the body was laid to rest in the nearby burying ground to await the Resurrection.

To the bereaved family our deepest sympathy goes out to them, and we pray God's blessings upon them in their sorrow.

MARRIED

Cecil-Hilton

On September 2 Mr. Burnie Hilton, of Mt. Pleasant church, and Miss Cora Cecil, of Spring Hill church, were united in matrimony by the writer, in the latter's home.

The bride and bridegroom are fine young people and carry the best wishes of their many friends. Wm. H. NEESE.

Edwards-Ellis

Saturday evening, September 17, Miss Mildred Edwards became the bride of William Wade Ellis. The vows were spoken before Rev. J. P. Pegg in the parsonage of Granville circuit. The ring ceremony was used. Several friends and relatives were present for the occasion.

Mrs. Ellis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Edwards, of Kittrell, N. C., and she is a member of the Union Chapel church.

Mr. Ellis is a son of Mr. T. T. Ellis and the late Mrs. Lizzie S. Ellis, of Henderson, route 1.

Moser-Montgomery

On Friday, September 16, at the Lebanon parsonage Miss Marie Moser became the bride of Mr. Staley Edward Montgomery. The vows were taken in the presence of a few close friends with the ring ceremony of the Methodist Protestant Ritual.

The bride, who is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Moser of Archdale, N. C., appeared wearing royal blue velvet with corresponding accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses and fern. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Montgomery, of High Point, N. C. They left under a shower of rice thrown by friends who had gathered out front for a short honeymoon trip through Western North Carolina.

We wish and expect for this exceptionally fine couple a long and happy married life, and with us there is a host of friends who extend their best wishes.

Harkey-Burleson

Miss Zula Alice Harkey and Charles Spurgeon Burleson were married in Friendship Methodist Protestant church at Plyler Sunday noon, September 4, 1938. The vows were spoken before Rev. Earl A. Cook, the pastor of the church. The ring ceremony of the Methodist Protestant Discipline was used.

Mr. Charles A. Harkey gave his daughter in marriage, while Mr. Burleson was accompanied to the altar by his aunt, Mrs. Fred G. Lentz, of Salisbury.

The bride wore a becoming grey wool suit with dubonnet accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Burleson is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Harkey, of Albemarle. She received her education at Millingport high school, and now holds a position with the Wiscassett Knitting Mills.

Mr. Burleson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonah C. Burleson, of Albemarle. He received his education at New London high school, and now holds a position with Belk's Department store in Albemarle.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Burleson left for a wedding trip to interesting points in Western North Carolina. Upon their return they will be at home on the Albemarle and Concord highway, where they have built and furnished a new home.

Bill was loudly praising his cat as a good mouser, and invited his friend George to see it perform.

"I say," said George, "did you see that, Bill?"

They say it is no trouble to love folks in a pleasant grove. Fine shade and pleasant breezes make it a desirable place to be. Well, here is Love from Pleasant Grove with his quota of subscriptions. Thank you Fred, we know you feel better for having done this and going on to something else that needs doing. Guess you have something else that needs doing? Most of us have. Getting it done is the thing that makes a problem sometimes. We thank Miss Alice Kennedy for sending in this that puts your church over, the largest amount of money received on subscriptions also. Your subsidy is paid, too. That gives you a nice black line all the way through, Pleasant Grove. Thank you!

The whole list looks better for last week than for some time. Just 11 out on subscriptions. Where are all those that were out at this time last year. Hurry up folks, we are waiting for you.

And subsidy, that was not overlooked this time by Mt. Pleasant charge, Graham, pays out, I believe, Friendship church on Haw River, and Tabernacle charge walks over this time and takes her stand by those who have met their apportionment on this. That makes 27 charges out on subsidy. Come on, who will be next. Let us put this part of our work out of the way by finishing at once.

NOTE OF THANKS

The Ladies' Aid society of the St. Paul M. P. church of which Rev. A. D. Shelton is pastor, held their September meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Millaway was given a pleasant surprise, when members of the society presented her with a beautiful dress, on September 12, which was her 69th birthday.

Rev. Mr. Millaway was also remembered by the ladies, who presented him with a large basket of fruit.

In conclusion a bountiful picnic supper was enjoyed by all, with members of the society acting as hostesses.

Rev. and Mrs. Millaway wish to take the opportunity of thanking each and every one for their kind thoughtfulness.

Rev. and Mrs. Millaway also wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hopkins, of Route 5, for a nice chicken they received for Mrs. Millaway's birthday.

Charles Wesley Influenced Christian Worship

Christian worship would indeed be vastly poorer were the hymns of this great writer deleted from the Hymnal. There flowed from the pen of this man, whose piety and purity of life were sufficient to silence the critic of Christianity in his presence, some six thousand hymns. And it was claimed that during the great revivals, there were more converts to Christianity through the singing of hymns than through the preaching of sermons.

While the hymn may appear insignificant when compared to the temple, the temple crumbles and falls while the hymn rides the crests of the waves of time. The hymn may be as volant as breath, but as enduring as the race.

The father and grandfather of Charles Wesley were ministers. His mothers was the product of Puritan culture; a woman remarkable for piety and common sense. Charles Wesley was the father of two famous sons, Charles, Jr., and Samuel, and the grandfather of one of the most famous composers of Church music.

Consider for just a moment how such a hymn as,

"A charge to keep I have,
A God to glorify;
A never dying soul to save,

as moved men. Doubting saints have found strength by it. We shall never forget when at our last General Conference we were all kneeling in prayer as we sought light on the question of Methodist Union, how we were moved as Dr. Stone lifted that grand old hymn in song. A new sense of responsibility to unborn generations seized our souls and called us to forget the "Steps already trod and onward press our way."

And here is another hymn which has long since been a favorite to Christians of every denomination,

"O for a thousand tongues to sing,
My great redeemer's praise,
The glorious of my God and King,
The triumphs of his grace.

"He breaks the power of cancelled sin,
He sets the prisoner free;
His blood can make the foulest clean;
His blood avails for me."

There is nothing divissive in these words. Every one who believes in the Lord Jesus Christ can sing it in unison. It has a universal appeal because it sounds the note of need for every soul.

It is claimed that this hymn was inspired by this statement of Peter Bohler, "Had I a thousand tongues, I would praise Jesus with all of them."

Possibly no hymn writer gave utterance so completely to every mood of the spirit as did Wesley. His hymns were hymns of experience, there was the glow of the Holy Spirit in them. There arose from the soul of the singer new hope, the consciousness of pardon and the courage to press towards the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Wesley, Watts, and Heber as a great spiritual trio, shaping the history of English religious art and English life more powerful and enduring than any other writers of their century.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Chase City Over the Top

A card from Rev. J. H. Trolinger who serves our Church near Chase City, Va., in addition to his work as pastor of Littleton Circuit says that they were mailing a check to Treasurer Allen for Chase City's part of the Annual Conference budget in full. This includes A. C. Expenses, Debt Fund, Church Extension, Superannuates and the assessment for High Point College. Good for Chase City. Let others do likewise. Brother Trolinger says the charge will pay World Service and he thinks they will get their HERALD quota also.

High Point College Has Record Enrollment

I am sure that it will be of great interest to our people everywhere to know that High Point College has the largest enrollment ever. The daily press last week placed the number of 434. Any way, it seems that the buildings are filled to capacity. President and Mrs. Humphreys tendered a reception to the new students recently. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Humphreys and the members of the faculty and the members of the Board of Trustees who live in High Point and their wives. It was a very enjoyable occasion.

A Sunday Morning at Roberta, Rev. Q. L. Joyner, Pastor

Last Sunday morning and afternoon were spent at Roberta, regular Church services being held at the 11 o'clock appointment and the fourth quarterly conference being held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. This Church is just outside the mill village of Roberta some six miles southwest of Concord. The Church building is of wooden construction with a number of Sunday School rooms. The auditorium is of medium size and is very neat. The Sunday School was in session when I arrived and it was very encouraging to see the school when it reassembled. The attendance was 241 as against 122 a year ago. It was stated that the attendance had been almost double the previous year a good deal of the time this year. The auditorium was well-filled at the morning Church hour. During the sermon an occasional "Amen" seemed to urge the minister on and to help him to preach. The quarterly conference in the afternoon was well attended both by the official and the non-official members. Considerable interest was manifested in the work. Brother Joyner reported that he had received sixty-four new members during the year and that the congregations had been good. The salary was reported paid in full to October 1. The Annual Conference interests had all been paid except HERALD Subsidy and the assessment for High Point College. It was reported that subsidy would be sent in right away. This is Brother Joyner's first year on the charge and he and his good wife have greatly endeared themselves to a great many people in the Church. Mrs. Joyner came in for a good deal of praise from the women of the Church for her faithfulness to the work in general and especially to the Women's Work.

Dedicatory Services at China Grove

The evening services last Sunday were at our China Grove Church, Rev. Atlas Ridge, pastor, and were in the form of dedicatory services. A goodly number of people had assembled to witness this happy occasion. Brother Ridge presided over the first part of the services and announced that the regular offering would be taken, there being no need for an extra offering due to the fact that the Church debt had all been paid. It certainly is refreshing to come up to a dedicatory service with no fears as to whether the finances are in hand or not. This Church also is of wooden construction and it also is neat. A fresh coat of paint on the interior had brightened it up considerably. This Church is located in the southern end of China Grove and it is the only Methodist Church in that part of the town. It does not seem now that the Methodist Union will have any adverse effect on this congregation. The organization here was perfected (I believe) in 1933. It has been somewhat of a struggle for this small membership to pay their part toward pastoral support and to pay for their Church but by sacrificing and keeping everlastingly at it, they have reached the goal. In the services Sunday night it was my high privilege both to preach the sermon and to dedicate the Church. The people seemed to appreciate the services very much and there was a general good feeling in the congregation. There was something about the services to make one feel that one was glad to be there.

This is Brother Ridge's first year with this congregation and he divides time with the Spencer Church also. He is engaged in business in Lexington and gives only his Sundays to this work. The charge is not financially able to support a man, so it is necessary for the pastor to have some other work. It seems fortunate for the work that Brother Ridge could give his time to it. Several of the Spencer people were present Sunday night. While the fourth quarterly conference has not yet been held, yet there were vigorous expressions from the people of both congregations in favor of Brother Ridge for next Conference year. I am always glad to find a people who want their pastor back.

Appointment of Committees

I am now at work on the task of appointing committees for the various interests at Conference. When Brother Bates sent me the list of delegates last week there were twelve pastors who had failed to send names, however, I cannot wait longer. One chairman has been given the names of his committee so he can go to work at once. Others will be notified in due time.

Appointments

Sunday, October 9—11 a. m., Midway Church, Rev. J. R. Hutton, pastor.

Sunday, October 9—7:30 p. m., Union Ridge, Forsyth Charge.

Saturday, October 15—7:30 p. m., quarterly conference of the Spring Church Charge at Spring Church.

Sunday, October 16—11 a. m., Lebanon Church, Spring Church Charge.

Sunday, October 16—3:30 p. m., Eden Church, Halifax Charge; Bethesda in quarterly conference at 7:30 p. m.

And lo, I am with you, even unto the end of the age.—Jesus.

God-Speed

"The Lord love thee
And keep thee
Upon the land sea;
And cause His face
In every place
To shine divine on thee.

"The Lord bless thee
And rest thee
Where'r thy journeys be;
And never cease
To give His peace
By day and night to thee.

"The Lord guide thee
And bring thee
To where the home shores be;
And every hour
In joyous power
His blessings lay on thee."

This little poem has been given thousands of sick people who have sought health in Asheville; as they returned to their homes to die, or to be fully restored to health, Rev. J. S. Williams, the "Good Samaritan" of that city placed this beautiful poem in their hands. How fitting.

Life is, after all, just one long day: morning, noon, afternoon, night. Most lives are like an April day; sunshine and showers; laughter and tears, joys, sorrows, prosperity and adversity. —Christian Reisner.

Faith as defined by Robert Louis Stevenson:
"To go on forever and fail, and go on again,
To be mauled to the earth and arise,
To believe, with the half of a broken hope for a pillow by night,
That somehow the right is the right."

Character Counts

Apostolic zeal glows in St. Paul; the mighty struggle with the Judaizers finds embodiment in St. Peter; Onesimous foretold the deliverance of the oppressed; Polycarp symbolizes the spirit of the Christian Martyr in every age; Martin Luther, as a reformer in the Church; John Wesley as stripping religion of its theological paraphernalia down to the heart-warming experience. Yes, what a man is always comes to the surface in the days of trial and sufferings—it is then that character counts, where it exhibits its greatest power.

The Sight of Paul's Bonds Makes Men Bold

There is a most interesting statement in St. Paul's Epistle to the Philippians when he speaks of how the sight of his bonds made men bold to speak the word without fear. How unusual this seems. So often when men see how others are punished or suffer for doing a thing they refrain from it. But these knowing that Paul's bonds came to him because he preached Christ Jesus as Lord, they became bold to declare what was in their heart—how they felt about it. Is it not true that if the challenge came to more of us these days to suffer greatly for Christ's sake and we did it, many others who are now weak in faith and fearful in their conduct would become bold to declare their faith in Jesus?

"As Good Stewards"

The Apostle Peter's idea of stewardship was quite different from the idea of giving a few dollars to some benevolent cause and count it off the income once a year, as the manner of some is. In fact stewarship is more than giving money even though it be a gift to a worthy cause; the gift must be prompted by the proper motive and given wisely. So much for giving. But stewardship implies more than giving away money. It includes the proper acquirement and disposal of all material substances.

In a little pamphlet "Graphic Horizons of Stewards," by by Dr. H. C. Weber, there are set forth five false philosophies of stewardship. The Pig-Pen philosophy which has the motive of indulgence; having to do with the gratification of appetite through drink, narcotics, lust, etc. The Bingo philosophy which has for its motive a cheap, easy existence, and is often expressed in stealing, racketeering, fraud, gambling, etc. Another called Main street philosophy, its motive is greed, seeks money, power, culture, social position, etc., for self. The next is called Pagan philosophy, its motive is self-will and is expressed through selfish living, arrogance, exploitation, etc. Then there is still a more dangerous philosophy, Materialistic philosophy of stewardship. It does not believe in God, nor immortality, etc. These all are false and often ensnare people with good intentions into unworthy practices and wrong conceptions of life.

The true philosophy of stewardship begins with the acknowledgment of God as the Creator and Giver of every good and perfect gift and that we are partners with Him in the management of this wealth.

And so the good steward begins with the proper conception of the importance of and the value of things. One can hardly be a good steward of the manifold mercies of God so long as he has a wrong conception of these mercies. If he thinks they are his to do with them as he pleases he will not please the Lord with any of his disposals. If he has not accepted them as from the Lord and is not devoting them to causes which he knows are pleasing to the Lord, he does not meet the requirements of a good steward. And if he has not committed his life with his possessions to a crusade for the Kingdom, to bring it in with his life, his words, his means, then he has failed to realize the meaning of being a good steward.

Do we not stand greatly in need of the correct understanding of stewardship? While it is often stated that the major part of the wealth of the world is in the hands of Church members, and that the most influential people in the world are allied with the Christian Church, yet does not the cause of Christianity often suffer because there is no man or woman willing to take up its challenge and to give themselves without stint to the promotion of its enterprises?

Yes the Church has numbers, it has wealth, it has influential people, it has educated people; but it sadly lacks in good stewards. There are by no means enough of us who are ready, yea glad, to give and be spent for the cause of righteousness even though our names shall never be known, and we never hear a word of praise for our devotion. Were just a few of the members of each Church willing this day to seek faithfully, prayerfully to become good stewards of the manifold mercies of God, the cause of Christ would exhibit a new and larger life in the community of that Church.

Calvary Church Entertains the Annual Conference

This is the second time this Church has invited the Conference to meet with them. We were royally entertained before and all of us are looking forward with pleasure to being the guest of this splendid group of Church workers next month.

It is quite a task for a Church to house, feed and furnish rooms for committees to meet, heat, lights, janitor service for two hundred men and women. And as we know by experience much about this undertaking, we appreciate the more the willingness of this Church to invite us to meet with them.

Calvary is among our younger churches; many of its members were members of Grace Church until this Church was organized, and since that time several Methodist Protestant people held their membership out of Greensboro joined the Church and many, we suspect, who were members of other denominations cast their lot with them and helped to make a very fine body of Christian workers.

Pastor Stubbins has also had experience in handling Conferences, so we know we are not falling into the hands of novices and therefore will be taken the very best care of during the few days of our stay there.

Calvary has one advantage in location, being near the center of the Annual Conference, so that quite a few, possibly twenty-five per cent of the members of the Conference, will return to their homes at night, thus relieving to some extent the care of finding homes for them.

To some of us these annual sessions mean hard work, meeting with committees, attending throughout the sessions of the Conference to the extent that the gathering ceases to be a social occasion for us. We sometimes envy those pastors and delegates who have little or no committee work to do and who find much time for renewal of old acquaintances and for making new ones. It is usually this group which holds its session on the Church grounds and stations the preachers each day—matters but little to them if their appointments do not "stick," they get a great deal of "kick" out of it just the same.

At this Conference delegates to the Uniting Conference will be elected. North Carolina is entitled to fourteen, seven lay and seven ministerial members. Again, it is believed it may also be the last, except one, session we shall hold. More than likely the last session will be held in 1939 when the Conference will officially merge with the other Methodists of the state in forming new conferences for North Carolina. May we not be much in prayer for the very best Conference of all the years.

SUMMARY OF 1938 SUMMER CONFERENCE SCHOOLS

Beginning in Missouri the first week in June and continuing to the end of the series, with Michigan late in August, thirty-two summer training projects were conducted under the auspices of the Board of Christian Education in cooperation with twenty-six Conference councils. To these came about 3,000 students and workers to whom were issued some 4,000 First and Second Series units of the New Standard Leadership Training Curriculum. About 1,200 signed Life Service Declaration cards in the decision services, and the popular attendance reached almost the 10,000 mark. Four hundred and nine First Certificates of Progress and five Second Certificates of Progress were issued. Two hundred and twenty-six faculty members and a large number of staff workers gave of their time, aside from their already busy program, in order to make this tremendous enterprise a success. In addition to the volunteer workers, the following field workers contributed much to this series: Miss Lillie Foster, Mrs. Amos Banks, Mr. Glenn Fickel, and Rev. J. Clyde Auman.

This is a growing enterprise. During the past summer, new schools were established in the Florida, Tennessee, and Virginia Conferences. This work has now reached every Conference in the denomination with the exception of a few mission conferences.

This program of training, which sends back to the churches a great army of willing workers, has been financed upon registration fees, making it unnecessary to draw these funds from our World Service account.

To the officials, members of the faculty, pastors, and others who have helped to make this summer a success, we are indeed grateful.

THE MORE MILITARISM, THE MORE FASCISM

Fascism is martial law. . . . It has taken some time to recognize Fascism for what it is. Men have not seen a mobilization lasting many years, preceding any declaration of war, preceding even a clear decision as to when the war was to be declared or against whom. . . . All collectivism, whether it be Communist or Fascist, is military in method, in purpose, in spirit, and can be nothing else. . . . There is only one purpose to which a whole society can be directed by a deliberate plan. That purpose is war, and there is no other.—Walter Lippmann.

The Twins Go Over

Siler City and Liberty churches reach their full quotas this week. This is the work of two very efficient Herald agents, Miss Sallie Smith for Siler City and Mrs. Gregson, for Liberty. Brother Aubert Smith is the efficient pastor. We thank all who are cooperating with us to keep the Herald out of the red this year.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

Are Philosophers Becoming Less Popular?

My class in Philosophy was asked this question: What conditions exist today that tend to make the philosopher less popular than in former days? Here are some of the answers given.

First, Philosophy is too abstract for the majority of people. Most folks are looking for something concrete, practical, and less speculative. This is an age of doing rather than thinking. While there are still many meditative minds, the rank and file find deep, sustained reflection rather uninteresting, even boresome. And the philosopher, you know, as the very name implies, is a ''lover of wisdom.''

Second, the philosopher has too much competition. It takes time to think, and most people would rather turn to the movies, the radio, the open highways, and newspapers. No longer, I think, is conversation an accepted form of entertainment. We must have excitement and show. In such a social situation the serious and abstract interpreter of life hardly has a place. He has too much competition. Speed is king, and we have little time for moral, reflective thought.

Third, philosophical thinking is not being developed. Even in colleges you can scarcely obtain an audience for a debate or for an oratorical contest, yet thousands flock to the stadium to see the brawny lads carry the pigskin. Is it possible that thinking is becoming a lost art in academic halls? President Hutchins of the University of Chicago, seems to think so. Who ever heard of a band of students reaching the campus two weeks ahead of schedule in order to examine the library or get a running start on reading philosophy books? The idea is absurd, but scores must rush in early and limber up for the football tilts. No, we are not popularizing the thought life of our institutions. Philosophers can be developed like you develop anything else, swimmers, musicians, speakers, dancers, or worshippers—you have to put the stress on it and give it recognition. Put the premium on thinking as you now put it on football and you will again turn out young Platos, Spencers, and Aristotles.

Fourth, thinking is upsetting, and people dislike to get into it. Life runs easier when you ask fewer questions. Many old sweet notions will evaporate under the searching light of philosophical disputation. When the Thinker announced that the world was round he ''dug up more snakes than he could kill.'' But still he was right and we now thank him for his courage and insight.

Fifth, the psychologists warn against too much deep, introvertic meditation anyway. They suggest that too much problem hunting tends to disintegrate the mind, especially if one makes himself the object of his meditation. Thus, some students argued that scholarship itself may turn us away from the philosophical mood into regions of more concrete, objective considerations.

Sixth, science now gives us many answers formerly offered by the philosopher. There is less need of speculation when the scientist can settle the matter with a few words. At one time men would think and wonder what was happening to the moon when it went into eclipse. Now it is settled, and you can find that out a full year in advance by consulting any almanac. Or men once did speculate about the wisdom and justice of an epidemic of sickness. Now they know that germs cause sickness and try to avoid contacts with afflicted persons. So we now turn to science for many facts once left almost entirely to the philosopher.

Seventh, our universal emphasis upon material goods has overshadowed our reflective friends—the philosophers. What care we for Socrates when higher wages is the goal? What popularity can Thales expect unless his teachings will shorten the day's work or put more money in the bank? No, our age is too materialistic for such contemplative leaders, and the public seems to say, Why study Browning; he won't get you anything! We measure men by the golden yardstick, and the philosopher has never been closely identified with the ''yellow metal.''

SPIRITUAL WORSHIP

International Sunday School Lesson for October 9, 1938

By Rev. J. C. Madison

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24.

Golden Text—''God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth.'' John 4:24.

We can appreciate this second commandment only when we think of it as spoken in a day when idols and images were the prevalent objects of worship. These were the gods that most people worshipped and supposedly they were possessed of supernatural powers controlling the destinies of men. When Moses, the leader of Jehovah worship, went upon the mountain and did not return as soon as the people thought he should they turned to a type of worship with which they had formerly been familiar, the worship of a golden calf. In my mind this second commandment is another way of emphasizing the fact that Jehovah must be first in the devotions of the Israelite people. Time and again when Jews married gentiles in those early days and idols and images were brought into the household these idols soon became the chief objects of devotion. So the writer here is saying that this shall not be.

Also in this second commandment we have the suggested fact that no imperfect form can represent God. He is too great, too pure, too perfect for that. Look at the golden calf, is God like that? Look at a stature, is He like that? Can anything that men make suggest the full purity and goodness of God? We think not, therefore even though we thought of an image as a symbol rather than the real still it would serve to cheapen our appreciation of God as He is. Offer your sacrifices to a tree long enough and one will soon come to think that God is like that. Christ is the only One Who has truly revealed God to men and yet it was not His physical form but rather the spirit of His life. Christ did not ask people to worship Him but rather God the Father Whose perfection was revealed in Him. The relationship that exists between God and man is to be a spiritual relationship independent of all images or physical forms. Christ taught us how to approach God in confidence, to deal with Him in honor and to trust ourselves into His keeping. Independent of time or place He taught us how to worship Him in spirit and in truth.

A great many people find their religion slipping at this very point. This is probably because it is so very difficult for the average individual to think in terms of the abstract, or to sense the presence of that which they cannot see, hear or touch. We do not use images today but we do associate God with certain places. It is interesting to note just how many people say they cannot feel at home in any Church except the one in which they were reared and so refuse to unite with any other. Their religion is tied up with and limited by a definite place and building. They seem to think that God cannot be worshipped anywhere else. Others limit God by some narrow definition which they have neatly outlined, and so cannot think beyond that little definition and will not accept any truth not included therein. We are forever trying to limit God with our own limitations, forever trying to keep Him within the realm of our own imperfections. We are unwilling to meet the demands of faith that we press on into the mystery of the unknown unafraid until we see more clearly and understand more perfectly and so can worship in spirit and in truth. It is a tragic thing to be unwilling to meet the demands of fellowship with God and so become satisfied with a dumb calf.

The statement, "I . . . am a jealous God," is interesting. Even this illustrates the tendency of men to think of God in terms of human weakness. Religion at its best does not conceive of God as being possessed of this sinful trait of jealousy. Nevertheless we do recognize that this ancient writer was getting at a great truth, the truth that God will not take second place in a life, that He will not allow other things to come first, if He would then He would not be God. Put God first in your devotions is the great message of this lesson; let no idol, Church or theology come between you and Him. Wealth, honor, position, family, yes even your own life also is to be pushed in the background as we take our crosses to follow Christ and so seek to serve and worship God in spirit and in truth.

DISTRICT RALLY

The Fifteenth District Rally will meet at Concord Church October 9, beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 o'clock in the evening. The following churches are included: Roberta, Kannapolis, Concord, Mills Grove, Love's Grove, Friendship, Pine Bluff, Albemarle and Porter.

Hoping all the churches can be represented.

C. G. Isley, Chairman.

There are several pastoral charges so nearly out with their Herald quotas that a few renewals or new subscriptions would put them over. Now is a good time, Brother Pastor and Herald Agent to do this before the rush of the few days before Conference mobilizes all the forces upon paying pastor's salary and Conference claims.

VOTE-HUNTING DELEGATES

The Advocate was hoping against hope. Two weeks ago, on this page, we said, "No laymen in the Advocate's territory, so far as we have heard, are openly soliciting votes, and we fervently hope the disease won't break out."

It was a pious hope, but the disease has broken out. A friend writes, "I have on the desk before me three letters from candidates for election to the Uniting Conference."

What a pity; and what a shame!

Two weeks ago we said, "A few self-seeking members of the Uniting Conference could so warp its decisions that the new Church would be malformed at its brith."

Nobody can argue the other side of that proposition. There isn't any other side.

And the only way to prevent these would-be delegates from thus damaging the new Church is to keep them out of the Uniting Conference.

They are known, because they have written letters. Therefore any voter who so desires may easily avoid writing their names when marking his ballot.

Some pushful candidates may be otherwise good Methodists and faithful Christians. But they have fallen behind in their Scripture reading.

The uniting of the three churches, writes another brother, who does not speak without thinking, may produce more problems than it solves.

It surely will if self-seeking and sectional pushfulness and new rivalries added to the familiar old ones are in any way encouraged.

A good start toward their discouragement can be made on the floor of every Conference when the election of delegates is the next order of business.—Central Advocate.

A FOREIGN-BORN CITIZEN SPEAKS

The Constitution of the United States is the political Bible of American Democracy—that, and nothing less: certainly not an indefinite something fashioned after the Delphian Oracle, and ready always to return either a favorable or an ambiguous answer (as some persons think) to any quixotic question that may be submitted to it for solution. Nor is it similar to or characteristic of the grotesque symbolsims of the aboriginal Totem Poles. Nor yet has it anything in its splendid solidarity suggestive of the man-about-town, who makes an elaborate display of his cane in public to impress people with his false dignity and refinement as substitutes for the mental equipment he does not possess. The Constitution is, in fine, an ironclad, fool-proof document expressive of the patriotic enactments of our Fathers, who made, dedicated and bequeathed it to and for all succeeding generations of Americans, as a sacred trust by which to conserve inviolate the Unity of the Nation.

These things I had in mind when I surrendered my allegiance to the country of my nativity and pledged my loyalty to the United States. It meant to me a new birth, as on baptism—a patriotic natal day, in and by virtue of my solemn declaration to adhere to and defend the Constitution. That was many years ago, and I have remained true to my oath and pledge ever since that time.

And, now, with the hand of Time completing its last circle on the dial of the years for me, my one remaining ambition is that I may be laid to rest in the country of my choice, secure in the hope and belief, strengthened by prayer, that the Stars and Stripes will forever wave above my grave, as a token and pledge that Constitutional freedom will be an endless benediction to the people of America, first among whom are those who lived and bled and died to uphold the honor and prestige of their country.

Am I mistaken in that expression of faith, and is my feeling of security groundless? It is beginning to look that way. In nearly every state of the Union at the present time there are well-organized Fascist, Nazi and Communist parties of both men and women, who are boldly and unblushingly violating their oath of allegiance to the United States, and that without let or hindrance by the Government. As meek as Moses they were when they took the oath admitting them to the privileges of citizenship; as traitorous as Judas not long afterwards, parading boldly in their un-American, anti-Constitutional Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini uniforms and other pro-foreign regalia, and blending in their boastful utterances the non-assimilative dictator principles of the country of their origin with the true principles of the country of their supposed adoption; deceiving a few; insulting the many. The Communists are even allowed to have a party ticket of their own in our national elections, and that at the expense of loyal taxpayers. How utterly absurd and inconsistent all these things are! And how can they be reconciled to the emphatic, unequivocal statement contained in the Constitution?

> Section 4, of Article 4, of the Constitution requires—that the United States shall guarantee to every state of this Union a Republican form of government, and shall protect them against invasion.

Can any sane person, conversant with the activities of Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini and their lieutenants, think for an instant that there is anything in their methods of government suggestive of or related to a republican self-ruling organization?

"No man can serve two masters," is the decree of Him whose word cannot be revoked or modified with impunity by any act of man. That means that no person can be loyal to opposite principles at one and the same time. Either he will be loyal to one, or disloyal to all. Hence the questionable and unenviable position of the would-be hyphenates in the United States. For example, those iron-ring Italian women in Chicago; the disloyal, anti-Christian priest participants, who blest the rings; and men in their Fascist uniforms; all exhibiting their adherence to the principle of the wholesale slaughter of those who are opposed to Mussolini regime. Witness also the approval of this same un-American display by the Church dignitaries in Rome, who celebrated the said slaughter in honor of the King's distinction of being now the Emperor of Abyssinia, which distinction, I am pleased to be able to state, the United States does not acknowledge; though tardy the country of my choice is in another respect. Had the United States, or other major power where the people rule, dispatched only four war ships to block the entrance to the Suez Canal, at the first intimation of the invasion of Abyssinia by Mussolini, and notified that violator of human rights that this country had assumed the protectorate over Abyssinia, there would have been no slaughter of the Ethiopians, no attempt on the part of Mussolini and Hitler to gobble up Spain, and no like attempt by the Japanese, under the aegis of Mussolini and Hitler, in China. All would have recognized that the great democracies were disposed to utilize all of their resources for the protection of the weaker nations; and, as a result, there would be Peace on Earth today. Neither would there be any Fascist, Nazi or Communist aspirations to dominate this Constitutional government of, for, and by the people of America.—John E. Shea in Supreme Council Bulletin.

HOW CAN LAYMEN GET BETTER PREACHERS?

Who is to blame that in our time there are so few great preachers? The laymen themselves are not entirely free of responsibility. They have applied "go-getter" ideals to the ministry. They have sought for preachers who could "thrill" them and stir their emotions, men of the hail-fellow-well-met type who were "good mixers." They have set up the standards of the efficiency experts for leaders who, of all men, should be allowed time enough and freedom enough to develop their powers in the art of gospel proclamation.

What is the layman who wants better preaching to do? His first thought is to "seek a change," to try to get the present incumbent of his pulpit "well placed," and to find another and a better preacher. The average layman almost invariably overlooks the possibility of helping to improve his own minister by conference with him, by the frequent expression of appreciation for his good points, by practical suggestions and real co-operative helpfulness. And yet in the conduct of his own every-day business affairs the layman is familiar with the process of "making over" men who have latent possibilities. In some organizations, training schools for employees are maintained. A system of bonuses for good work is often used as a stimulus. Wise employers tactfully point out to their workers serious shortcomings in their method and approach, and indicate ways of increasing their usefulness. We recently heard the head of a business institution declare that for years he had plowed his profits back into the business in salaries and improvements to make it stronger for the future. Physicians often, as a first step toward a cure, build up a patient or give him a blood transfusion.

There are lessons here for laymen. Faced with the problem of better preaching, let them sound this slogan: "Back to the study." For no man can preach, really preach, who fails to get a firm grip both spiritually and intellectually upon the profound truths of the Bible. The late Bishop Charles H. Fowler, in discussing with young ministers the high importance of learning to preach, said, in substance: "Spend all of Monday morning in your study, all of Tuesday morning, all of Wednesday morning, all of Thursday morning, all of Friday morning, all of Saturday morning, working every day on the sermon for Sunday morning." And then he added, "On Sunday evening, holler."

"Back to the study." Let the call be sounded everywhere throughout Methodism. Preachers must return to theology in the broadest and deepest sense of the word. For unless they master their science they are sure to fail. What would laymen think of an architect who declared that no blue prints were needed for the construction of a building, and advocated that the carpenter and bricklayer "just go ahead" and build the building; of a doctor who held as useless the study of medical science and depended on his own intuitions in the treatment of disease; of a lawyer who dismissed with contempt the study of cases and "just used his own judgment"?—Zion's Herald.

"SO SORRY"

The unjustifiable bombing and consequent sinking of an American naval vessel, with loss of life, has centered thought in America upon the all-important war drama being enacted in the Far East. It is true that Nippon has officially apologized, but these apologies are becoming rather tiresome. Suave, diplomatic gestures, together with all the facial registrations of sorrow that an erstwhile expressionless Japanese Government representative can muster up, are hardly sufficient to undo a very serious offense against the United States Government.

The making of reparations, including the payment of an indemnity, cannot bring back the human lives that were needlessly sacrificed when the "Panay" was sunk by Japanese bombs, without apparent rhyme or reason. The making of promises is not in itself sufficient to ameliorate the great wrong visited upon the American flag has been wantonly fired upon; American citizens have lost their lives, and the sovereignty of this country has been callously insulted.

Japanese mental processes are peculiar, if not enlightening. For example, an army of conquest moves into Chinese territory. Coming into contact with Chinese troops, hostilities ensue and fire is exchanged. The Japanese, thereby, are terribly insulted. They have been fired upon, and it becomes their duty to pursue and punish the insolent Celestials. Penetrating deeper and deeper into the interior, which is exactly the thing desired, the aggressors take cities and towns, aye, even entire provinces, at the point of the bayonet, well covered by field artillery. Always they are the injured party seeking redress.

Should an enterprising war correspondent ask the commanding officer of the Japanese troops just what his force is doing on Chinese soil, the bland reply might conceivably be that it was purely coincidental; or that they were there to engage in a few harmless war maneuvers and had been fired upon without any provocation by some stupid Chinese, who had the temerity to object to the presence of Nippon's heavily armed sons. This is a good example of Japanese logic.

We are aware that a militaristic bloc rules Japan and dictates her foreign policy. The civilian population of that country is said to deprecate the mailed-fist operations of Nippon in the Far East and is inclined to be more humane and considerate of sister nations than the jingoistic saber-rattlers who appear to be running things generally in the Land of the Rising Sun. Many believe that, in view of recent events, this nation will be forced to adopt a firm attitude and let it be known, in no uncertain terms, that the United States will not tolerate further Fascist aggressions against its nationals.

The President's famous Chicago speech strongly implied the advocacy of "quarantining" Japan. This action, if put into effect, might seriously cripple Japan's foreign trade but (while of a salutary nature), would not necessarily defeat her outlaw policy of flagrantly violating the rights of neutrals.

Japan's future activities, which will be closely watched from many quarters, may definitely decide if sterner measures should be adopted against her by the Government of the United States.—L. W. in Supreme Council Bulletin.

TWELVE KINDS OF SNOW RECOGNIZED BY SCIENCE

To most of us to whom snow only means a job of shoveling, it may help a bit (at the next siege of back-breaking exercise) to learn that scientists classify snow into at least twelve different varieties. Right off, there is falling snow and fallen snow. That's easy. And some of us have recently learned about powder snow through the present trend to skiing.

But did you ever hear of sand snow, or wild snow, or sun crust or rain crust snow?

Let's start with falling snow. It is precipitation frozen into some type of crystalline form. When it hits the ground it becomes fallen snow. At first fallen snow is powder snow, soft, fluffy and feathery and not unchanged from its in-the-air condition. Skiers look for it.

But powder snow, if it comes to earth at very low temperatures, may form sand snow on which neither a ski nor sled will glide. Greenland explorers have reported sand snow. Wild snow, is another form of powder snow which falls in a complete calm at low temperature and is immensely unstable.

Following first contact snow enters the stage of settling snow. It becomes settled snow which can take the close-lying powdery form which makes the best of all skiing.

The next stage in snow's evolution is to pass from the new to the old snow classification and the state of new firn snow is reached, where the snow is becoming granular and compacted. Variations of firn snow include the sun crust and rain crust forms where melting occurs, and then freezing, with a crust resulting.

We must not be cowardly, must not be hampered by fears that are not well founded. We stand in our own light when we refuse to go forward, when we say that a thing cannot be done and then admit that we never tried to do it.—Nthan Howard Gist.

THE DIARY OF A DICTIONARY

I'm supposed to be pocket-size. When I'm in Ted's coat pocket I'm a tight fit, but in Betty's sweater pocket I bump about and sometimes fall out when's she afraid of being late to school and starts to run. You see, I am always the same size, but the pockets are not.

I got this idea of writing about my daily life because Ted and Betty always use me when they are writing the lives of the great, like George Washington and Benjamin Franklin and Louisa Alcott and Joan of Arc.

I'm not noted and famous myself, but I'm useful in this life-writing business. I'm well up on the spelling of words like character and career and achievements. I never had any of those things myself, but I know what they are. I can tell you in a few words exactly what they are, I can tell in words that anybody can understand.

I like to explain the meanings of words, but sometimes I wish people would learn the alphabet. Of course every one knows that A comes first and Z last, but if people would only learn the next-door-letter neighbors of U and T and H and the others, my pages wouldn't be worn so thin by fingers that fumble. Twenty-six letters aren't so very many to learn—but you'd be surprised to find how many people don't know where to find them in their exact places in the alphabet. Just try being a dictionary and see how it feels to have somebody turn their pages twice as often as they need to be turned.

But if I can't speak up and tell people where to look for my words, I can settle a quarrel. I've often done it! Some one says, "That's the way I spell it!" And some one else says, "No, it's this way." Then a third somebody, usually a mother or daddy or a teacher, says, "Hadn't you better get the dictionary?" How happy and useful I feel when I hear those words!

But sometimes it takes me a long time to settle a dispute because people don't know where to find me. A big unabridged dictionary has a fine stand of its own and a place in the library, but I'm often on the floor or behind the glider, or—once I was—I hate to tell it—but I was once actually in the waste-basket. How I got there I don't know—but the trash man pulled me out and gave me back to Betty.

I have a man's name on my top cover—Webster is the name, but not Daniel; his brother Noah was the dictionary man of that family. I have heard of other people who have written dictionaries. Long ago in England a man named Samuel Johnson made a great big dictionary. Whoever makes dictionaries has to do a lot of studying and writing. That's why I'm so proud of my family; they're workers.

"I'd like to tell you about the book-store where I lived when I was new and the first boy who bought me and gave me to Ted and Betty. I haven't done any great d-e-e-d-s, but I have my place in life especially when school is in session. I am glad I'm I, but I can't tell you any more about my life because I hear somebody calling, "Where is that dictionary?"
—Frances Kirkland.

"SUFFERED UNDER PONTIUS PILATE"

The Church has always suffered under world power and State denomination and never more so than now. If she has accepted favors from the State it has been at the price of her soul. Today in many countries the alternative is extinction as a true Christian Church or submission to the State. In every so-called Christian country the Church's values, principles, and ideals are openly set aside for practical purposes and worldly methods used. Then the world turns and points at Christian countries using the methods of the world, the flesh, and the devil in their dealings with each other and adds that the Church has failed. She has not failed. She is suffering under Pontius Pilate and being crucified. The less she suffers the more will evil triumph; the more she suffers the less will evil triumph. We know that unemployment, poverty, slums, child labor, the profits made by traffic in the weaknesses, vices, and sins of men, and wars are not acts of God but acts of men spurred on by world ideals and power. Efforts are being made to ally the Church with such things. At her best she has refused. The prophecy continues, "The third day He rose again from the dead." There are many signs today of a resurrection of society through the power of an undefeated Church. The conscience of society is being aroused and enlightened. Countries are growing more responsive to the needs of their people and nations are getting much more sensitive on the subject of war. Pontius Pilate still makes the Church suffer, but sufferings make for power and the world will surely rise from the death into which it is plunged and live more and more as that kingdom for whose coming we pray in the Lord's Prayer.—From the Los Angeles Churchman.

CHRIST'S LOVE OF CHILDREN

Christ's own love of children, and the divine words He spoke about them, if they cannot be said to have created the love of parents for their children, have at all events immensely deepened and refined it. The love of heathen fathers and mothers for their offspring is a rude and animal propensity, in comparison with the love for children which reigns in our Christian homes. He lifted childhood up, as he raised so many other weak and despised things, and set it in the midst. If the patter of little feet on the stairs and the sound of little voices in the house are music to us, and if the pressure of little fingers and the touches of little lips can make us thrill with gratitude and prayer, we owe this sunshine of life to Jesus Christ. By saying, "Suffer the little children to come unto me," he converted the home into a Church, and parents into His ministers, and it may be doubted whether He has not by this means won to Himself as many disciples in the course of the Christian ages as even by the institution of the Church itself. Perhaps the lessons of mothers speaking of Jesus, and the examples of Christian fathers, have done as much for the success of Christianity as the sermons of eloquent preachers or the worship of assembled congregations. Not once or twice, at all events, has the religion of Christ, when driven out of the Church, found an asylum in the home; and there have been few of the great teachers of Christendom who have not derived their deepest convictions from the impressions made by their earliest domestic environment.—James Stalker, D.D.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SECRETARIES

The posters on India are off the press! At the National Women's Convention in Tiffin, Ohio, it was voted that the Board of Missions should prepare a poster of pictures of our missionaries and mission work in India to be used for poster, scrapbook work, etc., in connection with the study books on India this year. These posters are off the press and ready to be used in connection with the study books on India.

The price of this material is three cents per poster or 25c per dozen posters. Please order your supply from Miss Bettie S. Brittingham, 516 N. Chharles St., Baltimore, Maryland.

I feel sure these pictures from our own work in India will add much to the study on India, especially in the children's groups.

THE MINNIS FUND

Because of the love, respect, and deep admiration I have for Mrs. H. C. Nicholson and the Minnises also, I am calling your attention again this week to the Minnis Fund. Mrs. Nicholson has done her part and is still working hard to see that the Minnis salary is paid. She has had some results, of which she is very proud, but not what she would like, and certainly not what it should be. So let's unite forces in our local churches and put this thing over. See that your church sends something within the next few days to the Minnis Fund. There is very little any one person can do, but united we can do much. "For in unity there is strength."

Some one has well said, "Whether one goes to the foreign field as a missionary depends upon his call, his preparation, and his acceptance by the mission board; but whether a believer in Christ is a missionary or not is never open to choice." For to be a Christian in reality is to be a missionary. We cannot all go to foreign fields, but we can help by giving. I am reminded of a little verse I have just read in the Record about our budget,

"How wonderful a budget is,
It lives and so I love it!"

Another writer has said, if we could realize that Christ is in the perpetual incarnation of human needs everywhere and that, if we give the cup of salvation to the parched lips of India or China, we minister unto Him who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Mr. and Mrs. Minnis are whole-heartedly in their work in India. I know from personal observation and conversation. Mr. Minnis spent a week in our home a year or so ago. Mrs. Minnis and the children visited us also. I feel they can truly say with the poet,

"Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray,
This is my work, my blessing, not my doom,
Of all who live, I am the one by whom
This work can best be done in the right way."

We have promised to pay this salary. So for the next few minutes, will you think seriously upon this question? What is a promise? Then pray, and we believe you will give. For—

"To know is to love,
To love is to give,
And to give is to live."

MRS. B. L. HEAVNER.

MISSIONARY EDUCATION

We are now entering into the second half of our missionary year. I hope you already have your programs outlined for the fall and winter work for some real constructive missionary work. If you do not have your plans made and would like to have something different in your circles or auxiliary meetings, why not use a chapter each month in your circles from the book, "Moving Millions," or from "The American City and the Church"? Both books are full of fine materials to use in building a program. Then at the end of the book have an all-day meeting. Serve a lunch and each person tell something that impressed you most from the lessons used. This will be a fine way to study missions. I would like to suggest to those of you who get the Missionary Record that you draw a name of some one who does not get the Record and call her your Record Pollyanna, and let her have your Missionary Record to read. The Record also has an abunadnce of material for use in church programs. See your Record agent and tell her you will help her to get several new subscriptions. It's only 75c per year. The book, "Moving Millions," is 50c. This is on India. "The American City and Its Church" is 60c. Also another good Home book, "My Community, My Church, and Me," for 35c. These books and the Missionary Record can be secured from the M. P. Book Concern, 516 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md. Hope to have a good report from each Secretary of Missionary Education at the close of this year.

If I can serve you in any way, let me know.

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD,
Secretary Missionary Education,

IN APPRECIATION

These worsd are not written in the form of an obituary, for I do not have sufficient facts to make an obituary complete. But I am writing a word of appreciation of Brown Neville, one of the best men I ever served as pastor. For seven years I visited in his home, even after he left the Eden community and moved to Weldon, where he retired from farming as a business and settled down to live out his remaining days enjoying the association of his children and grandchildren, relatives and friends.

When Brother Neville left Eden church to live in Weldon, there was not a single member there but regretted to see him go. He looked after the financial welfare of his church, he was always a close friend to his pastor, he prayed, he shouted when he felt like it, in fact, he was one of the most spiritually minded men I ever met.

Eden church at the suggestion of the pastor presented him with a gold medal with this inscription engraved upon it: "H. B. Neville, in appreciation of forty years as a faithful steward of Eden Methodist Protestant Church." I never shall forget his tears of joy as he tried in broken speech to tell the folks how he loved them and how he appreciated this gift.

He often told me that when he went to heaven he wanted me to say the last words over his body. In his last days when he became so feeble, he often reminded his loved ones of his request to me.

He went away not to return, Saturday morning early, September 24, 1938. The funeral services were held in Eden church, Sunday, September 25, with the writer in charge, assisted by Revs. Robertson of the M. E. Church, South, and Fountain of the Baptist church, both of these being pastors in Weldon. A great throng of people, and the great profusion of flowers, showed something of the high esteem in which he was held.

We offer to his bereaved wife the consolations of the Gospel, and the children who survive him, who will miss his wise counsel, the promised guidance of Him who is able to make all grace abound.

There are some 20 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren, we know will miss grandpa, but the good life that he lived before all of you should be an inspiration as well as a consolaton to know that he has gone where all the faithful go.

I feel such a personal loss in Brother Neville's going that I am writing these words to let it be known that I shall miss him, for I loved him.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

"WORKERS TOGETHER WITH GOD"

Christian Endeavor Topic for October 16

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings

Monday, October 10—Pleasing God. John 8:29.

Tuesday, October 11—Chosen to work with God. Isa. 43:1-7.

Wednesday, October 12—Working with God's Spirit. I Cor. 12:1-12.

Thursday, October 13—Starting to work with God. Robb. 6:17-23.

Friday, October 14—Jesus working with God. John 5:17-20.

Saturday, October 15—God working in us. Eph. 2:10, 19-22.

The Text—Jas. 1:5-9; Ps. 90:16-17; I Cor. 3:9.

Come, let us use the grace divine,
And all, with one accord,
In a perpetual covenant, join
Ourselves to Christ the Lord.

Give up ourselves, through Jesus' power,
His Name to glorify;
And promise, in this sacred hour,
For God to live and die.

The covenant we this moment make,
Be ever kept in mind;
We will no more our God forsake,
Or cast His words behind.
(Charles Wesley)

In a recent discussion of Genesis, I heard a new theory of God's plans for His people. The explanation given was that God tried five plans to make man happy and failed in all five. But the sixth plan—a God-directed life—has brought to man a measure of happiness. In other words, we must find happiness in being WORKERS together with God. We today have a commission to fulfill; we are a part of a divine plan—a part of a great togetherness. If we are true Christians we work together with God and together with one another.

Jesus said, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." We become disciples of Christ through the pathway of the consecrated life. Even we who call ourselves Christians find that we need again and again to face Christ's standards of life, and to seek forgiveness for the wrongs that push Christ farther and farther away from us. So before we attempt to lead others in working together with God, we must face Christ in our own lives; we must be sure that we are upholding Christ's standard of life.

Jesus said, "I am the vine, ye are the branches; He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit; for apart from me ye can do nothing. . . If you abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you." If the feeling of joy and of God's presence, that is so real when we surrender our lives to Him, is to continue, we must keep it alive and help it grow. Through fellowship with other Christians in the public service of the church, and through young people's groups, we do this. Above all, we feel the presence of Christ in our daily periods of personal devotion when Bible reading, meditation, prayer, and listening bring us near our Savior. Prayer is as important as action. As Rev. R. N. White writes, "Action without power is as much folly as power without action. The true Christian is a worker but he works together with God."

What should be youth's action in working with God? Our program is to develop personal religious living, to help solve the war problem, the liquor problem, to study our economic problems, to provide a constructive use of leisure time, to break down racial barriers, and to help prepare for better Christian homes. Let us dare to face life with Jesus Christ. It is said that when Henry Pu Yi, Emperor of Manchukuo, travels through the cities of that land he is not permitted to see the suffering, the misery, and the distress of the people, for a dazzling yellow curtain is hung between him and the poverty-stricken sections through which he must pass. Do we dare see life as it is? to see the world as it lies in the shadow of death? Do we dare to face sin and crime and poverty in America? Do we dare to visualize the multiplied millions in non-Christian lands? Are you able to meet this challenge, to stand this test?

"Are ye able," said the Master,
To be crucified with me?"
"Yea," the sturdy dreamers answered,
To the death we follow Thee."

"Are ye able," still the Master
Whispers down eternity,
And heroic spirits answer
Now, as then, in Galilee.

"Lord, we are able."
Our spirits are Thine,
Remold them, make us,
Like Thee, divine.

Above us shall be
To love and loyalty.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Rev. R. S. Troxler

On July 25, 1938, our Heavenly Father called another one of His children home, Rev. R. S. Troxler.

He meant much to our church, especially in its beginning. It was his untiring efforts that helped us to have our church at Glen Raven. He was held in high esteem and always did what he thought best for the Kingdom and church. In his death we lost a good pastor and friend.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we cherish his memory and strive to attain the standards and goals he set before us.

Be it further resolved, that the Christian Endeavor society extend to the loved ones our deepest sympathy; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to the Methodist Protestant Herald, and a copy on the minutes of our society.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Chapel Hill, Davidson Charge, C. L. Grant, Pastor.—Our revival services began Thursday night, September 15, and came to a close Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, September 25.

Rev. W. L. Harkey, of Lincolnton, assisted the pastor in the preaching. He came to us on Sunday night, remaining through Friday evening's services. Rev. Mr. Harkey gave us some real soul-stirring messages, which made us realize more fully the great responsibility that rests upon us as professed followers of the lowly Nazarene. We were also glad to have Rev. E. A. Bingham, Rev. J. R. Short, and Rev. G. L. Curry with us.

The service was in charge of the pastor Saturday night, and Sunday Mr. Grant brought us some inspiring messages. There were six or seven professions and we feel that the church has been greatly revived.

On the fourth Sunday we had five members to join with us. We welcome them and sincerely hope they may be a blessing to us, and us to them.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night before the third Sunday in October.

Yarborough Charge.—It has been some time since I have made a report of our work, but that doesn't mean that we are not awake; on the contrary we have been going forward rapidly.

We had two of the best revivals that I think I have ever attended, both at Harmony and at Yarborough's Chapel. We had about 60 professions and 25 accessions, with another new member coming in at Yarborough's at next appointment. I feel that we have accomplished a great deal for His cause and kingdom this year.

Rev. C. G. Isley, of First M. P. church, Albemarle, was our pulpit help at Yarborough's, and my father, Rev. R. L. Vickery, of First M. P. church of Danville, at Harmony.

We have raised over $225 at Yarborough's on pastor's salary, and $159 at Harmony. About 50 per cent of conference claims have been met, and I am confident that we will come out 100 per cent at both churches. We have already raised $125 at Harmony for repainting the church, and work has already begun. This will be completed for Sunday morning service, October 2, and all of you who have been to Harmony will know how nice it will look. The outside is white and the inside cream colored. We hope to have a picture in the Herald before conference of the complete church. Look for it.

We have come out more than 100% on Herald quota and half paid on subsidy, and the other half is already pledged.

I truly believe that our attendance has doubled on this charge this year, and the people are very much interested and doing all they can, materialy and spiritually.

Just before the opening of college the pastor had a very pleasant surprise for which he is deeply appreciative. On my birthday, August 21, I was invited to a very nice birthday dinner, and after we had finished eating—and what a dinner!—I was presented with a box of six new Riegel shirts, towels, wash cloths for college, and an envelope containing $7.50 in money, along with some other things. All I can say is, May God bless our good people, and that I am more grateful than I can say for all their considerations. I feel like our spiritual interest is steadily increasing, and may I say that I have enjoyed this year the best of any in my life, except for my mother's death. Everything that I ask our good people to do, they don't hesitate but go right ahead.

As this may be my last report this year, may I say that although we are somewhat removed from the conference, that doesn't mean we are not as much interested as the rest. Our people here are very loyal and do their best for their God, their church, and their conference. Truly these are people anyone would be glad to serve and proud of.

Our Felowship Crusade is being paid on every appointment, and I feel sure will come out on top 100%. We have had a great year here, and I thank God for what has been done, for we know it all comes from Him, the Author and Finisher of our faith. May God bless and keep you all. Amen.

Creswell Charge.—Since there has been no report from down here in a long while, I shall endeavor to write one. Although we have not given the paper any publicity recently does not indicate that we have been idle. Sunday, October 2, concludes the eleventh month of my stay here. The time has passed rapidly and I have had many happy experiences during my residence here.

All the special meetings have been held with apparent results. At three churches, namely, Rehobeth, Creswell, and Woodley's Chapel, I did the preaching, and for the remaining two, Mt. Elma and Mt. Hermon, the pulpit helps were Rev. J. H. Abernethy and Rev. Fred Love, respectively. Their efforts to revive the interest in the church and community life were successful; many folks spoke highly of their messages, and voiced opinions that they would enjoy having them return again. Since the revivals I have observed a continuous improvement in church attendanuce in general.

Creswell church has paid its share of the Annual Conference Expense, Church Extension, Annual Conference Debt, and High Point College Allotments. Recently, Mt. Hermon church paid the Annual Conference Expense, and they are putting forth noble efforts to pay the other claims before the conference year ends. Mt. Elma expects to pay some of the benevolences in the near future.

Twenty dollars has been pledged to the Fellowship Crusade; of this amount $6.50 has already been paid; other funds and pledges are being collected from time to time.

There have been some improvements in two of the churches worthy of mention. Mt. Elma has purchased a new set of lamps for the church, and earlier in the year chairs for the choir were bought. In addition to these attainments, they have finished paying for the piano. Mt. Hermomn has repainted the building externally, made some general improvements on the inside, and repainted the chairs in the choir. These contributions greatly enhance the beauty of the church and in the meantime add to the value of the property. Another outstanding contribution in this church is the purchasing of two pulpit chairs at the cost of $45. Both of these worthy projects have been realized largely through the efforts of the Ladies' Aid of Mt. Hermon.

Creswell church plans to observe Rally Day at the next regular preaching appointment, which is the third Sunday in October. To date, the details of the program have not been announced.

It has been learned that Reverends W. F. Ashburn, A. D. Shelton, F. R. Love, O. L. Easter, and Mrs. Easter are to visit Creswell soon. I extend to them a cordial invitation to do so and wish for them a very pleasant stay while they are in the Tidewater section.

Enfield-Whitakers Charge.—The third Sunday morning in September I filled my regular appointment at Whitakers with the largest congregation we have had this year, but as I wasn't feeling well we called off the night service. As my physician thought it best for me to go back to the hospital at Burlington for a check-up, I went to my friend and doctor at Graham, W. C. Goley, who has been doctoring me for 15 years. He sent me to the hospital for a blood test, and they said Dr. Goley could give me the treatment I needed, and he did, and I am back on the job and feeling fine. I came home Friday, filled my appointment at Whitakers Chapel Sunday morning, and at Whitakers at night. I had a birthday while I was gone. I received some nice presents and many cards, and a present of a $5.00 check from the Enfield Ladies' Auxiliary. I thank everyone who remembered me.

Fountain Place, Burlington, R. E. L. Moser, Pastor, October 4.—Fountain Place church expects to have Rally Day services next Sunday, with a visiting speaker at the 11 o'clock hour. All members are urged to be present, and visitors are welcomed.

Fountain Place has been rather silent lately, but this does not mean that work has stopped. Our pastor brings us a splendid sermon each Sunday morning. The Sunday school is running along much the same as at the last report. Attendance has improved in the Woman's Auxiliary, and of course interest increases when attendance does. A Junior C. E. society has been organized under the leadership of Mrs. A. V. Amick, and the children seem to be very much interested in this work. Recently the Senior Christian Endeavor society held a devotional service at the county jail.

The second Sunday in September our revival started. Rev. Mr. Leo Pittard preached a wonderful sermon Sunday night. Rev. Mr. C. G. Isley, of Albemarle, came Monday and brought soul-stirring messages each night of the following week except Saturday, and the meeeting came to a close Sunday morning when Mr. Isley brought his last good sermon. The attendance during the meeting was good and everyone should have been made better. We were fortunate in having special music at most of the services. Six joined the church the last Sunday morning. Miss Butcher came to our church by letter, and the others, who joined by profession of faith, were Mr. Hubert Terrell and daughter, Patricia, Billy Euliss, John Frank Nicholson, and Alton Greeson.

Early in September the Woman's Auxiliary gave a birthday social to promote fellowship among the church members, and a good crowd enjoyed an evening of games and fun together. The Sunday school picnic was also held in September.

Our pastor's salary is paid in full for the year, but in the remaining weeks before conference there is work to be done. The Woman's Auxiliary is planning to hold a thank-offering some time this month or early in November.

MRS. A. V. AMICK, Reporter.

Fairview Church, Glen Raven Charge, Rev. Charles Coble, Pastor.—The work here is going along very well, now that the summer slump is over it seems that our church is taking on new life again, and the outlook is very promising for a good year's work in spite of the difficulties that we have had this year.

Our revival meeting will begin next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Our pastor will do the preaching each evening throughout the week. A series of prayer services is being held in the church each evening this week in order that we may better fit ourselves for a revival meeting. We ask an interest in your prayers for a great ingathering of lost souls.

We are very proud of our C. E. society and the good work they are doing. They have purchased some new song books for our church, which was very much needed, and we are very thankful for this. We were sorry for the death of our church sexton, Mr. J. D. Matkins, who died of a sudden heart attack at his home right recently. Mr. Matkins was a strong believer in the Lord and will be greatly missed in our church and community. Our deepest sympathy is for his family.

MRS. CLARENCE RUDD, Reporter.

Love Joy Church, Seagrove - Love Joy Charge, E. G. Cowan, Pastor.—Sunday, October 2, brought to a close our annual camp meeting which began Sunday, September 25. We are glad to report one of the greatest revivals in the history of our church. Rev. C. L. Spencer, of Randleman, and our beloved pastor brought the messages throughout the week. Rev. Mr. Spencer preached in the morning and evening, and Rev. Mr. Cowan in the afternoon. They did some wonderful preaching and God's spirit was present in each service.

God blessed in a marvelous way, both in the saving of souls and the reviving of Christians. There were between 70 and 80 conversions and reclamations. The secret of the great success was prayer. We certainly feel encouraged to press onward and upward. Our faith has been strengthened, and prospects for the future success of the church look bright. One thing that encouraged us so much was to see the new converts go out and work to bring other souls into the Kingdom.

We had a very impressive service the last Sunday afternoon. Thirty-three new members were received into the church. After receiving the rites of baptism and taking the vows of the church, all Christians were asked to join a circle around the new members, after which several songs were rendered. The spirit of God was manifested in a great way during this service. This brought to our minds the fact that the Christian circles are continually being broken here on earth, but if we are faithful and true to God, one day we are going to be reunited around the great white throne.

We court your prayers for our church and especially for the new converts, that they may grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

MRS. CLARA RUSSELL, Reporter.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, Oct. 3.—I know that there must be several who have been looking for a report from us. Especially those who have renewed their church paper subscriptions or have newly subscribed. That gives a chance to say that through the help of the C. E. society our quota for Shiloh church has been raised. We hope that all the subscribers shall enjoy very much the news that comes from all our churches through the Herald.

The month of October is to be observed as a special tithe month. All members are asked to tithe (however, it is a Christian's duty anyway). The pastor will see the first Sunday in November how many members have tithed.

The third Sunday in October will be Rally Day at Shiloh. The song services will be rendered by the primary department. There are two goals for that day: 300 in attendance at Sunday school, and every member making an offering. We believe that we can have the attendance, because we began a new enrollment for the fourth quarter last Sunday, which numbered 234 with 245 in attendance. And, too, all who attend Sunday school are asked to remain for the preaching service. It happens that some leave before the preaching service, some of which we hope will be avoided in the future.

The fourth quarterly conference for Shiloh charge will be held at Shiloh church on Saturday afternoon before the fourth Sunday in October at 2 o'clock. All members are asked to be present. Most of the final reports of the year's work will be given and we hope that by that time all items that have not been completed will be completed before then. At the last appointment of this conference year, the pastor has announced that the doors of the church will be opened for receiving of members, should there be any who desire to unite with our church.

A nominating committee composed of Mr. Ira Koonts, Mr. J. L. Evans, and Mr. R. B. Sink was appointed Sunday to prepare a list of church officers which will probably be elected at the next appointment, which will be the third Sunday.

Pledges were taken Sunday to help raise our part of the Fellowship Crusade; however, we are far from having raised our amount. There was $52.50 pledged and part collected, Sunday. We wish that we could raise our full amount, but do not promise that it will be done.

The Woman's Auxiliary is preparing a very helpful thank-offering program to be given this month, the time to be announced later.

Probably the last item of the report, but the most important, is the reporting of the sermon that our pastor delivered Sunday on the subject, "The Way of Life," using as a text Matt. 7:13. This was truly a vital message and one that searched the lives of our people. He plainly mentioned the only two classes of people—the saved and the unsaved—and the two ways, the narrow and the broad. All church members should realize more fully their duty and responsibility to ever be near the Savior of men, in order that nothing shall lead any from the strait and narrow way. Let's pray that we shall ever be kept true to the trust and busy at the task given us as followers of the great Shepherd in helping lead others in a closer relationship with Him.

Continue to pray for us in our work, and with this we are hoping for each church a sucessful ending of the year's work for the Master.

MABEL BERRIER, Reporter.

First Church, Charlotte, Rev. T. E. Strickland, Pastor.—We are just about to complete a year's work. This year in the Charlotte church has been a very good one. Considering the handicaps we have worked under, much has been accomplished during the past months. Souls have been born into the Kingdom of God and the church as a whole has progressed through great conflict. We are very proud of our pastor and feel that he has been a great influence on the progress which we have made.

For the past several Sunday nights we have had some wonderful services. One night seven souls were converted and another night two were born into the Kingdom of God. This is positive proof that the spirit of God is with us and that progress has been made.

The Christian Endeavor societies have also had a good year. The Senior C. E. society is still having the Bible chalk talks by Rev. Mr. Strickland. These talks have proved to be very beneficial, and the members of this society have had to think and search the scriptures to find out and understand these talks clearly. The monthly business meeting was held Monday night at the home of Helen McCall. Eighteen members were present and after the business meeting a social was held. Under the direction of the new officers we feel that this year holds more good things in store for us. The losing side of the contest, which we held in the society, entertained the winning side at a weiner roast on the river last Friday night. Everyone had a good time, and even the members of the losing side enjoyed themselves.

The Junior C. E. society is also doing some good work under the direction of Miss Marguerite Helms. They held a special service Sunday night and our field representative, Mr. Luther Medlin, attended and spoke at this service.

The young men's class started something at the church when they met one Sunday night and repainted their class room and made it more desirable. Now every department in the Sunday school is beginning to look around and start improving the appearance of their class rooms. It is hoped that this will continue until all the class rooms and departments have been renovated.

The new officers of the Sunday school will be installed next Sunday morning. Officers of the church will be installed at a later date. We are looking forward to a bigger and better year than ever before.

HELEN McCALL, Reporter.

Denton-Canaan.—Officers have been elected at both churches for church school and the regular church officers. The church school officers were installed at Denton on yesterday. This was done so that officers could take charge of the school on the first of October, the beginning of the school year. The beauttful service, "Installation Service for Church School Workers," published by the publishing house of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. It can be had from either the publishing house at Richmond or Nashville for 25 cents per dozen. Most schools can get by with one dozen. This service is highly recommended by the writer. It will add much to any church school installaton service. The officers of Canaan school will be installed next Sunday. The regular church officers at both churches will be installed later in the season.

After the officers were installed at Denton Superintendent Johnson announced a workers' council for the afternoon. This council was well attended and they will be observed regularly each month.

Raly Day services were observed at Denton on last Sunday and will be observed at Canaan on next Sunday.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., HICKORY, N. C.

The Denton Women's Auxiliary are to give the men of the church a supper on next Thursday night. We are looking forward to this occasion.

Mrs. Pegram Sexton, who has been sick for some time, does not seem to improve, but rather grows weaker.

Robert Johnson, of High Point College, and Miss Inza Hill, head of the commercial department of Rankin high school, near Greensboro, spent the week-end with their parents in Denton. We were glad to have them in the services on Sunday. These are among our very fine young people.

President Pritchard was with us on the fourth Sunday night and preached an excellent sermon. We were glad to have Dr. Pritchard and Mrs. Pritchard also. Come again when you can, Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard.

GEO. L. CURRY, Pastor.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge, Rev. E. A. Bingham, Pastor.—Work is moving along very nice, but as conference is almost here there is much work for us to do. We are hoping and working to get on the honor roll again.

Mr. Bingham brought us another splendid message Sunday morning. We have had a real fine year so far with Pastor Bingham and family, and are hoping to have many more.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. R. T. Woody this coming Friday evening, and the following Saturday from 5 to 7. We will sell chicken stew and pies at the church and a free entertainment will be given beginning at 8 o'clock. We invite any one who wishes to come and enjoy themselves. The proceeds will go to help pay on the church debt.

The junior class had charge of the opening exercises of the Sunday school Sunday morning. This was very helpful, especially to the children.

We are glad to welcome Miss Virginia Massey back with us for the school term another year.

Mr. Marvin Lindley is conducting a community singing each Monday evening at the high school. We are glad that several of our members are cooperating with him.

Salem, Saxapahaw Charge, E. A. Bingham, Pastor.—We are glad to report our church and Sunday school are moving nicely.

Our church hut was dedicated the fourth Sunday afternoon in September. The service was attended by a large crowd. The dedication sermon was preached by our pastor. The history was read by Leo Quakenbush. He has been very faithful working for the hut.

The Hebron choir sang for us. They did some good singing. Hope they can come and sing for us again. We hope our hut will be of help to the people. We are very proud of it.

The Sunday school attendance has been good during the summer months. There are still people that do not attend. We hope we can do something to influence them to attend because we need them.

Our claims are coming in very nicely. We would like to come up this year paid in full. We can if everyone will do his part.

Our last quarterly conference will be held Saturday before the fifth Sunday in October. Hope all of the official members can attend.

The district rally will be held at Bethel the fifth Sunday in October.

Our pastor has preached some fine sermons during the past year. He has tried in every way to give us his best. We hope he can come back with us another year.

REPORTER.

WILL YOU READ THIS?

In gathering up the cans which many of you have, please gather other produce with them, such as grain of any kind, potatoes, pumpkins, chickens, etc. Good clean clothing for children between 5 and 18 will also help. No high-heeled shoes, please.

Send these things to us if you can; if not, then please gather them at some convenient place on your charge and let us know when and where to send, just before or just after conference.

Just One More Month

There is just one more month till conference. During that month we must not only pay bills, but we must put in a car load of coal, costing around $300. Please make your offerings the very best possible. We wish we could balance our budget for conference, as we did last year.

In the Tobacco Belts

Some pastors in the tobacco belts have promised better offerings when tobacco was selling. Just one offering at each church before conference to make good that promise. A few churches have made no offering to the Home this year. May we hear from every church before conference?

Winter Clothing for Boys

Just a few of our boys have been taken for fall clothing. About 40 remain. An average of $8 per boy will buy for our boys about what they need for the winter. We are asking 40 men's classes, or 40 individuals, or 40 units of some kind, to help us with this. Will you please present the matter to your class next Sunday? Get the class to take one or more boys. Presidents of classes and teachers of classes, please put your heads together and do this for us.

The First to Respond

This call was publishesd last week, and before we had our dinner Sunday, Mr. W. H. Shoemaker, treasurer of the class in First church, Thomasville, taught by Mrs. A. H. Ragan, was here with $16 to outfit two boys. He said, "Our teacher presented this today."

To Clothe Boys

The Men's Bible class, First church, Thomasville—$16.00. Who will be the next? Will report this special in Herald. We hope to get a hearty response to this next Monday. Thank you and God bless you.

In His Name,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

Garlic-Parsley an Aid in HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Medical reports say that Garlic-Parsley concentrate has a double action in reducing high blood pressure. First, it tends to relax tightened arteries. Second, it checks or inhibits decomposition of waste matter in the bowels, a contributory cause of high blood pressure. To get concentrated garlic and parsley in odorless, tasteless form, ask your druggist for ALLIMIN Essence of Garlic-Parsley Tablets. Large box 50c; super-size money-saving package, $1.00. ALLIMIN used repeatedly at regular intervals aids in reducing blood pressure and relieving headache and dizziness caused by excessively high readings. To learn what raises your blood pressure and for medical treatment consult your doctor. For free sample and booklet of valuable information on high blood pressure, write

MARY REED, NOTED MISSIONARY, TO BE HONORED IN WORLD

Eighty-Fourth Birthday Will Be Marked by Varied Ceremonies; American Mission to Lepens Arranging Programs.

On December 4th, in distant corners of the earth, imaginary birthday bells will ring out in greeting to a white-haired lady whose bravery has brought her acclaim wherever the plight of the diseased and the disabled is realized. For, from missionary stations in Africa, Osia, the Orient—from civilized cities in America's East and West, England's island—from hundreds of friends in little towns and villages—via radio and airmail and the unspoken prayer — Mary Reed's well-wishers will send congratulations on her 84th anniversary.

The story of Mary Reed is comparatively simple, yet in the span of half a century it has become known to thousands of Methodists all over the world.

Nearly 55 years ago, she was a strong and energetic young woman, sailing to her chosen work as missionary of the Methodist church. She went to India, where leprosy was one of the gravest of social menaces. Six years after her arrival there, her work well established, she took a furlough. It was on that furlough that the dramatic episode happened which was to make her a heroine wherever courage was admired.

Mary Reed was not long back in the states, visiting her family, when she found that she had contracted leprosy. It was a terrible shock, but she concealed the dread news from her parents. She simply announced that she would return to India. So back she went, determined to continue her work as before, regardless of what happened to her.

Her reward came as swiftly and mysteriously as the disease—for the loprosy left her. She continued her work on Chandag Heights through long and fruitful years, and the good health and gratitude of thousands of natives testify to her success. Nor has age slowed her ambition, for she works on to this day.

Before the commemoration of Mary Reed Day begins in this country on December 4, Mary Reed will have in her time-worn hands dozens of messages written by fellow missionaries in leper colonies and hospitals supported by the American Mission to Lepers. First event in the States will probably be the 10 a.m. program over WEAF and the National Broadcasting System of Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, who will speak of her in his morning talk.

Mary Reed services will be held at 10:30 a.m. at McConnelsville, Beverly, Malta, and Crookedtree, Ohio. The names of other towns will be supplied as arrangements are made for services.

At 2:30 p.m. in the Methodist church at Lowell, Ohio, "Mary Reed Day" services will be conducted. Members of the Reed family such as brothers, nieces and nephews of Mary Reed will be present.

Rev. Herbert A. Guiler has been asked to preside at the service. Addresses will be made by—

1. Arepresentative of the American Mission to Lepers.
2. Prominent woman missionary leader.
3. Mrs. H. A. Guiler, a niece of Mary Reed, will give her life story.

A committee has been appointed to consider the matter of placing a marker in Lowell, Ohio, on the site of Mary Reed's birthplace and home.

In addition, it is expected that many churches will use in varying forms the "Episodes in the Life of Mary Reed," a dramatization by Miss Lulu D. Ervin, midwest secretary of the American Mission to Lepers, which was first presented at the Winona Lake Bible Conference of 500 men and women last August in Winona Lake, Indiana.

The round-the-world "Happy Birthday," it is hoped, will be augmented by special activities in London, where the British Mission to Lepers has its headquarters and where the story of Mary Reed is well known.

Yet one of the sincerest tributes to Miss Reed, of which she will probably never know, is contained in a letter written by Ganga Ram, havildar and clerk, one of her Indian boys who grew up to join the army and is now with a battalion at Kowloon, India. He wrote: "I am unable to put in words how thankful I am to Miss Reed, a motherly friend. She has educated me, and taught me to trust and know the God. The great God, Father of us all. My daily life, daily doings and livings speak of her good teaching and glorify the name of our Savior.

"Miss Reed, though old in age, through God's grace and blessings carries out duties intrusted to her, splendidly. She is so interested in the work on those isolated hills that she has finally decided to work and live there until she is called to Heavenly Home for rest and enjoy in the Dear Lord Jesus Christ."

RECEIVED ON SUBSCRIPTIONS! My, but such a receiving line! Have we had such a list as that in these latter days? Somehow, if such a thing has happened, my memory is very poor, I do not remember it. My understanding from what the Editor said, this work was done by the Christian Endeavorers; that is an ENDEAVOR worth while. Don't you think so? "For Christ and the Church." That is what it means. This list sent in by Brother Leatherman from Shiloh church, Shiloh charge! Such a Ridge as you folks up there have! You can climb up on the faith and works of a man like that. We thank you, folks, and may your tribe increase! Thirty-three subscribers, or the equivalent, at one time. It is hard to stop writing about it. Hope I will have another like that next week. But listen; there are several charges that could do less than that and put themselves over on their quota. Let us make a supreme effort to do this thing, for unless we do something more than we have, many of us will not get ours.

A good pull for subsidy from Midway church, Haw River charge, also from Flat Rock, church not designated, Pine Grove, Siler City charge. Thank you, good folks. Wish that we could come up to conference with a clean slate for the Herald. It has been a great friend to all of us pastors. I have counted on it all these years to aid me in my work. Many of you have done the same thing. It has been a friend to every movement for the advancement of the Kingdom through the Methodist Protestant church. Seems to me as we go into this union, or this new church, A NEW METHODIST CHURCH, we will want to say we brought our church paper with us. Let us not go up saying, "It seemed of no use, therefore I never put forth any effort to keep it going." Let's take everything worth while in with us, and THE HERALD IS THAT!

Accepting Responsibility

I once heard a pastor divide his Church members into three classes: the shirkers, the jerkers and the workers. The shirkers were those who never did any task they could shun; the jerkers were those spasmodic, temperamental folk, who rarely ever completed what they accepted to do; the workers were those faithful people who could be depended upon to do their part and also to finish what others failed to do. While it may appear to be a very arbitrary division to some, they must admit that this pastor knew the human nature which composes the average Church membership.

None of us can even approximate what would happen if the fifty-nine per cent of the population of our country who have accepted membership in some Church would join the workers' class instead of the jerkers or the shirkers.

The slow progress of the Christian Church in bringing about the objectives daily set before it is not to be attributed to the lack of talent in the membership, nor to the lack of means, nor to the lack of time; but rather to the failure of the members to accept responsibility for the objectives. For any Church however humble its standing in the community may be, were its members to accept truly, sincerely the Church vow they took when joining the Church, would become a most efficient factor in bringing about the moral reforms desired in that community. On the other hand, no Church however educated its members may be, however high they may have climbed the social ladder, regardless of what positions of state and nation its leaders may hold, unless these folk accept the responsibility Church membership imposes upon them, nothing much will come of such a relationship.

How well did our Lord emphasize this fact in both the parables of the talents and of the pounds, "To every man according to his several ability" was the rule of distribution of opportunity. Behold the shirker class in both those groups. They had the talent, had the pound, had both the ability and the time for their improvement, but failed because they did not use them. They accepted the talent but not the responsibility to employ it. So is this shirker class in the Christian Church, they accepted membership in the Church but have yet to accept the responsibility for living true to the vows they took. Accepting membership in the Church but refusing to perform the tasks Church membership requires of them. SHIRKERS.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Conference Committees

I am herewith sending list of committees which I am to appoint and which committees are to report to the Annual Conference. In appointing these committees I have not been able to use all the ministers or laymen without making the committees so large they would be unwieldly. The fact that people are left off should not be interpreted as reflecting on their ability to serve were they called on to do so. Except in naming the Obituary committee and the Pulpit Supply committee, no person has been named on more than one committee. Well, here they are:

Credentials—The Secretaries.

President's Message—Ministers: T. G. Madison, J. A. Burgess, R. A. Hunter, Earl A. Cook. Laymembers: D. J. Hatley, L. S. Neville, W. M. Compton, Jr., and Clifton Rowe.

METHODSIT PROTESTANT HERALD—Ministers: J. Elwood Carroll, C. W. Bates, F. W. Paschall and C. L. Spencer. Laymembers: J. T. Roundtree, E. W. Teague, T. L. Smith and Clyde Payne.

Appreciation Year—Ministers: J. C. Auman, S. W. Taylor, R. M. Andrews, E. A. Bingham. Laymembers: S. C. Whitaker, F. M. Taylor, J. F. Evans and S. P. Montgomery.

Christian Education—Ministers: J. W. Braxton, J. T. Bowman, W. M. Howard, Jr., F. R. Love. Laymembers: Miss Kate Hammer, W. W. Wiles, Loy Misenheimer and C. W. Hayes.

Missions—Ministers: E. O. Peeler, H. L. Isley, J. R. Hutton, C. H. Hill. Laymembers: T. S. Coble, Mrs. C. F. Finch, Don S. Holt and Clyde A. Green.

Fraternal Relations—Ministers: T. J. Whitehead, C. B. Way, J. M. Morgan, L. E. Mabry. Laymembers: W. M. Pike, Jr., J. L. White, D. J. Cates and D. L. Disher.

Pulpit Supply—Ministers: R. C. Stubbins, N. G. Bethea, A. D. Shelton, J. E. Carroll. Laymembers: E. P. Sharpe, E. C. Walters, J. F. Jobe and W. W. Eldridge.

Obituary Committee for Rev. G. W. Holmes—J. A. Burgess, H. L. Isley, S. W. Taylor, W. F. Ashburn, John P. Loy, T. T. Ellis, F. D. Hornaday. For Mrs. R. L. Vickery: O. B. Williams, C. G. Isley, J. L. Love, A. G. Rice, A. L. McGee, Miss Annie Perkinson. For Rev. R. S. Troxler: R. M. Andrews, N. G. Bethea, J. D. Williams, T. S. Coble, Alvin Walser, T. Grady Bowman. For Rev. A. L. Hunter: S. W. Taylor, R. M. Andrews, J. D. Williams, Wesley Jones, M. L. Vuncannon and H. W. Doub.

There will be many other committees to report but these are elected by the Conference, so I need not name them here.

A Sunday Morning at Midway

Last Sunday morning was spent with the Midway Church, Rev. J. R. Hutton, pastor. This Church is located on the Greensboro-High Point road and is a little nearer Greensboro than High Point. I was there Sunday morning in time to witness the Sunday School in action. In the absence of the superintendent Brother John Suits filled that important position. While the attendance would not be considered large for some places yet it was sufficient to give one the impression that it is a power for good in the community. Brother Bascom Frazier taught the Men's class and did it well. The morning Church congregation was very attentive and it was a pleasure to be with them. This is Brother Hutton's first year during his present pastorate, although he has served this Church several years before. Electric lights have recently been put in the Church and the grounds have been considerably improved. I trust this Church may continue to grow. The community is growing considerably and it seems that it ought to be a good place for a Church.

A Sunday Evening at Union Ridge

Last Sunday evening was spent with the Union Ridge congregation on the Forsyth circuit, Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor. This Church is near Winston-Salem, in the incorporated limits, I believe, and is on what is known as the "Old Thomasville highway." The building consists of a good sized auditorium with Sunday School rooms to the side, both down stairs and up. The upstairs is so arranged as to be available as a balcony. There was a splendid congregation present for the service and it was a pleasure to be there. This is the home Church of Brother P. W. Mock who is past eighty now but who still gets a good deal of joy out of his religion. This is Brother Hunter's seventh year, I believe, on this work and he is still popular with the people. He is one of our most acceptable pastors.

The Superannuate Fund

This week I have space to say only a few words about the importance of raising the Superannuate assessment in full. This assessment amounts to three per cent of the pastor's salary. It ought to be a joy for for every charge to raise this

The Superannuate Preacher

Last week one of our fine laymen sent me a check for Herald subscriptions and included with it four dollars to give to the Superannuate preacher. That is a good cause to give your money to when you have an impulse to give and are not sure to what you ought to give. It is likewise a good cause to think and pray for when you are in the mood of prayer. I speak of the Superannuate preacher as a cause to support because it is set up in our Annual Conference budget and the churches are expected to complete the payment of their allotment to it during October.

Somehow the Superannuate preacher does not receive a great deal of a consideration from our people. The allotment laid upon each Church is quite small and is rarely paid in full by many of the pastoral charges. And if the Superannuate should get all of his part of the full apportionment, he would not have much upon which to live for a whole year.

Dear Reader, give the old minister more consideration. Think how he has been subject to the authority of the Annual Conference for all these years, and most of them have moved whenever the Conference said move. While active they may never have received quite enough to support the family adequately. And when time came to superannuate may have had nothing to retire upon. In fact, I have known some preachers to superannuate when they did not have enough money to get back home on and no place to move to when they returned.

It has often happened that these men have served people well able to give them ample support, but never did it, and some of them let these pastors leave them with salaries unpaid. These men of God managed somehow to eke out an existence, to keep their family together, and to die without bitterness in their souls for such treatment. We have heard some people object to contribute to this cause—in fact we have heard some prosperous Church members object to contribute to any cause. But I would rather live in a tent and serve my Church faithfully, if I did not have three full meals a day, than to take my chance with such souless sons of Dives at the judgment bar of God.

The Thanksgiving Offering

We share the concern of Superintendent Dixon for the children in the Home. Already he has been publishing his plans for larger gifts at this Thanksgiving season. For years now all the Orphanages in the state have been doing this with varying results. At first the people were urged to make a gift equal to one day's earnings. But this has seemed to lose its former appeal. But whether you make such a gift or not, we are urging that all the readers of the Herald set apart some amount for the Home this year. Do it regardless of whether or not you contribute in the monthly offering in your Church or Sunday School. This is to be a gift over and above the regular gifts, because the regular gifts are not sufficient to keep the Home out of the "red." Dr. Dixon is maturing splendid plans for the offering this year. But no plans, however splendid can accomplish results unless they are worked. This is a reminder to you who read the Herald that you will have this opportunity to help the homeless little ones there, and we hope you will do it.

The Latent Possibilities of a Church

We suppose there is not a Church in all Christiandom which is using all its members in definite and effective service. There are some very fine organized bodies of Christian workers. Groups of people who do wonderful things. But when you take the pains to examine the membership list you will find in these splendidly organized and most effective churches, those who have no lot nor part in any of the organizations, and who have yet to show any interest they may have in religious service.

These inactive Church members are what we call latent possibilities in a Church. They are not people who are devoid of talent, they could do some things well, if enlisted. And here is the problem of our organized religious bodies. You will find among this group those who know how to make money, good farmers or mechanics, or merchants. Women active in the social affairs of the community, etc. So it is not because these folk are dumb that they are not lined up in some of the organizations of the Church.

Here then are the latent possibilities in your Church Brother Pastor; the unworked gold mines close to you. Having been a pastor, the writer knows how difficult it is for one pastor to enlist all his members. It is just about impossible, but that does not mean that the pastor cannot interest many who are now inactive in any forms of religious service. One way of discovering the talents of your Church members is by giving them some definite task. Or to assign to a class something really big enough to challenge them. I remember Shiloh Church, Shiloh Charge uses that method. A Sunday School assumes to raise certain items in the budget. This year the Christian Endeavor Society secured the quota of HERALD subscriptions for that Church, sending in thirty-five annual subscriptions, or $70, we believe. Now that was not an easy thing to do, yet we suspect they got great pleasure in doing it. We have known other Church groups to plant "patches" of cotton for the budget. If we mistake not Greer's Church on Shiloh, did this a few years ago, and got money enough to pay off the Conference claims. Anderson Charge, when I visited it last spring, was planning to do this. Dr. T. M. Johnson is their pastor; we have not heard what the results have been. But regardless of how much money they get, those who do it are greatly benefited. We learn to do by doing, and learn to like to do things when we can do them well. Because some people do so little for the Church is the major reason why they care so little for it. The pastor makes a big mistake who does not expect much of his people and then try to interest them in doing the things expected. We have heard pastors tell their people they were not able to pay certain claims; they could not do certain things required of them, when in fact they could have done it and been happier, if some one had led them forth. The pastor who is an expert brakeman ought to get on a long freight train rather than into a pulpit. All of our churches need leaders with great "staying qualities" rather than those who are so afraid of failure that they fail to try to do anything. We know that we have in the North Carolina Conference people of talent and of sufficient means to do as well as other denominations about us — we have the latent, unused abilities, but for reason, not here stated, our progress has been slower than these others.

Some Interesting Statistics

Dr. H. C. Weber has just released through the Christian Herald statistics of Church membership in the United States which should interest all Church people. While there are 225 Protestant denominations, he lists only fifty of them; these have a total membership of 35,879,311, according to the reports of the churches for 1937-38. But when the members under thirteen years are subtracted there are 31,530,219.

The Roman Catholic reported for same period a total membership of 21,322,688, or 15,492,016, not listing children under thirteen years.

The total membership just reported gives the Church membership of this country to be 59.9 per cent of the population. And the fifty denominations reported separately total 97.5 per cent of all the Church members reported in the organized bodies.

Our own Church reported a net gain for the period indicated 2,300, with a total membership of 198,780, with 2,111 congregations and 1,116 ministers.

The Methodist Episcopal Church reported for same period, 4,364,342, having made a gain of 15,000 members, with 24,295 congregations, 15,293 ministers.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, reported for same period, 2,822,516, with a net gain of 35,299, having 16,320 Church organizations, and 7,742 ministers.

Editorial Comments

Pastor T. H. Vickery, of Yarborough Charge, writes that he has now collected $200.00 on the Fellowship Crusade. We think that is the allotment for that charge. Here is another pastor who accepted an apportionment from the Annual Conference as an order. Thanks Thurman. A boy preacher who can do that on Yarborough Charge has a bright future.

We would like very much to give a summary of the Fellowship Crusade in the HERALD within the next two weeks. We sent letters to a large group of our pastors for such data as we would need; we will appreciate this information next week, if possible.

The last report of student enrollment at High Point College released through the Hi-Po is 434.

High Point College band made its first public appearance last Friday. Thirty-two people in their new purple and white uniforms made a very fine appearance on the city streets and in the stadium. The band is composed of men and women and plays quite well. It is entirely a students' band with a student instructor. Dr. P. E. Lindley is the faculty adviser.

Just continue to send in your subscriptions. Every list makes the Editor's smile broaden a little more. Read what Booster Bethea writes about you when you send them in. If your pastor or HERALD Agent forgets to ask for renewals just send yours along to Box 1817, High Point; not Greensboro, as the manner of some is. It is amusing to get reports from our reporters sent to Greensboro. Dearly beloved, it has been ten months since we discontinued our Greensboro office.

NO ONE LIKES TO DO EVIL

Half the evil in the world comes from people not knowing what they do like, not deliberately setting themselves to find out what they really enjoy. All people enjoy giving away money, for instance: they don't know that—they rather think they like keeping it; and they do keep it under this false impression, often to their great discomfort. Everybody likes to do good; but not one in a hundred finds this out. Multitudes think they like to do evil; yet no man ever really enjoyed doing evil since God made the world.—Ruskin.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

That Fifteenth Chapter of Exodus

To me the fifteenth chapter of Exodus is the beauty-spot of the book. It is poetry, a song commemorating the eventful crossing of the Red Sea. Chapter fourteen gives the historic, prose account of the crossing, then this chapter gives the same account in poetry.

In a day when written books were scarce or altogether unknown the people found that a story preserved in a song could be kept and appreciated from generation to generation. And anything so marvelous as the deliverance at the Red Sea was, of course, an ideal theme for a sacred song. The Israelites could sing it with a deep and thankful remembrance of the Lord's protecting hand.

Thus the fifteenth of Exodus is a hymn of praise based on the miraculous crossing of the Red Sea. Start reading the selection and you can easily tell when you strike the poem. A few words serve as an introduction, then the song begins:

''I will sing unto the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously,
The horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.
The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation:
He is my God, and I will praise him,
My father's God, and I will exalt him.''

Then the hymn goes on to describe in dramatic language the details of the crossing. ''Pharoah's chariots and his host hath he cast into the sea, his chosen captains also are drowned in the Red Sea.''

It is interesting to note how the people gave all of the honor and credit to Jehovah. Such a marvelous episode could have been wrought only by Divine help. Hence the song said, ''Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious in power: Thy right hand, O Lord, hath dashed in pieces the enemy.'' And so through it all the Hebrews saw the providential hand moving to save and direct the Chosen People. It was an unusual event, and they gave God the glory.

Another point I notice is the implied character of the Deliverer. Jehovah is now seen as holy as well as powerful. Observe: ''Who is like unto thee, O Lord, among the gods? Who is like thee, glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders?'' Again: ''Thou in thy mercy hast led forth the people which thou hast redeemed: Thou hast guided them in thy strength unto thy holy habitation.''

These lines show the character of the Deliverer. He is holy, ''fearful in praises,'' doing wonders. This suggests that Jehovah is supreme, worthy to be praised, able to do miraculous tasks. But he is also merciful, thoughtful of his people. He will even guide them unto his holy habitation. This implies, I think, that he longs to have his people dwell where he dwells, and enjoy direct fellowship with himself.

Then the song intimates the influence of the Lord on other nations. ''The dukes of Edom shall be amazed.'' All people shall hear of his fame and wisdom and finally give him praise.

As a climax to the hymn we read the hopeful tribute: ''The Lord shall reign for ever and ever.''

More than this song of Moses is contained in the chapter, but the hymn itself is the beauty-spot, and I believe you will enjoy reading it as such.

REVERENCE FOR GOD

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, October 16, 1938

By Rev. J. C. Madison

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 12:33-37.

Golden Text—''Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.'' Math. 6:9.

I would not open this lesson with a pessimistic note concerning the value of our proud modern civilization but I do feel that it is a sad day when people spend more time teaching children the correct usage of a verb than they do in teaching them the proper respect for the name of God. It is a tragic day when mothers become more alarmed when their children use pronouns incorrectly than they do when they use profanity. I trust that such is not and will never be true.

Someone once said that he knew three languages, French, English and profanity. In part that might be said by a large percentage of American people. We hear it on the baseball field, we hear it on the street corner, and we hear it in circles where so-called respectable men and women move. To hear one boast of having ''cursed someone out'' is a common thing. Profanity seems to be a method by which an individual inflates his ego. One seems to think he is making his language strong, but if he only knew the truth, if he could only see himself as others see him standing on the street corner, by the wreck of his car, or in the shop vainly commanding God to execute his criminal commands!

It is a saying of evident truth that by one's judgments one shall be judged. To sneer at great music is to pass judgment upon oneself rather than upon the music. So it is that profanity reveals far more about the individual using it than it does about the situation, about the other fellow or about God.

For one thing profanity reveals an individual's ignorance of language. I am told that a ship lost in a fog sets its course to travel in a perfect circle while the fog horn is turned on full blast, a lot of noise but getting nowhere. Cursing makes the most noise and says the least of anything I know of. There are few people who can express themselves plainly, intelligently and directly but most anyone can curse. When a man gets mad and expresses himself in so-called ''strong language'' we may conclude with Byron, ''And as he knew not what to say, he swore.'' Such indicates confusion; it is not strength but weakness; it's most logical result is to make the other fellow smile in sympathetic victory or else to produce a mad exchange of meaningless words.

Profanity reveals one's ignorance of God. It is an effort to bring Him down to the level of our hatreds, prejudices and emotional explosions. God in His purity simply has no place among the vain, the vulgar and the mean, and so we are told that it is sin to try to associate Him therewith. To do that is to give the lie to His transcending goodness. If there is a God He is the most profound truth in the universe. To appreciate Him is to stand in awe of Him; it is to associate Him with the highest, noblest and best such as find expression in the greatest prayers. How shrivelled a boastful little man does look when he stands up and deals to lightly, so irreverently with the most profound truth and power of life. He hasn't judged God he has only judged himself.

Profanity reveals the level of life upon which an individual lives. ". . . of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh." Words are the revelation of life. They are the odor rising from the ideas, the thoughts and the appreciations within. "A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things." Listen to a man's vulgarity and you can tell where he lives; listen to his profanity and you catch a glimpse of his impoverished soul. A story that depends upon vulgarity and profanity for its humor is not a joke, it is a revelation of the filthy life within him who tells it.

We began to see then that the matter of changing language is a matter of changing life. Profanity simply has no place in the life that is lived on the level of dignity, usefulness and reverence. Most anything can find its way to the life that is lived in the gutter. The man who lives in the gutter or cellar of life is the man who curses and it seems to me that he does it for two possible reasons: first, in order to tell the world that he is in the gutter; second, in order to pretend that he doesn't care if he is there. I would close with the words of Dean Shailer Mathews spoken to a group of students acting irreverently in a worship service, "Gentlemen, with God, at least be polite."

The President's Letter

LAND IN WHICH DREAMS COME TRUE

Every man at some time is lured by a vision of a happy land. Abraham sought such a Promised Land, but he secured only sufficient to build his vault. Jacob glimpsed a ladder that led to spiritual realities, but he lost it through his insatiable love of gain. His descendants persisted in seeking it in territory and interpreting the promise in terms of acres which could be divided up. They found, when they got it, that the land flowed more with their own blood than with milk and honey—and it does so still. Neither Jews nor Gentiles, Christians nor Pagans, can ever hope to find their highest good either in material possessions or in earthly kingdoms. The deep hunger of their hearts is for spiritual reality, and to interpret that yearning love into carnal things is to live in a world of disappointment, despair and illusion.

Jesus knew the secret and sought to tell it, but his age would not believe him; nor do most men yet. His kingdom is the realm where every highest human aspiration can be realized. His land is the land where our dreams come true. In his realm, men and women are the children of the King of Heaven, and their robes never fade or wear out. This kingdom is within the company of people who love another as he loved them. It is not still to come, it is "at hand," at the elbow. It is in the world, because it is within men; but it is not all the world. It is a timeless life lived in the midst of time. It is life eternal. It is to know God. The possession of houses and lands or territories has nothing to do with it. Indeed, the meek inherit the earth while fools pull down their barns and build greater. This realm is a spiritual experience which no armies of occupation can upset. There is no need to fear those who can kill the body, but there is need to be on the alert lest the soul be lost. If the heart is pure a man can look into God's face and realize his right to be called a child of God.

The disciple themselves did not realize this until they had been through their Pentecost and had been filled with the Holy Spirit. Neither can anyone else. With that vision, that supernatural life, a man is of the earth, earthy. Like Bunyan's character, he just takes his muckrake and misses the angel with the crown. Without that sense of the eternal a man will barter away his right to see God for a mess of pottage. He will sell his "Land where his dreams come true" for the sake of winning a sweepstake.

There is no reason why children should shed their Dreamland when they grow up. It can be retained and irradiated, with all the fairies of Wonderland eclipsed by the presence of Jesus himself. Neither need they be disillusioned when they grow old. They need never be "too old to dream." We know that old men are apt to imagine that the golden age is behind them, but not old men who have lived in the Spirit. That is the significance of Peter's quotation from Joel in his Pentecost sermon: "Old men shall dream dreams" as well as the young. People do not get old in Jesus' Land where dreams come true. They are perpetually young. If they sit in the park shelters and talk together about the many mansions in the "better land" they are under no illusions, for they have been living "in the heavenly places" for years.—Walter A. Headey, in Methodist Recorder.

CHURCHES CALLED TO OBSERVE TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

The need for a revival of temperance education has led the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America to issue a call for the observance of "Temperance Sunday" on October 30 throughout the country. The day was included in the Calendar for the Christian Year as prepared by the Federal Council's Committee on Worship last year, the suggested date being the last Sunday in October, which is already recognized in some quarters, both in this country and abroad, as "World Temperance Sunday." The designation of this Sunday was followed up by the Federal Council's Executive Committee at its meeting last month by a special call for a widespread observance of the day. The suggestion was made that in churches that are accustomed to recognize October 30 as Reformation Sunday the following Sunday, November 6, might well be observed as Temperance Sunday—or any other Sunday which in certain denominations might be found to be more satisfactory.

As a means for providing ministers and leaders in religious education with helpful materials for the observance of the day, the Federal Council of Churches has prepared a packet of ten pamphlets, selected from the best materials published by various denominational and interdenominational agencies, on the liquor problem and the relation of the Church to it. The pamphlets have been chosen from the particular standpoint of their educational value in the local Church. The packet of ten publications is available at 70 cents, including postage, from the Federal Council's headquarters, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York. Among the materials included in the packet are:

"The Liquor Traffic: Its Cost," (Congregational Council of Social Action.)

"Children and the Alcohol Problem," (American Baptist Publication Society.)

"Young People and the Liquor Problem," (Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.)

"The Sensational Rise in Liquor Consumption," (Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.)

"Christian Education and the Alcohol Problem," (International Council of Religious Education.)

"Liquor and Modern Life," (Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.)

COURAGE

I remember reading in the "Life of Wesley" that when he was crossing the Atlantic on his way to America a violent storm arose. Everybody on board was greatly frightened except a group of Moravian missionaries who seemed to be quite unconcerned. Their leader, on being questioned by Wesley, admitted they could see no reason for fear. They were in God's hands under his care and whatever happened was for the best.

If we, as Christians, actually believed what we claim to believe, I suppose that should be our attitude in times of danger. At any rate it is having its counterpart in China today.

Not long ago when the Japanese were visiting us in Foochow with the first bombing (since then we have had twelve more days of it, sometimes twice a day) Siang Siang, the cook for an English lady missionary was in a grocery store making some purchases for his employer.

When the siren sounded announcing the approach of bombing planes, the store was closed at once, with all its customers inside. According to official orders, during an air raid, all activities cease, all pedestrians and vehicles on the street stop where they are and all stores are closed. It was the first raid and in the grocery store everybody was greatly frightened except Siang Siang who kept on talking as if nothing was happening.

"Aren't you afraid?" the others asked him.

"No, why should I be?" he replied.

"Well, we might be killed," they answered.

"You see," said Siang Siang, "I am a Christian, so I know God will take care of me, and do what is best for me. If I should be killed I'd go straight to heaven, which is far better."

The group were so impressed by his complete lack of fear that they asked him to pray for them.

It was at 11:50 a. m. on Sunday, April 3, that our worst bombing occurred. We were in Church and the pastor was within five minutes of the end of his sermon when the planes came. Some of them circled over the Church, very low, so that we could not hear what the minister was saying, for he kept right on preaching.

Soon the planes moved away towards the air field and began to drop tremendous bombs that shook the Church as we were singing the last hymn. The service continued to the end without interruption, and then the congregation took their seats. There was no disorder.

The bombing continued for over half an hour. A few non-Christian women in the congregation of 500 worshippers seemed frightened, so some of the Christian women went over and sat down beside them and quieted their fears. Otherwise there was no movement of any kind among the congregation, though it was not altogether soothing to have the Church tremble again and again from the repercussions from the great bombs.

Altogether it was over an hour before the "all clear" signal was given and the congregation scattered to their homes. It all seemed to me a wonderful exhibition of control by faith. As those planes circled low over the Church we simply did not know what might happen, perhaps even by accident.

I thank God that our people here feel that way, for there is great need of it these days and there is no other power that can hold us steady at such a time.—Bishop John Gowdy in Foochow News.

NOTICE

Piedmont Pastors' Association will hold its regular meeting at Grace Church next Monday, October 17, at 10:30 a. m. A good program is being planned.

AMERICA EVALUATES HER HERITAGE

The years have pretty well demonstrated that it is much easier to get democracy into the world than it is to keep it there. At the time eight million dead seemed a pretty big price to pay to "make the world safe for democracy." The cynics are now saying that on the contrary it only made the world safe for dictators. With all this sword-rattling and fist-shaking it is doubtful whether Adolf Hitler and Mussolini believe that. God has never been on the side of the bulldozers. From Washington it appears that as experiments go, our form of government in which the people of the sovereign states of South Carolina, Georgia and Maryland unseat the President from his high horse when his dictatorship assumes no more menacing form than control of party candidates, is pretty conclusive evidence that the democracy is working pretty effectively.

With Americans still free to say what they please, write what they please, worship as they please and vote as they please, despite the alarmists, the world yet has before its eyes a pretty good demonstration of the success of a government where power is still vested in the people. Here in the nation's capital there are differences of opinion as to allocating the blame for Europe's unhappy state, and of the wisdom of the course along which statesmen of France and England have led their governments in recent weeks. In one field, however, opinion is unanimous. The spectacle of Hitler has heightened their fear of, and deepened their disgust for dictatorship. They want none of that. He more than any other influence in the world is establishing Americans in an appreciation of the benefits they enjoy under their democratic form of government, and in their determination to keep their rights inviolate.

Washington's house of mystery is the old-fashioned State Department building. Behind its gray columned facades perhaps more anxiety is housed than within the walls of any other building in the nation's capital. It is America's watch-tower and listening post through all those tragic and dramatic days of world upheaval. The presence of Secretary of State Hull at his desk there finds one of the ablest men in public life at the major post of responsibility in this emergency. A year ago he enunciated his sixteen-point peace program, chief of which was to keep America out of entangling foreign alliances. His emphasis upon establishing a closer union between the governments of the Western Hemisphere is well known. The lack of complacency with which he views nations that ignore their contracts for keeping the peace of the world, as in their failure to keep the Kellogg-Briand Pact is also well known. He is calm, patient, wise and experienced statesman who through all the trying experiences of his career has demonstrated poise and sound judgment.

On Awakening Men's Memories

One of the deficiencies of the human race is that its memory is so short. Only twenty years ago it was the Hindenberg Line from which came reports of slaughter so appalling as would cause anyone to be judged bereft of all reason who would have prophesied that in its life time a generation would return to any such gruesome spectacle. Yet today Germany is boasting of her "Siegfried Line," and France stakes her fate on the Maginot Line. And so the world forgets that the new lines of 1938 would become exactly what they were in 1918, only worse—lines of hatred, wastefulness, madness, suffering, futility.

President Roosevelt, with Secretary Hull at his elbow, has never used the prestige of his office to better purpose than in his appeal of September 26 to the contending powers to continue negotiations rather than fly to arms. It was an appeal to memory—the memory of "the economic system shattered, the social structure completely wrecked," and the wild contagion whereby "no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of such a world catastrophe." And by every memory of the Versailles of 1918 he pled that "peace may be made before, rather than after, war." By the grim reminder of eight million youth sacrificed, he emphasized the truth which Europe seems so slow to learn, that "force produces no solution for the future good of humanity."

Perhaps not since Edward the Eighth broadcast his abdication speech have more residents of the nation's capital listened in. than when a dozen hours after President Roosevelt dispatched his messages, Adolf Hitler addressed a Berlin audience on the impending crisis. Judging from the sections of the speech which evoked the longest and most thunderous applause, listeners here suspected that the memories of the German people are also rather short. For the utterances of the same inflammatory brand, accompanied by not a little bombast and boasting, appeared to appeal more to the cheering throng than did the more conciliatory passages.

"Today we have an armed force the like of which the world has never seen," and "I can tell you now I have spent billions right here for armaments," brought forth the wild chorus, "Fuehrer! Command, we follow." Washingtonians listened in amazement to the same type of speech which twenty years and more ago decimated so many family circles, filled so many graves and plunged the world into such a maelstrom of horror. It is little wonder that on the afternoon of September 26, the world over, those who love peace and pursue it, stood aghast at such a demonstration of the brevity of the memories of that Berlin throng.—Jacob Simpson Payton in North Carolina Christian Advocate.

"TWENTY YEARS OF PEACE"

Forty-five countries—about two-thirds of the world's land surface—have been the scene of wars, revolts and revolutions in the past twenty years.

In these past two decades, which statesmen often call "twenty years of peace," there have been almost daily battles on five of the world's most populous continents.

"Have-not" nations crossed swords with "haves," subject peoples rebelled, opposing ideologies came to blows.

Eleven major wars have been fought since the Armistice.

Three undeclared wars are going on now—in Spain, China and Palestine.

More than a score of insurrections, revolutions and revolts have occurred in the past twenty years, to add to the total.

Armies in Europe hardly waited long enough to catch their breath after November 11, 1918, before they began to fight again at home or in Russia.—David Lawrence in United States News.

Clothing and Other Gifts

We have no report on amounts for clothing for boys this time, but have a bit of encouragement from some sources. Hope to report something next week.

Our request is for men's classes or individuals to send us $8.00 each, for clothing and shoes for 40 boys. Three have been taken. Whatever you will do about this, please do next Sunday, October 16. Thank you.

Charlotte Church Auxiliary, Richland, 4 cakes, 6 bags of cookies, and 9 boxes of cookies for school lunches.

Bethany Church Auxiliary, Randolph, 84 half-gallon and 13 quart cans of fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. H. C. Foster, Sr., Burlington, 1 quilt, 3 sweaters, one lumber jacket and other clothing for boys.

We thank all of you for your good help.

The good people of Bethany on Randolph brought their gift of canned goods and money to us, and there came with them three of their faithful women ranging in ages from 73 to 86. They seemed to enjoy looking over the Home. We appreciate their visit.

Just a few more offerings before conference. Please round them up the best you can, and let all churches that have not sent any offering this year send one at once.

Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

SHARING OUR PROBLEMS WITH GOD
Christian Endeavor Topic for October 23

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings:

Monday, October 17—Paul's lifelong problem. II Cor. 12:7-10.

Tuesday, October 18—Peter's problem. Acts 4:19, 20.

Wednesday, October 19—A soul in distress. Ps. 22:1-15.

Thursday, October 20—Telling God his need. Ps. 31:1-15.

Friday, October 21—Jesus' prayer in need. Matt. 11:16-30.

Everyone has problems. This I have never heard anyone deny. From infancy until we leave this world of the earthly flesh we are constantly confronted with problems. Some of these problems are big and some are small, but to us at the time the problem that faces us at that particular moment is the biggest problem in the world. The infant soon finds a solution for all of its problems. Regardless of the problem, it has only to let it be known that something isn't just right and loving hands are waiting to change the situation.

As we grow older our problems are not so easily solved. There are so many more of them and they are in such varied fields. Then, too, the responsibility for solving them is placed upon us instead of loving hands solving them. This is not a bad thing, for a difficult task is a blessing rather than a curse. It is only by overcoming obstacles that we are able to develop—to grow. Disuse of our powers is the most deadening thing in the world. Once we have overcome a difficult problem it is ever so much easier to overcome the next, that we are soon able to make progress even in spite of the many problems that confront us.

Perhaps we may have a problem similar to Paul's. Not that it may be the same thing but it may be a lifelong problem—one that we will never be able to solve. Paul tells us that he had had problems all of his life but when he had his "heart-warming" experience, all of them left him. "And lest I should be uplifted by spiritual pride as the result of these revelations, a painful bodily weakness—the very work of Satan—was inflicted upon me. I prayed earnestly for the removal of this affliction; but the Lord answered me saying, 'My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness.' And therefore I rejoice in my sufferings, because it is in enduring them that I realize most clearly that Christ is helping me. I am glad when trials and persecutions for Christ's sake are my lot, for in my moments of greatest weakness I am strengthened with power from on high."

The Psalmist, when all of the world had apparently turned against him—when he no longer had friends upon earth and everything was going wrong—when he himself could no longer prevail, turned to God and placed all of his trust in Him. He had come to realize that he in his own strength could not overcome his problems, so he turned to the only real source of strength—God.

Daniel, when he was being forced to act different from what his early training and his beliefs told him to do—when his enemies were about to bring trouble to him—went into his house and prayed to the God of his fathers. The God who answered his requests and saved him from death.

Jesus had problems just as you and I have problems. He had food to provide, shelter to secure, and all the other necessities of life to occupy his thought. But when he had these problems He went to His Father, who always answers the call of His worthy children. We find that Jesus went to the Father daily in prayer—prayers of supplication and prayers of thanksgiving. Always when confronted with a problem He remembered the Giver of all good gifts. Then when He faced the most difficult problem of His life we find Him all night in prayer, and He came away from the Garden of Prayer with that most difficult problem solved.

We have problems today—every day—but if we will only remember to put our trust in God as the child does in those anxious hands waiting to do its bidding, then we will never have to worry about our problems. Do not get the idea that God will solve all of your problems just for the asking, for God does not do things in that way. He will, however, always help us if we will but share our problems with Him.

There's a fellow in your office
Who complains and carps and whines,
Till you'd almost do a favor
To his heirs and his assigns.
But I'll tip you to a secret
(And this chap's of course involved)—
He's no foeman to be fought with:
He's a problem to be solved.

There's a duffer in your district
Whose sheer cussedness is such,
He has neither pride nor manners—
No, nor gumption, overmuch.
'Twould be great to up and tell him
Where to go. But be resolved—
He's no foeman to be fought with,
Just a problem to be solved.

This old earth's (I'm sometimes thinking)
One menagerie of freaks—
Folks invested with abnormal
Lungs or brains or galls or beaks.
But we're not just shrieking monkeys
In a dim, vast cage revolved;
We're not foemen to be fought with,
Merely problems to be solved.

—St. Clair Adams.

Visitor: "How old are you, sonny?"

Boy: "That's hard to say, sir. According to my latest school tests, I have a psychological age of eleven and a moral age of ten. Anatomically, I'm seven; mentally, I'm nine. But I suppose you refer to my chronological age. That's eight—but nobody pays any attention to that these days!"—Ex.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

"Go ye therefore and teach all nations. How shall they hear without a preacher, and how shall they go unless they are sent?"

It seems a lot of church members do not believe in foreign missions, but think all they give should be at home. Life is like a school. We might not at the first of our Christian life see the great opportunity of doing some things, but as we grow in grace and in knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, we are sure to enlarge our border and may hear the call, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." And if we are obedient to that still small voice, we will surely give and try to help Christianize all nations. We hear the church say they do not want war: well, that's one way to stop war. Get the gospel of Jesus Christ to the heathen nations, and that's the only way. We must do something about this or we are very selfish indeed when we feel all we give should be used at home. I feel we as a Christian nation, as we call ourselves, should not have to be begged and plead with to help on the great work which Mr. and Mrs. Minnis are doing. We sent them to India, and as all others that have gone to the foreign fields, they have made a great sacrifice, if we should call it that, to leave home and loved ones and go and work in the dangers that we at home do not have in our little work which we are trying to do. It should be to us all a great privilege to give of our means in this great work. It is much easier to give than to go and have to endure the hardships in life as the missionary workers have. They need our money and they need our prayers so much. Do they ever pray for me at home? My prayer is that we all will do more for the foreign field work and try to imagine ourselves away from home and loved ones, and keep the Golden Rule, deny ourselves so we may have something to give to others.

MARTHA PARSONS.

NOTICE

The fourth quarterly conference of Orange charge will be held at Union Grove church, Sunday, October 16, at 3 p. m. All church officers are urged to be present and to submit an annual report. Rally Day will be observed by Efland church Sunday, with a program by the children in the church school at 10 a. m. and the presentation of the play, "The Trial of Everyman's Church," by the young people at 7:30 p. m. Union Grove will observe Rally Day Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a program by the children. Chestnut Ridge will observe Rally Day on the fourth Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the presentation of the play. Thank-Offering services are being planned by the ladies in all the churches. C. P. MORRIS, Pastor.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Roberta, Q. L. Joyner, Pastor.—Another year is almost gone: what have we accomplished for the Master? This question faces us all as the close draws nearer. We feel that we have had a very successful year; not that all our goals have been reached, but most are in reaching distance. We have had a great revival, 64 united with our church and more came later. God blessed in a marvelous way both in the saving of souls and the reviving of Christians. The secret of the great success was prayer. We certainly feel encouraged to press onward and upward. One thing also that encouraged us was the new converts going out to bring other souls into the Kingdom of God. Let us pray that we shall ever keep true to Him, to trust and be at the great task given us as followers of the great Shepherd, and in helping lend others a closer relationship with Him. We are counting on your prayers for our church, especially for the new converts, that they may grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior.

The parsonage family appreciates very much the large number of gifts since our last report to the Herald, from the memoers and friends of our community—Mrs. Carl Williams, Mrs. Sarah Blackwelder, Mrs. Z. D. Cochran, Mrs. Cornell Smith, Mrs. James Sutton, Mrs. Solon Cochran, Mrs. Florence Cagle Ramsey, and Mrs. Carl Blackwelder.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge, Rev. T. M. Johnson, Pastor, Oct. 10.—Our work here is moving along fine. We have much to do, but we are hoping all will work together so we can send our pastor to conference with a splendid report.

Rev. T. M. Johnson filled his regular appointments Sunday morning and evening, bringing two very inspiring messages.

On Saturday before the fourth Sunday, October 22, at 2 o'clock, the fourth and last quarterly conference will be held at Fairview church. We are hoping that each church will have an "over the top" report at this meeting.

Plans are under way for our Rally Day program which will be held soon.

On Sunday, October 2, the Sunday school met to elect new officers for the coming year. We are very glad to say that the Sunday school was highly honored in having Mr. J. P. Waddell elected as superintendent. We are very proud of Mr. Waddell in our church. He is a man of God and has been a great blessing to our church. He was the teacher of the young men's senior class for the past year, and was a great worker with them. He is a great worker for the Lord and he stated Sunday that he wanted to do his part and wanted the Sunday school to cooperate with him and make the next year the best we ever had.

Mr. J. P. Waddell as superintendent, Mr. John D. McClimon as secretary, Mr. N. N. Smith chorister, Miss Lucile Davis as pianist, and Mrs. A. A. Foster to assist her. Mrs. Mort Westmoreland was elected as the teacher for the ladies' Bible class; Mr. A. A. Foster, men's Bible class; Mr. Mack Compton, young men's senior class; Mrs. C. W. McClimon, young ladies' senior class; Mrs. N. N. Smith, girls' intermediate class; Miss Hortense Foster, boys' intermediate class; Miss Lula Pearson, the beginners' class; Miss Kate Poole, the primary class.

Mr. T. M. Johnson spent Sunday night with Mr. B. A. McClimon.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McClimon are proud to announce the birth of a little son on October 7. Mrs. McClimon will be remembered as Miss Essie McElrath.

The Christian Endeavor reorganized Sunday night, October 2. Mr. Hobart Smith was elected president of the Senior Christian Endeavor and Mrs. Eddie Waddell was elected president of the juniors.

We were greatly surprised and highly honored to have our pastor's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Jr., to worship with us Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid reorganized Sunday, October 2. Mrs. A. A. Foster was re-elected as president, and Mrs. R. T. Bennette as the assistant.

As we finished up the old year in our Sunday school and started a new one Sunday, the secretary gave a splendid report of how much had been taken in, paid out, and the balance left in the treasury.

The Lord's Supper was observed Sunday morning after the preaching hour.

The officers of the church will be nominated next fourth Sunday.

Let us pray that this coming year will be a greater one than ever for our church.

The attendance in Sunday school was 137 on Sunday, October 9. May there still be an increase and have a great attendance for Liberty Hill. Pray for us.

MRS. JOHN D. McCLIMON, Reporter.

First Church, Thomasville, Rev. J. T. Bowman, Pastor, Oct. 10.—The attendance at most of our services is picking up considerably, and our people seem to be very much interested in the work of the church.

We are very happy to have our pastor back in the pulpit after having been absent for a couple of weeks because of his broken arm. Mr. Bowman has his arm in a cast, but, in spite of his handicap, he is carrying on this work in a splendid manner.

Last Sunday, October 2, the doors of the church were opened for the reception of members. Six were received into membership. The Sacrament was observed at this time also.

At the morning service yesterday (Sunday) Rev. Mr. Bowman brought us a very inspiring message based on the text taken from James 4:10, "Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He shall lift you up."

The report of the nominating committee was submitted and accepted, after which the official board was elected for next year. They will be installed next Sunday morning.

We were very glad to have Mr. Boyd Foust, assistant president of the C. E. Union, with us Sunday evening. He talked in a very interesting way on the topic of the evening, "Church Work, God's Work."

It seems that Sunday was really a "red letter day" with us at our church. The Woman's Auxiliary held its fall thank-offering service at the evening worship hour. We feel that we were very fortunate in having as our guest speakers Mrs. L. F. Warner and Mrs. Paul Warner, mother and wife of Rev. Paul Warner, missionary from Japan. Mrs. L. F. Warner led in a very interesting and inspiring devotional in which she spoke of our many reasons for gratitude. Mrs. Paul Warner made a very interesting talk in which she told of some of the diffiiculties they expxerienced in spreading the gospel of Christ among the Japanese. All present seemed to thoroughly enjoy both messages, and we pray that God may continue to bless their effiorts in furthering the Gospel.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Myers was made brighter recently by the arrival of another little son.

Our women are to make cakes to send to the Children's Home at High Point one day this week.

There are so many things that perhaps should be reported that it is hard to decide which is most important, so I guess it best to say adieu, hoping the reporters for next year will do better than this one has done this year.

MRS. W. A. LEONARD, Ass't Reporter.

Bethesda, North Davidson.—Our work is moving on about as usual, fair attendance at Sunday school and church services, but still room for improvement. Our pastor is with us twice a month with helpful messages. All officers for the coming year have been elected—most of them are the same as last year.

The girls' classes of the Sunday school took it upon themselves to raise our amount on the Minnis Fund, which was $5.00 They sponsored an oyster and chicken stew supper and raised the amount and more. We always feel proud of our young people when they take part and help out in our church work.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Latham died last week. The family has our sympathy.

The fourth Sunday in this month will be Joash Day at our church. We truly hope that all who have not already paid their church dues will do so at this time so our pastor can go to conference with a good report.

MRS. J. O. EVERHART, Reporter.

Hawkins Chapel Church, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor, Oct. 10.—Fourth Sunday evening the class leader, Mr. C. F. Hawkins, and the assistant, Mr. Edward Hawkins, held prayer service. First Sunday morning Mr. Hawkins held it again, with an inspiring message. He said in his message a truth we ought to be more careful about: that is, the material we send to heaven is what we build our mansion; are we going to wear a starless crown with no gems won?

Brother Trolinger came to us the first Sunday evening, filling his appointment for the fourth Sunday evening; again the second Sunday morning. He will preach for us the first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. At this service officers of the church will be elected.

We were glad indeed to have Brother Trolinger's brother and his son and wife and other visitors to worship with us Sunday.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Littleton church October 22, Saturday before the fourth Sunday at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Clarence Hawkins is in the Roanoke Rapids hospital but getting along nicely after an operation for appendicitis.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Zoar, Mecklenburg Charge.—I want to say that our church work has been going on very well this year. Much interest has been taken. Three years ago when Rev. Mr. Short arrived on this work our membership had gone down very low; it seemed that all had lost interest. But during these three years of hard work we have received 15 new members and much interest has been created.

I think I can speak for my church and say we never had a pastor our people liked better; if we seek to see not so much the preacher but the God he labors for, we would get more blessing out of going to church. If Rev. Mr. Short should not be returned to us for another year we hope that conference will send us a man that will push us forward and that Brother Short will receive a great reward for the good work he is doing.

LILLIE ADKINS.

Center, Alamance Circuit, Rev. H. L. Isley, Pastor.—Our pastor gave us a splendid sermon today from the subject, "The Marks of a Christian," using Galatians 6:17 for a text.

Our Children's Day service was held the third Sunday morning in September which was very interesting and impressive.

The Woman's Auxiliary is very active under the leadership of Mrs. Alfred Lindley. All meetings have been held and our budget is paid to date. We sent $5.75 to the Minnis Fund last Sunday and we take an offering for the Children's Home every second Sunday morning.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Glenn, two of our distant members, worship with us last Sunday, and also to have Mr. T. J. McVey, a visitor from Graham. Visitors are always welcome.

We have just one more appointment before conference, and we are hoping to pay all claims.

MRS. C. C. RICHARDSON, Reporter.

Baltimore Church, West Forsyth Charge.—The usual schedule of services was observed last Sunday, beginning with Sunday school at 10 o'clock under the direction of Mr. O. G. Griffin, superintendent. We have not been having as good attendance either at Sunday school or church as we would like to have, but it is not the fault of either our pastor or Sunday school superintendent, for they believe in doing their part.

At the 11 o'clock service our pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree, delivered an inspiring and comforting message on "The Power to Witness for Christ." The scripture lesson was taken from Acts 1:1-11, and the text was part of the 8th verse. He asked the question, "What kind of witness have we been for our Master?" First we have to possess the presence of the Holy Spirit. Jesus told His disciples that they should wait until they received power from on high. These disciples were to carry on Jesus' work after His ascension by witnessing for Him, telling of what they knew of His character, deeds, and teachings.

The best sermon is the witness of one in whom the gospel has wrought its wondrous change. "Be it unto you according to your faith" is the answer to all Christians who earnestly desire spiritual power in witnessing.

Acts 1:8 is "the last promise and the last command which the friends of Jesus heard from the lips of their blessed Master." Christ wants to dwell in each of us. Shall we not open wide our hearts for His indwelling, and witness of Him?

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Union Hill church the fourth Sunday afternoon in this month. All members are requested and urged to be present.

JOSEPHINE PHILLIPS, Reporter.

Rockingham, H. W. Bell, Pastor.—Our revival meeting, which began Sunday night, October 2, and ended last Sunday night, was a great success. Rev. Earl A. Cook, of Albemarle, N. C., was pulpit help, and Mr. P. H. McCoy of East Rockingham Baptist church led the choir. There was a good attendance each night and the neighboring churches cooperated splendidly.

We think that we have one of the best junior choirs. Mr. McCoy puts his heart into the singing, and we hope to have him with us again in the future.

We pray God's blessings upon Mr. Cook and his church. He brought us some wonderful messages.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held at Bethesda church the fifth Sunday evening of this month.

Our pastor, Rev. H. W. Bell, and our church requests your prayers. We want to move forward and accomplish more this coming year than ever before.

REPORTERS.

Randleman, C. L. Spencer, Pastor.—It has been quite a while since a report was made from us busy workers. Guess some may think probably we are not doing anything to report, but let's hope no one will get that impression.

The Auxiliary met at the church last Tuesday evening. There were nearly all the members present. Mrs. C. L. Spencer presided over the meeting. She was also the devotional leader. Mrs. O. R. Trogdon and Mrs. L. R. Hughes were program leaders. Mrs. J. L. Hall was question box leader. Mrs. John Daniels dismissed with prayer.

On Sunday night Mr. L. R. .Hughes conducted an old-fashioned class meeting which was well attended and very spiritual. Our pastor made a very interesting talk, and each one present also had a part.

Our Sunday school attendance has been very well throughout the summer, considering the summer vacations. It isn't long until we send our delegate to conference, but we have a good bit of work to do to have a 100% report, which we are hoping to accomplish.

The Christian Endeavor is steadily increasing in membership and interest under the leadership of Mrs. C. R. Wood.

Our pastor has filled his regular appointments during the weeks we have failed to report. Our pastor is on the go most all the time and we just pray the Father to give him health and strength. He has helped in so many revivals in the past two months.

The interest in our prayer meetings on Wednesday evening is encouraging. Mr. Edd Jarrett is our leader for next Wednesday, so all of you who possibly can, come out to prayer meeting, help with your presence, your prayers, your talents, and let's try to labor as our Master would have us.

ROZELLE SMITH, Reporter.

Hope Church, Siler City Charge.—Our first Sunday appointment was well attended and deeply impressed by a splendid message delivered by our pastor, Mr. Smith.

As the conference year draws to a close we are striving and succeeding to become 100% perfect as near as possible. During the year there has been a very splendid interest shown in all activities. We hope that this interest may spread even wider and greater than in the past. Our present goal is to get our subscription quota up.

The Sunday school ended a very successful year with the month of September. Clayton Blair was unanimously re-elected as superintendent for another year. The Sunday school attendance is very good and we hope that it will remain so during the winter months.

Mrs. D. H. Vestal, who has been kept away from church by illness, was able to be out Sunday.

LUCY MARGARET JONES.

Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor.—Since the conference year is so rapidly drawing to a close I will write a few lines about the work here. We have been very busy during the revival season and there has been a spiritual awakening on this charge.

Our first revival meeting was held at Greer's Chapel, beginning the fifth Sunday in July, with Rev. H. W. Bell as the help. He came to us on Sunday and remained to the close. Brother Bell preached the gospel with great earnestness and power, and the people heard him gladly. Here we had 13 conversions and four additions to the church.

Our meeting began at Friendship on the first Sunday in August, and Dr. N. G. Bethea was the evangelist who did all the preaching and did it well. The people were greatly strengthened and edified by his plain gospel messages, and they were delighted to have him in their homes. There were 10 conversions and 10 additions to the church, and it was a revival that is still holding good in the church.

Our meeting began at Shiloh on the third Sunday in August, with Dr. J. D. Williams doing the preaching. I had always been told that Dr. Williams was a good preacher, and he certainly did live up to his reputation. He did a fine piece of work here, and his heart-searching and soul-stirring sermons will never be forgotten by the large congregations who heard him. The visible results were nine conversions and nine additions to the church. It was a blessing and a privilege for this pastor and people to work and fellowship with these brethren.

I think we are in shape now for a very successful closing of the year's work. It has been hard work and plenty of it, but we have all been happy in the doing of it. I am sending enough Herald subscriptions in this week to entitle us to all the credits the Herald has to offer. I feel safe in saying that every church on the charge will be on every honor roll, and we are also going to do our best on the financial objective of the Fellowship Crusade. We are expecting splendid reports from all churches in our fourth quarterly conference to be held at Shiloh church on Saturday, October 22, at 2 p.m. This is an important meeting and a large attendance is expected.

Brother Jake Pickett, one of the oldest members in Shiloh church, is ill at his home at this writing, and Brother N. L. Evans has been indisposed for the past two weeks with flu. Brother Hugh Lanning and perhaps others have been kept away from church on account of sickness. We are anxious to see them all at their place in church again soon.

PASTOR.

St. Paul's, Greensboro.—On Sunday night, October 2, we closed a week of special services. Rev. Edward Suits of High Point was here to assist the pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton. The success of a revival must not always be judged from the number of converts, as we feel that our meeting did much good for all, despite the few converts. The whole church is better for having engaged in a campaign for soul-saving, as we all rededicate ourselves for fuller and more sincere service.

Our pastor's wife is at home again and is making progress toward good health once more.

The Ladies' Aid society held its September meeting with Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway and found them well and happy. The October meeting will be held at the church Saturday night, the 8th.

Salem, Saxapahaw Charge.—We are glad to report our church and Sunday school are moving along nicely. Our Sunday school attendance has held up good during the summer months. Still there are lots of people in the community that do not attend. We hope we can do something that will get them interested and cause them to attend, because we need them.

Our church hut was dedicated last Sunday afternoon. We were very glad to have it dedicated. The service was attended by a large crowd. The sermon was preached by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Bingham. A history of the hut was read by Leo Quakenbush. He gets much credit for the hut being built along with others of our faithful membership. The Hebron choir sang for us. This good singing was enjoyed by all. We hope they can come again.

We were glad to welcome the visitors at this time and all other services. Salem gives you an invitation of welcome.

We hope our hut will be of help to the church and help us to do better work.

Our claims are coming up very good. We hope we can come up this year with everything paid in full. We can if every one will do his part.

Our last quarterly conference will be held Saturday before the fifth Sunday in October. We hope all of our official members can attend.

Our pastor has preached us some very fine sermons during the year. In every way he has given of his best. The people have expressed their appreciation for him by their good attendance during the year.

The District Rally will be held on the fifth Sunday in October at Bethel. We hope as many as can will attend.

MRS. J. P. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Charge, J. B. Trogdon, Pastor, Oct. 10.—Our revival continued one week with our pastor doing all the preaching, with the exception of one night when Rev. A. H. Hill, from Why Not charge, preached a splendid sermon, that is his regular custom so we are not surprised at this message being good. Come again Brother Hill. The attendance was good and we hope much good will result, five joined the church last Sunday at the morning service; they were Henry Kersey, Claud Mooney, Mrs. Claud Mooney, Miss Ora Maie Cashatt and Mrs. E. R. Neese. We welcome them to our church home and hope others may join us.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Paul Kersey is confined to her bed but hope she will soon be back in her place; she is one of our faithful members, so she is greatly missed.

We appreciate visitors from all the churches on the work through our revival services and also glad to have Mrs. Trogdon, our pastor's wife, attend services. Come again Mrs. Trogdon.

MARTHA PARSONS.

Richland Charge, M. C. Henderson, Pastor, Oct. 4.—It has been some time since we have sent a report, but that doesn't mean that we have not been doing things. We closed our last meeting September 27 with good results. We had 79 professions and 46 accessions. We are hoping to receive others before conference.

Rev. Wayne Curtis of Burlington was with us at Brower's and led the singing. We enjoyed having him and hope he will come our way again. We had Brother C. G. Isley of Albemarle for our pulpit help at Giles. Brother Isley did some wonderful preaching; the spirit of God was there and many souls were saved. We were glad to have him with us and in our home.

Results of meetings: New Union, 26 professions, 16 accessions; Cedar Falls, 16 professions, 12 acessions; Brower's, 10 professions; Charlotte, 2 accessions; Giles, 28 professions, 16 accessions.

REV. M. C. HENDERSON.

State St., O. C. Loy, Pastor.—It has been quite a while since we have written, although we are getting along fine. Our attendance is encouraging and everybody is working.

We were very happy over the outcome of our booth at the Davidson county fair grounds. We sold different kinds of sandwiches, pies and plate dinners, cold drinks and coffee; a lot of the material was donated and prepared in the homes and carried to the booth, everybody worked with the best of cooperation the entire week. We realized that we were busy and selling a lot but the big surprise came when Mr. Loy made his final check-up and reported $132.00 cleared. We thank everyone who helped to make this possible, especially Mr. Loy who proposed project and his untiring efforts to make it a success.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Fred C. McPherson and Miss Doris Dixon were married last week. Mrs. Dixon had served several years as matron in the M. P. Children's Home near High Point, and is a niece of Dr. Dixon. Mr. McPherson is a popular member of our Sunday school and operates the Sunlight laundry in Lexington, which is his privately owned business. State Street church extends a warm welcome to Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. Fred Cox, leader of the Sunshine circle, Mrs. Joe Everhart and Mrs. W. T. Neal, leaders of the Mission band, gave a social in the dining room of the church last Friday night and invited the mothers as special guests. The effect of the meeting was to acquaint the mother with the spirit of reverence that is being taught their children.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet in the home of Mrs. Walter Jenkins Tuesday night, and on Friday night Mrs. Wilbur Sink will be hostess to the Philathea class. We expect good attendance for both meetings.

We ask the prayers of all Christians in our work for the glory of God.

MRS. W. T. NEAL, Reporter.

Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion Charge.—The special meeting on the second Sunday in September began with Mr. Morris preaching Sunday at 11 o'clock and Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. His son came on Monday, remaining through Friday evening's services. He preached some soul-stirring sermons, which made us realize more fully the great responsibility that rest upon us as professed followers of Jesus. The results were good. Seventeen professions and reclamations; several additions to the church. Many folks spoke highly of the messages and voiced opinions that they would enjoy having him to return again.

The Woman's Auxiliary gave a Thank Offering program at 7:30 o'clock which was very good. All seemed to enjoy the service. Collection amounted to $10.23, which we were so thankful for.

Shiloh C. E. Society.—I would like to summarize briefly the work of Shiloh Christian Endeavor society for the year and to express a few words of tribute to this fine group of young people who are doing such a great work through this organization.

I think this has been one of the best years in the history of our Christian Endeavor society. We have had the best of co-operation in every movement.

This society has an enrollment of 65 and have maintained a good average attendance all the year. These boys and girls are ready to push forward in any worthy move. It was this fine group that put our Herald quota across.

Every church needs a good wide-awake Christian Endeavor. In this organization they receive much training for leadership and consecrated service in their church.

The world is offering many things to the youth today. But these things do not last. The help that boys and girls receive in the Christian Endeavor will stand the test of all ages in life and death. Our motto has been,

Lord lay some soul upon my heart
And love that soul through me,
And may I humbly do my part
To win that soul for thee.

These young people have helped to carry the financial end of our church also. We set as our goal at the beginning of the year, to raise $15. We are well on our way to the goal. The society paid $75 on an electric refrigerator for the parsonage; $10 on the Troxler Fund, besides other small items.

Just a few weeks remain in the year to work. Have we done our best? We must sometimes give an account of our stewardship. May we have done our best.

As leader of these boys and girls I have spent many happy hours working with them. If I have helped any one in the smallest way, may God have the praise. The prayer of my heart is when we have come to the end of the way, we can look back and say with Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

This year has also brought sadness to us. Last May one of our very faithful members left us to be with Christ—Frank Waitman. He was always present and willing to work. We don't understtand all the ways of our Father now but we shall understand farther on. Just before dawn comes the darkest hours. A chair vacant, a voice still. Our loss, His gain. It was God's will.

One of our members is afflicted now, Hugh Lowman. Hope he may soon be well again.

The first Sunday night we will elect officers for the coming year, and lay the foundation for our work. May we be much in prayer and may His spirit lead.

RAY LEATHERMAN, President.

Spring Church, Spring Church Charge, B. M. Williams, Pastor.—It has been quite a while since there has been a report from our church. We haven't been at a standstill, but steadily going forward in the Master's work.

On the fourth Sunday in July one of the best Children's Day services in the history of the church was held. A nice offering was realized which went toward our World Service budget. Thanks goes to Miss Virginia Massey, a graduae of High Point College, for training the children so well. In the afternoon Rev. C. K. Cunningham of Emporia gave an interesting talk on missions. Mr. Cunningham served as a missionary in Cuba for seven years.

Our revival began on the fourth Sunday in August, with Dr. Edward Jordan of Philadelphia, Pa., doing the preaching. Dr. Jordan was a member of our church when he was a boy, and we are always glad to have him come back and preach to us. The attendance was good and the sermons were practical. We did not gain any new members, but feel that the membership was greatly revived.

Yesterday at the regular preaching hour our fall thank-offering service was held. Mrs. Vassar, our thank-offering secretary, had charge of the devotions. Mrs. G. J. Mitchell, secretary of Christian Education, invited Mr. H. L. Webb, superintendent of schools for Granville county, to make a talk on Christian Education. I am sure everyone enjoyed Mr. Webb's talk. A very liberal offering was received.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be held in our church on Saturday night, October 15, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Pritchard will be with us. We hope each church will be well represented and give Dr. Pritchard a large audience.

On the fifth Sunday in this month the district rally will be held with us. We are looking forward to it and want to invite as many as can to come and be with us. Mr. Harward and Miss Hardee, our district chairmen, will publish the program in the near future. Watch for it.

Our attendance at Sunday school has been cut down some as right many of our young people have gone back to college. Lunsford Crew has returned to the University of North Carolina to take up the study of law; Archie Williams is a junior at High Point College; Mabel Massey returned to W. C. U. N. C. at Greensboro to take up her second year's work; Miriam Crew entered Peace Junior College in Raleigh as a freshman, and Vista Robinson returned to Westhampton College, Richmond, where she will be a junior. Miss Virginia Massey is teaching near Burlington and Mr. James Massey holds a position at Bristol, Tenn. We miss these young people in our church. We wish them the best of luck in their undertakings.

We want to invite the people of the first district again to be with us on the fifth Sunday.

MRS. R. M. ROBINSON.

Pleasant Hill Church, Rev. G. B. Ferree, Pastor.—We are looking forward to the annual home-coming of the members, former pastors, and friends of our church, which will be held Sunday, October 16. There will, of course, be Sunday school at 10 o'clock and the home-coming address at 11 o'clock will be presented by Mr. Carl M. Felts of King, N. C. Mr. Felts is now connected with the Stokes county schools and was formerly the principal of the school of our community. There will also be an afternoon program consisting of music and a short play entitled "The Trial of Everyman's Church."

The revival meeting will begin Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock with the Rev. J. L. Trollinger in charge of the services, and will continue throughout the week. We wish to extend a most cordial invitation to all former pastors and friends to be with us.

Central Church, Asheboro. — Our ten-day special meeting closed, as scheduled, Sunday night, September 26. Bros. Madison and Ridge endeared themeslves to our people by their pleasing personalities, their warm Christian spirit, and their efficient service. We did not accomplishs by the meeting all that we had hoped for; that is often true. But we were helped by it. Those who attended were quickened spiritually and made stronger in their religious purposes. During the last week we held three services a day, the afternoon services being devoted particularly to our children and young people. It was highly gratifying to have Bros. Madison and Ridge with us in our closing service Sunday night. We were pleased to have Mrs. Madison in some of the services during the meeting, and also Mrs. Ridge, Mrs. Shoaf of the Shiloh church, and Miss Lelia Byerly and Mrs. Ida Byerly Holt of Friendship church. Both of these churches are served by Brother Ridge. Some years ago Mrs. Holt was a member of the faculty of the Asheboro schools. Since our meeting closed, the following have been received into the membership of the church: Peggy Marie Almond, Maxine McCullers, George Ann Kivett, Vera Etta Lamb, E. N. Morgan, Mrs. E. N. Morgan, William Henry Underwood, Henry Rupert Trollinger, Betty Brown Trollinger, and William Henry Huntley. A glad welcome is extended to these additions to our roll.

Our work is moving orderly and encouragingly toward the closing. All church and Sunday school officers and teachers have been elected and will be installed in due time. Our finances are in good condition, despite the fact that but little has been said about money from the pulpit during the year. We are now pressing our fall Herald campaign and we hope to have our subscription allotment in the editor's hands in a short time. All of our organizations are in good condition and will make a gratifying showing in the final report. Our C. E. society announced Sunday night a 50-attendance goal within the next three months. Our Boy Scouts are happy over their new scout cabin, which is now nearing completion. Our Rally Day, observed October 2, culminated in a most pleasing and worshipful pageant, "The Trial of Everyman's Church." Ten persons were in the cast. They did this program to the delight and edification of a large congregation. The pageant is highly worthy and rewarding.

Our church family was saddened recently by the passing of Sister C. F. Smith. The end came Sunday night, October 2, after a long period of declining health. A good woman has gone from us. But heaven is richer. The family and relatives have the deep sympathy of our congregation.

Four weeks and then comes conference. Asheboro will have her usual honor roll report.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

McPherson

Miss Sarah Lillian Foust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foust, was born near Bethel M. P. church, May 26, 1905, and her spirit went back to God September 20, 1938, being 33 years old. On December 24, 1932, she was united in marriage with Mr. Paul Holt McPherson, living happily together until death separated them.

In young girlhood she accepted Christ as her personal Savior and joined Bethel Methodist Protestant church, living a beautiful Christian life, willing to use her trained mind to the glory of God. Her disposition was sunny, she possessed an unusually charming personality, and was always optimistic. During her long illness of eight months she was always cheerful. One wonders why she was taken from the community, the church, and the home. But God makes no mistakes, and "all things work together for good to those who love the Lord." Mrs. McPherson had a great desire to recover, that she might influence others to live the Christian life.

Surviving besides her husband and parents are five sisters and five brothers, as follows: Mrs. C. W. Howell, Mrs. W. C. Garrett, Mrs. Russell McPherson, Mrs. L. L. Graves, Mrs Kermit Cook, Talmadge, Robert, Wilson, Buddy, and Fred Foust.

Funeral services were held at Bethel on September 21, the large auditorium being unable to accommodate the large crowd present. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

May the Lord comfort and bless the bereaved.

T. Lee Whitaker

T. Lee Whitaker, 75 years of age, passed away at his country home, "Myrtle Lawn," near Enfield, N. C., early Saturday morning, September 24, 1938. He was the son of the late Ferdinand H. Whitaker and his wife, Louisa DeBerry Whitaker. He is survived by one sister, Miss Jewel E. Whitaker, of the home place; numerous nieces and nephews, and a large family connection.

He was a member of Whitakers' Chapel Methodist Protestant church. The Whitaker family have been faithful and loyal Methodist Protestants of outstanding note for a period of years.

Mr. Whitaker was an extensive land owner and a prominent business man. His interests were wide and varied, few men in Halifax county being more closely connected with its business and financial affairs. Quiet and unassuming in his manner, he lent financial help to many people, both white and colored. Probably the extent of his benefactions will never be known.

Funeral services were held at Whitakers Chapel at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 25, 1938, conducted by Rev. E. O. Peeler, a former pastor. Music was furnished by a quartet. The pallbearers were nephews of the deceased: Edgar Whitaker, of Charlotte, N. C.; Frank Whitaker, of Atlanta, Ga.; Stanley, Lawrence, John Cary, and Hubert Whitaker, of Enfield, N. C.

After the casket was lowered and covered with many floral offerings the service was closed with the following words:

"Warm summer sun, shine kindly here;
Warm southern wind, blow softly here;
Green sod above, lie light, lie light

Rowland Haywood Haupt

Rowland Haywood Haupt was born, a native of Kaufman, Texas, on March 7, 1897, a son of Mrs. Ella Taylor Haupt and the late Edward Haupt. He departed this life on Sunday afternoon at about 5 o'clock, September 18, 1938.

He had been a resident of Concord for about 25 years, and was an employee of the Gibson Mill at the time of his death. Prior to that he had been an insurance salesman here.

On August 21, 1920, he was united in marriage to Miss Edna Atwell. He was a member of Stokes Lodge of Masons, and a faithful and loyal member of the First Methodist Protestant church of this city. He was a dutiful son, and a faithful and devoted husband.

When there was service at his church his presence could always be counted on. He taught a class of boys in the Sunday school for a number of years, had served on a number of official boards of the church, and at the time of his death he was a teacher, a member of the board of stewards, and an usher in the church. He did more than attend church, he supported it with his material means.

The surviving relatives are his wife, Mrs. Edna Atwell Haupt; his mother, Mrs. Ella Merrington, who lives at his home; one brother, Edward Haupt, of Newton, N. C.; and one half-brother, Clarence Merrington, of Concord.

Funeral services were conducted at the church of which he was a member, on Tuesday afternoon, September 20, by Rev. E. O. Peeler, assisted by Rev. C. E. Baucom, pastor of McGill Street Baptist church, and Rev. W. B. McSwain, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church.

His body was laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery beneath a blanket of flowers.

E. O. PEELER.

OUR PLAN FOR THE THANKSGIVING OFFERING

In the N. C. Conference, November, 1938

1. Our Aim: Everybody contributing something.

2. We are sending out Dime Cards for use among the children in the Sunday schools and in the community. Sunday school teachers will handle these in the best possible way to get them filled with dimes and returned to the committee.

3. We are also sending out envelopes for the individual members of the church and Sunday school. The committee will see that every adult member of the Sunday school and church has an envelope.

4. Right near Thanksgiving the committee will follow up and see that every one returns his envelope with an offering in it.

5. "A Day's Income" for the Children's Home at Thanksgiving is to be stressed among the adults, by the pastor, by the Sunday school superintendent, and by the committee with the emphasis on, "Everyone Contributing."

6. When the committee of three or more is set up in each local church, let each committeeman act as a captain and appoint other workers as the need may require to help in his territory. Remembering always that we are out for an EVERY MEMBER CANVASS.

7. Remember also that each church has friends in the community who will gladly contribute to Orphanage work, if approached and asked to do so.

8. Plan a district meeting for Wednesday night, November 23, to be held at some central church in the district. Have each church bring its offering and present it at that meeting. If your charge is too far removed from the center of your district then plan a circuit meeting on that same evening.

This paper was prepared for our District Chairmen, and is published for your information. We are delayed a bit in getting our envelopes and literature. Will send it out to our District Chairmen as soon as possible. Hope to have it to you in good time.

Twins are always interesting to me. One thing about it is that I always try to see how much difference there is in their looks. Well there is a difference in the looks of these figures, but while one is larger than the other, just so they accomplished the same thing, getting their quota, what difference does it make? In this case one is nearly twice as large as the other, but the smaller gets the quota assigned, and that is reason enough for giving them a boost. So here goes to Siler City for the largest amount as well as getting the amount of quota. But that came by the "skin of their teeth" as Shiloh, that church that made such a fine record last week, in sending in the biggest amount of money on subscriptions in some time, and they got out too, on their allotment. And Liberty, "give me liberty or give me—" the quota. Well, thank you, we got it in the bag. That is fine. Sorry the printer failed to get Shiloh in capitals, too, but then it will be in next week, I am sure. Just an oversight.

Now we have 15 charges over. They should come in faster than that! Let's see what can be done about it this week. Lots of other things to be paid off soon. Get the Herald subsidy and quota for subscriptions out of the way before all these others crowd out some of the best things.

Mrs. Kearns, your check came in fine. My, but if everybody that has the ability to pay this off would just get down to it and get it done, so we could look at it before Conference, I believe we would all enjoy it more. You know when you rush the Editor and Business Manager at Conference, and the report comes in afterwards, it does not have quite so much interest. Everybody is too much interested in where everybody is going. Put it in NOW.

MT. MORIAH CHURCH, CLEVELAND CHARGE

To Be Dedicated Next Sunday

Rev. T. Glenn Madison, Pastor

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

The Western Pastors' Federation Meeting

The Western Pastors' Federation meeting was held at our Church in Albemarle on Tuesday, October 4. The attendance was not as large as usual, due, perhaps, to the fact that we have had several meetings for our men to attend this year. But those who were present were very much interested. Rev. C. E. Ridge is the president of this Federation and Rev. T. G. Madison is secretary. The program as previously announced in the HERALD was carried out and I do not have space to comment on that. This Federation has been very active and has been an agency for great good for the past few years. At the noon hour the good women of the Albemarle Church served a splendid meal absolutely free of charge. This was a very generous act on their part.

Dr. and Mrs. Dixon Honored

On Friday night of last week almost fifty people assembled at our Children's Home at High Point to honor Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon on the tenth anniversary of their coming to the Home, Dr. Dixon being the Superintendent there. Those who took parts assigned them on the program were Mr. J. M. Millikan, the chairman of the Board of Trustees, Rev. J. C. Madison, the pastor of the First Church, High Point; Judge Lewis E. Teague, of High Point; Dr. C. W. Bates, pastor of the Haw River Charge and Dr. R. M. Andrews, the editor of the HERALD. Mr. J. Norman Wills and Mrs. W. C. Hammer were supposed to have spoken but were unable to be present, the former on account of illness, the latter being out of the state. This was a most delightful occasion and all seemed to enjoy it very much. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon were highly praised for their good work there and received many congratulations and good wishes for the future.

Children's Home Thanksgiving Offering

I am urging every pastor and every Church to be making plans for the Thanksgiving offering at the Home. There will not be time after the adjournment of Conference to make plans, so what is done will have to be done largely before Conference. A liberal offering for the Home from every Church will go a long way toward solving the present financial problem. Let no pastor nor Church fail here.

Another Appeal for Superannuates

Last week I said I would say more this week about the Fund for the Superannuates. These two months of September and October were set aside for the Churches to raise this assessment. Some have raised it in full, others will do so, but some have not done much. Now is the time to be busy. Get it in some way for we dare not fail these who have given their lives for the Church and are not able to work.

And let pastors remember that they are to send to the Conference Treasurer one per cent of their salary after deducting the first $500, to be used for Superannuates. This money may be sent to the Treasurer before Conference or handed to him during Conference. Thus, if a man receives $1,000 in salary he would pay 1% on $500 which would be $5. The man who receives $1,500 salary would pay 1% of $1,000 or $10 to this fund.

Spring Church Quarterly Conference

Last Saturday night I was privileged to hold the fourth quarterly conference on the Spring Church Charge. This was my first opportunity to see the new beautiful brick Church building. It is a credit to the community and a monument to those who have helped to build it. In the quarterly conference the pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, gave a good report, even though he has been greatly hindered because of his health. A goodly number had joined the Church and the congregations had been good. A considerable amount remains to be paid on salary and budgets before the Charge can consider that its obligations have been met, but I trust these will be met before the year ends. Brother Williams is held in high esteem by the people and all recognize him as being one of the best men the Charge has ever had. The fact that he is physically unable to drive his car is making it hard for him to finish up the year in a way that he would like to do.

A Sunday Morning at Lebanon

Last Sunday morning was spent with the Lebanon Church on the Spring Church Charge. This was my first service in this Church although I had seen the building before. This Church seems to be prospering. The people who attend appear to be well-informed and seem to be in good circumstances. It was a pleasure to be with them and I trust they may continue to measure up to their opportunities.

An Afternoon and Evening on Halifax Charge

Rev. W. M. Howard, Pastor

The afternoon service was at Eden Church where it was a great pleasure to preach to these people, some of whom were the most loyal supporters of the Church during this writer's first pastorate. Long may Eden live and prosper!

The quarterly conference was held at Bethesda at the evening hour and was well attended. Brother Howard, the pastor, made a good report; a goodly number of people having been received into the Churches. Finances on this work are considerably behind but much will be done in the remaining weeks. This Charge as well as the Spring Church Charge has a substantial membership. They appreciate the Church and consider it a privilege to have a part in it. The Charge regrets exceedingly to lose the fine services of Pastor Howard, however; he has already enrolled at the University at Chapel Hill for a special course and will not take work after Conference. The matter of supply was left in the hands of the delegate and the Conference.

The Brinkleyville community where the parsonage is located is to have electric power in the near future and this will help in many ways.

Plain Facts About the Fellowship Crusade

It was inaugurated by the Board of Administration of the Church; it was adopted by the Annual Conference; the objectives were set up by a committee elected by the Annual Conference. The Conference authorized the financial goals, 50 per cent for the college, 4-15 for World Service, 3-15 for Annual Conference debt. The financial objective of each pastoral charge was set at one-third the amount pastor received on the preceding year. Hundreds of letters were sent to pastors and leading laymen. no one refused to cooperate, scores pledged their support and cooperation; it has not been called off. The Director and members of the Committee have been ready to assist every pastor who requested assistance. No minister has the right to enter a Church which has a pastor without the permission of the pastor to ask for money, or to plead for the adoption of any cause. So each pastor was asked to put on the Crusade or to call for assistance. The results to be tabulated for the coming session of the Annual Conference will reveal what has been accomplished.

Ten Years at the Home

Last Friday evening the "larger boys and girls of the Children's Home" entertained in honor of the tenth anniversary of the stay of "Daddy and Mother" Dixon at the Home. A bountiful dinner was served by these young people to quite a number of the friends of the Home. Many speeches were made and a general good time was had by all present. The Editor congratulates the Conference on the decade of successful service these two consecrated people have given the Home. A most difficult place to fill. It is very trying indeed to do the work and keep the Home going, but to do it, as it often happens, without ever a token from many to show their appreciation of such a service, is even a greater trial. Often has the writer been impressed with the heartless sort of way we Church folk accept the service of our pastors, agents, Editors, Presidents, Secretaries and others. We exact of them a service that is really perfect and give to them, such poor cooperation that even an angel could not do his best under the circumstances. When the Home was started there were those who said it would fail; and since it begun it has had to meet the criticism of people within and without the Church, but it has gone on and done a splendid work notwithstanding it all. We wish for the Superintendent, his wife and co-laborers many happy returns of the day.

Install Your Church Officers

No pastor should fail to install the officers of the local Church; this ought to be done before the Annual Conference meets, too. The occasion affords a good opportunity for the pastor to emphasize the duties of the officers and by doing so to inform the members present what those duties are also. And many Churches need to have this information broadcasted to their members. This service may be conducted in a very simple manner. A sermon may be preached stressing faithful service, or a program may be arranged in which the officers pledge themselves to be faithful, etc., whichever form is used can be made impressive and thus effective.

Looking Forward to the Annual Conference

There is one event in the life of every pastor in a Methodist Church which is never forgotten. He may forget his birthday, or his wife's birthday, but never will he forget that he is to attend the approaching Annual Conference. But this yearning may have a multitude of motives. We have thought that to some it was just a place to mingle with old friends and to find new ones. The sessions of the Conference did not seem to attract them. We have seen others who regarded it as a sort of ecclesiastical "Stock Exchange"; a place old pastorates were surrendered and new ones taken up. But there are always a goodly number of men who go there to transact the business of the Conference, and to do it well, so we usually get the work done in the accustomed five days.

At least three definite things will happen at the Annual Conference; reports from pastors will be submitted for the records of the Conference; plans will be adopted for the coming year, and pastors will be appointed to the Churches of the Conference. Every pastor must submit a report of his labors. This report ought so greatly to concern the pastor that he shall see to it that there be no error in it; no omission of an important detail and no misstatement of fact. We can hardly over emphasize the importance of this part the pastor must play. Then every pastor and every delegate should know what plans the Conference adopts for the new year. To do this they must remain in the business sessions, and should take part. As to the appointment of pastors for the coming year, we have become so nearly congregational that it often happens with some pastorates the Annual Conference is hardly more than a rubber stamp. But this is also a very important function of the Conference. However not so important that it should overshadow all other acts, as some seem to think.

So all pastors are looking forward to Conference, and we wish for every one a most successful year. We do hope that the reports shall be splendid this year. We are expecting to see a substantial net gain in membership reported, and we do hope that the claims shall be paid in full. To this end the Editor is looking forward to the coming Conference which meets with Calvary Church November 9.

Fixing the Pastor's Salary for Next Year

Our Discipline makes the fourth quarterly conference the time and place to determine the pastor's salary for the coming year. It is a much more important matter than some of our congregations realize. It is too frequently left out of the considerations of that Conference. In fact, some people have yet to understand why a pastor cannot give all his time to their work and live on the "hand outs" of the members after he has warmed their hearts with a mighty appeal from the pulpit. If the preacher were not a human being with creaturely needs, this might happen. But the preacher must eat, wear clothes, have a place to live, must pay the expenses of his daily bread as though he were not even a member of the Church. And if he must give his entire time to the work of his Church, he must therefore depend upon the support of that Church to live. He is entitled to a support, "For the workman is worthy of his hire." And no self-respecting congregation ought to be willing for their pastor to be humiliated by making debts for his daily bread which he could not pay. And how shall he pay unless he is also paid? The salary of a pastor should be determined by the ability of the people to pay; and should be regarded as much a financial obligation as any obligation made by a layman.

Fix the salary for your pastor then; do it without knowing who he will be, of course, but with a desire to make it adequate for the sort of a pastor you expect the Conference to send you. Never leave it to be fixed at the first quarterly conference, if it can be avoided.

Don't Let Down

We hear some pastors saying that there appears to be a disposition on the part of some "To let down" in their efforts for the institutions and enterprises of the Church now that Union is just before them. Surely, beloved, this is no time to slow up on anything. If there are debts on the Church, somebody must pay those debts; then why slow up now? If the Church has always had difficulty in raising the Conference claims, that fact is the greater reason for trying harder to raise those claims than ever before.

It is the opinion of the Editor that Methodist unification is not going to be effected as by magic. It is one thing to adopt plans, to decide upon procedures, to be perfectly willing for Union to be consummated, it quite another thing to consummate this. While there are many places where two Methodist Churches possibly ought to unite for efficiency or economy's sake, but even although this may be very apparent, it will take time to work out all the details of the merger. In other words, we must be faithful to our own Church and see it through in this Union; and we must be patient in working the processes, remembering that we are dealing with people and can never go faster than they are ready and willing to go.

It would indeed be easy to wreck your Church—an institution it has taken the efforts, prayers, faithfulness and means of several generations of loyal souls to build up. We cannot conceive of a real loyalty to any cause which gives support only so long as one has his or her way in that cause. He or she who is unwilling to support the leaders of his Church is unworthy to lead in any department of that Church. The time of testing is upon us. Has our attachment to the Methodist Protestant Church been motivated by prejudice selfishness? If it has, then, it may be expected that all such members shall "let down" in their loyalty to it, and in the language of heroic Gideon of old let it be said to them, "Let all who are fearful and afraid return to their homes." Men afraid would not have made good soldiers, and Gideon knew it. And so people who are unwilling to bear the burdens of a cause they have espoused when these grow heavier and the difficulties of success are thicker, make mighty poor substitutes for good members in days of prosperity and easy going.

PASTORS' REPORT BLANKS

They were mailed out yesterday (Monday) and should be in your hands before you read this. If you failed to get your envelope, please notify me at once, and I will send you another supply.

Just a word about the blanks. I did not have a new blank printed to take care of the Gratitude Gift. I suppose you are sending it in to the Treasurer in a lump, and letting him divide it. If so, just add the entire amount at the bottom of "Report III, Benevolences." In the Pastors' Information Blank, indicate on the back of the blank the churches entitled to Honor Roll Credit for each item of the Gratitude Gift.

We are using the same blanks for the Pastors' Personal Report. There is an error in printing in it. "Work Service" should be "World Service."

THIRD DISTRICT NOTICE

There will be a Third District meeting at Bethel Church on Alamance Charge on the fifth Sunday afternoon in October beginning at 2:30. Dr. J. E. Pritchard will be the principal speaker. We are expecting the chairman of stewards of each Church in the district to make a full report at this meeting. There is a place on this report for the Women's Auxiliary. Please add to this the amount paid to High Point College. The Bethel Church has promised to see that we have some special music. We hope to have a good congregation from over the district and good reports.

E. A. BINGHAM, Chairman.

Call to Annual Conference Session

The 111th session of the North Carolina Annual Conference, Methodist Protestant Church, is called to meet in Calvary Church, Greensboro, on Wednesday, November 9, beginning at 10:00 a. m. All ministers, preachers and delegates are urged to be present for the opening session, and to stay until Conference closes on the following Monday morning.

It seems likely this will be the last session of our Conference. We need to give serious consideration to the many problems confronting us as we go into the new Methodist Church. We urge our people to be much in prayer that we may have Divine wisdom and guidance in our deliberations.

J. E. Pritchard, President,
C. W. Bates, Secretary.

Live themes live forever. Note how the old McGuffey Readers were quoted from last year, I add this as a sample:

"The National Voice" reproduces a verse that appeared in one of the earliest McGuffey readers, which were first published on a hand press as early as 1836:

Licensed—to do thy neighbor harm,
Licensed—to kindle hate and strife,
Licensed—to nerve the robber's arm;
Licensed—to whet the murderer's knife.
Licensed—like spider for a fly,
To spread thy nets for man, thy prey;
To mock his struggles, crush his soul,
Then cast his worthless form away.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

Where Is the Spirit of Wonder?

"Wonder" was a topic for discussion in the Philosophy class. So much we do not know, and such marvels surround us on every hand, that it would seem that the spirit of wonder should dwell in every heart. The world moves on, the stars appear each night in their courses; the mystery of life baffles us on every side, yet there are souls who fail to feel the awe of it or pause to ponder the everlasting riddles of the universe.

Lights of the Chicago World's Fair in 1933 were turned on by the falling rays of the distant star, Arcturus. This star was selected because that body is so far away that forty-one years are required to bring the light to this earth. It had been that long since the other fair in Chicago, and so it was appropriate to use the light that had been coming toward the earth ever since the former celebration closed forty-one years before. As the title of Sir James Jean's book states, this is Our Mysterious Universe.

But it is hard to keep the spirit of wonder alive. One foe of mystery is popular science and invention. So many things are now coming from the laboratory it seems that man has the upper hand, mastering the affairs of Nature. With radio, cars, medicine, and surgery at our disposal the zone of awe is pushed back. Nothing now seems impossible; nothing is a surprise. No longer does wonder occupy the central place. In fact the slow and meditative person is likely to be called silly and sentimental.

Again, familiarity with these marvels chills our sense of reverence. To the primitives the world was mystifying, but as the race advanced the universe was taken as a matter of course. It still is to many people. If the stars came out but once in a hundred years, said Emerson, the world would camp out to see the sight. But since they come every night we pay no attention to them. Everybody takes them for granted and hardly one in a thousand can name a single heavenly body of awe.

Consequently, the spirit of wonder is poorly encouraged. The mystic mood is crowded out; emotion is discredited, and the capacity for inspiration is drying up in the souls of men. "The subtle process that is going on," says Fiske, "is the starving of mysticism." Plenty is taken in by the senses, but little is generated in the area of reverent imagination. We see and hear everything of man's creation under the sun, but the still small voice of wonder seldom penetrates the hum of motors and rollicking roars of the radio.

Furthermore, worship is made hard. Worship feeds on wonder, and where the latter dies the former can hardly survive. Put men in a conscious presence of eternal, unsolved mysteries and they will feel humbly and needy. Revive wonder if you want to revive worship.

Two suggestions I will make in closing. First, let us make more of the "unexplained residue." That is, insist on the vastness of what is still unknown. "So little I have gained, How vast the unattained." Everything is unknowable if you trace it back far enough. Mystery lingers in even the simplest thing. I know not how my heart beats; nor do I know why the world keeps turning; nor, again, why hay produces milk in the cow and muscle in the mule. Death, they say, is a mystery. Life, I add, is no less so. The difference is, we have got used to life and are not experienced with death. But I can understand much better why we die than why we live. The farmer plants the wheat. It germinates and grows, nobody knows how. You say the earth and moisture does it. But I ask, Why does that cause it? Keep pushing the question and you always run into the "unexplained residue." Constant recollection of this fact will help humble us mortals and quicken the sense of reverence.

Second, let the churches major in mysticism. Here I mean a sane mystic attitude, not fanaticism. Songs should be selected that ascribe majesty and holiness unto the Lord. Genuine reverence is to be felt in every worship. More is to be made of God's glory than of man's little ups and downs. Lift up the exalted Cross whose living Christ is still with us, and whose Spirit can ennoble any life. For by it the common and ordinary assume a new meaning, and all things are dignified by His association and control.

OUR DAY OF REST

International Sunday School Lesson for October 23, 1938

By Rev. J. C. Madison

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:8-11; Luke 13:10-17.

Golden Text—"Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy." Ex. 20:8.

Probably there is no commandment broken more generally by the American public than is this fourth commandment as we find it in our golden text. The American sabbath is neither holy nor a day of rest. Many of us work the seventh day as well as the other six, our train of thought concerning business and making money is hardly changed and the tensions of our rushing world are not relaxed. We call our movies, our golf and our long week-end trips recreation but as we read the newspapers on Monday morning we realize that the better name would be WRECKreation. Even those who rest—sleep late—on Sunday try to make it up by extra long hours on the day before. For most people the Sabbath is neither holy, nor restful nor worshipful, but rather a day of boredom, or of anxious rushing from place to place or simply another day of work.

This situation of course is not peculiar to our generation. The Deuteronomic code in stating this fourth commandment makes a new appeal for its observance. This leads me to believe that religious leaders in that day were faced with the apparent breakdown of this institution. The old appeal of the Covenant code that men rest on the seventh day and so follow God's example was not enough. So the writer of Deuteronomy appeals to the principals of social justice demanding that maids and servants be given a day of rest also reminding the Israelites that they were once in bondage. Then he appeals to their gratitude in that God had freed them from that slavery they should keep His day holy out of deference to Him; for from the beginning the Sabbath had been set aside as a day for conversation and fellowship between God and His children. Probably new appeals must yet be made to make the masses of people recognize the inalienable right of the individual of one day of rest and worship out of seven.

In my mind the arguments in favor of a Sabbath, both in a legal and in a religious sense, are many and indisputable. (a) If God is the most profound fact and power of our universe as we claim He is then it is but consistent that we use at least one day out of seven for the purpose of cultivating a more intimate relationship with Him. (b) If organized religion is to exist in a vital and dynamic form there must be a day and time for its promotion. (c) If the individual is to live intelligently he must find time for a personal inventory. It is essential that we get away from daily problems occasionally in order to gain perspective. From the mountain top of worship we can better determine our directions. (d) A day of rest and relaxation each week is essential for health and efficiency in manual labor. The Sabbath of rest is not peculiar to western civilization. Other civilizations have found that such a day meets specific needs. The need for its observance cannot be disputed.

Despite the above briefly stated arguments commercialized amusements and Sunday business of various kinds threaten to rob the Sabbath of its significance. It would be easy of course to condemn those business interests which profit by this Sunday activity which runs to holiday proportions; and they need to be condemned. But as a matter of fact Sunday business is but meeting the demands of the general public. Gas stations stay open because we the people demand gas. Recreation parks stay open because we the people demand our golf, tennis and swimming on Sunday, not to mention baseball and other commercialized sports. Grocery stores are open in many cities because the people demand their Sunday groceries. We have Sunday business because Sunday business is profitable, and Sunday movies will close when people cease to attend. However, that does not excuse the sin nor does it relieve the business interests involved of their moral responsibilities. But what I am trying to say is this, that the commercialization of the Sabbath is not so much a cause as a symptom of the low spiritual tone of our age. I am in hearty sympathy with laws that will preserve the individual right to rest and worship on Sunday, but the tragedy is that those of us who have that right take it so lightly. Most of us are living on a level where spiritual things have no place; we are so spiritually impoverished that we cannot appreciate the Christian Sabbath and those things for which it stands.

Some of us in our zeal for a Christian Sabbath appeal to law. Beyond a doubt certain restrictions have their place but in my mind the fourth commandment both as stated in the original and as it was applied by Jesus is a positive matter. Like all values it cannot be enforced by law but must come as the natural expression of a corporate Christian consciousness and zeal. Though I cannot force all men to keep the Sabbath holy I can see to it that one man does and that is my first and most important task.

THE DISCOVERY OF SELF

One of the chief reasons why much of the world's work is poorly done, and only mediocre results are obtained, is that people have not discovered themselves. Most of us give only fractional service, use but a part of the talent that we should be investing for the betterment of society. Genius, so-called, is the ability to excel in some field, but not many find the work for which they are naturally fitted and best adapted.

In order to make the greatest progress possible there should be a self-analysis early in life, and very frequently through life, in order that we may know wherein we are strong, wherein we fail, what we can do with more than fair success, and what is for us a bugbear that has never been conquered.

The human element enters into everything, we say, meaning that we should be charitable toward human errors, weaknesses, limitations. We are too charitable, too easy with ourselves. We do not make enough of that wonderful discovery of self. We let ourselves believe that others can do what we cannot do; that some people, not ourselves, are creatures of destiny.

Isn't it true that we face the world with an apologetic air and give the impression that we discount most of our doings? So long as any individual faces the world in a crouching position and regards others as superior to him, he need not complain if others walk all over him and regard him as an inferior being. Others cannot be expected to place a higher premium on our output than we ourselves put on it by our own belief and actions.

Every person has certain elements of power within his personality that have never been unlocked and developed to the full. We follow one or two paths when we ought to have a dozen before us, usable and used at all times. It is very easy to get into a rut or move into a small province and stay there. The spirit of romance and adventure is decidedly lacking in most people, but what a charm and glow life assumes when one breaks with the past, draws on new resources, carries his head a little higher, throws his chest out a little farther, assumes self-confidence, then meets new people, reads new books, and, above all else, accepts some tasks as a real challenge, knowing they are beyond him, but that he can develop enough power eventually to master them.

It is a great day in one's life when he makes this greatest of all discoveries. He has found that he does have inner power that he has not drawn on, and that a so-called genius is merely one person doing one thing better than another because he has found himself.

There is no secret in personal attainment. It is just dig and dig. It is the incessant hammering away which finally causes something to break loose. There is no monopoly when it comes to personal achievement. The field of human endeavor is open to all. There are no ''no admittance'' or ''no trespassing'' signs posted where opportunity calls and tasks are waiting to be conquered.

WOMEN'S QUARTERLY MEETING HELD

The second quarterly meeting of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work, which met at Concord on October 7, was full of inspiration. The new church auditorium furnished a worshipful atmosphere as we entered, the quiet music by Mrs. Ernest Litaker as she sat at the console of the new Hammond organ, the beautiful devotional service led by Dr. C. N. Clark, presiding elder of the Salisbury District of the M. E. Church, South, who substituted for Mrs. Clark, all gave us a good start for the day.

The presence of all the members of the Executive Committee, four secretaries of causes, the chairman of districts and four district chairmen, several ministers, representatives from several churches and charges, Rev. and Mrs. Paul F. Warner and son and Mrs. L. F. Warner, mother of Mr. Warner, and a splendid group of interested women from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, gave inspiration to the program as it proceeded.

The main features of the day were the adresses by Rev. and Mrs. Paul Warner, returned missionaries from Japan. Mrs. Warner gave intimate glimpses of her work as a missionary, the various groups she met at regular intervals, and the contacts she made in Japan. She displayed the kimona and obi of exceptional beauty, which the Japanese workers and students at Nagoya had presented her as tokens of their esteem, just prior to her departure for America.

Mr. Warner displayed a number of pictures which portrayed certain types of people in Japan. These were passed in the audience for close examination. He made a passionate plea for continued support of the work in Japan. He explained that the Christians, a very small group comparatively speaking, of the great empire of Japan, are not among the aggressors in the Sino-Japanese struggle, and that they deeply regret the struggle. He reminded us that if we should be inclined to feel that we would withdraw our support from the Japanese work, we should remember that Jesus did not say, "Go to the highly favored, peace-loving peoples," but He did say, "Go to every race and class and condition in the whole world and carry the gospel," and if we fail to do this we fail to carry out the great divine commission.

There were discussions on furthering the work along all lines. Post cards of Bethel Home were distributed, so that all might know how the place looks, though many have never been there. These cards from Rev. Homer Casto were greatly appreciated.

A committee for "Appreciation Year" was appointed by the chair as follows: Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, chairman, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, and Mrs. C. W. Bates. At the request of Mrs. Hammer, all the district chairmen of Women's Work in North Carolina were added to the committee.

Mrs. Paul Kennett, treasurer of Student Loan Fund for High Point College, reported that 19 loans had been granted to students for the present school year, and that $215 would be needed to complete the next quarterly payment. This of course means that our state treasurer will need North Carolina budget payments at an early date.

Mrs. P. E. Lindley, custodian of the India costumes presented to the Branch by Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis, resigned this office after having served faithfully for many years as a lending agent for these costumes in the Branch. Mrs. J. C. Madison, of High Point, secretary of exhibits, was made custodian of these costumes.

The North Carolina Branch congratulates Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Peeler on their accomplishments in church building, and thanks them and the Concord church for the hospitality of the day. It would have been a fine thing if all of our women could have attended this meeting.

MISSIONS AND MINNIS

May I this week call your attention again to the "Minnis Fund" and the great privilege that is ours in having a part in this great work? I wonder how many of us really realize just what our missionary obligation and privilege is. The motive of all missionary enterprise, whether ancient or modern, is an ardent desire to share a great spiritual value. It is my conviction that we have no right to keep for ourselves a message of life, love, and peace which all the world needs. The Christian missions will continue so long as we can find men and women like Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis, who, constrained by the love of Christ, will carry out the great command, "Go ye therefore and preach the gospel to every creature."

How can they go with the glad tidings unless the folks back home send them? When God through the Church called the Minnises to far away India, we here at home were called to stand by them with our support. Since we here in North Carolina have mutually agreed to pay his salary, our responsibility is thereby greatly augmented. Mr. Carey, before going to India, declared, "I will go down into the pit if the brethren will hold the ropes." In like manner the Minnises have dared a bold adventure, leaving the matter of their support to us. Dare we fail them?

Their success or failure will depend upon the measure of our support in prayers and money. It has been truly said that the work of Christian missions is the greatest work in the world. For such a work must we be persuaded to pray, begged to study, and cajoled to give? Consider it a call from God. Thank God for the great privilege. Are we, as loyal Methodist Protestants, rallying to the great privilege that God has given us in helping support our own North Carolina missionary and his family? Mr. Minnis is 12,000 miles from home. Just put yourself in his place and then ask yourself the question, "Am I doing my very best?"

Someone may say, "Why did Mr. Minnis go to far away India? We didn't make him go." True we didn't make him go, but Mr. Minnis felt the call of God to go as a missionary to India, and the call was so great he could not refuse to go. It isn't always an easy matter to answer the call of God. Many of us want to reserve a corner in our heart for ourselves. It isn't always easy to refuse God's call, either. Rev. Mr. Minnis might have felt that the only way to save his own soul was to do just what he did. There is danger of losing our own souls in refusing to do God's will.

"Three things the Master hath to do,
And we who serve Him here below,
And long to see His kingdom come,
Must pray or give or go."

Let us show our gratitude by giving our best for the Minnises.

MRS. W. H. NEESE.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Woman's Auxiliary, First church, Thomasville, 11 cakes, 2 boxes of cookies, and one bushel of apples for school lunches.

We are truly thankful to all who helped us to make so good a report this week.

Envelopes and Coin Cards for Thanksgiving

Our letters for Thanksgiving will go out this week to all pastors and Sunday school superintendents in the conference whose addresses we have. Will also send the envelopes and some leaflets. We had hoped to send the coin cards at the same time. But a letter from the printer says, "Our man who runs these for us has been quite ill, and is now trying his best to get them out. We guarantee to ship your cards not later than October 25." We will get them into your hands at the very earliest possible date.

A Meeting in Enfield

Sunday, October 23, at 2:30 p.m., we plan to meet with the pastors, Sunday school superintendents, and Children's Home secretaries and other workers of the First District in our church in Enfield, to talk over plans for Thanksgiving. We hope to meet as many of these as possible, as nearly as you can make it by 2:30. It will be a long drive for me, so please be as prompt as you can. Thank you.

We Are Anxious

Our hearts are exceedingly anxious about Thanksgiving and the outcome of its offering for the Children's Home. We must have a good offering or suffer. So we are asking all our faithful supporters to make their usual offering, and then get busy and get all the members of your church and friends in your community to make an offering. If anything like all of our 30,000 people, with a number of their friends, make a real Thanksgiving offering, our hearts will be made glad and our burdens lightened.

We thank you for your hearty cooperation.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

FINDING HELP IN PUBLIC WORSHIP

C. E. Topic for October 30, 1938

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Monday, October 24—Worship and Inner Vision, Isa. 6:1-8.

Tuesday, October 24—The Uplift of Worship, Ps. 84:1-12.

Wednesday, October 26—The Uplift of Music, Ps. 150:1-6.

Thursday, October 27—Help in the Synagogue, Luke 4:16-21.

Friday, October 28—Worship in Church, Rom. 12:1-9.

Saturday, October 29—Courage in Worship, Ps. 27:1-14.

"As one, in days of old, would fly—
To some protecting shine,
From dread pursues threat'ning nigh
And parting, there recline—
Lord, to Thy dwelling I repair,
And cling around Thy altar there!"

There are very few people in the world who would even try to lead you to think that they do not believe in worship, or do not worship a being who is greater than they themselves. Those who direct their worship toward God and who use the Bible for the guide to this worship realize more and more as their experience grows, the value of this worship.

Worship draws one closer to the object of his devotion. It enables man to come in contact with his guide. Through worship, man is given inspiration and education — mostly inspiration. But, admitting that we all believe in worship and even go so far as to perform the act—the question comes: Where shall we worship? And how shall we worship?

Every man has the opportunity of worshipping directly his God — thus anywhere that man feels the desire to worship—there is a place where he can worship. Man can worship God when he is alone and in private place and many people do. We find that our model Jesus Christ often went to a lonely place, into the wilderness or up on a mountain; at all times both day and night to worship or commune with the Father. But as much as He put into this and as much as it meant to Him He didn't let His worship stop with this. We find that it was His custom on the Sabbath day to go into the synagogue where he read the Scriptures and worshipped.

Thus, even though we can worship in private, public worship is still necessary. The same amount of time spent in public worship will mean so much more to us. We get a chance to commune with other Christians—others who are interested in the same thing that we are. "For when two or three are gathered in my name there will I be also."

Then, too, in public worship our thinking is led, or should be led, in certain channels. There is no doubt about public worship being the most helpful type of worship and there is no limit to the possibilities the leader has in leading the worshipper in his approach to God.

"Farewell, thou dark and stormy world;
Farewell, thy grief and fear;
The port is wan, the sails are furled,
Ye cannot touch me here!
But welcome, peace and rapture now,
And, I my Savior, welcome Thou!"
—Townsend.

BEAUTY AID

When the same kind of work is done every day people are not quite satisfied week in, week out. It is better to do some different little thing sometimes—something that is a pleasure. How nice the long winter evenings are at home with the family! Reading and music can be enjoyed. Fancy sewing is fun—not too much mending though. Why not play a game with the children—something they like keeps parents closer somehow.

It is fun to grow bulb flowers in pretty crockery or anything to grow them in. Any odd little dish can hold a bulb or two and a few pebbles. Kept filled with water, set in a closet till rooted, then place in a sunny window makes a bloom, a cheerful room and brighter eyes. Narcissus blooms in about two months. Fix one for the Sunday school room. They are nice for Christmas presents, too.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Flat Rock Charge.—Fourth quarterly conference at Flat Rcok church, Saturday, October 22, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Corinth Church, Littleton Charge, Rev. J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—Our pastor has filled all appointments and he has brought to us some fine messages. For the past two weeks he has given Bible lectures at this church on Thursday nights.

The Sunday school is being held at Bobbitt's Chapel this quarter.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Littleon M. P. church, Saturday, October 22, at 2 p.m. All official members are requested to be present. We have much to do before conference but we are hoping all will work together so we can send our pastor to conference with a splendid report.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Inscoe and family, attended the funeral of their brother-in-law, Mr. Jack Riggan, at Norlina on October 5.

Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. M. J. Mormis in the loss of her sister, Mrs. N. B. Dickens, who was killed in an automobile wreck on September 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Trolinger were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris spent the week-end in Baltimore, Md., with their sister, Mrs. C. T. Hardy.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

First M. P. Church, Danville, Va., Rev. R. L. Vickery, Pastor.—It certainly did make us feel good to see 61 faces at Sunday school last Sunday, an increase of about 15 over the previous Sunday. If every person would come out, he would make us feel better, he would feel better, and the Sunday school would be so much better. Let's all try to come every Sunday and see how much better everything will be.

We were very happily surprised to have several Lynchburg visitors worship with us last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. William Green, Mr. Pat Saunders, and Mr. Alvin Spain. Mrs. Green, formerly Miss Ethel Spain, was a splendid worker in our church before moving to Lynchburg, and we have been missing her badly. We just hope they will all come back and visit us as often as possible.

.Our fourth quarterly conference will be held Wednesday night, October 26. Our pastor tells us that Dr. Pritchard will be with us at that time. We are looking forward very much to his visit. Let's all be present that possibly can, give him a real welcome, and bring good reports for the last conference of the church year.

Attendance at Christian Endeavor increased also last Sunday. We're making plans for sending two or more representatives to the convention of Central District at Lynchburg, Va., on October 22 and 23. Since they have so kindly invited members of the Southern District to be their guests, we're taking advantage of their hospitality for those two days, in the hope that our delegates may bring back new iedas and helpful suggestions from our Lynchburg neighbors. The Endeavorers are also planning ghostly times for Hallowe'en. We'll be looking for all you young people at Christian Endeavor next Sunday night to tell you more about it.

We are happy to see Mrs. Doris Burrell back at church again. We are indeed thankful that she has recuperated from her illness of several months and is feeling good once more.

And now—congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lamb on the birth of a daughter, Gay Frances! Mr. and Mrs. Lamb are former members of this church, and we are proud of their new daughter also.

We each desire a part in your prayers as we go on striving to do the Master's will, as you shall always have a part in ours.

ELEANOR TANNER, Reporter.

Bethel, Alamance.—Our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, filled his regular appointment last Sunday and brought a very inspiring message. We were glad to receive a new member, Mrs. Elzieree Foust, into the church.

We are having a fine Sunday school now. We have recently purchased new hymn books and the young people have bought new chairs for their classroom.

We held our Children's Day service the second Sunday with a very good program.

Our Woman's Auxiliary met the second Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Claud Thompson. Our next meeting will be with Miss Daisy Winningham on Wednesday afternoon, November 9. Our ladies have filled 10 dozen cans for the Children's Home. Our thank-offering meeting will be held soon.

On September 20 Mrs. Lillian McPherson was called to her heavenly home. She was one of our faithful members at Bethel and will be greatly missed in our church and community. We extend to her loved ones our deepest sympathy.

On the fifth Sunday afternoon the district rally will be held at Bethel, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. E. A. Bingham as chairman. Our president, Rev. J. E. Pritchard, will be the speaker. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service.

Flat Rock Church, Flat Rock Charge, Rev. J. A. Burgess, Pastor.—This church continues to enjoy the interesting and inspiring sermons brought to us regularly by our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess.

We were pleased to have with us Rev. J. Elwood Carroll during the week of September 11 in our protracted meeting. While there were only two additions to the church, we feel that seed was sown that may count in years to come. The sermons Brother Carroll preached dealt with religion in the home and in every day affairs in such a way as to be very practical. We enjoyed the fellowshsip and association with this minister and our own, and it was a pleasure to entertain them in our homes.

Brother Hutton ,who served this charge a few years ago for the second time, was a guest during part of the week and favored us with one sermon.

Our people are very proud of the special attention given this church and the dedicatory sermon by Dr. Kennett in the September 8th issue of the Herald, and are justly proud of the history of this old church, and we hope that our members, and especially the younger ones, with most of life ahead of them, may catch the inspiration that will enable them to carry on in His name as loyally and as well as did those who have gone before us.

It gives us great satisfaction to know that the debt on this new and enlarged building has been lifted, and that dedication is now a reality.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess were among the guests at a Brunswick stew given by the Ladies' Aid society for the benefit of the church, last Saturday p.m. Something in excess of $40 was realized.

North Davidson Charge, W. H. Neese, Pastor, October 17.—On Wednesday, September 5, at 1:30 p.m., the Canaan Ladies' Aid society met in the home of Mrs. G. A. Berrier. There were 18 members and three visitors present. The program was in charge of Mrs. Holland Craver and was as follows:

Song, followed by prayer by Mrs. John Robbins.

Call to worship by Mrs. Paul Hines.

Quartet by Mesdames Paul Hines, Clarence Hines, A. L. Berrier, and Robah Smith.

Meditation, Mrs. A. F. Berrier.

Poem, Mrs. Era Zimmerman.

Reading, "Things to Pray For," Mrs. W. H. Neese.

Closing prayer, Mrs. Robah Smith.

During the business session it was learned that $26.80 had been cleared at a lawn supper at the church September 3. It was reported that 83 sick visits had been made and flowers had been sent to 18 sick ones. At this time a thank-offering service was planned, to be given October 2. The ladies decided to buy paint to repaint porch furniture at the parsonage. An interesting social hour was enjoyed in which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

On Wednesday, October 12, at 1:30 p.m., the Canaan Ladies' Aid met in the home of Mrs. Holland Craver, with 14 members and two children present. Mrs. G. A. Berrier was in charge of the program, and the meeting opened with singing a song, followed by call to worship by Mrs. Robah Smith, scripture by Mrs. J. D. Smith, prayer by Mrs. Emma Clodfelter, duet by Mesdames Paul and Clarence Hines, meditation by Mrs. Clarence Hines, reading, "Things That Count," by Mrs. J. D. Smith, reading, "Why I Believe in Missions," by Mrs. W. H. Neese, song, and closing prayer in unison. Sick calls for month, 76; flowers sent to nine. The treasurer reported $98.60 in treasury. The ladies decided to collect Octagon Granulated Coupons for the Home. They also voted to send cakes and cookies to the Home.

During the social hour interesting contests were held, after which all present enjoyed an old-time outdoor weiner roast. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Paul Hines, November 2.

On Sunday night, October 2, a song service and thank-offering program was held at Canaan church; offering, $5.00.

On Sunday, October 9, at 1:30 p.m., a song service and thank-offering program was held at Spring Hill church; offering, $10.60. A thank-offering service will be held at Bethesda the fifth Sunday in October at 11 o'clock, and a like service will be held at Mt. Pleasant church on the fifth Sunday night.

The ladies on this work sure believe in doing things, and in keeping the pastor and his wife busy. This past week this writer attended Canaan Ladies' Aid meeting, Bethesda Auxiliary, one musical program sponsored by the Spring Hill Ladies' Aid, and a supper sponsored by Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary, so you see we have plenty of work to do.

They also believe in helping cut the pastor's grocery bill. The latest donors are Miss Annie Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Robah Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Sink, Mrs. Will Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Swaim, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Reid, Mr. R. E. Bailey, Mrs. Sam Wagoner, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tise, Mr. James Berrier, Mrs. Alfred Craven, Mrs. Van Mabe, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Craver, Mr. A. L. Berrier, Mr. John Spoolman, and Mrs. Holland Craver. All of these people have our sincere thanks. Also Mr. and Mrs. George Craven, Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Swaim, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Reece, and Mrs. C. M. Yokely.

Flag Spring Church, Why Not Charge, C. H. Hill, Pastor, Oct. 11.—There has not been a report from our church in some time, but our work is going on smoothly. We have paid all the conference claims in full, are behind some on our pastor's salary, but hope to get it paid by conference.

The fourth quarterly conference of this charge will be held at our church on Saturday, October 15, at 2:30 p.m., and preaching on Sunday, October 16, at 11:30 a.m.

The Ladies' Aid society met on October 7 at 7:30 p.m., with Mrs. Paul Cox. Mrs. C. T. Luck had charge of the devotions. Mrs. E. C. Cox had charge of the business meeting. The society decided at this meeting to purchase a Bible for the church. There were eight members and one visitor present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. C. Cox on November 4 at 7:30 p.m.

West End M. P. Church, State Street Charge, Rev. O. C. Loy, Pastor.—The Woman's Auxiliary had a plate supper in the basement of the church Saturday night, October 15, serving baked chicken and dressing. The Auxiliary received very fine cooperation from everyone, all the food was donated, and every plate was sold. We made $47.40.

The next monthly meeting of the Auxiliary will be at the home of Mrs. L. C. Godbey, October 28, with a Hallowe'en program and hat sale.

Our revival meeting began on Sunday, September 11, with Rev. L. E. Mabry, of First church, Lexington, doing the preaching. Rev. Mr. Mabry did some very fine preaching and there were 30 conversions, and 12 new members were received into the church.

Our delegate to conference will be D. L. Dicker. We are wishing for him success in bringing back our pastor for the next year. This year that Mr. Loy has been with us, the church has done the best work that has been done in many years. With only about $17 to raise, we have hopes of paying the pastor's salary in full.

The Senior Christian Endeavor society, Lillian Binkley, president, seems to be getting along just fine. We are having a contest during the month of October, with Notre Mae Brinkley and Don Wolfe as the two captains. The attendance has already increased to about 40 or more each Sunday night. The State Street Christian Endeavor society has been invited to come over and put on a program one night this month.

We are very pleased to add to this report the announcement of the birth of a son to Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Loy, October 15.

Pleasant Grove, Rev. Fred R. Love, Pastor, Oct. 10.—Sunday was a good day for us, as we observed rally day. The attendance, however, was not 100%, but there were 105 present, and the offering was $111.65. The program was in charge of Mrs. Fred Kennedy, Mrs. Fred R. Love, Miss YeSable Hedrick, Mrs. Ralph Kennedy, and Mrs. Rob Kennedy. The young people's choir rendered special selections, including a quartet under the direction of Mrs. Quentin Veach.

The Sunshine Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Willie Sink, Monday evening. Mrs. Joe Murphy was in charge of the program, and the president, Mrs. Rob Kennedy, presided over the business session.

The Ladies' Aid society met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Cecil. Mrs. Fred Love conducted the devotional. The president urged all members to be present at the next meeting, as officers will be electetd for the coming year.

As the conference year is nearing a close, we are striving to meet all our financial obligations and send our delegate to conference with all claims paid.

Randleman Charge.—It has been some time since we have reported to the Herald. Not that we haven't had anything to report, but we have been so busy in revivals that we haven't had time to write. We have been busy in revivals for the past three months.

We have closed all of our revivals on this work. We have had very good revivals at all of the churches on the work. We held our revival at Worthville in the spring, with splendid results and the church revived. We held our revival at Mt. Lebanon church in June. Rev. C. G. Isley assisted us there. We had several conversions and reclamations, and 15 accessions to the church.

We have held two revivals at Level Cross this year, with a few conversions and several reclamations, and four accessions to the church.

We began our revival at New Salem on the third Sunday in September. We had a good revival here, with about 37 conversions and reclamations, and 18 accessions to the church.

We have had in all 48 accessions to the church, and others to join before conference.

The finances seem to be coming up all right and we expect to make a good report to the conference.

By the way, I know of one preacher that expects to be dressed up at the conference. It is the pastor of the Randleman charge. The people here, especially at Mt. Lebanon church, have some pride, but after a Godly manner they have dressed up their pastor in a fine suit of clothes for conference. They may want to trade him off, or they probably want him to look as well or a little better than any other preacher at conference. Anyway, we will do our best to look it. We want to express our sincere thanks to everyone that has helped to make this possible; and may God richly reward you for the same.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

Fairfield, Guilford Charge, J. B. Trogdon, Pastor.—Had I not planned to send a report at this time, I would not be doing so, for I have been openly accused of not doing my duty, and by one to whom I had previously gone to for help in sending reports. It is most discouraging not to receive instructions from those who are supposed to give it.

I just want the people to know that we have a newly organized Senior Christian Endeavor and prayer meeting. There are 19 members in the C. E. society, all active. We have a well attended Junior society, too. Both were represented at the Central district meeting yesterday at Cane's Creek. We expect to grow both in number and in knowledge of our Savior.

Eight members have recently been received into our church. We are thankful for and glad to have them. Though it was with sorrow that we learned of Miss Ida David withdrawing her membership to join elsewhere.

We expect to have pastor's salary paid, as well as all other claims, by conference.

The young women's class, which is dressing Norman Hayworth of the Children's Home, have prepared him for winter except for shoes. This will be done soon. The women have filled 40 or more cans for the Home. Mrs. Dixon was at our church yesterday in behalf of the thank-offering and Octagon as well as other coupons.

Best wishes to all.

New Salem, Randleman Charge, Rev. C. L. Spencer, Pastor, Oct. 11.—Work is moving along very nicely, but as conference is almost here there is much work for us to do.

Our revival meeting began Sunday, September 18, and came to a close Sunday night, September 25. Our pastor did the preaching, and brought us some great messages.

We are very proud of our pastor, and feel that he has been a great influence on the progress which we have made. There were about 25 conversions and reconsecrations. Saturday night, September 24, 12 were united with the church, three by transfer from other churches, this making a total of about 15 additions to our church. I hope that each one of us has pledged himself to stand by these new converts and keep them on the right side, and also be a great service ourselves.

We are very proud of our C. E. society and the good work they have done. They have purchased some new collection plates and scarfs for the stand and table, also paid $15 on our entrance to the church which has just recently been completed. We are all very thankful for these services.

The new officers for the church will be installed next Sunday morning.

Mrs. James Wright, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is improving, we are glad to report. Sorry to say that Mrs. M. C. Henley, who has been confined to her home for some time, is not so well.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ward moved to their new home near Asheboro last week. They will be greatly missed in our church and community.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hayes and children, of Richmond, Va., worship with us Sunday morning; also Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, of Asheboro. We welcome them at all times.

MRS. R. F. WARD, Reporter.

Moriah Church, Cleveland Charge, T. G. Madison, Pastor.—Our church work has been going on very nicely since our last report. Our pastor has filled his regular appointments, bringing us helpful and inspiring messages each time.

On the second Sunday night in October our thank-offering service was held. May God bless every person that took part in this offering. The work of the Auxiliary has progressed nicely during the summer months.

Our Sunday school has been very well attended this summer. We trust it will grow throughout the winter months.

A quarterly meeting will be held at Moriah church on October 22. We are expecting a large crowd from other churches, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

DESSIE WATERS, Reporter.

Haw River Circuit.—Did you ever see a lot of church folks with a satisfied "I-told-you-we'd-do-it" grin on their faces? Well, if you had been at Friendship last Sunday morning you would have seen it. Two weeks ahead of conference they have met all claims in full, even to the odd cents on the pastor's salary. And, in addition, in something less than five minutes, subscribed for 52 copies of a song book I asked them to get.

The other churches are making good progress on raising their claims, and will, I feel sure, repeat the fine record they made last year—"Every cent of every claim from each church on the charge." One of the brethren at Fair Grove told me he would finish out the remainder of the conference claims. Haven't had anyone at the other two churches to offer to do the same; but it will come.

One more installation service, that at Friendship, will complete this item of our program. This will be held next first Sunday, the last appointment for the year.

Five copies of "The Church Takes Root in India" have been ordered, to be passed around in the circles. We hope to have a review of the book in an auxiliary meeting later. I want to commend this book to those of you who are especially interested in the work Brother Minnis is doing. That's what the book is about, although his name isn't mentioned.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Midway church on Thursday, October 27, at 2 p.m. We are expecting to have the conference president with us. And we think we are going to have about the best reports from the various departments of the churches that this charge has had in a long time, if ever. Thanks to the hearty cooperation of the members, with a little help from the parsonage folks.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Siler City Church, A. M. Smith, Pastor, Oct. 18.—The fourth quarterly conference met in the Siler City church Monday night, October 17. Each church was well represented, all reports were good, and everything will be paid in full by the time our annual conference meets. The conference voted unanimously for the return of our pastor for another year. Mr. C. C. Routh, of Bonlee, was elected alternate delegate to conference. We missed Mr. L. L. Wrenn so much at the conference and Sunday worship. He is convalescing nicely at the home of his sister, Mrs. Griffin, in Pittsboro.

We are looking forward to the fifth Sunday night, when Dr. J. E. Pritchard will visit our church.

The third Sunday was Promotion Day in our Sunday school. The devotionals were under the direction of Miss Sallie Smith, and were very appropriate for the occasion. Fifteen certificates were presented to children by our pastor.

At the 11 o'clock hour a splendid Rally Day service was carried out, with Mr. Smith preaching an appropriate sermon. Our congregation was the largest in many Sundays. We always welcome any visitors who may come and are glad to have them. We feel safe in saying our pastor will do his part in giving one a fine message.

We were glad to have Mr. H. H. Wood, a student of the school of religion at Duke university, worship with us Sunday. He filled the pulpit for our pastor at the evening hour, and used for his text, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword." (Matt. 10:34). Subject, "Christ Came to Get Us Into Trouble." This was an inspiring message. Mr. Wood is an M. E. but told us that he always felt at home in an M. P. pulpit. We hope he can come again.

The women's work is moving along nicely, with increasing interest. Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. B. E. Fox and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, for the October meeting. Twelve members answered roll call. One new member joined, and also one visitor present. The usual routine business was transacted, after which the Question Box was discussed. Mrs. Fox and daughter served refreshments and fruit. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. E. D. Woody on Tuesday night, October 11, with nine members present. In the business meeting it was decided to feed Rotarians the first Monday in November. After the Question Box was enthusiastically discussed, the hostess served refreshments.

On October 2 Founders' and Members' Day was observed by the C. E. society. Mr. Irvin Ellington, president of the society, had charge of the evening service. A brief statement on "What is Founders' and Members' Day" was given by Mr. Smith. A story of Francis E. Clark was told by Miss Joy Holt. "Some Pictures of C. E.'s Present Ministry" was read by Billy Brady, and a talk, "On Into the Future," was given by Miss Mildred Headen. Mr. Evans Stone sang a beautiful solo, "Serve the Lord in Youth,' and a quartet composed of Mrs. V. M. Duncan, Miss Joy Holt, Laban Hough, and Irvin Ellington sang a special number. The congregation was then invited into the C. E. room to see a picture of Dr. Clark and view the work of the Endeavorers.

A called meeting of the members of the church was held Sunday to hear the report of the nominating committee, which was submitted and accepted by the church.

MRS. J. A. COOPER, Reporter.

Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Charge, Rev. J. R. Anderson, Pastor, Oct. 17.—Beginning the first Sunday evening, the pastor held the second week of the revival. The visible results were not all that we desired, but we trust much good was done.

Clyde Allen, who has faithfully served as superintendent of the Sunday school, has been elected to serve the third year, with Ernest Crabtree, assistant, and Joy Thompson, secretary and treasurer.

Several subscriptions to the M. P. Herald were taken. We have so many children on the church roll that it will be impossible to raise the quota unless more than one subscription is raised from some families.

The vote for change or no change of pastor said no change.

Circle No. 1 will give an oyster stew and chicken pie supper at the home of Mrs. Charlie Roberson, Saturday evening, October 22.

The pastor preached an excellent sermon on the two-type Christian, using Abraham and Lot as examples. Abraham had a magnanimous spirit, but Lot was selfish. There must be a separation between the spiritual and the worldly minded.

Remember, the president of the conference will preach the first Sunday at 11 a.m.

REPORTER.

Liberty, Rev. A. M. Smith, Pastor, Oct. 18.—Our work here is moving along fine. Our pastor filled his appointment Sunday morning. His sermons are always filled with so much reverence and inspiration that they are very beneficial.

Our delegate to conference is Miss Marie Ward and we want our present pastor to return to us.

Dr. J. F. Amick, of Columbia, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Slocum, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, were guests recently of Mrs. F. A. Shepard.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary met in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. C. L. Highfill as hostess. Mrs. J. A. Lyles had charge of the program, using as her subject "International Relationship—China."

Those taking part on the program were Mrs. C. L. Brown, Mrs. C. L. Highfill, Mrs.

W. C. Jones, and Miss Bertine Shepard. After the business session, the meeting adjourned to the Soda-Sandwich Shop, where the hostess served an ice course.

Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. R. L. Elkins Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. C. E. Brady, circle leader, in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Wade Hardin had charge of the program, using as her subject "Christian Unity in China." Mrs. R. L. Elkins conducted the devotionals. Mrs. C. E. Brady read "Meditation." "In Christ There Is No East and West" was read by Mrs. B. J. Gregson. Mrs. A. J. Brower read a paper entitled "Christian Churches." "Protestant Forces" was discussed by Mrs. J. E. Cox. Mrs. John Thompson read "Human Fellowship."

We are hoping to go to conference with claims all paid.

Concord, Rev. E. O. Peeler, Pastor, Oct. 17.—On Friday, October 7, we were very happy to have in our church a meeting of the Women's Work. A large number were present and all seemed to enjoy the meeting; and especialy glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Warner in the meeting. We were glad to have some of the women from Enfield church in the meeting, and glad to have them stay over for our membership meeting on Friday night, also for Sunday morning service. They are real friends of Mr. and Mrs. Peeler and Mrs. Whitnant, so they are our friends too.

We all had a real good time at our membership fellowship meeting; each Sunday school class put on some stunt, and then we enjoyed a nice super together. We were so glad to have Grandma Sides in the meeting, and to have her visit in some of our homes last week. Grandma's beautiful life has meant so much to us folks here.

On Sunday we had the district meeting in our church. I think most every church was represented. In the afternoon Mrs. Peeler acted as chairman and Miss Doris Little as secreary. We enjoyed some real good, helpful talks from members of the different churches. We also enjoyed a beautiful solo by Miss Laura Braswell, from our church at Kannapolis. Sunday night Rev. C. G. Isley, from Albemarle, had charge of the program. We learned many things about the work of the church, the Fellowship Crusade, the church paper, and the Children's Home.

Our stewards have been visiting some last week and they report good cooperation, and we just hope that Mr. Peeler can go to conference with a good report on everything.

Last Sunday was a big day in the Baraca class. I think the men were to invite their wives, and most of the classes met with them. They had special music and just had a real good fellowship meeting. At the preaching service we were so happy to welcome into our church family Mrs. Meredith Cline and Mrs. Derwood Cline, Mr. Alvin Misenheimer, Eugene and Bobby Widenhouse; and little Giles Aubrey Misenheimer was baptized.

We will hold our fourth quarterly conference on the fourth Sunday afternoon.

Last Friday night our Ladies' Aid sponsored a supper and flower show. The flowers were very beautiful that were in the church Sunday morning. They were placed there by Mrs. Fred Sides and Miss Grace Mann in memory of their mother, Mrs. Lottie Mann.

We were glad to see Mr. and Mrs. William Newton back at church, also Mr. and Mrs. Burgen Newton. We are so glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knight back with us.

Last Friday night Miss Helen Lowder and Mr. Lane Harrington were married at the parsonage. We are so happy that Mrs. Whisnant is able to be back with us at church. Glad to know that Mrs. Marvin Blackwelder is improving nicely; also that Miss Lorethea Lowder was able to be back at church Sunday.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, Oct. 18.—Our work here seems very favorable for a successful ending of the conference year. We are hoping and believing that the charge will be on the honor roll. However, a later report will give more details, so watch your paper.

The church book will be revised this week and the first Sunday in November the treasurer will give the report of each contribution by members. Our reports will almost be complete by next Saturday, when the last quarterly conference will be held at Shiloh.

Next Sunday night at 7 o'clock the Woman's Auxiliary will give their thank-offering, entitled "The Lighted Highway," which promises to be good. Along with this, a brief synopsis of our home and foreign work will be given. Plan to attend this service and help us make a good thank-offering.

The church officers for next year were elected and installed last Sunday; a list of them will be given next week.

The primary department occupied the church choir Sunday and furnished music for the worship service. The pastor preached a very appropriate sermon on "Obedience," using the life of Samuel. This is a vital necessity to a successful Christian.

Pray for us.

MABEL BERRIER.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Charge, Rev. J. W. Braxton, Pastor.—On Sunday morning, October 16, Rev. Mr. Braxton gave us a splendid sermon on the subject, "Making Faith Strong Through Experience." The new church officers for the year were instaled at this service, pledging their services to the church for the following year. Rev. Mr. Braxton then asked each member of the church to stand and pledge their support to the officers and church. May we remember now when we are asked to do some service for the church, that we pledged our support and will live up to our promise.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Mt. Pleasant church at 2:30 o'clock on the first Sunday morning in November.

Mr. T. Grady Bowman, of Pleasant Union church, is our delegate to the annual conference this year.

Among our visitors at the morning service on October 9 were Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Slocum of Milwaukee, Wis. Mrs. Slocum was formerly Miss Joy Amick. Dr. James Amick, of Columbia, S. C., and Frank Sheppard, Jr., of Liberty and Greensboro, was also a visitor. We always extend a friendly welcome to those who visit with us.

A meeting of the auxiliaries in district No. 7 will be held at Mt. Pleasant church on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 30, at 2 o'clock.

Midway, Greensboro, J. R. Hutton, Pastor.—We have not reported lately, but we are still working. There have been several improvements made on the church. We are hoping, as the conference year draws to a close, that we can pay our church expenses in full.

We were very glad to have our president, Dr. J. E. Pritchard, with us recently. He brought us a very inspiring sermon on "Pray for One Another."

Our Christian Endeavor attendance is better and we are expecing it to go forward as summer vacations are over.

The church extends its sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Rickman, who recently lost their infant son.

We are sorry to report that Miss Cleo Pinnix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Pinnix, has recently undergone an operation at Wesley Long hospital. She is a student at High Point College.

Bethany Church, Randolph Charge, G. L. Reynolds, Pastor.—Our pastor filled his appointment Sunday morning. A good crowd was present for Sunday school and preaching.

The last quarterly conference of Randolph charge will be held at Bethany on Saturday afternoon. Bethany church will have all claims paid in full.

Members of the Ladies' Aid went to the High Point Children's Home recently. They carried about 8 dozen cans of fruit. All reported a good trip. They enjoyed going through the buildings.

The members of the Ladies' Aid will meet on Saturday with Mrs. J. A. Redding, when they will make a quilt.

The Helpers' class met on Saturday afternoon with Miss Frances Ellis. New officers were elected for the next year. Also the Faith, Hope, and Charity class met with their teacher, Miss Gracie Baldwin.

First Church, High Point.—Last Sunday a large congregation heard Mr. Madison deliver another good sermon. His subject was, "The Power of the Spirit." Both senior and junior officers of the church were installed and occupied seats in the middle pews.

Sunday afternoon our church was well represented at the Central District Christian Endeavor rally at Cane Creek church. Representatives from the Junior, Intermediate, and Senior societies attended.

This week has been full of meetings. On Monday afternoon the Woman's Auxiliary met at the church. The program was in the form of a memorial service and was conducted by Mrs. M. P. Harrell and Mrs. J. H. Allred. On Monday night there was a called meeting of the board of stewards. The purpose of the meeting was to lay plans for the collection of this year's pledges and for the every-member canvass to be held on October 30. Thursday evening at 6:30 a regular meeting of the Workers' council was held at the church.

Several of our members have been sick, but we are glad to know most of them have improved and are able to be out aagin. Our sympathy is extended to Mr. J. R. Meredith, who recently lost his father. We were glad to welcome into our church fellowship Mr. Howard Sink, the son of Dr. J. N. Link, of Newark, N. J. Dr. Link will be remembered as the minister who conducted our revival meeting some time ago.

The membership is hoping to end the conference year with all claims paid in full. We feel this has been one of our most successful years.

First M. P. Church, Lexington, L. E. Mabry, Pastor.—Our fall revival services came to a close Sunday night, October 9, with Rev. L. E. Mabry as the preacher, and Rev. Wayne Curtis of Burlington as singer and choir director. This revival proved to be an uplifting meeting; there were 15 converts and 11 of these joined the church. There were a good many visitors at these services, and Mr. Curtis did a splendid job of leading the singing and also sang some soul-stirring solos. We hope to have him back with us in the near future. Mr. Mabry also preached some very forceful sermons during the meeting. We feel sure that all of us have been benefited as the result of the revival.

At the Sunday morning service the officers of the church were elected.

The fourth quarterly conference is being held Friday night, October 21, at Mt. Carmel. We hope to give a good report at this meeting.

A number of our members are on the sick list at this time. Mr. A. E. Cutting underwent an operation at the Davidson hospital last week, and also Mrs. Mary West is quite ill. She was sent to the hospital last Monday. Our prayers go out for these people in the time of distress. We wish them a speedy recovery.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Shatterly

Mrs. Annie Shoffner Shatterly passed to her eternal reward on the October 11, 1938. She was a bit more than 73 years of age and most of her life had lived a Christian life. Her passing was quiet and beautiful, which was only symbolic of the life she had lived.

Mrs. Shatterly was often puzzled and mystified at some of her experiences, yet she ever kept her faith in God, and possessed a sweet spirit. She seemed to live in the belief that all things do work together for good to them who love God.

She found great comfort in prayer. It was a haven for her weary body; a solace for her puzzled mind; and a refuge for her troubled heart. Prayer was a lifting power in her life. Prayer lifted her from the things that troubled and burdened her life into God's presence, there she found peace and power.

Hers was a beautiful, Christian motherhood. The supreme motive in her life was to train and rear her children that they might love God and serve Him all their days. This sort of motherhood is a great safeguard for our homes, churches, institutions, government and for civilization itself. One of the gravest tragedies which could happen to us would be for this type of motherhood to pass from American life.

May God comfort the bereaved and bring into their hearts in abundant measure His peace and love.

FRED W. PASCHALL, Pastor.

John M. Davis

On September 23 Mr. John M. Davis passed away at his home in High Point. He had lived to the ripe old age of 87 and for several years his body had been showing signs of that weariness that comes at the close of day. However, he was seriously sick for only a brief time before death.

Mr. Davis was born near High Point and spent his life in this section. Forty years of this time he served as justice of the peace. In 1874 he was married to Jane Davis who preceded him in death many years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Misses Ida and Myrtle Davis, and one son, Ross, all of High Point.

As we seek to evaluate this life which was blessed with many years we realize that there are many things which might be said. One thing that we would mention especially is that he seemed to take church and religion seriously. Fairfield M. P. church of which he was a member for over 50 years gave to him most every possible honor. Though we may sometimes take it lightly, it is no small thing to be respected and honored with office by friends in the church. For several years he has been unable to get back to his old home church but during that time he has been very faithful in his attendance upon church and Sunday school services at the First M. P. church of High Point. To give 40 to 50 years in upholding the law and the church is a service of which no one need be ashamed.

Funeral services were conducted from Fairfield M. P. church by Dr. P. E. Lindley and the writer.

J. C. MADISON.

J. A. Jarrell

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father and husband, Mr. J. A. Jarrell, who departed this life three months ago.

You shall never be forgotten;
Never shall your memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts forever linger
'Round the grave where you are laid.

His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights have passed;
His ever patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never shall be filled.

Three months of silent sorrow,
Three months of grief and pain,
A wound that never can be healed
Till we see your face again.

MOTHER and CHILDREN.

THE FIRST AND THE LAST

In November, 1914, our Conference met in Asheville, N. C., at the same time the Blue Ridge Atlantic Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was meeting in the same city. Some one made a motion that fraternal messengers be sent to this conference from our conference. Revs. Geo. W. Holmes, T. M. Johnson and Geo. L. Curry were designated as these fraternal messengers. For some reason Dr. Johnson did not go as a messenger and Rev. A. O. Lindley was selected to take his place. On one day of the conference (I think it was Friday), the three of us went to the church of our brethren. We found Bishop Henderson presiding. We were treated very cordially. All three of us made short talks, more or less impromptu. I remember that I made mention of the fact that my early training had been such that I had been given the idea that a bishop was somethink awful and not to be desired. But, this, my first sight of a bishop, was not so bad after all. I further told them that I felt that we were visiting the mother church which was a church that had no east, no west, no north, no south. These expressions seemed to please our audience and they gave me quite an applause. We found Bishop Henderson a great man and he treated us with every courtesy. Little did I then think that I would live to see the day when our own church would be preparing to elect bishops and that some of our most ardent opposers of bishops would be anxious candidates for that office. At the close of the short talks of our delegation, Bishop Henderson replied in a most gracious manner and in his reply he suggested that the two conferences get together for an hour at some time during our stay in Asheville. And said he, "If the child does not see fit to visit the mother, the mother will gladly visit the child." This invitation was carried to our conference and after some little discussion in which the conference was referred to by somebody in our conference as "The Northern Methodist" the invitation was extended to the conference of "Our mother church." Our visitors came to our church on Saturday afternoon and we had a fine meeting. Bishop Henderson brought a great message. Some things he said I have never forgotten.

This, I think, was the first of our sending fraternal messengers to one of the other Methodist conferences of our state. I am sure it was the first to be exchanged between us and the Methodist Episcopal brethren. I feel quite sure it was the first joint session of two conferences of ours and a conference of either of the other Methodist conferences. I am wondering if up to that time there had been a joint conference of any of our conferences with another Methodist Episcopal conference. It was some years after this when we began here in North Carolina to regularly exchange fraternal greetings by means of messengers.

Very recently the Blue Ridge Atlantic conference met at Pfeiffer College in its last session as a Methodist Episcopal body. I was anxious to see that body in its last session. It was my privilege to be there for a short time. Brother Madison had delivered his message to these brethren before we arrived. We were told that his message was fine. I am sure it was a real masterpiece as compared to the impromptu words that were delivered to that conference back in the ancient days of 1914. But after all I congratulate myself to be among the first to visit that body of good men and I am glad that I could see them in their last session. And now my heart is moved when I think that we are approaching the day in the very near future when sure enough there is to be a Methodist Church with no east, no west, no north, no south and no M. E., no M. E. South and no M. P. Thank the Lord and praise His name.

It is a great thing to be Central in anything. It means that from that center there should emanate an influence that should go in every direction and reach to the farthest bounds. We are hoping that it is going to do it in this case. Central church, Asheboro, led in the biggest amount of money this week. Fine for you, Doctor! All we regret is that hub has not been sending forth in every direction something like this sooner. A fine church, best of people, an efficient pastor, plenty of material to get subscriptions, subsidy all paid, just expect another big batch now to put you among the leaders in this good work before the conference issue comes out. Asheboro would look good in capitals, I know, because I have seen it there before. Show us again, please.

A young man was preparing to get married. He became very serious and sad-looking just before the ceremony. One of his close friends saw that something was wrong, so he said, "John, what is the matter, don't you want to get married?" "Yes," replied John. "Don't you love your bride-to-be?" "Sure," he replied this time. "Well, what is the matter with you?" John replied, "I have lost my enthusiasm."

Now, fellows, if you have lost your enthusiasm, get on the firing line again, and come on with the numbers and the cash before we get so busy we will not notice whether you got out or not. Many are watching to see just what YOU will do.

Roberta, Community church, Thomasville, and Moriah, by good near neighbor, all came out on subsidy this week. And thanks to Auman for his check from the N. C. Council of Religious Education, as well as these other brethren. Twenty-nine that makes out on this. Why not make it thirty right away? We are counting on every one of you to try for this 30th place.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Fellowship Supper at Albemarle

On Thursday evening of last week it was my good fortune to attend a Fellowship Supper in our Church at Albemarle. These meetings are under the auspices of the Laymen's Fellowship of the Albemarle Church and are held monthly. A fine group of men had assembled to enjoy a good meal served by the women of the Church, and to hear an address as well as to transact some business for the good of the organization and the Church. As I see it there are great possibilities for meetings of this kind. I was told that there were several present who have not yet united with our Church in Albemarle but many of these do attend Sunday School and are prospective members of the Church. Our Church at Albemarle is well equipped to have such meetings as this. They have two dining rooms in the basement, one large one and one some smaller. Either would be ample for any ordinary occasion. Rev. C. G. Isley, the pastor, is in the front ranks in everything about his Church. From what I could gather from the group he is a great favorite with the men and they are clamoring for him to serve the Church again next year. It was a great pleasure to be in such an enthusiastic meeting.

The Quarterly Conference at Shelby

The fourth quarterly conference of the Shelby-Cardeen Charge was held in the Shelby Church on Saturday night. Rev. L. S. Helms is the pastor of this charge and is serving his third year, I believe, on this, his second pastorate on this charge. The charge consists of three churches, namely, Shelby, Cardeen and Bessemer City. All of the Churches were represented, although there were not so many officials present. Much good seems to have been accomplished on the work this year although there remains much to be done before the charge can lay claim to having paid all claims in full. The charge still owes the pastor a considerable sum but I hope this can be taken care of as the salary is too low for a pastor to have much to spare. But the salary was increased for next year by $25.00, bringing it up to $900.00. The Shelby Church owns the parsonage but as there is a considerable indebtedness on it, the parsonage has been rented and the rent applied on the indebtedness. This has made it necessary for the pastor to pay rent on the house at Cardeen where he has been living. But the officials Saturday night had the feeling that perhaps the churches would try to pay the rent next year. Brother Helms is held in high esteem as a Christian gentleman by all the people.

A Sunday Morning at Knob Creek

Last Sunday morning was spent with the congregation at Knob Creek on the Fallston charge, Rev. R. L. Hethcox being the pastor. Here the house was well-filled with people, several coming from the other churches on the charge. This Church has had a good year as has the entire charge. The pastor reports that the charge is fairly well up on its finances and I am hoping they can finish in good style. This is Brother Hethcox's second year on the charge and he is popular with the people. He is rated by them as a strong preacher and they seem to be standing by him. It was a pleasure to be with him and his people and I was sorry to have to hurry away so quickly.

Mt. Moriah Church Dedicated

On last Sunday afternoon it was my great pleasure to dedicate the Mt. Moriah Church on the Cleveland charge, Rev. T. G. Madison, pastor. On the first Sunday of this Conference year when the pastor and his family arrived at this Church for the first service of the new Conference year they found the old Church building in flames. As there had been considerable discussion in favor of building a new Church at this place, it was not difficult for them to decide what to do. While the coals were still alive from the old building, the congregation met in the school building nearby and took steps to build new and better. And now there is a nice brick building there with an auditorium that is large enough for any ordinary occasion with art glass windows and with six Sunday School rooms at the rear. And the fine thing about it is that it is all paid for and dedicated. So much lumber and labor were donated that it is difficult to get a correct estimate of the cost, however, the amount actually spent was about $3,000.00. But if everything had been put down at the market price it would have been more nearly double that amount. Everything considered this is the outstanding piece of work in the Conference this year. And while this rural congregation has done this they have met all claims in full to the Conference. Brother Madison has been the leader but the people have nobly assisted. This is the home Church of Rev. W. A. Lefford, whose articles often appear in the HERALD.

A Sunday Night at Lincolnton

Last Sunday night was spent with the congregation at our Lincolnton Church; Rev. W. L. Harkey being the pastor. I have space for only brief comment concerning this Church, however, it was my first visit to this place and I was agreebly surprised. The Church building is brick and the auditorium would be very acceptable at almost any of our city churches. It gives one the impression that it is built for the future. The most of the Sunday School rooms are in the basement. The school here seems to be in a flourishing condition. Brother Harkey reports that the Church has already paid almost all of its claims this year. Brother Harkey is popular with the people and they seem anxious to have him return to them for another year.

Hear Others Say

Heaven is not a compensation for pain and loss here, it is the "eternal life" revealed through communion with God and rising into its own sphere to fulfill its destiny.—Dr. W. G. Jordon.

"Little by little the good in men
Blossom to beauty to human ken:
Little by little the angels see
Prophecies better of good to be:
Little by little the God of all
Lifts the world nearer the pleading call."

The horse and buggy days may be over, and the era of the machine may have dawned, but man himself has not changed, and never will until he is changed by capitulation to the will of God.—Dr. Wm. Hiram Foulkes.

The beauty and the glory in worship, who can describe them? As these fade in human life the world we live in becomes ugly in its selfishness and suffering and sin.—Rev. H. E. Carlson, D.D.

The list of subscriptions and subsidy payments encourages the Editor; we may yet do as well as we did last year. But you must hurry, if you are to get your subscriptions in before Conference meets.

As the time for the meeting of our Annual Conference approaches we hear from one "well informed" brother that there will be no changes hardly at all among the pastors. And by the time we decided that he is right, another "well informed" person comes along and tells me that there will be an unusual number of pastors moving. So take your choice. However, there is nothing unusual in this. The slate-makers themselves break their slates sometime.

The Editor enjoyed his visit to the W. N. C. Conference last Friday as the fraternal messenger from our Conference. Bishop Purcell and the brethren were very kind, they know how to make a visitor feel at home and they certainly know how to dispatch business. We heard many Presiding Elders make reports and they were good. Most salaries were paid in full, many over paid. We expect to hear the Conference had a substantial net gain in membership.

Jas. A. Garfield is credited with the saying, "Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up." Any one who knows the struggles he had in coming up from the boy driving the mule to the tow line along the canal to the office of the President of the United States, will admit that Garfield knew what he was talking about. While just once in a great while you may hear of some person who has been "lucky," "favored" or "fortunate" because he succeeded in life without much effort, but such a person is indeed the exception. Most of the things in life which turn up have been manhandled—it may be they required much effort to turn up. Old Micawber, one of Dickens' characters waited for something to turn up that would mend his fortune until he about starved and went naked. Certainly he is not a shining example to allure an ambitious person on to success.

Home Coming at First Church, Charlotte

All former members and friends of First Church are invited to attend a "Home-Coming" service Sunday, November 6. Dinner will be served picnic style and a good time is promised. Pastor Strickland is preparing a program which will appear in the Herald next week. This advance information is to prepare the way for the full announcement which is to come later.

Preaching

It is no unusual thing to hear some intelligent person speaking rather disparingly of preaching. Recently I saw in a magazine of note rather a caustic criticism of the value of preaching. But speaking as one who has heard preaching all his life and has tried to preach for several years of that time, I want to agree with those who say there is not much value in preaching—not unless somebody does the thing or things the preacher exhorts them to do. For the number of people who practice the truths of the sermon, the disparity between the hearer and doer is entirely too great.

We doubt that the majority of hearers take any of the sermon as far as the Church steps. To them it has become a sort of perfunctory practice to sit through a Church service and therefore means absolutely nothing as an influence upon their life. A good sermon will do at least three things, give information, inspire the hearer to live better, and stir up conviction of truth in the heart of the hearer so he will be willing to act, even to suffer for its sake. If a sermon is entirely devoid of the three elements, it of course, is a very poor sermon—hardly a sermon at all. And if a person can sit through a Church service where information of great value to his life is given and not take it: if he can remain dull to all the alluring challenges of the truth, be unmoved by them: and if he can be spineless, hesitant, while he listens to the appeals to his faith, his courage, zeal and knowledge—he or she who can do this is like unto the highway upon which the seed fell and bore no harvest because there was no soil in which it could sprout. It is too much to expect all people to hear and heed and the message even though it has been delivered well.

We are sure that the average Church attendant expects too much of the sermon. He seems to think it ought to work like magic upon the hearer—take him and change him against his will. I am sure one of the most obvious reasons why the sermons fail to accomplish the results intended of it, is because of the failure of the hearer to want it enough to be listening. Good listening on the part of the Church attendant is really as important as good preaching to produce results.

While we still believe in the importance of preaching, we are convinced that if these indifferent, listless, yet fairly intelligent, Church attendants are to be benefited much by their attendance upon the Church services, they must be linked up with the cause of religion more substantially than by hearing sermons. Hearing AND doing have been linked up as the essential acts of the servant of Christ throughout the New Testament. Any one who can see the folly of doing without hearing, and yet it is just as futile to hear and NOT do according as one hears.

The Appreciation Year

Last May the Board of Administration inaugurated what they termed the Appreciation Year which is expected close the existence of the Methodist Church as a denomination. The emphasis upon it was to begin with the month of May, 1938, and to continue until the 30th of April, 1939. We are exhorted to show our appreciation of and for the Methodist Protestant Church by raising the World Service Budget in full. This budget for the North Carolina Conference totals $42,000. It was apportioned to the various pastoral charges many years ago, but since there have been many changes in boundaries and other conditions arises necessitated an examination of the apportionments, the Committee on Financial Recommendations has a recommendation to the approaching Annual Conference. However, it is stated by the Committee putting on this campaign that all money raised for World Service after May 1, this year, and until April 30th next year is a credit on the apportionment laid upon the pastoral charge, also 4-15 of the amount raised on the Fellowship Crusade may become a credit on this apportionment. This fact ought to stimulate interest in paying the World Service this year—if it is paid by the approaching Conference, that charge will have nothing to raise for this item before April 30, 1939.

The Annual Conference An Agitator

Every year as the Annual Conference approaches the experienced observer sees pastors and Church officials become restless in many places. The pastor who thinks it's time to move begins to cast about for a place to go, the Church officials who think it is time to have a new voice in the pulpit begin scouting around to see who is the best prospect. It has been very interesting to the Editor for many years—even while he was in the pastorate, to see certain members of the conference start on their visits into the nearby pastorate, making "just social calls" upon the people, and listening to find out what is going to happen. We have some very good traders in our Conference, both laymen and ministers. It is not their purpose to trade unless they can better themselves. In this respect they are wise. But we have seen them make some rather bad bargains though. I have known delegates to insist on taking a preacher which the Stationing Committee had not selected for his work, but the delegate thought he knew, so the Committee yielded and it proved to be a bad bargain. We have also seen some of these bargain counter preachers make a mistake once in a while.

Yes, the approaching Annual Conference causes a certain amount of restlessness every year. None feel so secure, something might happen that he would have to move. But there are some pastors as well as people who can't bear for a Conference to go by without changing. Not that they better their situation, but the pastor gets a new Church and the Church a new voice. The pastor preaches his best sermons and the people try to hold out faithful in their attendances upon the services for a few weeks, then the whole thing boggs down and becomes about as it was before.

We do not imply that changes are never beneficial to both pastor and people. They are beneficial because they become necessary. But the way some pastors and Church officials act, no one receives any permanent benefit. The place-seeking pastor, as a rule, is not seeking a place where he can serve, but a place easy to keep and please the folk. The Church members who are ever scouting around for a new pastor do not take time to build or improve their work—they are seeking a change. And if there were no Annual Conference for three or four years, some of these restless people might settle down to really hard work and do some great things.

PLEASANT GROVE CHURCH HAS HAD VARIED HISTORY SINCE ORGANIZATION EARLY IN 1800

Pleasant Grove Methodist Protestant Church has had a long and interesting history. It was in existence in the year 1829 when a circuit was formed in Guilford county and the Church was placed on the circuit. The deed to the property was made April 24, 1830, by Bennie Kendall to John Welborne, John V. Newton, Wm. M. Albertson, Thomas Burton and Emsley Burton, trustees of Pleasant Grove association.

In 1833 Pleasant Grove was transferred to the Randolph circuit, where it remained until 1838, when the Randolph circuit, except Old Union and Mountain school house, was merged with the Orange circuit. However in 1844 the Conference, which met at Fairfield Church, near High Point, set off the Davidson circuit and Pleasant Grove was transferred to it. In 1871 Davidson circuit was divided and Pleasant Grove was attached to Carraway circuit. Later the Church became a part of the Guilford circuit and in 1884 Rev. A. J. McLaughlin was pastor. Afterwards Uwharrie circuit was created and Pleasant Grove was placed on it. Other circuit changes followed.

Pastors since have been as follows:

Rev. A. L. Hunter, 1896-98; Rev. W. C. Hammer, 1899-1902; Rev. C. A. Cecil, 1902-1907; Rev. J. H. Moton, 1907-1913, during whose pastorate the present Church building was erected; Rev. D. M. Loy, 1913-1914; Rev. R. C. Stubbins, 1914-1916; Rev. Paul S. Kennett, and Rev. A. D. Shelton and Mrs. A. G. Dixon as supplies, 1916-1917; Rev. Edward Suits, 1917-1923; Rev. G. L. Reynolds, 1923-1928, during whose pastorate the present Sunday School rooms were built; Rev. D. R. Williams, 1928-1933; Rev. H. L. Powell, 1933-1935; Rev. Fred R. Love, 1935 to present year.

During the year 1930 the members of Pleasant Grove Church erected a monument to the memory of Rev. J. B. Cecil, his wife, Mrs. Sarah Cecil, and son, J. W. Cecil.

During the year 1928 the brick parsonage, located on the Hasty high school road was built.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

Does Education Impoverish the Faith?

Education, some people think, casts a chill over one's religion. Cases are cited to show how higher learning blights the spiritual life and turns the believer into an infidel. One of our leading magazines carried a recent article on "What College Did to My Religion." Thousands of readers, no doubt, devoured that story and concurred in the opinion there expressed that higher education does tend to destroy the Christian's creed.

Certain individuals, of course, do experience difficulty in maintaining their spiritual glow while adjusting themselves to the larger thought of academic circles. Some do make shipwreck of the faith; religion with them becomes a lost art. As Sam Walter Foss said of the lad in his poem:

> "His faith grew faint with many scars;
> The cosmos widened in his view,
> But God was lost among His stars."

These cases, however, can generally be explained in few and simple words. Indeed our class in Philosophy did so explain them, and here is the logic employed:

First, it is hard to be analytic and reverent at the same time, and the scholar has to be analytic. Begin to take a thing to pieces and you lose the total impression it was at first intended to arouse. Select a beautiful, fragrant rose. You admire the color and sweetness; but pick the rose to pieces, petal from petal, lay all of the parts on the table, and you destroy it. There is nothing left to appreciate when you have analyzed and torn it up. In like manner the student, taught to pick every subject to pieces, finds the experience none too easy on his childish faith.

Second, religion too often rests almost entirely on emotion, and, very naturally, critical study contributes nothing to its position. The classroom is a poor place to arouse holy feelings, and the laboratory is trying upon the sentiments. New discoveries cast doubt upon ancient creeds; orthodoxy, as a result, fares ill at the hands of the exploring mind. Push sentiment aside and feeling runs low, and those persons who look to emotional fervor for religious satisfaction find the spirit chilled and starving. Emotion is their joy and crown. Any place, therefore, that does not keep their emotions running high proves unfriendly to their faith.

Third, the time element is important. It "takes time to be holy," and any number of men, finding no convenient season for personal devotion, rob themselves of what the soul normally demands—time. You need not expect to cultivate corn and harvest cotton. Both are good but both require attention. "Men do not gather figs from thistles." In the nature of the case, study tends to absorb the whole schedule, leaving no adequate time for spiritual growth. This, however is neither the fault of education nor religion. Rather, it is the result of an unbalanced program of living. You would not pay a man full wages who spends most of his time working for another firm, and you need not expect the Lord to do otherwise.

Fourth, higher learning is hard on religion for the simple reason that many adults are still trying to live by an infantile faith. They refuse to grow up religiously. Such people come to college with a mature notion of history, geography, and politics, but with a child's understanding of the Bible. Such Such persons increase in wisdom and stature and in favor with man, letting the relation with God take care of itself. So far as education and social life are concerned they put away childish things, but in religion they insist on remaining in perpetual babyhood. In these cases, of course, something must snap somewhere, and it is usually religion that pays the price. People must grow up religiously in order to enjoy a wholesome faith.

Fifth, teachers exert a powerful influence on the religious outlook of those who come under their care. A teacher can make or break a student's faith. Professor Betts says that there are three kinds of teachers: those to be forgiven, those to be forgotten, and those to be honored and remembered as long as one lives. Fortunate is the pupil who has a wise and Christian teacher. The cynical instructor, on the other hand, can by sneering unbelief darken the minds of youth and shatter the very foundations that support the most cherished beliefs about God and the Word. Thus many a college lad has wrecked his faith over the schoolmaster, and from the ruins was hardly able to salvage enough doctrine to comfort him the rest of the way. Such is indeed tragic if and when it happens, but remember it is not education that does it, only the manner in which it is presented.

But after all this thing of education impoverishing the faith has been greatly overdone. As a matter of truth intelligent people are as religious as any, and higher learning does not of itself alienate the soul's affection. History proves this. The greatest religious leaders have always been educated, as, for instance, Luther, St. Paul, Wesley, Knox, and Calvin. Besides, the Church has been the mother of education down through the ages. No, religion seeks light and learning, knowing, as the Master taught, that "You shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

WE MUST PREACH EXPECTANTLY

God has said that men are going to be saved through the "foolishness of preaching." He is saving men through the means of preaching every day. God has always blessed the right kind of preaching. We have a right to expect something to happen when we preach. Do you remember what Mr. Spurgeon once said to the young preacher who was discouraged because more souls were not being saved under his preaching? "You don't expect conversions every time you preach, do you?" said Spurgeon. The young preacher said, falteringly, that he did not. "That's the reason they are not saved," answered Spurgeon; "you don't expect them to be." We need to have the element of expectance in our preaching. If we pray about our sermons, if we depend entirely upon the Holy Spirit for our help, if we preach with all the earnestness of our souls with a definite purpose in our hearts—we may expect God to bless our preaching.—W. E. Ford.

PERSONAL RIGHTS AND WHERE THEY END

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, October 30, 1938

By Rev. O. L. Easter

Lesson Text—Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Romans 6:17-23; 14-21.

Golden Text—What then? Shall we sin because we are not under law, but under grace! God forbid.'' Romans 6:15.

In our present series of lessons we have been considering God and man's relationship to him. Thus far we have found that he is the one and only true God to whom man owes full allegiance. That a God like unto our God cammands of us to say of him Hallowed be Thy name, and that so deep should this reverence be that it be given one day of our seven to us to give it full expression. Also we have been taught that if we vainly use this sacred name of all names that it becomes a definite sin again us.

Now considering these teachings as to the attributes of our God on the surface we see very little that would make him greater than the gods of great religions other than Christianity. We must go below the surface in our present lesson to find some of these greater attributes.

In this lesson we turn from our discussion of man's relationship and responsibility to God to his relationship and obligation to his fellowman. Here is to be found one of the unique and greater attitudes of our Christian God. Yes, God is a jealous God and will have no other Gods before him but strangely enough he commands that we must put our obligations to man before ours to him. Jesus taught in Matthew 5:23-24: ''Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.'' Here is something more or less new in religious schemes. Other great religions demand worship and reverence for their gods but as to their relationships of man to man they are lacking sadly. In fact, in pleasing their gods personal liberty and human welfare must be sacrificed on the altars of their worship. Babies and adults are often literally offered as material for sacrifice. Not so with Christianity. Jesus says that if we say we love God and love not our fellowmen that we make our worship of him void.

Thus in Christian society we come to a vital post of our religion when we consider our personal liberty and the point where it ends. God being a loving Father and all men being His children peace and happiness for that family is of deepest concern to them all. It is here that the problem of our present lesson is found. Where does my divinely given freedom end and that of my brother begin?

Madame Roland on her way to the guillotine during the French Revolution uttered these famous words, ''O Liberty, how many crimes are committed in thy name!'' Many of our modern crimes against moral society are being committed under the hue and cry of personal liberty. At present in America the liquor traffic is thriving as never before on its loud cry that to restrict its dangerous sales and methods is to destroy the American standard of personal rights. So with many other social evils that are so stubborn to control. We need to define personal liberty in its true sense, and the simplest definition is simply this; that our personal liberty ends just where the personal liberty of another individual begins. When our liberty becomes a stumbling-block and a burden to others then it is not God-given nor God-planned freedom. Paul has brought it down to a very fine point for the Christian when he says of meat-eating that if in eating swine meat he offends some Jew then he will and must give up meat forever. Even when the meat-eating does not offend him personally he must give in for the sake of the rights and needs of others. If we could adopt such an attitude as this we could solve our present problems of personal rights and find out truly where they must end.

THE GREATEST MAN WHO EVER LIVED

Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in an obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an itinerant teacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had nothing to do with this world except the power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying—His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the piety of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone; today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the Leader of the column of progress.

I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as has THAT ONE SOLITARY LIFE.—Phillips Brooks.

USEFUL WHEN APPLIED

A soap manufacturer, not a Christian, was walking with a minister. Said the soapmaker, ''The Gospel you preach hasn't done much good, for there's still a lot of wickedness and wicked people.'' The preacher made no immediate reply, but they soon passed a child making mud pies. He was exceedingly dirty. It was then the preacher's turn, and so he said: ''Soap hasn't done much good in the world, I see; for there's still much dirt and many dirty people.''

''Oh, well,'' answered the manufacturer, ''soap is useful only when it's applied.''

''Exactly,'' was the minister's reply; ''so it is with the Gospel we proclaim.''—W. J. Hart.

The Text: Jas. 4:1-11 (Consecration Meeting).

"God of the nations, near and far,
Ruler of all mankind,
Bless Thou Thy people as they strive
The paths of peace to find.

The clash of arms still shakes the sky,
King battles still with king.
Wild through the frighted air of night,
Their common creeds and songs.

O, Father from the curse of war
We pray Thee give release
And speed, O speed the blessed day
Of Justice, Love and Peace."

Twenty years ago the bells and whistles sounded the signing of the armistice. At every crossroad in America when men and women had witnessed the elimination from the community for all time a life that had been very much a part of the community, or of more than one life, and after witnessing the horrors of the experience of seeing the neighbors boys coming back from the front minus their healthy lungs, or minus limbs—when the bells sounded the signing of the armistice on that day, straight to heaven went millions upon millions of hands and faces giving thanks for the ending of that struggle, swearing that it would never happen again. People said, "Oh, it has been an awful experience, but it has been worth the sacrifice, because after all, that was a great war, a war in a marvelous and most worthy cause, a war to end wars, a war to make the world safe for democracy."

Now, twenty years after that day look upon a world of nations bankrupt, unhealed sores to be observed upon every side, and yet a world bankrupt though it may be, prepared and able somehow to rake and scrape more money together in preparation for the next war.

What are these forces astir in our world today that lead us into war? "The root causes of war may be found in human nature. The same spirit that divides individuals divides nations." When we find a nation of selfish, greedy individuals, we find a warlike nation. In fact a group of individuals is but a bundle of human nature whose ideals emerge from the mixture. We usually look to Germany, Japan and other foreign countries as the wicked offenders, forgetting America's position. Let me quote from an address made at the Methodist Young People's Conference in 1935: "The next time a military parade comes down the avenue, watch it, the fine boys ready to respond to need and to need and to the emergency of the country when the country calls. Look at their equipment. Look at the guns they are carrying to defend their country against another country armed with guns shooting the same identical du Pont powder. And then look upon their backs. In that sack you see them carrying a gas mask to protect those lungs of those fine boys against the gases that American manufacturers have sold to Japan and every other nation on earth that has the price to pay for it." Yes behind the nation is human nature.

What men are they may expect their system to become. What they do they may expect their nations to follow. A man who is disagreeable with his neighbor, can hardly expect his nation to be agreeable with neighbor nations. A man who can not settle his own disputes without blows can not expect his nation to do so. If we want to discourage war we should not encourage a warlike spirit in ourselves.

The root cause of war is human nature, but the chief remote cause is faulty nationalistic economics. The maintenance of armies and military supplies and then, too, political causes. Behind all of these is selfishness, greed, fear, hatred, unfriendly attitudes, unholy ambitions, deceptions, misunderstandings and rivalries. These spirits can not be legislated against. The presence and ministry of the Holy Spirit working in men and in nations, alone will change these attitudes which bring about wars.

Some people say that we waste our time contemplating things like these, because we cannot save ourselves from war. And if it is true that we cannot save ourselves from another war, that does not excuse us from doing our utmost to correct these things which are wrong. We should move forward like the old bridge builder who travelled along the highway. We work that some future generation may know a land rid of wars.

An old man, going a lone highway
Came at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm, vast and deep and wide,
Through which was flowing a sullen tide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fears for him;
But he turned, when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting strength with building here,
Your journey will end with the ending day;
You have crossed the chasm, deep and wide,
Why build you the bridge at eventide?"

The builder lifted his old, gray head.
"Good friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm that has been nought to me
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be.
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."

TWO WOMEN WHO MET OPPORTUNITY

Two women met opportunity one day. The one was a woman who made every necessity of her own life an excuse for her failure to reach out a helping hand to others. The other found in every privilege that came to her an opportunity of sharing with those to whom privilege came not. The one woman had an only daughter who was critically ill. Physicians were called. Night and day trained nurses cared tenderly for the young girl. A great specialist was brought half way across the continent in consultation. and the life that had lingered at the gates of death came back through the gates of life. The mother said her heart was overflowing with thanksgiving. The Lord sent opportunity for her to express her thanksgiving. A great-hearted woman came and spoke to her of the girls of India and China. who suffer and die with no one to care, and no one to minister to them. She told of the medical colleges that were training doctors and nurses, and of those who were being turned away because there was no room for them. She told of the things that might be if buildings and equipment could be provided. Then the woman to whom opportunity came, although she had great wealth, looked for a way of escape. She made privilege an excuse for failure to meet opportunity.

"My daughter," she said, "has been very ill, and I have been at great expense. I have had many physicians and high priced specialists. I have had nurses night and day, and therefore I cannot help this good cause which you represent."

So because her daughter had had skilled physicians and nurses she denied them the suffering daughters of India and China, and opportunity passed on to the other woman.

Her daughter also had been ill, and had been lovingly and skilfully brought back from death to life. And lo, opportunity stood by her mother also, as a great heart told of the girls that wait in India and China, and die for lack of such skill and care as had restored her daughter. "Will you help with the fund to establish the Union Christian Colleges of the Orient and the Medical Schools?" said opportunity.

"What more fitting thank offering could I make?" said the woman who recognized opportunity. "True, I have spent much, but I would have spent much more if my daughter had needed it. Now my heart is so full of joy I have room in it for all the daughters of the world."

She wrote her check in large figures and said: "This is the first payment on the debt of gratitude that I owe." Thus did the two women meet opportunity. One knew it and the other knew it not.—Woman's Missionary Record, 1921.

Sammy was not a very good pupil, therefore his mother was both surprised and delighted when he came home one noon with the announcement, "I got one hundred this morning."

"That's lovely, Sammy!" exclaimed his proud mother. "What was it in?"

"Fifty in readin' and fifty in 'rithmetic," was Sammy's prompt reply.—Ex.

SPECIAL FOR COMMITTEES

Thanksgiving is just ahead. Our letters, literature and envelopes for adults were all mailed out last week. The dime cards for children are in hand now, and will be mailed this week. We are supposing that committees have already been set up in each local church and these committees will handle the dime cards through the teachers of children in the Sunday School, and will also see that each adult member of the church and Sunday School has an envelope soon, and that they return it with an offering about Sunday, November 20.

The regular offerings this year have fallen far short of those for the same period last year so we need your hearty cooperation in working up a good offering for Thanksgiving. If all of us will make an offering at Thanksgiving it will add up in the aggregate. If you need more envelopes and dime cards please let us know quickly.

Special for Pastors and S. S. Superintendents

We are depending upon you to set up a committee in each local church and to get into their hands the envelopes for adults and the dime cards for the children. If these cards and envelopes have not reached you please write us immediately. A package of envelopes went to each pastor last week for his charge. In the package was an envelope for three-fourths of his membership. If you need more please write us. If the envelopes and cards do not reach the people then the expense of printing and mailing will be in vain. We stand in great need of your help and we are depending upon you.

Get the organization working before you go to Conference, then if you are returned, give it a quick, active follow-up after Conference. If you are moved then follow-up as best you can what the other fellow did before Conference.

Get the offering together on Sunday, November 20, if possible. Have your treasurer record the amount and then send it to us.

The Thanksgiving offering and the regular offerings should be kept separate so our books may be properly kept.

We thank you in advance for your hearty cooperation and your good help. God bless and prosper every one of you.

Yours in His Service.
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Sunday, October 16, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Thompson was the scene of a lovely party honoring the birthdays of Miss Julia Ellen Thompson, 86, of Burlington, and Mrs. A. G. Thompson, 60, of Graham, Rt. 1.

After a musical program furnished by relatives, a picnic lunch was served to seventy-five guests. then lovely and useful gifts were displayed by the honorees.

Young T. A. Williams, son of Rev. T. A. Williams, whose home is in Burlington, and who has been ill for several years, is in a very critical condition. Mrs. Williams, his mother, asks the prayers of the brethren and sisters.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Palestine, Flat Rock Charge, October 19, 1938.—The fourth Sunday in September the seventh annual Tucker reunion met at Palestine Church. The program consisted mostly of songs. Attorney Irving Tucker of Whiteville, N. C., gave a timely and interesting talk on war and peace, and Harry Z. Tucker gave some recent history of the Tuckers, showing an old walking cane belonging to several generations back, bearing a date between 1700 and 1800. I haven't the exact date.

Lunch was served on a long table on the lawn. Rev. Mr. Tucker of South Carolina, now located in Winston-Salem, an Evangelistic preacher, returned thanks. Every one ate the good things.

The afternoon service continued with the singing of good songs. A talk was given by Rev. J. A. Burgess, pastor of Palestine church. His subject was "A Good Name." I do not think I ever heard a more beautiful talk made. A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and we are proud of the Tucker name. Mr. Elmer A. Tucker of Winston-Salem, president of the reunion, has 692 Tuckers registered. He wants more. A car of people from South Carolina and two cars from Virginia attended this reunion for the first time. Hope they come back and bring more Tuckers. We are anxious to know them.

On the third Sunday our pastor filled his regular appointment. The attendance was very good and the sermon was grand. Palestine has only one more appointment before Conference. Some of our finances are dreadfully behind, yet we are hoping to get out.

Mr. L. A. Tucker, father of the reporter, who suffered so severely during August and September with an attack of "Shingles" is able to attend services again. He suffered badly at times. Some shrubbery has been planted at the church.

GRACE A. TUCKER, Reporter.

Reidsville.—I can hardly realize that I am rounding out my twelfth year as the pastor of this charge, so swiftly have the years passed. These years have not witnessed any miraculous growth in the church, however, it has moved along steadily making its contribution to the spiritual life of the community. It has stood all these years for the pure unadulterated gospel of Jesus Christ. It has stood four square for personal and civic righteousness, and so far it has not compromised with evil. Its record is above reproach.

The special days have been observed this year resulting in fairly good contributions to each interest represented. The Sunday School offering each first Sunday in the month has been given to the Children's Home. The average offering for this worthy cause has been around nine dollars, which is not bad for a school no larger than this one.

Under the leadership of Mrs. M. T. Smith, Mrs. J. H. Allen and Mr. Charles J. Roberts, a junior choir has been organized. This choir has contributed materially to our church services, for which we are all profoundly grateful. The vestments for the choir were furnished by the Woman's Auxiliary.

Rev. J. W. Braxton, pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Charge, did all the preaching during our revival services. He is a good gospel preacher, and he endeared himself to all who heard him. He is a young man of great promise, and we predict that he will have a brilliant career in the work of the Kingdom. As a result of the meeting four were received into the church.

This is the only church I have ever served whose Sunday School enrollment is larger than the membership of the church. So few members of the church have children that it has been necessary for us to go out into the community and gather children of parents who are not affiliated with any church. This is the finest kind of missionary work, for a number of these children find their way into the Kingdom of Righteousness. This type of work ought to be vigorously prosecuted by all of our churches.

The social life of the church has not been neglected. The Sunday School classes, the Christian Endeavor societies and the choir have get together meetings now and then, and a good time is enjoyed by them all.

With the exception of two Sundays the pastor has met all of his appointments during the year. No vacation has been taken by him, however, the church did not require him to preach but once each Sunday during August. This afforded him ample time for rest and recreation. With the exception of the Fellowship Crusade, we expect to meet all of our obligations by conference. No matter who may be assigned to this charge next year, he will meet with a royal reception and be given hearty cooperation in the work.

GEO. R. BROWN, Pastor.

Granville Charge, J. P. Pegg, Pastor.—We are looking forward to the close of our Conference year with interest and activity. Granville charge is endeavoring to bring the year's work to a successful close. The members at each of the three churches have coöperated in the fullest to make this possible.

The Parsonage Aid held its quarterly meeting Friday evening, October 21. The pastor's wife was hostess. More than sixty persons were present, and proved to be a very enthusiastic meeting. $17.50 was collected by the treasurer.

Saturday morning, October 22, the Fourth Quarterly Conference convened in the Union Chapel Church. Each church was well represented. The reports of the treasurers were encouraging. By the close of the conference year near $400.00 will have been raised for the Childrens' Home. The superannuate apportionment was paid. Other items in the budget have been met in part, and further payments will be sent in before Conference.

The year's work by the three Auxiliaries has been outstanding. The women are interested workers in Granville. About $300.00 has been raised for the work in North Carolina and World Service. It is a pleasure to have a hand in this part of the work.

The Thank-Offering program was held at Union Chapel last Tuesday evening. Dr. N. G. Betha brought to us a series of pictures taken from many parts of the world. The program was enjoyed by a large audience. Also, wife and I had the pleasure of having Dr. and Mrs. Bethea for dinner at the parsonage Tuesday evening.

Gifts for the table have been received frequently and for these we wish to thank the donors.

Mrs. Lee T. Mitchell of Union Chapel was recently taken to Watts Hospital in Durham. She is at present at home again much improved in health.

Mrs. Sam Hunt of Rehoboth spent last week in the Oxford Hospital. She also has returned home. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. James Wrenn of Rehoboth, after spending several days in bed, is able to be up again.

THE PASTOR.

Chestnut Ridge Church, Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor.—Rally Day was observed in our church Sunday evening with members of our church presenting a pageant entitled, "The Trial of Everyman's Church." The pageant was very interesting and seemed to fit in with our church. After the program our pastor conducted an important and interesting business meeting of our church. Officers for the ensuing year were elected, and the church treasurer gave his report. We found that we had a small sum of money yet to raise and it is our sincere hopes that we may "go over the top" by the end of the year.

This was our last regular appointment for this conference year and we are looking forward to the new year with sincere hopes for the return of our pastor and his wife. We feel that much has been accomplished this year under his leadership.

Our Sunday School work seems very encouraging, with an increase in interest and attendance.

The Christian Endeavor Society, recently organized, is making a very good start. Our pastor met with us last Sunday night and gave us some helpful ideas that we hope to put into practice.

The Woman's Auxiliary is sponsoring a Thank Offering program the fifth Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. Dr. A. G. Dixon and a group of children from the Home will be there to present a program.

ANNIE RUTH PENDER, Reporter.

Friendly Church, Fallston Charge.—The third Sunday, October 16, was our regular worship service day with the pastor present. He brought to us an inspiring message. At the beginning of the services new officers were elected for the next year. Rev. Mr. Hethcox's text was taken from I Cor. 13; 5. He made clear to us that if we possess virtue, temperance, patience, godliness, loving kindness, and brotherly love, there will be little room left for selfishness. He that loveth his brother loveth God. A large crowd was present to hear the sermon. Several attended from the neighboring churches.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held its October meeting at the home of Mrs. D. L. Martin. The officers for this group are president, Mrs. Grier Martin; secretary, Mrs. Warren Martin; treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Lockey. Mrs. William Clay was leader for this meeting. Those taking part on the program were Mrs.

D. L. Martin, Mrs. J. C. Lewis, and Mrs. F. B. Toney. Sixteen members were present. During the business session of the meeting it was decided to give a Hallowe'en party Monday night, October 31. During the social half hour the hostess served delicious refreshments. Then they adjourned to meet again in November at the parsonage with Mrs. Hethcox. These ladies have brought many dollars to the church by giving various programs.

We have enjoyed this year with Rev. Mr. Hethcox and his family. We pray that God will deal gently with us in bringing to us a pastor for next year.

EVA WRIGHT, Reporter.

Moriah, J. Leo Pittard, Pastor.—The conference year is soon drawing to a close. We have had a successful year. We hope in the next two weeks that all claims and small items will be taken care of and Moriah will be on the honor roll as of last year.

The officers for next year have been elected and very few changes have been made. The ones we had this year have done a fine piece of work so we saw fit to use them again next year.

Our delegate to Annual Conference is Mr. James F. Jobe. With Conference meeting at Calvary, which is our neighboring church, we expect to have several lay members present.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their monthly meeting Friday night at 7:30 at the church. Mrs. S. A. Moser will be in charge of the program.

We were indeed glad to have Rev. Charles Sharpe, Jr., pastor of Chatham charge, with us on the fourth Sunday.

Our C. E. Society has joined the Greensboro C. E. Union. We will get lots of inspiration from the work of the Union. Twelve of our C. E. members attended the rally at Gibsonville recently.

We have a new church reporter for next year and we trust that she will keep up with her work better than the reporter or assistant reporter has done this year.

We trust that every church in our Conference will close with a successful yeat

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

Connelly Springs Charge, Shady Grove Church, Herman Yokeley, Pastor.—Church is still progressing very nicely.

Revival meeting closed last night. Rev. O. L. Easter preached from Sunday night through Friday night and our pastor, Rev. Mr. Yokeley Saturday and Sunday nights. Four were reclaimed and saved. One received into the church which makes 16 that have been received into the church this year. We feel that the meeting has been a great blessing to the people of the community. We still hear people talking of the wonderful preaching we heard. May the Lord bless Rev. Easter and his companion and may they be a still greater power for God in the future.

We are expecting Rev. Yokeley and his good wife to be with us another year. Hope we will not be disappointed.

Sunday School yesterday, October 23, with 109 scholars and six teachers present, was an excellent showing for our church. New officers and teachers have been elected for the coming year and have started out in a fine spirit. We are proud of our little Sunday School and hope we can report 200 at the end of another Conference year.

Burke's Chapel, which is on this charge, had not been having Sunday School in quite a while until our superintendent and assistant superintendent organized a Sunday School over there. A superintendent, secretary, and three teachers have been elected. Yesterday was the third Sunday that our officers have been present there and there was an attendance of 30 and much interest was manifested.

Our prayer is that they will keep the interest so that the Sunday School will grow and be a great blessing to the church and the community.

MRS. RUTH AIKEN.

Pine Grove Church, Kernersville, South Winston Charge, C. B. Way, Pastor.—The annual Home-Coming program will be given at Pine Grove next Sunday, October 30. The services will start with Sunday School at 10:00 o'clock. At 11:00 the sermon will be preached by Rev. R. A. Hunter, son of the late Rev. A. L. Hunter, who once lived in this community and meant so much to Pine Grove in its early days.

A picnic dinner will be served at the noon hour which always carries with it an excellent opportunity to renew old acquaintances and make new ones.

The afternoon program will be composed mostly of special singing and music by various quartets and other groups of singers, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Johnson of High Point.

A special invitation is extended to all former pastors and church members who have moved away.

REPORTER.

Guilford Circuit, J. B. Trogdon, Pastor.—As this conference year is drawing to a close I feel that the readers of the Herald should know that our people have not been asleep, nor have they been idling away their time through the year. Our people have not shirked their duty. Our fourth quarterly conference met at Hickory Grove last Saturday with a large attendance from each church and there was much interest manifested in every department of the work. I have never had better reports presented to any fourth quarterly conference. Almost every financial item had been met or will be met before I start to conference, with the exception of one.

Our revivals have been good. Our first meeting was at Hickory Grove. Brother A. D. Shelton did the preaching. We had 24 confessions and 7 joined the church.

Our next meeting was at Vickery. Brother Hill preached four times at the beginning of the series but had to start one of his own on Thursday night. We ran on a week and had 54 professions and 45 joined the church.

At the Fairfield meeting Brother A. D. Shelton came to us Monday night and did all the preaching until Saturday night. Here we had a good meeting but not many of the unsaved attended. Everyone enjoyed Brother Shelton's preaching. There were six confessions and eight joined the church—two being by letter.

The next meeting was at Mitchell's Grove where I did all the preaching and not many unsaved attended, in fact, there are not many unsaved in the community. This church had a meeting in the spring with a number of conversions and the Prayer Band holds prayer meetings twice a week in the homes. They have had a number of conversions in these meetings and I have brought 38 into the church which altogether makes 101 received into the churches this year. I feel the dear Lord has wonderfully blessed us this year, and now may the Lord lay on the hearts of the older members their responsibility in taking care of the young that God in his mercy has given to them. Hope to see many of you readers at conference.

God Bless You All,
JOEL B. TROGDON.

First Church, Henderson, N. C., T. J. Whitehead, Pastor, October 24.—Our daily thoughts are turning to the Annual Conference and we are hoping to come together with encouraging reports of work accomplished.

The Auxiliary prepared a very helpful and interesting Thank Offering program which was given at the 11:00 o'clock service on October 9. The theme of this service was "These Things Shall Be." Mrs. D. S. Coltrane of Raleigh, who is secretary of the department of Christian Education in the Annual Missionary Convention of the Methodist Protestant Church, and a member of the General Conference Board of Education was the guest speaker for the occasion. Mrs. Coltrane is well known and is active in educational and civic affairs in North Carolina. Her talk was very much enjoyed by a large audience. A special offering was taken and appropriate music rendered.

The Auxiliaries of the Methodist Protestant churches of the second district appreciated the cordial invitation to be present at Flat Rock Church, near Henderson, Monday evening, October 17, to enjoy a series of slides of scenes in Palestine and views of buildings and projects of the Methodist Protestant Church shown by Dr. N. G. Bethea. Quite a number from the churches enjoyed the evening.

The missionary societies of the churches in Henderson were delighted to meet with the Auxiliary of the Holy Innocents Episcopal Church recently to hear Miss Bessie Blacknall speak of her work as a missionary in Alaska. She told of her life at St. Marks Mission in Nenama, Alaska, and her duties in the school and many other things which were thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience.

Officers of the Baraca Class elected for the coming year are as follows: E. C. Kittrell, president; C. M. Hight, vice-president; W. R. Trogden, secretary-treasurer; R. W. Dixon, assistant secretary-treasurer; J. B. Hicks, teacher with S. R. Harris and C. N. Kalstrom assistants.

The sick committee is composed of Garland Greenway, J. M. Baity, and George Davis.

A. H. Nuckels is chairman of the lookout committee, with C. D. Hamm and W. B. Hight.

The Girls Mission Club was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon by Miss Minerva Falkner at her home. Miss Eliza Boyd was assistant hostess and Miss Annie Dell Floyd presided over the business session. Miss Mary Gene Falkner led the devotionals.

We regret very much that Mrs. Dixie Bobbitt, who is one of the most faithful members of the Sunday School and the Rosa Harris Bible class, has been kept at home for quite awhile on account of illness. We hope she will soon be able to be with us for we have missed her so much.

The Auxiliary is looking forward with pleasure to the fall mission study: "The American city and its church," which we hope to commence in the near future.

The Philathea class met recently with Mrs. D. T. Beckham and had a splendid attendance. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Maurice Allen, the vice-president Mrs. R. J. Daniel presided. Miss Agnes Harris led the devotionals. The class has just sent a box of clothing to a little girl at the Childrens' Home for whom they have been caring for quite awhile. The Sunshine Circle, under the leadership of Mrs. Glenn Satterwhile, met at the church on Monday afternoon. Circle No. 1, with Mrs. C. M. Hight as hostess, met at the church on October 10. Circle No. 2, with Mrs. H. O. Falkner, and No. 4, with Miss Page Gooch met on October 17.

The Methodist Protestant churches of Henderson and the county have started their campaign for the annual Thanksgiving offering for the denomination's Children's Home at High Point. It is hoped to have all the money in hand before the annual conference, November 9.

Rev. Mr. Whitehead has been preaching a series of sermons on the subject: "The Kingdom of God." Yesterday's subject was "Men to Build the Kingdom." A very impressive service was held yesterday when the new church officers were installed.

Rev. R. E. Brown is holding a preaching mission at the First Methodist church this week with the local ministers bringing the messages each evening.

The fourth quarterly conference will meet at the church on Wednesday evening. Our pastor desires a full attendance.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family of Mr. Solomon Satterwhite who passed to his reward Sunday morning. May our Heavenly Father comfort the bereaved ones.

ANNIE C. LASHLEY.

Flat Rock Charge.—We have held all our special meetings, and the year is almost finished. Bros. Carroll, Ridge and Suits rendered most acceptable service in these meetings. We have had fourteen accessions on the work. The people seem interested in the work of the Kingdom and are a most delightful people to serve. We will have some of the churches on the full honor roll, but not all. We have had a good time serving these people, and thank them for every kindness.

Since the publication of the Flat Rock dedicatory services another most interesting letter written by Rev. J. S. Williams to his cousin, Emma Williams, concerning these services, and which would have been included in these services had I known of the letter in time, has come into my hands. The letter is a purely personal letter, and was written with no thought whatever that it would ever find its way into the press, but it is so thoroughly scriptural in its suggestions, and of so much comfort to those who have loved ones gone on before, that I am attaching it to this report with the hope that you will publish it in full with this report and thus give it a wider reading.

J. A. BURGESS.

HERE ARE TWO GIRLS WITH GOOD ATTENDANCE RECORDS

They are the daughters of Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Cook, pastor of Friendship-Loves Grove charge. Loma has not missed a Sunday in seven years. Colene has never missed a Sunday since she was first carried to Sunday School at the age of three weeks. Very fine for the Cooks.

My Dear Cousin Emma:

You can imagine my thoughts these days as the anniversary meeting at Flat Rock approaches, and I can guess your thoughts all the time.

I have been calling the roll at your house and at our house and at Uncle Robert's house—J. W. and Carey and Sam and Josephine and George and Aunt Emily and Uncle Billy—Aunt Esther's, Uncle Robert and Aunt Jaley and Cousins Molly and Freyer and Puss and Wesly and Newton and Bob and June.

I do hope for you the real presence of The Comforter—the fulfillment of the gracious promises of Jesus.

"Be not afraid, only believe."

"I will not leave you comfortless, I come to you."

"I am with you always"—"In Me ye shall have peace."

"Because I live, ye shall live also."

Not only will the fifth Sunday be a reunion of hundreds of old friends yet in the body, but your precious ones will be there—and they are always with you to cheer you. They crave that you rejoice and be exceedingly glad—because they love you still, because they are with you, because Jesus is with you and loves you, because of the salvation that came to hundreds at old Flat Rock, because these are bestowing their blessings on you and on all who will be assembled there that day, sharing the glory from the Father in heaven. They also want you to be glad because you too will have the victory and the crown of life and because you have all heaven and the Father and Jesus and the Comforter to sustain you every step of the way.

I am thinking anew of the good times I had with J. W. Did I ever tell you that in the twilight, as he and I chatted near our garden, he said, "Sammie, I am so glad you are going to college." That one word helped me all the way through.

God bless you. Anna Meade joins me in much love.

Your cousin,

SAM.

Give our love to your children and grandchildren and to Aunt Esther and Jewel and theirs.

Pine Bluff, C. G. Isley, Pastor.—Our last quarterly conference has been held and the year's work is being finished up in good shape. The pastor's salary is paid in full and part on the Conference claims, and the remaining time till the Annual Conference will be spent on raising the balance on the claims. The quarterly conference unanimously asks for the return of Mr. Isley.

We feel that we are ending a very successful year under the leadership of our good pastor, Mr. Isley. During the summer we have covered the church and painted it on the inside and outside.

During the special meeting, in which Brother R. L. Vickery assisted the pastor, there were five additions to the church. We shall long remember Brother Vickery's earnest sermons and splendid work during his short stay among us.

I am pleased to introduce to the readers of the Herald the new reporter from Pine Bluff, my good friend Clifford Barbee. Clifford is a young man of fine character and is doing a splendid work in the Sunday School as teacher of the young men's class. He also goes to the Annual Conference as delegate this fall.

Kernersville Church, Kernersville, South Winston Charge, October 24.—Circle One of the Ladies Aid society held its regular monthly meeting at the parsonage with Mrs. C. B. Way hostess. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Way and Miss Louise Way. After the business session, Mrs. Way assisted by her daughters, Mildred and Louise, served refreshments in Hallowe'en colors.

Circle No. Two of the Ladies' Aid society's October meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Clay Parrish. Mrs. Parrish had charge of the devotionals. During the business session officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Paul Butner was elected leader, Mrs. Adell Corum treasurer, Mrs. Clay Parrish secretary. An interesting social hour was enjoyed in which the hostess served delicious refreshments. The November meeting will be held with Mrs. Harry Mabe.

Work to beautify our church, both the exterior and interior, has begun. The exterior woodwork is to be painted and there will be a complete redecoration of the auditorium. We are hoping that this work will be completed shortly after conference.

Our delegate to Annual Conference is Mrs. Blanche Fulp of the Pine Grove church. We wish for her much success. We are hoping that our pastor and his family can come back to us next year. Mr. Way has worked hard here this year. As you know there are five churches on this charge. He is a splendid preacher and he and his family deserve much praise for the excellent way in which the work on this entire charge has been executed.

We have paid our pastor's salary in full and expect our next treasurer's report to state everything paid in full.

Our Sunday School has about the usual good attendance.

Miss Hazel Hendrix's class voted Sunday to send $5.00 to the orphanage for clothes.

At the election of church officers Paul Butner was reelected superintendent of the Sunday School. Craig Linville is our secretary and treasurer and is a very efficient one, too.

Draper Church, J. L. Love, Pastor.—It has been quite a while since there has been a report from our church, but that don't mean that we are not doing anything. The church is moving along nicely and the Sunday School is the best ever and we are having the largest attendance we have had in years. Preaching services are well attended both in the morning and evening and we recently had seven join our church at the evening services which makes 27 new members for the year. We are expecting others to join soon. The pastor has worked hard this year, preaching fine sermons, holding prayer meetings, attending all the prayer meetings in the homes and helping in every way he could to build up our church. The community prayer meeting was held in our church with two hundred and 72 present. Just think, 272 in a Saturday night prayer meeting. The Lord is blessing Draper and many souls have been saved. Our Christian Endeavor is doing fine. They had their meeting Tuesday night with Miss Helen Stuart. Those present enjoyed the meeting. The Young People's class had their monthly meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. Minnie King. A nice crowd was present and all had a nice time. Our fourth quarterly conference will be at the church next Saturday afternoon. We hope there will be good reports for the year.

I think I speak for the whole church when I say our church is hoping for the return of our pastor. Rev. and Mrs. Love are very proud of their new 11 lb. daughter, Mildred Maxine, born September 18. The baby is doing fine but Mrs. Love has had tonsilitis. She is improving at the present time. Mrs. John Saunders has been sick but is improving.

Best wishes to the Herald and all its readers.

Rankin Memorial, High Point, Edw. Suits, Pastor.—One of the best revivals we have had in a long time has just been brought to a close. The services began October 9 and ran through October 19. Rev. Fink from the Jamestown M. E. Church, Dr. A. G. Dixon, Superintendent of the Children's Home, and Dr. Pritchard, President of the Annual Conference, each conducted a service during the first week of the meeting. Their messages were evangelistic and were highly inspirational. The pastor, Rev. Suits, did the preaching at the other services. There were a number of conversions. Some renewed their covenants with God, and many were truly revived and drawn closer to God. The following ones united with the church, the majority of them coming by profession of faith:

Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Bessie Livengood, Mr. and Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and daughter, Thomasine; Mrs. Sharp, Miss Julia McSwain, Edna Gardner, Peggy Burton, Johnny Helen Small, Gretel Anderson, Maureen Pegram, Margaret Halstead, Carlyle Griffith, and Billy Wardell.

Officers for the coming year were elected last Sunday at the morning service and will be installed next Sunday morning.

The last quarterly conference will be held on Saturday night before the first Sunday in November. It is hoped that much can be accomplished between now and then so that we may have a good report to send up to the Annual Conference.

Mrs. Lackey and Mrs. Minnie Embler are still on our sick list. We hope that they may soon be able to get out and attend services again. We miss them so much.

Worthville, C. L. Spencer, Pastor.—Our pastor preached his last sermon for the conference year at Worthville Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock. As usual he gave us a good message. The Lord's Supper was observed at this time. The church officers and Sunday School superintendent were also installed, they having been elected at a previous meeting.

C. F. Allred was reelected as our Sunday School superintendent, D. J. Allred as chairman of the board of stewards, with Mrs. W. H. Trogdon, Mrs. Fern Ferree, Robert Groce and Ralph Jennings, stewards. J. A. Ferree, F. E. Allred, W. A. Jennings, C. C. Ward, and L. P. Foust as trustees.

Our stewards have been quite busy of late trying to get everything paid up in full and it is almost certain that it will be before Conference for everyone wants our pastor returned.

The last quarterly meeting for the year will be held at Mt. Lebanon Saturday evening, October 29.

Fairview Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Our revival meeting came to a close on Tuesday night, October 18, this being the tenth service. We are very happy to report that this meeting proved to be very uplifting. There were 26 conversions and a number of reclamations. We were inspired by so many young people being converted and we sincerely hope that these boys and girls will ever strive to live up to what they have professed and help others to find Christ by their examples.

Our pastor did some fine preaching during our revival and we feel that we all have been spiritually revived. The doors of the church will be opened on the fifth Sunday in this month at the regular preaching hour for all those wanting to unite with this church.

The fourth quarterly conference was held in our church the fourth Sunday afternoon. Each church was well represented and splendid reports were heard from all three churches. The indications are that we are going to close a very successful year's work on this charge.

Our Sunday School is showing much increase in attendance at the present time, there being 132 present last Sunday. Our goal has been set at 150 before Christmas. We hope this can be reached.

We are very proud to report that we have almost reached our conference claims, our pastor's sålary is paid up, and we can rest assured that our budget will be reached in the very near future.

We have just one more preaching service before the Annual Conference will meet. We have thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated the short three months of service rendered by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Coble, and we feel that our church has been greatly benefitted by his services. We have also enjoyed his visits in our homes and we hope that this does not end our fellowship together.

We hope as we send our delegate to the conference that he will be guided by the Lord to do that which is best and that if it is possible that our present pastor will be returned to us for another year's work.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, October 24.—Our fourth quarterly conference for Shiloh charge was held at Shiloh last Saturday afternoon. It was one of the best, if not the best, the writer has ever attended. The reports were most encouraging. Our pastor gave a splendid report which I would like to give completely but space does not permit. He has striven to be faithful to the trust and has given his best to the church. On this charge there were 30 conversions and 30 additions to the church. Seven members were lost by death and three removed, leaving a net gain of 20. Besides the revivals on the charge, our pastor has assisted in six others, witnessed 110 professions, baptized 19 converts and five babies, performed six weddings, assisted in 21 funerals, preached 132 sermons and made approximately 300 visits. This was in addition to attending the Sunday schools, prayer meetings and Christian Endeavor meetings. He stated that the charge was in the best condition to go forward and we hope to do so by the guidance of the Spirit.

All organizations are working in a fine way. The Sunday School now numbers 303, with 246 present Sunday. A monthly offering ($8.50 per month) has been sent to the Children's Home. The class leaders also reported good interest and good spirit in the prayer services, especially that of our young people at the mid-week services, with 25 to 45 in attendance. Our monthly prayer service had an attendance of 121. Our C. E. Society is also continuing its fine work. A wonderful spirit is manifested by the young people. A collection of $125.00 has been collected and we hope to raise still more before the Annual Conference. The Woman's Auxiliary is also doing good work. Our apportionments are being paid to date. Sunday night the fall Thank Offering service was conducted. A pageant entitled "The Lighted Highway" being presented along with a brief sketch of our home and foreign work. The Thank Offering amounted to $20.40 for which we are very grateful.

Our church treasurer gave a report which showed that Shiloh Church has again reached its goal with all conference claims met, and having collected $80.50, with $14.00 pledged yet to be collected on the Fellowship Crusade. Not only did Shiloh Church reach its goals, but both Friendship and Greer's Chapel met all claims thus making Shiloh charge an Honor Roll charge. So we have instructed our conference delegate, Mr. Alvin Walser of Friendship, to bring back Rev. C. E. Ridge to Shiloh charge for another year and we hope the conference will be willing.

I reported last week that our officers had been elected and installed and will begin with the new conference year. They are as folllows:

Class Leaders: W. J. Berrier, R. B. Sink, J. F. Fritts.

Trustees: Ed Waitman, J. M. Shoaf, F. L. Koonts, Jesse Hill, C. W. Sink, A. J. Weaver, B. L. Leatherman.

Church Treasurer: J. L. Evans.

Sunday School Superintendent: H. A. Leonard; Pianist: Mabel Berrier; Assistant Pianist: Gladys Evans; Choir Leader: Coley Scott; Assistant Choir Leader: Homer sink; Church Reporter: Mrs. Kyle Sink.

Ushers: Protus Koonts, Floyd Leatherman, Lawrence Evans, Dayton Koonts, Homer Sink.

Continue to pray for us.

Pine Grove Church.—The annual Home-Coming event will be observed at Pine Grove church next Sunday, October 30. Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor of the Forsyth Charge, will deliver the home-coming sermon, or address. Dinner at the church in picnic style. Community singing program in the afternoon, directed by J. W. Johnson, of High Point. Several quartets and other groups of singers will be heard.

Fourth quarterly conference will be held at the Kernersville church Saturday, November 5, at 2 P. M. Dr. J. E. Pritchard, president of the annual conference, will be present and preside. This will be a very important conference. Besides finishing the work of the conference year, plans will be made for the coming year; Pastor's salary will be fixed, and other important matters considered.

Pastor and family will enjoy a week-end vacation including next Sunday, October 30, a fifth Sunday which does not provide any preaching services at any church on the charge. They will spend the week-end with relatives at Burlington.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson, W. H. Neese, pastor, October 24.—As the Conference Year draws near its end, we look back with a great deal of pride and gratitude. We are both very proud and very thankful for the improvements we have made in our church building, and are looking forward to making more. It seems that the spiritual side of the church is also gaining ground. We are striving to keep pushing forward in every way.

Our C. E. Society is working for much greater things. The membership is increasing, and each week finds us looking for new interests. Sometime ago Mr. L. R. Medlin visited our Society and offered constructive criticism and an inspiration for greater work to be achieved. It is the purpose of the young people to enrich their spiritual lives in Christian Endeavor, and so to strengthen the whole church.

We are happy to report that some of our fellow Christians and friends who are ill have at least partially recovered. Mrs. J. L. Shoaf's health has shown a great deal of improvement, and it is our understanding that the same is true of Miss Lizzie Clinard and her sister, Mrs. Ida Bodenheimer. Their friends certainly will be happy to know this.

May we express our gratitude for what our pastor and his wife have done for us since they started to serve us three years ago. It is useless to try to name all the things that they have done for us; they are so numerous. But we are truly grateful. If the conference sees fit to send them back to us, we shall welcome them whole-heartedly.

Union Chapel, Granville.—There has not been a report from our church in quite a while, but I can say that our work has been going on very smoothly.

We are pleased that the quarterly conference has met and voted unanimously for the return of our present pastor. We could not do any better with much searching, I am sure.

The new officers were elected at the fourth Sunday morning service. The pastor received a portion of his salary at this service and the business of the church generally seems to be in readiness for the conference.

Mr. Pegg filled his regular appointment last Sunday with an excellent sermon and a large crowd in attendance.

Mr. Kittrell, from Henderson, was with us and gave a few remarks concerning the deplorable financial conditions now existing at our Childrens' Home. We were asked to raise $50.00 by Thanksgiving, which I feel sure we can do—and will do. This is such a worthy institution we must do our part to keep these little ones from suffering.

Mr. R. M. Edwards, our most efficient Sunday School superintendent, is trying to get the people interested in building Sunday School rooms. We hope that every member of the church will become anxious enough for this big improvement to begin at once.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Ebenezer, Greenville Charge, J. M. Morgan, Pastor.—It has been some time since we have reported to the Herald, but we have been busy nevertheless. On the second Sunday in August our revival meeting began and closed the following Friday night. Brother Morgan did the preaching in his most efficient way and fourteen were added to our church family as a result.

A musical program was given here on October 9th. Visitors from other churches on the charge, a nearby M. E. church and also a Baptist church, helped to make this a success. Thank you folks. Come again. Always glad to have you with us.

Yesterday, October 23, Brother Morgan filled his last appointment at this place before conference, bringing to us a wonderful message on love.

It has been a great privilege of ours and also a great joy to have Brother Morgan and his family with us for three years. We feel that he has been a great influence in the progress we have made.

Our weekly prayer meeting will be continued after the first Sunday night in November. We cordially invite all who can to attend.

Rally Day program will be held here on October 13. All churches on the charge will give a short program, after which the fourth quarterly conference will be held. We desire that all officials will be present with good reports.

MRS. F. A. PEARSON, Reporter.

Shilch Church, Randolph Charge, October 25.—Our pastor, C. L. Reynolds, filled his regular appointment Sunday. This was his last appointment before conference. He brought a very helpful message on "Loyalty and Leadership," reading several passages of scripture on the text.

Our Sunday School attendance is very good now. There were 79 present Sunday.

Offering envelopes were handed out for the 1938 Children's Home Thanksgiving offering. If you have anything to give, Mrs. Grace Chilton is the new secretary for next year. She will take care of it for you.

Our new officers were installed Sunday for the coming year. Let us all cooperate and make next year a better year in every way.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Gila Hemphill Wednesday evening, November 9.

Since our last report we are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Garrett and son Roy to take up residence at Julian, and to have them attend our church.

Littleton Church, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trollinger, Pastor.—Well, here we are again with another report as you dear folks can see. Our work has been going on so nicely and smoothly that we are anxious for every one to know how glad we are because of the way our work is progressing.

Since our last report we have nearly completed painting our church. The roof and all the inside has been finished and we will have the outside painted with two coats within three or four days.

On Saturday evening, October 15, a group of our members met at the church to give it a general cleaning which was badly needed after the painting. The rug was thoroughly cleaned and the woodwork and benches given a good rubbing and dusting. The yards were cleaned and the afternoon's work gave our church a new appearance.

On the third Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock our pastor filled his regular appointment. We observed the day as Home-Coming day. The church looked very beautiful due to the new paint and many pretty flowers and it made us all very happy. We all enjoyed the sermon and at the closing of the service we added another new member to our list. Mr. G. C. Harris became one of our members. This made 15 that have united with the church this year. Mr. Laker Williams joined us on the third Sunday morning in September. We are very happy to welcome him and all the others into our fellowship.

The new officers have been elected for another year. They are as follows: Miss Annie Perkinson and Mr. Lasker Williams, superintendents; Mrs. Sallie Williams and Mrs. Frank King as class leaders; Mrs. Gurelia Morris, Mr. J. T. Harris, Mr. Lasker Williams, Miss Annie Perkinson, Mrs. Sallie Williams, Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. Z. B. Mitchell as stewards; Mrs. J. W. Warren, Mr. J. T. Harris, and Mrs. Glasgow as trustees: Mrs. Sallie Williams, church trustee: and Mr. Tommy Morris, janitor.

The Ladies Auxiliary met at the home of our president, Mrs. Sallie Williams, for our October meeting. Miss Annie Perkinson had charge of the program for the evening. The meeting opened with Mrs. Bobby Newsom reading the Scripture, after which we were led in prayer by our president. Then a duet was sung by Miss Annie Perkinson and her mother. The meditation was read next, and Mrs. Z. B. Mitchell, Miss J. H. Trollinger, and Mrs. W. L. Perkinson took part in the story theme of the program. The roll was called by Mrs. Frank King and the minutes of the last meeting were omitted as the recording secretary was absent. We then went into our business discussion. We made plans to turn in all the money we had on our quilt which totaled $49. The Auxiliary had splendid success on the quilt. One of our members raised $12 on her square. At the close of the meeting a delicious course of cake with chocolate sauce and hot tea was served to all by our hostess. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. J. W. Warren.

On the fourth Sunday evening the fourth quarterly conference will be held at the Littleton M. P. church at two o'clock. We are hoping and looking forward to a good one.

There has been on Wednesday nights a series of services at our church with very good attendance. We are hoping to continue these until conference.

We are all working to make this one of our most successful years with everything going over the top. We need the prayers and blessings of every one who is interested.

ANNIE PERKINSON, Reporter.

Gideon's Grove Church, Flat Rock Charge.--Our church is now bringing to a close one of the most successful years in the history of the church. Our last preaching service for the conference year, was held Sunday afternoon, October 23. At this time our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, made the annual report of the financial activities of our church for the year 1938. We were indeed glad to learn that our pastor's salary and all assessments were paid in full. We also have a nice sum in the treasury to start the new year with. Election of officers was held at this service. All the old board were reelected.

We feel that this has been a great spiritual year. Under the guidance of our beloved pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, we feel that we have really done a wonderful work.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Moser

Ernest Bassel Moser was born March 14, 1885, died October 14, 1938. Age 53 years and 7 months. He was married to Miss Maxie Whitaker December 11, 1910.

In his passing he leaves besides his wife, four children, Paul, Holt, Ruby and Nancy Lee. All now of Greensboro, N. C., and three grand children. He also leaves five brothers and four sisters and many friends.

He was converted and joined the church at Sholes when quite young and had never moved his membership.

Ernest had been afflicted for a long time and suffered much. He bore his suffering bravely and accepted his lot in life without complaint. He tried hard always to see the brighter side of life.

In his later days he seemed to realize that he was nearing the end and talked to those around him of his physical and spiritual condition. He assured them that he was ready and that all was well with him, and in this happy and contented state of mind Ernest left his suffering and afflictions behind and gently passed on. Ernest was liked by all and made a host of friends and many of these gathered around the bereft family, with all the kindness and sympathy that could be given. For all this the family extends their thanks and to all who have ministered to them in their great sorrow.

On Sunday, the 16th, the funeral was conducted at Pilot church by W. F. Ashburn and L. C. Chandler, after which the body was laid to rest in the church cemetery in the presence of a large congregation and under a great mound of beautiful flowers.

May the Lord bless the bereaved and comfort them, and may they all meet in heaven.

W. F. ASHBURN.

Benjamin Smith

Benjamin Smith was born October 17, 1860, in Halifax county near Enfield. His parents were Asbury and Martha Sykes Smith. In early life he professed his faith in Christ and united with old Bradford's M. P. church. He married Ida Cooke on February 3, 1887, and with her noble assistance established a true Christian home.

Practically all his married life was spent in the vicinity of Whitakers, where he united with the local M. P. church, remaining a faithful member until his death. He departed this life September 27, 1938, after several months' illness attributed to the infirmities of age. He is survived by two children, Mrs. R. W. Stallings, and Raymond W. Smith, of Whitakers; his wife, and an elder son, Marion B. Smith, having preceded him to the grave several years ago.

Mr. Smith was a faithful and sincere citizen, always contributing to worthy causes. He has been an influence for good in his community, having taught youth by precept and example, the noble ideals of true Christian manhood. He truly enjoyed giving what he had, realizing from his own experience the truth the Master uttered when He said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Though he had not been a regular attendant at worship services during recent years, due to increasing deafness, he always remained true to the church of his choice, and continued to make regular contributions to our offerings for our Children's Home.

Mr. Smith will be missed by all—young and old, rich and poor. We lament his passing, but realize God answered his prayer to be taken ere he lingered too long in a helpless condition.

On September 28 he was laid to rest by the side of his dearly beloved wife and son, for whom he had never ceased to mourn, amid a vast profusion of lovely flowers, to await the last call for which he was assured of his readiness.

May the example he set be an inspiration to those who are left, and a consolation to those who knew he lived up to his lofty ideals; for he nobly exemplified the definition of religion by James: "True religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit the widow and orphan in their affliction; and to keep one's self unspotted from the world."

MARRIED

Hicks-Michael

At the West End Methodist Protestant Parsonage, October 15, 1938, 8:30 P. M., Lemuel A. Michael and Fannie May Hicks were united in marriage, the writer officiating. This ceremony was attended by members of Circle Number Two of which the bride is a faithful member. They had previously given her a shower of many useful presents. A few other friends were in attendance also. They left immediately for a few days of travel. The groom is an interior decorator and a member of Calvary M. P. Church, while the bride is a member of West End Church. They will live in South Greensboro, 608 Tuscaloosa Street, where they are now at home to their friends.

This is a deserving couple and they begin life together with the prayers and best wishes of a host of friends.

Johnson-Braxton

On Friday evening, October 14, Roy W. Johnson and Miss Avis Braxton were united in marriage at the home of Rev. H. L. Isley, with Rev. Mr. Isley and Rev. J. W. Braxton, brother of the bride, officiating. The ring ceremony was used in the presence of just a few special friends and relatives. They are members of two of the most prominent families of southern Alamance county.

Mrs. Johnson is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Isham Braxton. She is one of the talented members of Center church, Alamance charge, and at the present time is serving as superintendent of the Sunday school.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Vesta Woody Johnson and the late Chas. W. Johnson, being a young man of sterling character. He is a member of Concord church, Saxapahaw charge.

They will make their home in the southern part of Alamance county.

Several years ago, those of us who are older remember that Dr. Thomas H. Lewis, one of the great preachers of America delivered a great address in Baltimore to the Methodist Episcopal General Conference. This was the beginning of negotiation for Methodist union. Some time after Dr. Lewis addressed the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, General Conference, Asheville, on the same subject, but a different address. This like the first literally swept them off their feet. They thought so much of this last address that they ordered ten thousand copies printed for free distribution. A great editor commenting on this afterwards said: "It takes a great man to strike twice, and certainly Dr. Lewis did that." We are all familiar with this interesting bit of important history.

What I wanted to say was that Dr. Taylor has struck twice! Sent in the largest amount financially on subscriptions last week and this. Ten more and you are out all around, Sam. Let's see you do it this week. Thank you!

And Dr. Fred, we are sending congratulations to you for getting First Church, Burlington, over on subsidy this week. Fine, fine! My, but wouldn't we like to see you pull them over on subscriptions! Well, Brother Joel, we are sure glad to welcome you in on this also. First from Guilford, but we are looking forward to see you in bold figures. Hope the folks will feel so good over this start that they will not quit till it is all in.

Cowan, you have a good start for Seagrove by what you sent in this time. You deal in so many figures efficiently for the Conference, wish you would get your folks to dealing in them in such a way as to get the joy out of doing it. Come again! Thanks to all of you.

P. S.: Quite a number of healthy subscription lists this week. Keep it up fellows until roll call. Get on the line if possible. Thank you.

P. S. Again: Thanks to Brother Cranford for starting the ball rolling down on Vance for subsidy this week. That is fine, try again.

Armistice Day

By Joseph Herbert Bean

Argonne grows green again each passing year,
At autumn time a tint of crimson sere;
And memory calls back to view a deeper red,
The stain of blood from war's prone ashen dead;
As o'er her trees the shadows come and go
Their sentry feet find paths of wartime woe
And waking echoes thunder through her aisles,
The tread of men in massed and marching files.
Now hushed the cannon's hoarsely throated voice
And every silence seems to shout, rejoice!

The Meuse has found again her peace-glad path
And few the scars of war's impassionate wrath;
Yet in her peaceful breast memorial pain
As wounded beast and bird leaves there the stain
Of oozing blood, and fallen men in phanton come
To slake their thirst and, dying, think of home—
These homes the chains of crimson anguish bear
And but for patriot pride were in despair.

In Belleau Wood the winds of war lie still,
Yet every plain and ridge and winding rill
Recall the roar and rattle of iron death,
The burning winds of war's fierce blasting breath,
The victor cry of the "Devil-dog" Marines,
Whose valor painted scarlet-threaded scenes:
Here every tree and rock their story tell
Where some brave youth met Fate and fell.
Now hushed the cannon's hoarsely throated voice
And every silence seems to shout, rejoice!

Then came that brave and glad Armistice Day,
A white-clad Knight of Hope amidst the fray
Where shell and might was matched with might
And man went forth with steel-clad Death to fight.
November's frost lay white upon the ground,
The world-wide ear intent to catch the sound,
The first faint sound of the chiming Bells of Peace,
When War, grown weary, her chant of death should cease.

Argonne, grow green and ever greener grow,
As days of peace on the tides of Time outflow
On the widening seas of human brotherhood;
While a conquering calm envelops Belleau Wood
And the tranquil Meuse in joy flows gently on
To empty itself in the deep of an endless dawn.
Thou valiant Knight of Hope, Armistice Day.
Ride on till Peace has come and come to stay!
Now hushed the cannon's hoarsely throated voice.
And every silence seems to shout, rejoice!

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

The Kernersville Quarterly Conference

On last Saturday afternoon I was privileged to hold the fourth quarterly conference for the Kernersville charge, Rev. C. B. Way, pastor. A goodly number of officials had assembled from all the churches of the charge and it was a very fine meeting. The pastor gave a good report although the Annual and General Conference budgets were considerably behind. Pastor's salary was over paid at the Kernersville church and was almost paid up at the other churches. The salary was increased for next year from $965.00 to $1,000.00 and the pastor was unanimously asked to return for another year. Really it was one of the most refreshing votes which I have seen.

The Rankin Memorial Quarterly Conference

The Rankin Memorial Quarterly Conference was held on last Saturday night. The pastor, Rev. Edward Suits reported progress along all lines. A rather large number of people, 42, I believe, had been received into membership during the year. Substantial payments had been made on church debt. This church does not own a parsonage but Brother Suits owns his own home which makes the situation work very well for the church. The church building here is comparatively new and it is a credit to the community. Really the work done by Brother Suits and the people of this church has contributed considerably to our denominational life in High Point.

A Sunday Morning at First Church, High Point

Last Sunday morning was spent with the First Church in High Point, Rev. J. C. Madison, pastor. This church is so well known to our people that to try to tell much about them would be very much like telling the people of the United States who the President is. Several sessions of the Annual Conference have been held here and the last session of the General Conference also was held here. The auditorium here is large and when it is well filled the speaker can feel that he is preaching to a lot of people. The pastor announced Sunday morning that the church had raised its entire budget with the exception of a part of the Fellowship Crusade and a part of the Herald subscriptions. It is possible that the Herald agent will receive enough subscriptions to put them a long way toward the goal even if they do not reach it completely. The presence in this congregation of a goodly number of the Children's Home family together with a good many of the student body and the faculty from the college helps to swell the number present. Brother Madison is one of our ablest young ministers and he has done a fine work here. He has the happy faculty of getting a lot done in the pulpit in a very short time. His sentences are so packed with truth that it is not necessary for him to repeat.

In the Midst of Conference

When this article is read we will be almost half way in the session of the Annual Conference. Since Calvary is so centrally located it ought to be easy for our people to visit the conference in large numbers. But whether you can be present or not you can pray for the conference and for those who have the responsibility of carrying on the work. And when the conference closes and either the former pastor goes back or a new pastor comes be sure to stand by him and pray for him. I have found that it is impossible to send a pastor that everybody would vote for but the only thing to do is to accept him graciously and if this is done, good work will be done by him.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

ADJUST YOUR AMBITIONS

According to the fable, a fox one morning stretched himself as he looked around, and said, "I will dine on camel today."

All that day he looked in vain for his quarry, and as he saw his lean shadow in the light of the setting sun, said resignedly, "A mouse will do."

Some time along the road of life most of us pass through this process of shortening our expectations. Maybe we start out in life with an unwarranted fancy for our own gifts, so that we come to look down upon the passable accomplishments which seem to content others.

But the years teach us wisdom. And it is surely wise to fit our measure to the cloth. If we are only ordinary mortals, with limited abilities and average achievements, that is something to recognize. The adjustment may be embarrassing to make, but it is nothing shameful or unusual.

Outstanding ability is a rare thing; far rarer than most disheartened men and women realize. The mine run of humanity are ordinary folk, with ordinary resources of brains and energy, which prove inadequate time after time.

Any person who started out after camel and came to be content with mouse, will please remember that nine-tenths of the people around him have had to make the same wise bow to the inevitable.

THE BEAUTY OF RELIGION

The beauty of the religion of Christ is manifest in the character of the man who chooses it for his portion. It is an inner beauty. Beautiful thoughts, beautiful aspirations, beautiful hope, beautiful virtues are here. It is the beauty of love. Human love is beautiful, more beautiful than the morning. Religion is love, sweeter than a mother's love. It is the love of God shed abroad in the heart by the Holy Ghost. It is the beauty of truth, the beauty of righteousness, the beauty of joy and peace. It is the beauty of symmetry. The Christian character is not onesided. It is well-rounded, complete. Every virtue that can enter into the moral and spiritual constitution of a complete man is there. It is the beauty of poetry. It is not easy to tell exactly how it is that poetry is beautiful. Perhaps no one can explain this philosophy of the beauty of poetry, but the man who cannot feel the beauty of a fine poem is to be pitied. The Christian is one of God's poems. He has written his poetry in the skies and in the earth and sea. He is still writing poetry. There is no such poetry as that of a genuine Christian character. It is the beauty of life.—Christian Advocate (N. Y.)

Better Ideas for Poorer

Some one said "The only way to fight poor ideas is with better ideas." Those who complain of the slow progress the cause of organized religion makes, and of the rapid progress of Nazism, or Communism and other destroying ideologies make, forget that our complaining never gets us on the way to a better day very fast. The objector, the denouncer, let his powers of castigation be ever so strong, he only becomes a leader who can show a better way than the ones of whom he complains now takes. The way to accellerate the progress of organized religion is to give the leader of it better ideas than the ones they now have. And a mighty good way to forestall the effect of the Totalitarian State propagandist is to show the finer elements of pure democracy. For if the best elements in our democracy are not superior to Fascism, and Nazism and Communism, then it would be sensible for us to pick the one best suited to aid us in the finer development of government of religion. But the Editor agrees thoroughly with the statement made by Dr. Julian Miller, Editor of Charlotte Observer recently, that "When democracy perishes, Christianity will be sure to follow."

Editorial Comment

If interested readers will turn to the back page they will see what Mrs. C. C. Burke of Graham Church and her assistants did for the Herald. With a quota of 30 subscriptions, to secure subscriptions is what the Editor calls an achievement. And while we would not underestimate what they did, we want to say that the same amount of planning and persistence and diplomacy used there would accomplish good results just anywhere. Many thanks to these workers for their splendid achievement.

We think that any pastor who comes to the annual conference a week before it is due to meet deserves favorable consideration by the Stationing Authority for his promptness.

We have placed in the High Point College Library eleven more volumns of the Methodist Protestant Herald. We now have a record of the activities of the conference as they are contained in the Herald from 1916 to 1937. If you have not done it, drop in and read some of those Heralds published twenty years ago. You will enjoy an hour with the writers, many of whom has crossed over to the other shore. All subscriptions and money for subsidy sent in for next week's Herald will be counted on your quota for this year. That is according to previous actions taken by the annual conference.

First Church, Burlington, Dr. F. W. Paschall, pastor, has raised its financial quota of the Fellowship Crusade of $750.00. That is the best news about the Crusade I have heard in many weeks. Thanks so much. I understand Brother J. G. Rogers was the chairman, and he has a way about him of doing what he sets out to do, which always assures success when he leads. We thank Dr. Paschall and all his members who made this possible.

Mt. Pleasant Charge also reached its financial objective in the Fellowship Crusade. We greatly appreciate the hard work it took to reach the objectives in the Crusade. In some churches it was almost impossible to reach the Herald quota, but splendid efforts were made. Most pastors who reported said the financial objective was hardest to reach.

Tabernacle and Julian churches have also reached their financial objectives in the Fellowship Crusade.

Empty Pews and Empty Preachers

Dr. John Kennedy said preachers rant about empty pews when the people might with good reason rant about empty preachers. Since this remark comes from a preacher possibly our preacher-readers will not be greatly offended. But it may stir up our pure minds to inquire whether it is true of us that we are empty preachers. For it would be too bad to be empty and not know it. And too there are abundant opportunities before us to be supplied with all the fulness of Christ. St. Paul spoke of being filled with all the fulness of Christ, that Christ was in him the hope of glory and that he could do all things through Christ.

All of which emphasizes more and more the importance of the preacher having a message vibrant with hope, and filled with conviction that his life and the life of his hearers be stabilized upon the promises of God. For the preacher should be able to tell the way of life in such a manner that his hearers shall be interested enough in it to try to live the message he preaches.

I Am Your Church Paper

For forty years I have been a weekly visitor into the homes of some of the members of the Methodist Protestant church. Being nourished by a feeble mother and neglected by many whom I sought to serve, these years have never brought an income sufficient to enable me to render the service it was my earnest work to render my conference. Although I did have many loyal friends, men and women, who supported me most faithfully, by whose patronage I was able to live, their number was all too few to relieve me from the practice of the most rigid economy and self-denial. That I have been greatly hindered in my services to you because of the lack of funds, is most obvious. For often pastors and church officials scorned my proffered assistance. But that which is harder to bear, is that I have often gone from year to year unappreciated for the moderate service I did render. No tongue has yet declared the anguish this has caused me, no pen has described my loneliness as I have sought an entrance into more of the homes I believed I had a right to enter.

How strange it all now appears to me; that I who was created to help by passing on information to others, by inspiring hope and courage in the hearts of the discouraged, and by pointing out the better way of carrying forward the work of the church; that I should be denied the privilege of serving those who needed this service most.

Had I been selfish in my dealings; ambitious in my aims, and sordid in my plans, I could understand it all clearly now, but even those who would have no commerce with me, never thus accused me. It is true I did not serve you perfectly because of my handicap; but remember how much better I could have done this had my entire conference recognized me as its messenger with a message for men and women who love their Lord and their church.

Today I realize that my years of greatest service are behind me; my future is rather uncertain. But whether my life be long or short, whether the income be large or small; I, the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, the organ of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, am YOUR church paper for better or worse until the merger doth us part. Wilt thou pledge with me to be faithful in fulfilling the mission for which I was created? For if we can work cooperatively together from now on who can declare how much good we may all do.

Forty Years Ago

Forty years ago November 23rd the North Carolina Conference met in the town of Liberty. There appear fifty pastoral charges in the report of the Stationing Committee. Of the men assigned that year, seventeen are alive. But of the thirty-seven ministers who answered the roll call on the first day of conference eleven are alive; and of the twenty laymen who answered present that day, all are dead. Rev. W. A. Bunch was president, but was succeeded by Rev. W. F. Kennett; Rev. C. L. Whitaker was secretary and was succeeded by Rev. T. M. Johnson. There were 1,335 conversions reported and 949 accessions to the Church. The Church membership reported that year was 17,315. Liberty church was dedicated at that conference, Dr. H. L. Eldierdice preached the sermon and Rev. W. A. Bunch dedicated the Church. We understand Liberty had no difficulty in entertaining the visitors and pastors who attended that Conference.

Yielding Your Place to Another

While a pastor in the congregational system of pastoral supply may want to move some time before the opportunity comes to him and his congregation may want him to move and not know how to negotiate it, no change comes to them without their planning it. But a pastor in the itinerant system, like ours, may go up to the annual conference with the full expectation of returning and suddenly discover that he is not returning, but is going elsewhere. We shall not go into the details which makes that necessary but this happens frequently enough for all pastors to know about it. And then comes a real test of the loyalty of both congregation and pastor; shall this be done, kindly, graciously? Or will it be an occasion to fault the conference or some member of the conference, and also make it hard for a successor to go to that church?

It happens both ways. Some churches accept the change of pastors with the kindliest attitude, and some pastors make it so easy for their successors to succeed them you'd never think they wanted to remain. But it does not always occur that way. There arise once in awhile some rather embarrassing situations, situations which make it very difficult for the successor to do his best work among his new membership. We hope when this session of the North Carolina Conference adjourns next week every pastor will be kindly received and every predecessor will do all in his power to make his successor's beginning in his new pastorate a happy one.

This Is to Remind You That

This week we are meeting in the church in which the Founder and Editor of the HERALD worshipped during the last years of his active life. In fact, we suspect that Dr. McCulloch did more than any other person except the regular workmen in moving the church building from the corner of Washington and Green streets to the present location. When the building was completed and Calvary church was organized, he joined it and became a most active member; he also taugh a Bible class until declining health compelled him to give it up. As you know, the HERALD office where the paper has been printed for many years is just a few doors beyond this church.

As I was the pastor of Dr. McCulloch for ten years and intimately associated with him for many other years, I cannot refrain from calling the attention of the members of this conference to the great sacrifice he made in order to establish and keep alive this conference organ. The service rendered by Our Church Recorder which later became the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD eternity alone can reveal. All honor to this man who kept this paper a regular visitor in the homes of several hundred of our people for so long a time. None of us know what this cost our departed Editor.

CONFERENCE NOTES

President Pritchard conducted devotions, reading Phil. 2:1-7. Dr. J. D. Williams offered prayer. He was assisted in the Communion service by Drs. Brown and Paschall and Revs. H. F. Surratt and J. W. Braxton.

Conference did the exceptional thing by selecting Dr. Pritchard by a unanimous vote cast by the secretary. All other officers were re-elected.

President reported three new churches dedicated and additional Sunday School rooms built at four churches.

Brother M. A. Coble, delegate from First Church, Burlington, was chosen as lay member of Stationing Committee.

Among the visitors we saw were Dr. F. W. Stephenson, of Pittsburgh and several members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, including Presiding Elder L. B. Haynes.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

WHEN THE LORD VISITS HIS PEOPLE

Elimelech, Naomi, and their two sons journeyed into the land of Moab when famine struck their own native Judah. In this new country trouble met them again as the father and both sons died, leaving the three stricken widows in a tragic plight. Such however is the story of Providence and life. How often do families move in search of better things only to meet sorrow and sadness. It is the same old story, ''In the midst of life we are in death''. It reminds me of the lines of Shakespeare: ''Each new morn new widows howl, new orphans cry; New horrors strike heaven in the face.''

Thus with Noami in a strange land. Hope apparently had gone from her heart. But just at this juncture good news came from her own country, for she heard ''how that the Lord has visited his people in giving them bread.'' Now the story turns. Bread is evidence of God's presence! The Lord visits his people by sending them bread.

In the Lord's Prayer, it may be recalled, the only thing Christ asked for was bread. He ascribed holiness and honor to the Father's name and sought to see the will of God done on earth as it is done in Heaven, but so far as asking for material things is concerned He only prayed for bread. This, a necessity for existence itself, was to be used to sustain life while the life, in turn, was to be employed in glorifying God.

All of this sounds true in comparison with the luxury and waste of American life today. These days a man hardly admits that the Lord has visited him unless good fortune showers upon his vast crops, riches, fine automobiles, and bank accounts. Gone are the days when a man thanks God for bread. The Lord may supply our needs but seldom our wants. We expect Providence to be extravagant, and hard it is to be sincerely thankful for so simple an item as bread.

But there is danger in this position. It suggests that people are not grateful for what they do receive. Ingratitude is a bad trait. It dwarfs the soul as well as disregards the generosity of others. Anybody can receive, but it takes a man to give. This, evidently, was intended by the text, ''It is more blessed to give than to receive.'' One can receive without gratitude, but no one can give without a big heart.

It also shows that men are so often more interested in the things God gives than in God Himself. Already we have received far more than we deserve; now what we need is more of the quality, the likeness of the Divine, not more of His gifts. The best type of religion seeks God rather than His gifts. And so a clamoring for more abundant things betrays our selfishness and shallow insight into what is really in store for God's people. Fellowship with God is for the Christian more precious than all the world besides.

Again, this lesson about bread and the Lord's visit suggests that, as the Thanksgiving season comes on, we might well be thankful for even the smallest things and use all to the honor of the Master and for the edification of one another. Bread alone may be, you think, a poor inspiration for a Thanksgiving service, yet many places in the world will not even have that. But here with loaded tables, loving friends, churches, and freedom, thanks should hardly know any bounds and we praise the Giver from whom all blessings flow.

THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday November 13, 1938

By J. C. Madison

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26, 38-42.

Golden Text—''Thou shalt not kill.'' Ex. 20:13. ''Whosoever hateth his brother is a murdered.'' I John 3:15.

At the very dawn of human history we find Cain asking the Lord a very significant question, ''Am I my brother's keeper?'' Though the punishment given Cain should have been a satisfactory answer it seems in one sense of the word the question has been asked over and over again. The ordering of human relationships has been one of the perennial problems of society through the centuries.

When the commandment, Thou shalt not kill, was written in that early day the writer evidently was primarily concerned for the welfare of human society. He was issuing this commandment as a protective measure. The necessity for such a consideration of course is self-evident. No social order is sound where human life is constantly in danger of death at the hand of some murderer. There can be no happiness in a social situation where men live in constant fear of the evil intentions of their fellow men. Certainly this commandment needs to be emphasized over and over again. The reckless drunken driver on the highway should be warned, Thou shalt not kill. The mill or mine owner who works his men under unbearable conditions should be warned that Jehovah is speaking to him too. The housewife who works her colored cook long hours at fifty cents a day should be told the truth that she stands condemned before this commandment. It is just as cruel to kill by degrees as it is by a sudden stroke, and I suspect that if the truth were known many of us would find our hands stained with the blood of our fellowmen because of our indifference to the social, economic and hygienic conditions under which they have been forced to live and work, and it may be that some of us helped to fashion those conditions. No civilization need hope to prosper unless it takes this commandment seriously.

When Christ comes to deal with this commandment however I believe that He has something more signiflant in mind. He is concerned not only for the welfare of human society, that is He is motivated not only by a fear of the murderer but by a sincere respect for the infinite worth of human life. He is concerned for the principal of love as a basis of human relationships. The murderer comes to be not only the man who kills but the man who hates his fellowman.

Among the many influences that eminated from the life of Jesus perhaps one of the most important was His influence upon man's appreciation of human life. Christ taught that the individual is actually worthy to become the child of God.

Now that is a significant thought if we take it seriously. We dare not deal recklessly with that life which God considers so valuable as to be called His own. So valuable is life that Jesus was willing to live and die in order that men might have life and have it more abundantly. We dare not deal lightly with that which Christ considered of such infinite worth. According to Christ's teaching the single lost sheep in the wilderness is worthy of being sought after. The life in the gutter is worth being saved, and the repentant thief on the cross is worthy of forgiveness. The great evangelistic urge of the Christian religion is based upon Christ's appreciation of the infinite worth of human life.

It is difficult to estimate just how many of the reforms of the western world have come as a result of this Christian teaching. When I read the story of the long struggle that led to the repeal of legal slavery to me it is a picture of human life conscious of its own worth struggling to be free. When I read of the amazing progress of medical science during the last hundred years to me it is the ongoing spirit of Christ seeking to make it possible for men more abundantly to live. When I feel the growing conscience against warfare I see it as human life conscious of its own worth rising in rebellion against the wholesale slaughter of men. When an individual becomes aware that he is worthy to fellowship with God he will no longer be content to associate with the devil and his kind.

If I understand the teachings of Christ murder is not only destroying life but it is treating life as if it were worthless. To hate is to be a murderer and to put other values before human values is of the essence of sin. A society that seeks first dollars and cents rather than the welfare of men need not expect to be free from the judgments of God.

DR. FOSDICK'S PRAYER AT THE FUNERAL SERVICE OF JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

Eternal God, from whom we come, to whom we belong, and in whose service is our peace, even in the presence of death we worship thee with thanks for thine unnumbered mercies. We bless thee for all the high memories of the past and all the sacred hopes of the future. We thank thee for the ties which bind us to the unseen world and for the dear presences who encompass us like a cloud of witnesses and make heaven homelike to our hearts. Strengthen, steady, and comfort us in this hour that death may be swallowed up in victory.

O God, who art and wast and art to come, before whose face the generations rise and pass away; age after age the living seek thee and find that of thy faithfulness there is no end. Our fathers in their pilgrimage walked by thy guidance and rested on thy compassion. Still to their children be thou the cloud by day and the fire by night.

Eternal Spirit, we need strong comfort amid the perplexities and sorrows of this, our difficult, mysterious pilgrimage. Lead us to the high hills from which alone our help cometh. Around our transiency and our vissitudes throw the horizons of thine everlastingness. Comfort us, not only with thy nearness but with thy greatness, O thou, who from everlasting to everlasting art God.

Thanks be to thee for all great seers and saints of the past, prophets and apostles, servants of the common good, through whom thou hast shined like the sun through eastern windows. Thanks be to thee for humbler souls, whom we have known and loved long since and lose awhile, who, in the circle of our homes and friendships were to us like wayside springs on our dusty pilgrimage or like the comfortable shade of some familiar tree. Here in the presence of death we would remember their life and thank thee for every revelation of friendliness and strength that through them, he being dead, he yet speaketh. We thank thee for his creative foresight, his pioneering courage, his steadfast strength of character, for his profound consciousness of stewardship and his world-wide philanthropy, for his devoted affection in his family, and his loyal friendship, for his interior serenity, his power to live above the storm, for his undiscouragable faith and his undying hope. Give to those who most intimately mourn his going wide margins of comfort around their spiritual needs and deep wells to draw their consolation from.

Once more we stand upon the shore of the sea and bid farewell to a ship that loses itself over the rim of the world. O God, give fair voyaging and safe harbor. And as we stand upon this hither shore and bid farewell, grant us faith to hear the voices which on yonder shore cry 'Welcome!' and 'All hail!'

O Lord, support us all the day long of our troublous life, until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes and the busy world is hushed and the fever of life is over and our work is done. Then in thy mercy grant us a safe lodging and a holy rest and peace at the last, we pray in the spirit of Christ. Amen."

WHAT TO TITHE

"One-tenth of ripened grain,
One-tenth of tree and vine,
One-tenth of all the yield
From ten-tenths rain and shine.

"One-tenth of lowing herds
That browse on hill and plain,
One-tenth of bleating flocks
From ten-tenths shine and rain.

"One-tenth of all increase
From counting room and mart,
One-tenth that science yields
One-tenth of every art.

"One-tenth of loom and press,
One-tenth of mill and mine,
One-tenth of every craft
Wrought out by gifts of Thine.

"One-tenth! and dost thou, Lord,
But ask this meager loan,
When all the earth is thine,
And all we have thine own?"

Pine Grove church, Kernersville,—72 cans of fruits and vegetables.

Woman's Auxiliary, Lebanon, High Point. —36 cans of fruits and vegetables.

Our Thanksgiving to You

We are profoundly grateful to pastors and their people who have helped us with the work of the Children's Home so faithfully for the past year. All of us bow in gratitude to you, all of you, who have helped us. God bless each of you.

Your Thanksgiving to Us

Plans have been laid in all of our churches for a good Thanksgiving offering. Except for a stated income of about $6,000 per year, we run the home absolutely on free-will offerings. No assessment has been laid upon you. You give to the home because you love children, and because you want to give. We have had no bequests to fall back on this year. We have had only the above amount plus your free-will offerings. So we are behind again with running expenses. We are sorry, but we have done our best with what you gave. So we are looking to you expectantly, believing that in your thanksgiving to God for His blessings upon you, you will share liberally with this home. Thanking you, and the people of your communities for what you are going to do, I am. Yours in His blessed service.

HIGH LIGHTS IN SUPERINTENDENT DIXON'S REPORT TO THE TRUSTEES.

The Children

We have 115 children, 54 boys and 61 girls. These stressing times in which we live make it necessary for orphanages to take just as many children as possible, and even then they can take only a small number of those who apply. A note from Barium Springs, Presbyterian home, says: "There are ten times more applications for admission of children into the Home than can actually be received."

School, Social and Religious Life

Every care is taken to give the children a normal life under wholesome environments with educational, social and religious privileges, looking to the development of Christ-like character.

They attend the nearest public school, in which there are about 800 pupils, and thus have the same educational advantages as do other children in Guilford county.

Girls over 16 years of age are permitted to receive callers, under proper conditions, just as are your daughters in your homes. Our own and other boys call. They also have their social contacts through both school and church.

We teach the Bible daily, and attend Sunday school and morning worship, and evening services occasionally, at First Church, High Point. The children hold their own C. E. meetings on Sunday evenings, and are usually addressed by the superintendent or an invited speaker. All of them who are old enough are members of the church.

We believe that every child has the right to a healthy, normal, happy life in a Christian home. Through your Children's Home the church takes the little ones from broken homes, and tries to make up to them what they had lost.

Buildings Needed

We are still looking forward hopefully to the building of a gymnasium, and a building in which there shall be a central dining room and kitchen, and also a chapel and office rooms. These are outstanding needs.

Looking to the Future

We are facing the future with faith in God believing that all things will work out for good to our Children's Home. Since 1908 we have believed in and have worked for Methodist union, in season and out of season, and now that it is assured we face it with fond expectations and with joy.

Within six months we will be merged into Methodist union. What will become of our Children's Home in that union? Having given the last ten years of my life to this institution, and know at first hand what it is doing for more than 100 children each year, the question of its future is of great moment to me.

The leaders of the Southern Methodist church are not even thinking of anything else except to make it a part of the scheme of child caring institutions in the new Methodist church. Shall we do less than join them in the thought of carrying on in the splendid work our home has done in the last 28 years?

In August 1913 the Home was opened in High Point, and the preceeding fall we reported to conference 63 pastoral charges, with 21,930 members, and church property values at $388,993.

Last fall we reported 90 pastoral charges, 30,504 members, and church property valued at $1,783,525. Add to that the Children's Home property and the college property, estimated at $868,261, and you have a total valuation of church property in the N. C. conference of $2,651,786 today.

No one would think of giving credit to the Children's Home for all the progress that has been made in the N. C. conference during these 25 years, but due credit should be given. And in our celebration of Appreciation Year during 1938 the home should come in for a large share.

Cost of Running the Home

The very best we can do at present prices it costs about $210.00 per year to keep a child. That covers all expenses, salaries, fuel, lights, school expenses, food, clothing—all. And yet 60 cents per day per child will do it.

It takes one barrel of flour per week, 10 dozen eggs for breakfast, 2 bushels of potatoes per day, 16 chickens for a Sunday dinner, 36 pounds of beef for a meal, 4 gallons of canned peaches for desert, and 40 gallons of milks per day besides butter, molasses, jellies, cereals, fruits and vegetables.

Our budget for the year is made up as follows:

The General Conference, World Service,	$2,000
The Duke Endowment, about	2,500
The N. C. branch, Woman's Auxiliary, about	1,500

And the balance must all come through free-will offerings. No assessment is laid for the Children's Home. People give because they want to give, and these free-will offerings come through individuals, Sunday schools, churches, and the Thanksgiving and Christmas offerings. How well the children are cared for then depends upon the liberality of God's faithful ones in making free-will offerings for the support of the Home.

Our Dividends

Our contributors are our stockholders, but the Home pays to them no cash dividends. The children who have gone out from the Home are taking their places in the business and professional world, and nearly all of them are making good. Many of them are married and have their happy families, and they delight to come back home and bring with them the grandchildren of the Home. So our dividends are shown in children who are taken from the unlikely places of earth and trained into men and women of intelligence, refinement and Christian character. The Home has a right to be proud of its output. There remains in the Home 115 bright, wide-awake, happy children. They are rapidly growing into maturity. Eternity alone will reveal the dividends.

Thanksgiving

Our Thanksgiving offering will be taken just a few days after the rise of the annual conference. We have tried to plan wisely for it, and have also secured the services of many good helpers throughout the conference. Literature, envelopes for the adults and dime cards for the children have been mailed out to all our pastors and Sunday school superintendents, with the request that they appoint a committee in each local church, whose duty it shall be to see that the envelopes are placed in the hands of adult members, and that the dime cards are handled by the young people of the Sunday school, and then will follow up near Thanksgiving and see that these are all returned with their offerings. We trust that many will continue to contribute as much as a "day's income," and that others will make even larger offerings. But we are placing the emphasis this year upon, "EVERY ONE MAKING AN OFFERING AT THANKSGIVING." We are trusting God to lead the people to make a real Thanksgiving offering this year.

Harvest Home Offering

Many of our country charges, and some of the city ones, remember the Home each year with a contribution of canned fruits and vegetables and other produce. This helps more than you know. Some have already delivered theirs this year, others will soon, and others are already asking us to send trucks for produce soon after conference. This shows a fine spirit of helpfulness.

Helping Ourselves

The house work and work about the campus is done largely by the children, under proper supervision. On the farm we only have two men, so a great deal of the farm work must be done by the larger boys. We produce on the farm all the hay, grain and vegetables possible. Also all our milk and butter, and pork and bacon, and all chickens and eggs except a few chickens given us each fall by some of our country charges, and a good portion of the beef used.

The farm yielded this year: 554 bushels of corn, 283 of wheat, 20 of seed oats and vetch, 93 of sweet potatoes, 170 of irish potatoes, 75 of cain seed, 15 of seed onions, 16,301 gallons of milk and 242 of molasses, 1,527 dozens of eggs, 325 chickens for our tables, 2,995 pounds of pork, 800 pounds of beef, 165 loads of hay, 200 bales of straw, 3,750 bunches of fodder, 55 tons of ensilage, over 500 watermellons. This, with an estimated yield of $500.00 worth from our gardens and truck patches, makes a total yield from the farm, at reasonable prices of $9,280.

Live Stock

We have the usual number of mules, hogs and cattle, except that we have the best herd of cows we have had at all during these ten years.

Financial Statement

Our financial statement is not quite ready, for there are some offerings on the way which will be in tomorrow morning. So that will be made in due time. We thank you one and all for your interest and your help.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON. Superintendent.

DEBT

Time was when debt was akin to disgrace—it was regarded as abridging one's independence.

Later, when individual enterprises gave place to combined effort requiring more capital, debt was classified as liability.

Still later when great corporations began to do business on other people's money, liabilities became a necessary, and more or less boasted, consequence.

Today debt has lost all seriousness—as an old lady said: "What do we care for debts, we've got plenty of them." Or as a popular comedian said: "You're not in fashion if you're not in debt."

Still, from a moral viewpoint, is not such attitude toward debt a reflection on our judgment rather than a subject for jokes?

MISSIONARY COLUMN

The Greatest Need of the Hour

When Jesus with His parents had gone up to Jerusalem to the feast and the time had come for departure, his parents and all those who loved Him most, started home without Him, "supposing Him to be in the company." How like the world today! We "suppose" Him to be in our company when we haven't invited His presence. We think sometimes that our work has been hard, and reason comes to us and we realize that we have been plodding along in our own strength, alive only to our own interests, absorbed in the passing attractions of our day's journey, heedless and forgetful of Christ. We have left Him somewhere behind.

Moses prayed "If Thy presence go not with us, carry us not up hence." This should be the prayer of every soul in every situation. Ministers, laymen, educators, people in every walk of life, need to be watchful against the temptation to forget the Master while doing what we call the Master's work. Is not this the reason some of our efforts meet with such meager results?

It is incumbent upon every Christian to be sure that the risen Lord is in his company. We do not "suppose" that any other person is in the company, let us not waste our days by "supposing" that He is in the company.

In His strength there is victory.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

GRACIOUS LIVING

The Christian Endeavor Topic for Nov. 20, 1938.

By Rev. Joseph Coble

Daily Bible Readings

Monday, November 14—Courtesy and Tact. I Pet 3:8-11.

Tuesday, November 5—Jesus meek and gentle. I Cor. 10:1.

Wednesday, November 16—Way of love. I Cor. 10:1.

Thursday, November 17—Moses' Magnanimity, Num. 11:24.

Friday, November 18—Life on high levels. Col 3-1:13.

Saturday, November 19—Walking with Christ, Eph. 5:1-10.

The Text: Jas. 3:13-18.

Gracious Living is the best phrase to describe a Christian's attitude towards other people. So few people today really achieve gracious living in any high degree. We look to those who do achieve this as shining examples of Christlike lives.

What is the full significance of the term? Does it mean that we are up to par on our table manners, and that we know which fork to use for the salad. It means all this and a thousand things more. To live graciously is to think of others first. Many times we see people who are insincerely interested in persons of wealth, social position and knowledge. They are interested for selfish motives and the motive always shines through. We look around us to those who court favor for position, and like Franklin, we wonder if they pay too much for the whistle. Selfish motives, selfish interest in persons nearly always fail to bring about a pleasant situation, but a sincere, sympathy for others pays high dividends. The Christian should, above all others, certainly be concerned about the feelings of other people; for, after all, if our religion is not good for every day, it is not much use on special days and special occasions. Look over ones acquaintance one must admit that those people who are the best example of Gracious Living are Christian people. They are those who have caught a spark of the divine and continue to let it burn before mankind. A moment's contact—whether it be on a crowded street car, a busy shop or on the sidewalk, may reveal a personality that has caught the spirit of gracious living. The spirit does not come with wealth, or wisdom, or position. It is spiritual light that is revealed in a smile, a reply, or any single deed. Gracious living and gracious appreciation of the other person builds gracious characters. The appealing power of Jesus Christ rests in the fact that He loved people so much that He died for them that they might live!

OTHERS

Lord, help me live from day to day
In such a self forgetful way
That even when I kneel to pray.
My pray'r shall be for others.

Help me in all the work I do
To ever be sincere and true
And know that all I'd do for you
Must needs be done for others.

Let self be crucified and slain
And buried deep: and all in vain
May efforts be to rise again,
Unless to live for others.

And when my work on earth is done
And my new work in heav'n begun
May I forget the crown I've won
While thinking still of others.

PLEASE NOTE.

Pastors and workers who are arranging for a harvest home offering for the Children's Home will please note. We thank you for this. It will help wonderfully. Send it to us if you can, and that will save us money and time.

Where it cannot be sent to us, we plan to send our truck after it soon after conference. Please have your people assemble this produce, and then notify us where to go early after conference and we will send for it. Our truck will carry a large load, so please save us all the driving you can..

We thank you.

Faithfully Yours,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Friendship Church, Chase City Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor, Nov. 1.—Our church has been progressing very nicely since our last report.

Rev. Mr. Trolinger filled his regular appointment Oct. 23, and a very large crowd was present. He also preached to us the following week, and brought to us some inspiring messages. At the close of the servives we were glad to add Mr. Allen Dodson to our list of members. This brought the list which has united with our church this year up to six.

I am sure every one enjoyed having Mr. Carter from Corinth church and Mr. Lasker Williams from Littleton as visitors on the last fourth Sunday.

Our fourth quarterly conference was held last Thursday evening. New officers for the coming year were elected. They are as follows:

Trustees: Mrs. F. S. Towery, Mr. E. L. Wilson, Mr. W. L. Wilson. Stewards: Miss Tessie Jarrell, Mr. George Bell, Mr. Martin Tawey, Mr. Ira Lenhart, Mr. T. G. Wilson, Mr. John Lenhart, Mrs. Lizzie Lenhart and Miss Edna Wilson. Class Leaders: Mr. J. E. Johnson, Mrs. Myrtle Jarrell, Mrs. S. R. Towery, Mrs. N. J. Lenhart. Treasurer: Mrs. George R. Bell, Superintendent; Mr. Lee Janes Roy. Ushers: Mr. Fortune Jarrell and James Wilson. Miss Pauline Jarrell was elected delegate for conference.

Mr. R. L. Vickery, of Danville came in time to be in our day service Thursday, but we had decided to hold no day service so he visited several of the members. We are sorry he could not be with us in our evening service. We hope he will come to visit us again.

Our church has accomplished much this year and we hope to do much more in the years that follow.

Mrs. N. J. Lenhart and Mrs. T. U. Baxter are on the sick list and we wish for them a speedy recovery.

Randolph Charge. — We now close our fourth year on Randolph charge. This year we have had 124 conversions and reclamations, and 40 additions to the churches. The first year there was a deficit of over $200 in salary and no church paid all claims except Bethel. This year Gray's chapel has paid every cent of every claim in full and has over paid salary. Bethany and Bethel have also paid all claims in full including salary, while Shiloh has paid salary in full, but has not quite paid all claims. I am told by some of the older members that the spiritual condition at all the churches has never been better. The fact is, a revival of religion in the hearts, not the heads, of church members, will solve all financial and other difficult problems. This preacher believes if we ministers will preach the gospel with the old time power, that we will not have to have oyster suppers etc., in order to raise our budgets. Gray's chapel is one of our strong rural churches with a membership of 322. Up to this year it seemed difficult to pay salary and a small amount on the budget, and by hard work they usually paid our pulpit help about $25. This year, we had 80 or more conversions and reclamations and the old time Methodist shout. They have now over paid salary, every cent off every claim, and paid our pulpit help $100. "A sleeping giant beginning to awake."

Bethel has finished the last section of her Sunday school rooms, which makes her the best equipped church on the charge. Then, too, Bethel has a college trained public school teacher as Sunday school superintendent, and this gives the folks there an advantage that many of our churches do not have. Bethany also has a college trained young lady as superintendent of the Sunday school there, and this puts Bethany on an equal basis with Bethel. At both these churches the young people are doing a fine work. At Bethany, all members of the board of stewards are young people, and three weeks before the close of the year, they had pastor's salary and all claims paid in full. This shows very plainly what the pent up energy in our young folks will do when released and properly directed. Shiloh has a splendid membership and great possibilities. They need Sunday school rooms and are fully able to build, and we believe they are beginning to wake up to that fact. Some are already awake and we do not believe this fine old historic church will allow existing conditions to continue.

We appreciate most truly the fine cooperation and the many kindnesses shown us this year. We feel that we have never served a better people than we have on Randolph charge.

G. L. REYNOLDS.

Loves' Grove, Friendship, Loves' Grove Charge, Rev. Earl A. Cook, Pastor.—Our pastor gave us an extra sermon on Oct. 30 on "Prayer and Its Power." Mr. Cook is a very enthusiastic worker and we appreciate, perhaps more than we have told him, his untiring service during the year. May God's richest blessings be with him and his family.

The fourth quarterly conference was held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The financial report was good with pastor's salary paid in full and all conference claims paid. Mr. Cook gave a written report of his work for the year. The delegate to Annual conference was given instructions to bring our present pastor back for the year 1938-39. We, the church as a whole, are looking forward to his return one hundred per cent.

Officers were elected for the new year as follows: Sunday school superintendent, J. S. Polk, with John L. Little as assistant. Board of trustees: H. M. Tarleton, John I. Efird and Jonah Little. Board of stewards: W. L. Little, Mrs. H. M. Tarleton, W. A. Furr, Claud Whitley, Zeb Little, S. J. Little, L. C. Thomas and chairman, John N. Smith. Choir director: J. W. Tarleton. Pianist: Miss Ester Burns. President Ladies auxiliary: Mrs. W. L. Little, Church reporter: Claud Whitley. Ushers: Margaret Simpson and Lucille Little. Sunday school superintendent and treasurer: Miss Louise Little. Class leaders: P. S. Little and L. C. Thomas. Teachers were also elected and Mr. Cook held a very impressive installation service.

Our Sunday school superintendent presented Dr. Dixon's plans for the Thanksgiving offering for the Children's home and a special committee was appointed to forward the plans. We set our goal at $100 and are going to work hard to reach it. God being our helper.

We will hold our November thank-offering program on Sunday night, November 27, at 7:30 o'clock at the church. We have planned a very interesting program the main feature being a play, "The Lighted Highway." We want to give everyone a very special invitation.

Mr. John A. Love, who has been ill for some time, is improving slowly. We miss Mr. and Mrs. Love very much because they were always ready and willing to do their part in the church. They were always at church unless sickness prevented. Our prayers shall ever be for them and trust that it can be God's will to restore Mr. Love's health.

The Christian Endeavor is moving along nicely under the leadership of Claud Whitley, a very fine Christian character, indeed, and his program leader, Miss Margaret Simpson. This is the first year in the Christion Endeavor work at Love's Grove and the boys and girls are doing exceptionally well. We do not give enough time and thought to our young people and still we stop and wonder why we have so many young men and women who are not law abiding citizens. Who is in the fault? This is a question for parents to answer.

Love Joy Church, Seagrove - Love - Joy Charge, E. G. Cowan, Pastor.—Our pastor filled his regular appointment here the fourth Sunday in October. This being the last appointment of this conference year preaching service was omitted and church officials were elected for the new year.

Sunday school is running along nicely yet we would be glad to see more people interested in this work.

Several of our members attended the pageant "Every Man's Church" given at Seagrove church Oct. 30. This was very interesting and was enjoyed by those present.

The Friendship circle held its regular monthly meeting Friday, Nov. 4, with Mrs. Bain Morgan. Twenty-one members were present. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Marvin Green. At the close of the services Mrs. Morgan served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Cara Burns invited the circle to meet with her in December.

Shiloh C. E. Society, Rev. C. E. Ridge, Pastor.—Our society has had one of the best years that I can remember. We set our goal to raise one hundred and fifty dollars this year, so we raised that and our Sunday night offerings amounted to about twenty-five dollars which makes a total of one hundred and seventy-five dollars raised this year. It is not only the young people of our church but the community churches also. We appreciate the way they join in and help us.

We would like to thank our president, Mr. Ray Leatherman who has shown such great interest during the year. He is one of the greatest leaders of young people in our church. He has not missed a service this year in Sunday school, preaching, or C. E. society, and I think he has visited all the sick he has known of. I think any one who lives the every day life that Mr. Leatherman does deserves the leadership of our young people, because he has proven faithful in every way. We hope he will see fit to be our president next year.

We have had great interest shown in our society in every way, and everyone has done his or her best to make it a success.

We want to urge every member to be present next Sunday night, Nov. 13, 1938 as we are planning to elect the new officers for the coming year.

We sympathize with Mr. Leatherman and his family in the death of his grandfather which was learned just as we were about to elect officers Sunday night, so our pastor took charge of the meeting and postponed the election until next Sunday.

Pray for us in trying to carry on the work of our Master.

Randleman Charge.—We are glad indeed that our church work is moving along nicely. Rev. C. L. Spencer fills all his appointments with interesting messages.

At 11 o'clock service the first Sunday morning the following new officers were installed for the coming year: Trustees: W. F. Ivey, S. A. Frazier, Earl Allred, C. R. Wood, C. A. Lambe, E. F. Jarrett, Mrs. Cletus Hardin. Class leaders: Mrs. John Daniels, Mrs. J. L. Hall, Mr. L. R. Hughes. Stewarts: D. L. Brady, John Daniels, C. R. Wood, Mrs. John Kirkman, Rozelle Smith. Sunday school superintendent: E. F. Jarrett, assistant, Gilbert Christenberry; pianist, Mrs. D. L. Brady Janitor, James Hall .

The Womans Auxiliary held a thanks program at the Mt. Lebanon church the fifth Sunday night. A very interesting program was rendered. A talk by Mrs. W. C. Hammer was enjoyed by all who heard her. An offering was taken and $17 was received. The program was in charge of Mrs. C. L. Spencer and Mrs. Cletus Hardin.

Mrs. Charlie Parsons, one of our oldest members who is real sick. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Our Sunday school is holding up nicely. The attendance is some better than it was a year ago. We hope that it may continue to grow.

We were glad to have Mrs. Martha Isley of Greensboro Sunday morning at the preaching service.

The delegate, Mr. Cliff Hinshaw, was instructed to bring Mr. Spencer back next year as our pastor. Pray for us as we labor for our great Master.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor, Nov. 7.—Second Sunday being our last sermon before conference, Bro. Trolinger preached one of the best yet. His subject "Christian Service." Mrs. Willie Gray Mitchel, favored us with a solo also. The Lord's supper was observed. Glad to have Rev. Leo Pihard to assist in this service, and to have Leo's friend, Mr. Foley Duke to worship with us.

Church officers are as follows: Stewards, Tommie Hawkins, Clarence Hawkins, Hubert and Robert Vincent, secretary and treasurer, Paul Hawkins; trustees, Zeb Hawkins, Clifton Hawkins, Philip Hawkins, Roger Hawkins and J. D. Pittard. Superintendent. Edward Hawkins. Class leader, C. F. Hawkins and assistant, Edward Hawkins. Pianist, Mrs. Baldy Green. Church reporter, Mrs. Claude Hawkins.

Sunday school officers: Assistant, superintendent, Paul Hawkins, secretary and treasurer, Miss Lillian Hawkins. Teachers class No. 1, Tom Carpenter; No. 2, Mrs. Baldy Green; No. 3, Mrs. Claude Hawkins; No. 4, Mrs. Philip Hawkins; No. 5, Miss Grace Pittard.

As the year is at a close for our church work, may we pray for all preachers that they may be sent where fields need them most.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Pittard announce the birth of a son Oct. 24.

Best wishes to the editor, and Herald readers.

North Davidson Charge, W. N. Neese, Pastor.—On Wednesday, Nov. 2 at 1:30 p. m. the Canaan Ladies Aid met in the home of Mrs. Paul Hines with Mrs. Emma Clodfelter as joint hostess. Mrs. Minnie Berrier had charge of the program. The Thanksgiving idea was carried out in the readings. Fourteen members were present and two children. Seventy sick calls were reported and flowers had been sent to 18 sick ones. A hot supper was planned to be held at the church Nov. 19 to which everyone has a cordial invitation. At this meeting it was reported that the large Heatrola the ladies had placed in the church a few years ago had been exchanged for two smaller ones and that the new Heatrolas had been placed in the church, the ladies paying the difference which was $55. The president appointed a committee to look after the Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home. The committee is as follows: Mrs. Minnie Berrier chairman and Mrs. C. W. Clodfelter and Mrs. Gurney Tuttle. Some time ago the men put a new roof on the main auditorium of the church and painted it. They are going to paint the remainder of the roof soon. The ladies paid $50 on this project, so you see they are really at work. At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served to all present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. A. F. Berrier near Winston-Salem.

On Thursday, Nov. 4 the Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. Thomas Hilton with all the members present but one. A good meeting was held. This writer isn't reporting the meeting as she is leaving that for the corresponding secretary to do but something happened at the close of the meeting that I want to report. We have been hearing and reading about "appreciation year." Well the Mt. Pleasant auxiliary has already caught the spirit of appreciation for their pastor and wife as was shown at the meeting Thursday. They gave this writer a "surprise shower" and in doing so said 'We are not trying to pay you for what you have done for us but are just wanting to say in this way we do appreciate your labor for and with us.' Then they began to shower gifts upon us. They didn't forget the pastor either in their generosity to his wife. They remembered him with a nice white shirt, and a beautiful tie. In the shower were goods for two dresses and one dress already made, two pairs of hose, 2 slips, 6 towels, a potato ricer, sugar, potatoes, canned goods, meat, beans, molasses, pumpkins, chicken, cakes and 50 cents in cash. I want to give here the names of the ones that gave the shower:

Mesdames V. B. Morris, Ray Ball, P. C. Reid, G. W. Hayworth, J. C. Hayworth, W. D. Payne, H. S. Payne, Paul Green, Emma Green, Alfred Craven, L. H. Hilton, Roy Hilton, Lester Leonard, Lillie Ball, Frank Coggins and Misses Annie Payne, Treva Reid and Mildred Green. All of the above are from Mt. Pleasant. Mrs. Robah Mendenhall from Canaan gave 50 cents as a token off her appreciation. It is nice to be remembered in this way by ones friends and to know that our feeble efforts are appreciated, it makes it easier to go ahead and try to do more in the Master's Kingdom.

The parsonage family were delighted to have as Sunday dinner guests the following people: Mr. and Mrs. H. Floyd Amick, Miss Sallie Amick, Mrs. Thomas Brown and children Richard, Marvin and Mary Willis all from Mt. Pleasant church, Mt. Pleasant charge and Miss Sara Marie Neese of Winston-Salem.

First Church, Thomasville, Rev. J. T. Bowman, Pastor, Nov. 7—I really had not expected to send another report this conference year, but I have found it very necessary in order to show our friends some of the things we have accomplished this year.

Last Sunday evening a Rally Day service was held at our church with a number of young people taking part. A special offering was taken which amounted to $3.00.

Speaking of our young people we have a real wide awake C. E. society in which they (and some of the older ones) are showing much interest and are taking advantage of this opportunity to prepare themselves for leadership in the future church. Our Junior C. E. is doing a splendid work under the leadership of Mrs. Theron Everhart.

The Lord's Supper was observed yesterday morning. At the evening worship service our pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman, brought us a very challenging message based on the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, showing that love is the greatest thing in the life of a church.

We feel that we have just cause to be proud of our church. All claims have been paid in full including pastor's salary. This has been a great year with us. Perhaps not so much so numerically speaking, but from a spiritual standpoint we think this is true. There seems to be a stronger bond of love uniting our folks than ever before. And to our pastor and his faithful wife (and we just can't leave out the twins) we wish to express our thanks and appreciation for their earnest efforts and co-operation in carrying on the work.

Our fourth quartely conference was held last Wednesday evening, Nov. 2 with splendid attendance. All the reports were very encouraging. Our pastor gave a good report showing that we had made real progress. He reported 720 visits to members, had given 7 certificates of membership, and received 11 into the church. Although we do not have adequate space for our Sunday school work the attendance has been good during the whole year. Fifty new names have been added to the roll. Much interest is being shown by both teachers and pupils. Mr. D. R. Connell has been re-elected superintendent of the school, a position he has held many years, and to him we owe many thanks for his faithfulness and earnest efforts. Mr. Connell has been handicapped by illness this year but we are hoping for him better health in the future.

Our prayer meeting services have not been attended as well as we would have liked but those who have attended have seemed to enjoy these services, and we hope our people will soon awake to the fact that prayer is the most essential thing to Christian living.

We feel that we have something to brag about in our Women's Auxiliary. Mrs. A. H. Ragan is president of this organization. We have 59 adult women on roll, and we also have a large number of young people of all ages co-operating in a beautiful way with the work of the auxiliary. It would be hard to find a group of people working together more harmoniously than the members of this organization. There is a bond of love uniting them and we believe the spiritual life is better than it has ever been before. The financial condition is good too. We make money but we do not hoard it, we use it wherever needed at home and abroad.

In discussing the needs of the church it was decided that the best thing to do was to build a new church. A committee composed of the trustees of the church and four others, namely: Mrs. A. H. Ragan, Mrs. W. G. Myers, Mr. D. R. Connell and Mr. W. J. Loftin, was appointed to see about raising funds to build in the near future Mr. Connell offered to give $1,000 toward building provided money was raised to pay for same without going into debt. We earnestly desire the prayers of all our friends that if it is the will of the Heavenly Father that this may not be merely a dream but a reality.

Our delegate to annual conference was unanimously instructed to bring our pastor back to us again. We sincerely hope that the conference will see fit to send him back. We feel that Mr. Bowman and his family have indeed been a blessing to us, and should they come back we feel sure the church as a whole will be ready to welcome them.

Of course we realize that man alone could not do the things we have done without the spirit of God and we are so glad that He has been with us this year.

First M. P. Church, Danville, Va., Rev. R. L. Vickery, Pastor.—As we come to the end of another church year, we wish to thank the leaders, teachers, and workers for the faithful, untiring service they have rendered. They have been inspirations to us in following our Master, and it is with much regret that we give them up. Yet we have consolation in the fact that we have other consecrated Christians to take their places; people whom we know will carry the work on and fit in with the progress of the church and Sunday school. We are indeed happy to have Mr. G. H. Sides for our new Sunday school superintendent, and Mr. A. E. Rice for the new treasurer. Mr. L. W. Tanner and Mr. Jimmy Parker, who are leaving these offices, have been splendid workers, and to these and all other former officers, we are grateful.

We wish to welcome Mr. James Cannaday, formerly of Draper, N. C., to membership in our church. Mr. Cannaday is already taking active parts in the various church organizations, and we're beginning to wonder how we ever made out without him. We do hope he will feel at home, and that he will enjoy working with us as much as we shall enjoy working with him in the service of Christ.

It was the first time in history that our Christian Endeavor got their fortunes told all together, but they certainly got an earful at the Halloween party in Miss Catherine Forbes' home. Even the ghost enjoyed getting a peep into the future of her Endeavor pals. Though we did get our faces washed trying to get apples from the tub, we had a big time, and stayed 'til Mr. and Mrs. Forbes got thoroughly worn out with us.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is getting up a short pageant for Thanksgiving Sunday. They are working hard for it to be a success, so let us all come out, and bring our thank-offerings as a token of appreciation for all the many blessings God has bestowed upon us during the past year.

The Christian Endeavor society sent two delegates to the convention of Central District of Virginia, at Lynchburg, two weeks ago. It was a most enjoyable event, and we only wish more of our Endeavorers could have gone and got in on the interesting classes and talks conducted there.

We were very glad to have Dr. Pritchard present at the last quarterly conference of the year. We hope he will come back and be with us whenever possible. We are also wishing a successful conference in Greensboro, and are praying for God's guiding hand to be ever with the president in everything he attempts to do for the Master.

State St., Lexington, N. C., O. C. Loy, Pastor, Nov. 7.—Here I come with another report. The year has passed so swiftly we hardly realize it's time for conference again. We have enjoyed a wonderful year in the Master's work.

Mr. Loy has done splendid work in every capacity. Every sermon has been well prepared and very helpful. We sincerely hope that he will come back to State St. for another year. His home was made glad three weeks ago by the arrival of another son who has been named Ovander Max Loy, the pride of the congregation. The fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 26, at West End, Thomasville. State St. was well represented. All departments give excellent reports. Mr. D. L. Disher was chosen delegate to the annual conference.

The Ladies Auxiliary sponsored a chicken pie upper Oct. 29. $31.00 was collected and used for local expenses.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Stewards: J. B. Leonard, J. H. Strutman, J. Baxter Leonard, B. H. Leonard, L. D. Holt, Dale Leonard, J. A. Walser, R. L. Leonard, C. H. Forcum, Mrs F. J. Cox, Miss Pauline Hancock, Miss Pauline Forcum.

Trustees: J. A. Walser, F. J. Cox, J. B. Leonard and D. L. Tussey.

Class leaders: Mrs. C. H. Forcum, Mrs. W. T. Neal, and Mrs. Joe Everhart.

Pianist, Edna Jenkins.

Ushers: J. Baxter Leonard, D. L. Tussey, Graham Leonard, Bruce Leonard.

Reporter: Mrs. W. T. Neal.

To prepare elements of communion: Mrs. J. A. Walser, Mrs. B. H. Hinkle.

We invite all who visit in Lexington to come to our church to hear a god sermon and meet a friendly congregation.

Efland, Orange, C. P. Morris, Pastor, Nov. 1.—Again conference is almost here. We are glad we have been privileged to have so pleasant a year. It seems good to hear our pastor and his wife say it has seemed a short year. To us it seems that only a few weeks ago they came to work with us. We are looking forward to next year with the expectation of having them with us again.

Our Sunday school observed Rally Day on the third Sunday in October. The program was given by the children and an offering was taken. The Rally Day play, "The Trial of Everyman's Church" will be presented by the grown ups on Sunday evening, Noverber 6.

A group of girls from our Children's Home came to give us a very enjoyable program of prayers Sunday morning. They were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Dixon, who spoke on the work of the home and its interests. At this time an offering was taken and amounted to $23.80. Eight dollars was given Dr. Dixon and the remainder will be paid on our W. S. budget by the Ladies Auxiliary, sponsors of the program. Luncheon was served to these guests in the church dining room.

Reports at the fourth quarterly conference, which met with the Union Grove church showed that Hebron church had paid all claims. Efland has paid all crusade assessments and we feel sure will meet others before conference as will the others on our charge, we believe. A gain in membership was reported. Pastor's salary was set to be the same as this year. The conference voted unanimously for his return and we hope the conference will see fit to send them back to us.

Efland.—The Efland Methodist Protestant church was the scene of a very pretty wedding when on Friday evening, Oct. 21, Miss Frances Rebeca Sykes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe O. Sykes, became the bride of Elbert Jarvis of Burlington, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Jarvis of Aurora, N. C.

The vows were taken amid a lovely setting of native pines and ferns interspersed with floor baskets of tiny wild asters and dahlias. Cathedral candles burned in seven branched candelabra to light the scene throughout.

Rev. C. P. Morris, pastor of the bride, was the officiating minister and used the ring ceremony. The wedding music was by Mrs. Carl Jones, pianist, of Greensboro, an aunt of the bride, and Miss Sara Crawley, soloist, also of Greensboro.

To the strains of the Bridal chorus, the bride entered on the arm of her brother Ralph who gave her in mariage and was met by the groom who waited at the altar with his best man.

The bride was gowned in a lovely creation of white lace with long train worn over white satin. From her cap made of lace identical with that of her dress and wreathed in orange blossoms fell a shower of tiny satin ribbons tipped with orange blossoms and her finger-tip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of tiny pompon chrysamthemums and tuberoses.

Having returned from their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis are at home at 710 Church street in Burlington, N. C.

Draper, J. .L. Love, Pastor.—Will try and write in a few lines to let you people know we are still on the Lord's side, and having some wonderful services. Our Sunday school is growing some. Have taken a good many in the church and will try to call a few of the names. Will Hall, Clarence Roberts, Erma Hyler, Mrs. Ruby Bailey, Mildred Thompson, Mrs. Edna Wilson, Erselle Boyles, Dorothy Love, Mrs. John Ray, Mrs. Leroy Knowles, Evilene Craig, Mrs. Helen Williams, andothers that I can't think of. We feel like we are having some most wonderful community prayer meetings on Saturday night. The night it was at our church we had a large crowd with 272 present, and you know that was wonderful. Well it is conference week and we hope they will see fit to send us back our same pastor as we have learned to love him. Mrs. Love has been kept away from church some time on account of sickness, but it was good last Sunday to see her back again, and we pray that she may soon be strong and well again. We desire the prayers of all the Christian people that we all may do God's will and be just what he would have us to be.

Pray for us.

Mitchells Grove, Guilford Charge, J. B. Trogdon, Pastor, Nov. 8—The fourth Sunday in October our pastor delivered a wonderful message to a large and attentive congregation that was at his last appointment of the year, but on the fifth Sunday we were favored with a most stirring temperance sermon which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. We hope our pastor will return to us again. Our new officers have been elected and installed for the coming year. We hope all may work together for one common cause, the salvation of souls which should be our chief desire. Our report may be lengthy but it will be of interest to know that Miss Esther Beck is the bride of Darrison Brown. Simplicity and dignity marked the service which Sunday, Oct. 23, united in marriage Miss Esther Beck of Jamestown and Darrison Brown of High Point at Mitchells Grove church with Rev. E. W. Jones officiating. The bride was a lovely picture in a gown of royal blue satin and carried a bouquet of carnations and chrysanthemums with lace ferns. Attendants were Mrs. Awreal Truttle as dame of honor, Carson L. Truttle as best man and little Mary Lane Ballard as ring bearer. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brown left by automobile for a trip to western North Carolina. They will reside on Divett Drive at present. Mrs. Brown is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Beck. She was educated in Jamestown. Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown. Hs also was educated in Jamestown and is now employed by the Tomlinson Chair company. Our best wishes go with this young couple that they may have a pleasant and peaceful journey as they sail over the sea of life together.

New Hope, Why Not Charge, Rev. C. H. Hill, Pastor.—One more appointment for our pastor before another conference year closes.

There is a small amount of our pastor's salary yet unpaid but we are expecting that to be paid in full next Sunday.

The church officers were elected or reelected last Sunday. W. R. Williams was elected as Sunday school superintendent to succeed D. J. Boyles.

Our Sunday school is still progressing very nicely.

At the beginning of this year the young men and young ladies class with Mrs. Louise Cox as teacher decided to divide the class as No. 1 and No. 2 and see which side had the most members present until October.

The losing side was to entertain the winning side. On last Saturday night most of the members of the class with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cox and son, Mr. and Mrs. Farley Von Cannon, Misses Mozelle Boyles and Mildred Dorsett, and Mr. Walter Sink as invited guests met at the home of Misses Selma and Zeola Dorsett for the entertainment. The young people enjoyed several games and were entertained later with a weiner roast.

Mr. James Sink, one of our very faithful young men, was married to Miss Edith Cagle of Archdale recently. We wish for them many years of hapiness.

We hope that conference will see fit to send Brother Hill back for another year.

First M. P. Church, High Point, N. C.—Our hearts have been saddened because of the death of another member of our church, Judge Lewis E. Teague. On Tuesday he would have been elected Congressman from this district. He was one of the leaders of his church, as well as the city and state. Our deepest sympathy is extended to his bereaved ones, especially his wife, Margaret Rankin Teague, and two daughters, Peggy and Jean.

Sunday morning Dr. J. E. Prtichard, president of the North Carolina conference, preached. His subject was "The Enrichment of Life." Those present greatly enjoyed his message and hope he can return again soon. Sunday night Mr. Madison, in his last service of the conference year, reviewed the past year's work. His subject was "The Passing Years." He recognized the families present of the deceased members of the church. They had been especially invited. He paid most impressive tributes to the following deceased: Mrs. R. T. Pickens, Mrs. W. T. Bodenheimer, James Hinkle, the mother of the Auman brothers, F. R., E. L., E. W., Mr. C. L. Gray, Mr. John Davis, and Judge Teague.

On Monday night a very enthusiastic supper meeting of the Board of Stewards was held. Announcement was made that Darrell Bulla's team had won from Robert Davis' team in the every member canvass by a very close margin. The drive was very successful and the board feels it has ended a very successful year. Our budget has been raised in full. A drive is now being launched for the building fund. Mr. John Spencer, is chairman of the committee.

A newly organized Junior Christian Endeavor society, will hold its installation service next Sunday night. Miss Alice Dosh heads the group as superintendent. This gives us three well organized Christian Endeavor societies.

Mr. J. H. Pritchard has taken over his duties as new Sunday school superintendent, with Darrell Bulla his assistant.

We are pleased to welcome into our church fellowship three new members, Mr. and Mrs. James Gorce, and Miss Ida Davis.

Our delegate to annual conference has been instructed to return Mr. Madison to us for another year. Our church has grown under his leadership and we pledge him our loyal support another year.

Friendship, Rev. Earl A. Cook, Pastor, Nov. 7.—I wish to apologize to my pastor and the church for not having reported more often this year. And since they have reelected me reporter for the new year I want to assure them by the help of my Lord I will be a better reporter.

Since our last report a goodly number of things have happened, such as the baby contest, the ladies aid serving a chicken and oyster supper, and each class in the Sunday school promised to pay one cent for each meal for the month of October. The response to all these drives was splendid and we feel that our people deserve praise for being so loyal. The funds raised will be used to finish paying for the water system in the parsonage and the new heaters the ladies aid gave the church.

Sunday, Nov. 6, our pastor delivered two splendid sermons, the morning worship at 11:00 o'clock and in the evening at 7:00 o'clock. His text for both services was found in the Book of Psalms. This being the last services before conference Mr. Cook as usual did a good job. We are sure our pastor doesn't want any praise for the things that have been accomplished this year. Knowing him as I do I am sure he would say, "All this would possibly have been done if I had not been here." And furthermore give the Lord the praise, He is the one who deserves it. We are not forgetting that, but we know from the very depths of our hearts we had last year and counting on having this year one of the best men and preachers in the conference. Mr. Cook has been a loyal pastor and a shining light to our community this year. A good worker both spiritually and otherwise. He and his family are loved by the people of Friendship, and we will be very happy when conference is over if he comes back to be with us another year. Wishing him God's speed in all that he undertakes to do.

Our church paid the pastor $66.60 in cash above the regular salary. Adding six new Sunday school rooms to the church costing about $800.00 and the water system and bath and painting the interior of the parsonage at a cost of about $500.00. All this has been done this year and we feel very proud of them.

The Sunday school report for the year ending October 31, is as follows: Average attendance for the year 100. Total collection, $249.90.

Disbursements: To Children's Home, $83.-65; to pastor on summer school, $7.00; conference claims, $31.50; gift to Mill Grove church, $10.85; literature and other expense, $99.71; amount in treasury, $17.19. Total, $249.90.

Friendship has had one of the best years since it was organized. And with the help of our Maker and the cooperation of the people we hope to have many more years like this.

Davidson Charge, Chapel Hill Church, Rev. C. L. Grant, Pastor. Nov. 7.—It has been some time since there was a report from this church. The church is still active at the close of the year. It has made a good financal showing, as it has always done. The people here have been very co-operative in the work at this church. We wish to thank our good pastor and family for their fine interest in the work here. May God's blessings be more bountiful in the future than in the past.

The last quarterly meeting was held on the fourth Sunday in October at this church. Reports showed that the charge was behind on claims and pastor's salary; but officials reported favorably that all this probably would be met.

On the fifth Sunday Pastor Grant preached to us at 2:30 o'clock, a very fine sermon, using for the text I Cor. 13:12.

On Saturday night, November 5, the two auxiliaries on Davidson charge, Lineberry and Chapel Hill met at the parsonage with Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Grant. The meeting was well-represented from both auxiliaries. The usual program was carried out with both societies taking part. In the business part of the program both auxiliaries raised money for each member present to buy a cake to send to the Children's Home. The meeting, which was enjoyed by all present, adjourned to meet again in December at the regular meeting place.

We are asking an interest in the Christian's prayers that we may do more than ever before to hold Christ and His work up before the world. That this church may be a lighthouse to the sinful world and draw the unsaved to her. That they might learn of the true salvation and the eternal life.

First Church, Lexington, Rev. L. E. Mabry, Pastor.—The First church observed the Lord's supper last Sunday morning. There was a very large crowd at this meeting. Rev. L. C. Mabry preached a very impressive sermon on the subject "The Cup." Also at the night service Rev. Mabry preached the last sermon on this conference year to a well filled house. The members of our church are 100 per cent in favor of the return of our pastor for another year. We hope that conference will see fit to send him back to us, for Mr. and Mrs. Mabry have done a great work during their stay with us.

The baby contest came to a close Sunday night, Oct. 30. There was 27 babies in the contest, as the result of it they raised $124.02. Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Walser's baby won a silver cup as first prize, also small golden crosses were given to all the babies. Part of this money will go to buy the Christmas treats for the church Christmas.

Siler City Church, A. M. Smith, Pastor, Nov. 7.—Another Conference year is about to come to a close. What have we accomplished for the Master? Every Methodist Protestant should ask themselves the question, "Have we done what we could?" If not, we strive to make the new year what it should be. We feel, that financially, we have been very successful. All goals have been reached and Mr. T. L. Smith, our delegate, can go to Conference with everything paid in full.

Dr. J. E. Pritchard paid his yearly visit to the Siler City church, on the fifth Sunday night in October. The auditorium was almost filled to hear him. A fine delegation from Bonlee was present, also the local M. E. church dispensed of their services to worship with us. Dr. Pritchard delivered a fine message on prayer life. "Pray one for another," James 5:16, was the text used. The topic, "Interested in Others." At the close of his sermon, officers for the new year were installed by Dr. Pritchard.. Special music was furnished by Mrs. Guy Presnell, of the M. E. church. Everyone seemed to enjoy the services very much and we hope they may come again. Mr. L. L. Wrenn was able to be with us at that service and everyone was so glad to have hime back again. He said that "It was a real homecoming to him." We were also highly honored to have Mrs. Pritchard in our congregation. She was once one of our own Siler City girls and she is always welcome back home.

In the absence of our pastor on the first Sunday night, Mrs. B. E. Fox, temperance secretary of the Women's Work, assisted by Miss Flossie Siler, put on a temperance program, consisting of readings, recitations, songs and a story told by Mrs. E. D. Woody all suitable for the occasion. Mrs. Victor Duncan sang very effectively, "Where Is My Boy To-night," as a solo. We were sorry that Mr. T. L. Smith, the speaker, could not be present.

Six ladies of the auxiliary attended the district meeting at Mt. Pleasant on the fourth Sunday afternoon of October. They reported a fine meeting and good fellowship together.

The Baraca's have repainted and repapered their room, making it look much more attractive. This class of young men deserve much credit for their work and are an asset to our Sunday school.

Friendship Church, Albemarle.—We thought that perhaps other girls that read our church paper, would like to hear about our "Willing Workers" of Friendship. We are a class of nine girls from ten to 13 years of age. We are few in number but we have done several things for our church, parsonage, and friends since our class was organized. Mrs. D. W. Sides in teacher, Anzonetta Dry, reporter; Trula Almond, president; Loma Cook, vice-president; Hazel Almond, treasurer; and Rachel Hatley, sercretary. We have a pretty classroom and have bought Bible pictures for the walls, and we keep fresh flowers in our room every Sunday. We have a part in the Thanksgiving offering, and after that we will begin to plan for our Christmas program.

was presented by Mrs. J. D. Smith, president of the Ladies' Aid society, in the name of the society and consisted of a nice white shirt, a beautiful tie and a nice pair of socks for the pastor. The pastor's wife, who has acted as reporter for the society for the last two years, received a nice pair of gloves and a beautiful handbag to match. We appreciate these useful gifts more than words can express, but back of the gifts we appreciate the givers—We enjoy working when our work is appreciated. Bethany Church, Randolph Charge, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Pastor.—Our pastor was with us the first Sunday morning. Officers for the coming year have been elected and were installed Sunday, they are as follows: D. T. Gaster, classleader: Swana Baldwin, superintendent; Percy Julian, secretary; and Frances Ellis, Grace Baldwin, Allene Julian, Frances Pugh and Doris Wood, stewards.

The service Sunday was a communion service in charge of Miss Swana Baldwin, by the junior girls and boys of scripture reading and songs. At the close of the service a large crowd partook of the communion.

Funeral service for Mrs. Parthena Coe was held Tuesday afternoon at Carraway Memorial church, White Oak. Interment was in Bethany cemetery.

The Helper's class will meet with Mrs. Clyde Apple on Saturday afternoon. They will make sheets for the Children's Home. They hope to have them ready for Thanksgiving.

We feel that a very good year is coming to a close. Everyone has cooperated spendidly here in the church and Sunday school. A report was given Sunday that everything had been paid in full. The Sunday school has grown steadily during the past year and the average attendance is very good.

A Christian Endeavor society was organized last winter in which much interest is being shown under the capable leadership of Miss Hyacinthe Hunter.

There has been right much sickness in our group for the past few months, but we're hoping it wont be long until they will all be back with us again.

With the cooperation of the newly-elected officers and the other members of the church and Sunday school, I feel that we're going to do greater things for the Lord in the year that is now before us.

Hebron-Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor.—The Young People's rally was held at Hebron church Sunday, Nov. 6, beginning at 3 p. m. Special music was rendered by the Junior choir of Mebane M. P. church, a young ladies' quartet from Center church on Alamance charge, Miss Lee, of the Efland high school faculty, also a trio from Hebron, after which we were led in prayer by Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of Mebane M. P. church.

Dr. F. W. Paschall, pastor of First M. P. church, Burlington, brought a very interesting and helpful message, stressing the standard of living.

Rev. Aubert M. Smith, past president of the State Christian Endeavor convention, outlined the work of Christian Endeavor.

We hope that our Christian Endeavor will go forward and grow in knowledge as well as in number.

Now that our annual conference is in session we are looking forward for the return of our present pastor.

MRS. BEN F. WILSON, Reporter.

Asheboro.—We have closed a good year's work. Our final services last Sunday were well attended, and a most pleasing spirit prevailed. All church and Sunday school officers and teachers were duly installed during the eleven o'clock service. It was an impressive sight to see such a large number of men and women, some still in their teens, standing together around the chancel to acknowledge their obligations, and to dedicate themselves to their respective tasks. To hold an office in the church of God is an important function, and it is highly fitting that this fact should be emphasized by means of a suitable installation service. At the close of the sermon Mrs. R. L. Cagle and Mrs. Worth Way were received into the church, the former by letter and the latter on confession of faith. They have the hearty welcome of the congregation. Twenty-three members have been received during the year.

A most gratifying fact about our closing is the financial report made by our board of stewards through the chairman, Brother Earl Henley. He stated to the congregation in the morning service that all current bills were paid to date, and all annual and general conference budgets paid in full, and that a balance still remained in the treasury. This is so much better than the hard tug during the last few days of conference year to raise a big balance. I believe this church has learned a more excellent way. We attribute it to our good board of stewards, their efficient chairman, and a most excellent treasurer in the person of Brother John R. Brown. I think I have never known money for the church to come in easier than it has done here during this year. The Lord be praised!

Our Herald allotment, too, is in, though we have not been abreast in this with a few other charges. However, we have had no thought but the goal ultimately. Many of our subscriptions expire during this part of the year, and we must wait on them for our finals. They are our faithful "reserves", and we know what will happen when they get into action. A good agent helps, too, and we have had that in Mrs. J. S. Lewis. We are happy with her that her task has been accomplished, as we knew it would be finally.

The Asheboro church is a great organization. Our people work together in peace and harmony, and gradually and certainly they are developing this spiritual field, and realizing a harvest in the splendid Christian manhood and womanhood that makes up the membership of the church. It is my confidence that larger things are in store for the church here, as the years advance. Opportunities are not wanting, and the spirit of the church and its influence in the community will give it continued strength. Our only need is to keep close to the great Head and let Him work in us and through us to do His good pleasure.

We thank God for our good year, and face the future in joy and confidence.

Perhaps all of us have heard about the excitement Sunday evening, October 30, when one of H. G. Wells' plays was being dramatized. Well, some folks got a move on themselves thinking that the end of this country was at hand. This reminds us of what the condition will be with many when the end does really come and we are not ready. Better be prepared. Readiness is what Christ emphasized everywhere. Conference is coming and before this gets into print it will be on its way and it is not going to find all of us ready. Suppose we all would get interested ahead of time and get things done that needs to be done. What a change it would make in all of our work. Honor rolls would not be necessary for to have it all done would be normal and we would not expect anything else.

Here is First Church, Thomasville, with the largest batch of subscriptions, enough to put them over, subsidy already paid. Thank you, Mrs. Lloyd, for this good work. There are several with ten dollar and ten and a half lots, would like to mention them all, but as that has not been my practice will not begin it now. But the list was encouraging. So if you want to see who did all these things look up last week's Herald and you will see a fine list, almost as large as the winner. And subsidy came in for honorable mention this week also. Bro. Curry wanting to be in line with things being done rushed in his quota of subsidy and joined the "ten spot" brigade and sent his quota direct to me. Looks good but I can't keep it and will be glad to turn it over to the Editor. First Church, High Point, paid up for this also. Grace Church, Greensboro, comes into the lime light again too by paying subsidy. Yarborough, Alamance, made the goal on this. Yarborough making the entire line, or over the line, to use parlance of the field. Maple Springs, Forsyth, and Orange Chapel, on Saxapahaw made payments that makes their line look better. Hope you can make it complete by Conference. Thank you, one and all, this moves up the number on subsidy substantially this week. "And yet there is room."

THE WORLD MOVES ON

Students in philosophy get a chance to think; and one thing they think about is this moving, mysterious universe. The more we study the world, the more amazing it becomes. It is a dynamic universe; everything moves on. The very fact that the sun is overhead at noon and six hours later setting in the west, shows that we are on an active earth. ''Never idle, never still,'' might be said in truth about the world in which we live. The cosmos is not only marvelous beyond our wildest dreams, but it is going somewhere. This earth is traveling nineteen miles a second. An hour from now, therefore, you will be 68,000 miles from where you sit at this moment.

Such a moving, dynamic universe has many lessons to teach. For one thing, in a dynamic world we must learn to move along with it. A static life in a dynamic world is a misfit. This is seen in several ways. Notice how a person must go on in anything he does. ''I cannot rest from travel,'' said Tennyson, and the expression serves in every experience. Let a man begin drinking and this law of ''going on'' bids him increase. A man making money never wants to stop, and the scholar finds pleasure in more study. He must go on, all learning leading to more learning. So the religious one—he seeks new experience too and longs to ''change from glory unto glory.'' Start anything in this life and Nature says go on with it.

Again, this indicates the value of a sound plan of action. Seeing that one must, or feels that he must, go on in any habit he makes, it is wisdom to get started right. The red-nose enjoys his dram like the saint enjoys his prayer—each got started on a definite but different track, and once on, he just naturally advances. Go we must, the question is in what direction.

Still another point: This upsurging trait of the universe moves toward higher intelligence. Scholars say that, given one living germ, they can populate the earth. So when the first cell saw the light, the long journey toward a Shakespeare was begun! Lower forms of life feed on those beneath them, and the struggle tends toward higher intelligence. Evolution is in the upward direction.

Also this principle suggests that material is the means and that mind is the end. Matter is used to build mind. Mind seems to have been in the ascendency from the beginning, and when life appeared on the earth the same process was in evidence here. Mentality, thus, is the end and material things the mains. The prominent things about Shakespeare was not his stomach. What went into his physical system was used to support the machinery that housed the mind. Mind is Nature's objective.

Finally, this moving, upward tendency of life gives us a working philosophy of the universe. If the direction of forces is upward they terminate in God. He is the drawing Center toward which all things move. In religion we have the same idea expressed. It gives unity and meaning to the whole creation. Besides, the view conforms to personal experience. Note for example one of our songs read: ''He drew me and I followed on, charmed to confess the Voice divine.''

Yes, the world moves on. The trend is upward, and even though there are frequent backsets, progress is still made, and the future is secure. ''This is my Father's world.''

MAKING IT YOURS

Bread is called the staff of life. But it does not prove its claim to this title until it is taken into the stomach and absorbed by the digestive organs and thus becomes part of the physical man. Not until we actually eat bread, and it enters into our anatomy and is changed to life-giving substance, do we make sure of it as a vital force.

So is it with knowledge. We may manipulate it, play with it, taste it, (get a smattering of it), and still we get nowhere. We get the full measure and value of knowledge when we absorb it and make it part of us. We thus transform it from a mere general laws into a specific instrument for our own use.

This transforming process is really vitalizing. It twines the fibers of the thing you want to remember into and among the fibers of your mind. That makes it yours. Assimilate it; that is the keynote of education. As H. W. Mabie says:

''Practice makes for skill, discipline for character, and an accumulation of knowledge for intelligence. But none of these processes bear their ripest fruit until they pass into culture and through a process of vital assimilation become a part of the man himself.''

—Edward S. Babcox.

WANTED

Journals and Money

As Keeper of Records I have the manuscript copies of the minutes of the North Carolina conference from 1828 to 1892. That is the end of the old books and the extent of the records put into my hands. I feel that we certainly should have a complete record down to the present and so am making two requests.

First, will those who are willing to donate old journals get in touch with me. I say old ones but I mean any journals from 1891 to 1938. Second, if there are persons willing to give money for the purpose we will have their journals bound in convenient size for better keeping. I do not know what the cost will be but will investigate and supply more information. Let those who will give journals or money so indicate.

NOTICE, ALAMANCE CHARGE!

I plan to be at Bethel next Sunday for the eleven o'clock service. Hope to meet a large congregation. I am planning to meet the other appointments in their regular order.

Bless the Lord, O My Soul

A Sermon for Thanksgiving

Bless the Lord, O my soul;
And all that is within me bless His holy name.
Bless the Lord, O my soul,
And forget not all His benefits:
Who forgiveth all thine inquities;
Who healeth all thy diseases;
Who redeemeth thy life from destruction;
Who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies:
Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things;
So that thy youth is renewed like the eagle.

—Psalm 103,1-5.

We Thank Thee

Not for our lands, our wide-flung prairie wealth,
    Our mighty rivers born of friendly spring.
Our inland seas, our mountains proud and high,
    Forests and orchards richly blossoming;
Not for these, Lord, our deepest thanks are said
    As humbly glad, we hail this day serene;
Not for these most, dear Father of our lives,
    But for the love that in all things is seen.

We thank Thee not for prestige born of war,
    For dauntless navies built for battle stress;
Nor would we boast of armies bassed for strife;
    These all are vain, O Lord of Kindliness.
What need have we of swords and bayonets,
    Of mighty cannon belching poisoned flame!
O, woo us from the pagan love of these
    Lest we again defile Thy sacred name.

We thank Thee, Lord, on this recurring day,
    For liberty to worship as we will;
We thank Thee for the hero souls of old
    Who dared wild seas their mission to fulfill.
O, gird our hearts with stalwart faith in good,
    Give us new trust in Thy providing hand,
And may a spirit born of brotherhood
    Inspire our hearts and bless our native land.

We pass these lines on to those who may benefit by reading them: ''A horse can't pull while kicking. This fact I merely mention. And he can't kick while pulling, which is my chief contention. Let's imitate the old horse-try this program that's fitting; just pull, each in his place, and then there'll be no time for kicking.''

''Abraham went out, not knowing where he was going, but he knew with whom he was going.''—Bishop W. W. Peele.

So there are some of our preachers going out to new charges, to face new congregations, to live under new environment, to try to build up the work of the Kingdom where the needs may be uncommon. All these things may be new to the preacher, but he should and doubtless does know with whom he is going to this new pastorate. He has tested this Friend and found him sufficient, therefore YOUR new preacher is not alone. Trust him for his Companion's sake.

Ministers Meet

The Piedmont Ministers Association will meet Monday, Nov. 21, at 10:30 o'clock at Grace Church, Greensboro.

"And Be Ye Thankful"

This enjunction coming to us from a saintly soul is quite appropriate at this time. Of course, it should be heeded by us at all times, but at this season of the year in which the American people from before the establishment of our government, have turned their thoughts to the mercies and goodness of God it should ring with compelling force.

Let us count again the many blessings we have shared during our lives. The host of friends who have been true to us; the reasonable portion of health which has been ours; the happiness which has made our homes a good place to stay; the loved ones who yet tarry with us on this side the flood; the manifold mercies of God which have been our lot. Oh, there are more than enough of these to make us very thankful—enough to make us most grateful to our Heavenly Father for his remembrance of us.

How then shall we express our thankfulness? The Psalmist said ''I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord; I will pay my vows unto the Lord, now in the presence of all his people.'' He struck the keynote, he declared the secret of his great life. Drank from the fountain of God's mercies and grace, and paid his vows unto the Lord. There are many who are exceedingly anxious to drink from the fountain of life most freely, who want the daily consciousness of the Lord's presence, but who like the nine lepers whom Christ healed, never return to give the glory of their healing to the Lord. Let us, dear reader, join with those who next week will be expressing their thanks to God for His goodness by sending our offering (paying our vows) with large gifts to the homeless children in the Children's Home. Let's give Superintendent Dixon the largest Thanksgiving offering the Home has ever received. Begin to gather it next Sunday and be sure it reaches the Home by Thursday.

The Annual Conference

We are publishing elsewhere the list of pastoral appointments. Very few changes were made. The president stated that some unreasonably hard demands were made upon the Stationing Authority; there is nothing unusual about these demands. Many of our people never see beyond their own charge, and if it is a charge with two or more churches, some do not even see beyond their own little church. That is a very unfortunate attitude to have. It makes it hard for an annual conference to really function as it was created to function.

But now

That the conference is history the Editor appeals to all readers of the Herald to forget the past. If they were displeased by any act of the conference it does them no good to remember it; if some person there did or said a foolish thing, just hope they are already ashamed of it, and let that also pass.

What we should do is to set our hands to the task of making this year the very best in all the history of the Methodist Protestant Church; it can be done. But not by making invidious comparisons, not by trying to discredit the work of another can anyone advance the work of the Kingdom of God.

We have a big task set for us—the union of three Methodist churches into one, great, good Methodist church. It is a task foolish people cannot accomplish, neither can bad people do it. It will require the wisest acts of the wise, and the best efforts of the best, to do it. By grace, the favor of God, it may be done; but never by the ecclesiastical politician, the seeker after honors, these never built up position that it is any honor to hold. Like leeches they are ready to seize that which another has made, but not to make something that others may enjoy.

The Conference is challenged to do a big thing this year—to raise a World Service budget of $42,000.00 and the usual allotments for the annual conference. Who is equal to these things? We will not raise the allotments with the same effort we have given to such things in the past. It will take more prayer, more push, more patience, more sacrificial giving, than our people have practiced since High Point College was built. We shall need to cooperate with our leaders in all these things; they cannot do them alone, we must do our part.

The Church a Universal House of Prayer

Among the human experiences which be called universal are sorrow, disease, suffering, sin and death. These are known wherever mankind is found. Neither youth nor the aged, the rich nor the poor can escape them. But according to St. Paul, "Where sin abounds grace does much more abound" and six hundred years before his day, speaking for Jehovah, Isaiah said, "Mine house shall be called the house of prayer for all peoples." So worship is also universal with its healing influences upon the mind and heart of man.

The Jew built the temple for his own race; the chosen people were to be the main beneficiary of its blessings; but the temple could not be kept for the Hebrew race alone; neither could the promises of God be imprisoned in the Hebrew language and thereby concealed from the eyes of other nations. It was likewise true of the presence of the Lord, Isaiah as a young man saw the Lord high and lifted up as his train filled the temple, but peoples of every race have all down the centuries had the same consciousness of God's presence and of his call to service. So today we know that in Christ Jesus there is neither Jew nor Greek, bound or free, but a new creation.

So the house of God is the house of prayer for all peoples. In it men of every race and language have confessed their misdeeds and found pardon. At its altars the great and small, the rich, the poor, the noble and ignoble meet on a common level—penitence. God is the Maker of them all, and Jesus Christ is the Redeemer of all races. There is no difference here. Forgiveness and love await peoples of every condition who confess their sins. The altar parts the way between a sinful past and a future full of noble deeds. Here inspiration takes the place of discouragement, hope or despair, service of the slavery of sin, a new life of the old. After such an experience peoples every where can cry out in the language of the Psalmist, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord; my feet shall stand within thy gates O Jerusalem."

The ministries of worship are greatly aided by the sanctuary service. The melody of song, the communion of people with common motives and aims in life, the aspiration after holiness and God make their deepest impressions here. A sermon is never so impressive as when received in a well ordered service in the Church. All who enter this holy place should do it with a prayer for themselves and for all mankind. For the house of the Lord differs from all other places where people meet. A worship service is unlike all other services men engage in. The spiritual pitch of the atmosphere of this place is set by the words, "The Lord is in his holy temple let all the earth keep silence before him."

And this is the house of prayer for all peoples. It has never been easy for men to remember this. Racial claims, selfish interests have too often prompted us when we pray. Far too many appear to think that their enemies have no right to kneel and call upon God for mercy at the same altar at which they bow. The ancient idea of the local deity has come down to us and divided the worshippers according to the color of their skins or the countries from which they come. But still the voice of the Apostle rings out clearly, "God is no respecter of persons; but in every nations he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness is accepted of him."

WE, OURSELVES

We look to schools and colleges to prepare us for our life's work, but schools and colleges are but opportunities with whose aid we prepare ourselves.

Depending alone on schools and colleges, we would not get very much preparation for anything. But by making the most of opportunity, we can prepare for any business, profession, or vocation.

Abraham Lincoln did not have the opportunities that many of us have, but he had the right idea.

"I will study and prepare myself and then some day my chance will come," said Lincoln. And he was self-prepared when his chance came. We all can prepare ourselves.

HABITS OF A MINISTER

One of our subscribers once sent us the following, with the suggestion that we might use it in our "joke columns": "I wish you were here to give some hint to our pastor that he needs to get his clothes pressed, and put on a clean collar, and several other things that we can't say out loud. He is a good man, and can preach very good sermons; but—! And his wife is much the same."

We publish the item but not in our "joke column" because, as we see it, it is no joke. It is pathetic! It has in it the elements of a tragedy! Here is a good man, an able preacher, who is making his people ashamed of him because of his slovenly and untidy appearance; who is discounting his work, handicapping his influence, and lessening the appeal and power of the Gospel in the community by habits for which there is no possible excuse or palliation. We feel that the particular minister to whom reference is made is an exception, but in our ministry there ought to be no exceptions.

A minister must first of all be a gentleman, and soiled linen, grimy nails, and spotted and rumpled clothes are not the marks of a gentleman. It may not always be possible for him to be well dressed, but it will always be possible for him to be clean. Soap and water are cheap, and neatness in dress and person will cover a multitude of defects.—Clipped.

SHE GIVES AWAY EYES

In the mountains of Kentucky are many unsung heroes whose work has helped countless numbers to gain health, happiness, an education, and a knowledge of our Lord and Saviour. Just as there are heroes, so are there heroines who have ventured into the more remote regions of our Southern states; women who have risked life itself to bring sunshine into the lives of those who have had so little attention for so many years. "Miss Linda," almost a tradition of the hills, is one of these.

Miss Linda Neville, this Lexington, Ky., woman, is known far and wide as simply "Miss Linda," the Angel of Kentucky. That she is indeed an angel to the blind is proven by the suffering she has relieved and the joy she has brought to the hearts of numerous young children.

"Miss Linda" first became interested in the blind when, as a school teacher, she had been invited to inspect a new mission school in the mountains. Traveling into the hills by muleback, she saw many sightless persons in far-away settlements who could not take advantage of the medical facilities offered by the state's larger cities. Learning later that a great percentage of blindness is preventable if checked in time, she determined to devote her boundless energy to aiding these people.

Linda Neville commenced taking the blind into her own home and arranging for their treatments at her own expense. This, however, soon proved inadequate, since she could care for only a limited number, whereas there were hundreds who required immediate attention. This was a big thing and "Miss Linda" soon saw that it must be handled in a big way if the desired results were to be obtained.

Due to her unfailing efforts through the years, four government hospitals have been established in sections where they were most needed and special rates have been arranged for the blind in the city clinics. In addition she has secured free passes on all state railroads, plus a yearly grant of $2,000 from the state of Kentucky.

In the early days of her project the Angel of Kentucky was a real pioneer, riding into the mountains on muleback to bring the sightless babies and children to the cities for treatment. Today, although everything is systematized, Linda Neville is still as actively engaged in the work as at the very outset. Her home is always open house for the sightless, and although her cheerful, smiling face cannot always be seen, her personality has won to her the hearts of all those with whom she has come into contact.

More than seven hundred persons owe the use of their eyes to an unusual women with a heart and a brain which she knows how to use—"Miss Linda," of Lexington, Ky.—Hal Rushmore, in The Girl's World.

THE LOST SHEEP

'Twas a sheep, not a lamb, that strayed away,
In the parable Jesus told;
A grown-up sheep, that had gone astray,
From the ninety and nine in the fold.

Out on the hillside, out in the cold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd sought;
And back to the flock, safe into the fold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd brought.

And why for the sheep should we earnestly long,
And as earnestly hope and pray?
Because there is danger. If they go wrong,
They will lead the lambs astray.

For the lambs will follow the sheep, you know,
Wherever the sheep may stray;
Where the sheep go wrong, it will not be long
Till the lambs are so wrong as they.

And so with the sheep we earnestly plead,
For the sake of the lambs, today;
If the sheep are lost, what terrible cost
Some lambs will have to pay.

—Author Unknown.

THE DAY'S NEEDS

Each day I pray, God give me strength anew,
To do the task I do not wish to do;
To yield obedience, not asking why;
To love and own the truth and scorn the lie;
To look a cold world bravely in the face;
To cheer for those that pass me in the race;
To bear my burdens gayly, unafraid;
To lend a hand to those that need my aid;
To measure what I am by what I give;
God, give me strength that I may rightly live!

—British Weekly.

THE POWER OF HABIT

I had a fine colt once that measured up to almost human intelligence. I taught him many tricks. Among them, when he was very young, was to open the barn door with his teeth. In this part of the barn was his stall and each night the colt would go to the door, open it with his teeth and walk in.

When he was a year and a half old he was stolen and all efforts to find him proved unavailing. A year went by in this way. One day I happened to be in an adjoining county and in passing a barnyard I saw a man beating a horse. As I was a salesman and had this place on my list, I stopped at once.

When I approached the man I thought I recognized the horse as the colt that had been stolen. I asked where the horse had been bought and the man said, "From a traveler through the country."

"Well, that's my horse. He was stolen from me a year ago," I informed him. "Of course I'll have to prove it and if you will let me take him to my home we can soon do that. If he's the colt I had he will open the barn door with his teeth and walk in."

Now in saying this I knew I was taking a long chance. The man refused, and laughed at the idea. "Why, I bought this horse a year ago. If your colt ever did that fool thing he'd not do it now."

A neighbor came up and advised the man to agree to do it. When the horse entered the barnyard at home he went straight to the barn and opened the door with his teeth. His long trip had made him hungry, and he was expecting food to be in his trough. The man and those who accompanied him were satisfied that the colt was mine. The animal was being true to an intelligent habit which won him back to me. Had the man not been beating the colt I never would have got him. The man's cruelty lost him the horse and also my respect.

—Ralph Fenwick.

THEN WAS OUR MOUTH FILLED WITH LAUGHTER

From His point of view, as we would look at it, it wasn't a very cheery and hopeful world into which Jesus came two thousand years ago. In many ways it was not greatly unlike our own. Certainly, as we try to make a comparison, it would seem that the chances of His program winning through were not any brighter than they are today. And yet angels are reported to have sung triumphantly of His coming and promised a vicory for that program in words without any least hint of doubt or misgiving. And that was heaven's verdict upon the tremendous enterprise of the Incarnation and the divine judgment as to what the world might hope for as a result of it. Unless the whole Bethlehem story is a Satanic joke upon humanity, there lies buried in the heart of it every possible reason for joy and gladness and rejoicing, and the Christmas message remains, and remains forever, a message filled with buoyancy and hopefulness, and the Christmas song has eternal justification.

It would not hurt at all if there should come into our religious experience and outlook a little more of the exultant note, and we should learn to sing with a new touch of victory and hopefulness and expectation. Our mouths should be filled with laughter more than they have been and not so often drawn down at the corners with discouragement and regret and fear. As we read again the Christmas story it may perhaps come to us that its mood is not quite our own, and we may be stirred into a more wholesome and more Christian state of mind and of soul. And that would be a very worth while result of our celebration of Christmas.

"The earth has grown old with its burden of care,
But at Christmas it always is young.
The heart of the jewel burns lustrous and fair,
And its soul full of music breaks forth on the air,
When the song of the angels is sung.

It is coming, old earth, it is coming tonight!
On the snowflakes which cover thy sod
The feet of the Christ Child fall gentle and white,
And the voice of the Christ Child tells us with delight,
That mankind are the Children of God."

—The New Outlook.

A SPIDER'S EYE-VIEW

He was a rather small, gray spider, and he decided to climb the walls of the great cathedral. He had heard that it was the most magnificent building in all the country, and he aspired to see it clear to the top.

It seemed strange to him when he began the ascent that the stones should have been left so rough. There were places where they were so irregularly hewn that with all six of his legs, he had great difficulty in climbing.

The joints between the stones, too, were entirely too wide. In some places the mortar had fallen out and he had to make long detours to get around the holes and continue upward. And they had allowed a lot of ivy to grow on the walls of the cathedral. This made such a tangle that it was almost impossible for him to clamber through.

He finally gave up all thought of seeing the splendid edifice when he was only ten feet from the ground. The rest of his life he told other spiders that the building was much overestimated, and that if it had any beauty, he had not been able to discover it.

He knew nothing of the magnificent spires which pointed eternally upward, directing men toward God. He knew nothing of the glorious, stained glass windows through which the sun painted yet other pictures on the cathedral floors. These had no meaning for this spider, because his whole attention was fixed on the small defects which had momentarily impede his progress.

Aren't there many of us who are taking a spider's eye-view of life? Aren't we permitting our own little two-by-four disappointments to obscure the beauty, the grandeur of living?

—Roe Fulkerson.

OUR STORY PAGE

"THERE WAS A GARDEN"

The room to which Amy Williams conducted her great-aunt, Harriet Logan, was above the kitchen, and separated from the rest of the upstairs by a storeroom twenty feet long. There was no door to the room, no heating arrangement, no attic space above it; Harriet's room and the storeroom were attic to the rear portion of the old farmhouse.

Harriet's deep blue eyes, keen despite their sixty-five years, missed nothing. The room Amy showed her was thirteen feet by seven; a slant ceiling cut the ends of the thirteen-foot dimension to less than four feet from the floor. There was a three-paned attic-type window on the south end; a small sash window on the east side.

''This isn't furnished, so I thought it would do since you have your own furniture,'' explained Amy. ''And way off here you'll feel by yourself. Old people don't always like to mix. The bathroom's downstairs, so you'd better fix up a commode here with a pitcher and bowl. The boys will be along with your furniture any minute now. I'll pull this rocker into your room till they come. The seat's gone, but I'll put this old pillow in. I must run down and tend my chickens.''

Harriet heard the soft thud of Amy's short plump feet in their rubber-soled shoes, through the storeroom, the connecting bedroom, down the steep stairs: then a door slammed. A door seemed also to close within her heart upon the hope that had brightened her lonely poverty-touched days since she had received her nephew Kenneth's letter telling her to come to them—there was always room on a farm! Perched uncomfortably on the pillow-seat of the broken rocker. Harriet Logan thought rebelliously that this small, slant-ceilinged attic room, with its sickening sweetish smell of mice, did not fulfill the spirit of Kenneth's letter. She visualized her former home, spacious and with every modern convenience, the home she and Richard had built in the old, elm-shaded city of their birth—lovely because love had inspired it and dwelt therein. As Mrs. Richard Logan she had been one of the city's, even the state's, prominent women—and now this!

''Richard! Richard, my darling!''—the cry seemed wrung from her.

But desperately Harriet sought to keep her thoughts on the task of the moment; arranging furniture in a thirteen-by-seven-foot room, and draping two windows and a doorway takes only a little while, however. The room would hold less than half of her few treasured pieces. The bed of the set she and Richard had selected on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary was impossible.

''Put that in the big bedroom, boys,'' Amy ordered her Tom and Al, gangling, fair-haired, sun-tanned fifteen-year-olds. ''Bring up the sanitary couch. It'll give you more room, Aunt Harriet. Put the dresser in there too, boys. You can take one of my washstands and hang a looking glass over it. You won't want more at your age. Verna can use the dresser—''

''And how!'' murmured Tom, winking a mild blue eye at Harriet.

Harriet saw that Amy's sullen black eyes were viewing acquisitely the satin-finished dresser with its long triplicate mirrors. How many times had those mirrors reflected Richard's lovely face beside her own!

''I'll keep the dresser,'' she said evenly.

'But it won't leave you room to turn around! Take it in Verna's room, boys—'' Amy's shrill voice trailed into nothingness as Kenneth, his bulky frame stooped to the low ceiling, came down the length of the storeroom.

''Hello, Aunt Harriet!'' He kissed her warmly. ''I couldn't get to the station because I had to see a man about some cows. What's the idea of poking Aunt Harriet off here, Amy? When you said the bedroom next to the storeroom, I thought you meant the big one at the other end—''

''She likes to be away off here. She wanted an unfurnished room, didn't you, Aunt Harriet?'' interposed Amy.

''Yes,'' replied Harriet, dismayed because he felt like slapping Amy's round red face. ''But I think, Amy, I shall decide what furniture is to go in here.''

''Well, sure! Who else would?'' cried Kenneth.

In the weeks that followed, the ceiling of Harriet's room was hot to the touch of her hand from mid-morning until after sundown. Only toward morning did the room cool so that she could sleep. The noise of mice troubled her even more than the heat. Each morning she saw traces of them, and shuddered. Often, even after the room had cooled, she lay awake, dreading that they might run up on the couch.

The heat and sleeplessness brought loss of appetite. Amy said it was not worth coming downstairs for the little she ate. Why not make tea or coffee in her room on her alcohol lamp? She could give the boys money and they would bring her what she wanted from the store.

Kenneth came stooping through the storeroom, his mild blue eyes filled with concern, to ask whether she was not coming to meals because she was ill. Amy, at his heels, explained, ''It's nicer for her getting her own meals, Ken.''

Harriet, chagrined because again she wanted to slap Amy, smiled at Kenneth and said, ''Perhaps I'll sleep later if I make my coffee up here.''

But there was no late sleeping with doors banging beneath her at half past four, and the sound of Amy moving heavily about getting breakfast.

There came a night when she felt she could endure no more. and she cried, ''Lord, how can I stand it? Old and alone—that is the heaviest cross! I cannot bear it!'' It was a cry of despair rather than a prayer, but from subconscious depths came the words, ''In the place where He was crucified there was a garden.'' She got up and sat at the east window. She could see the fields silvery in the moonlight, and a tall fir tree with a star caught in its branches. ''There was a garden!'' she repeated. She recalled then something that Richard had said, ''Give yourself for others either by dying for them or by living for them and in that place of sacrifice there blossoms the beauty and fragrance of a garden; live for yourself, forget the meaning of sacrifice, and you make for your abode a barren desert or a desolate wilderness.'' ''That is what I have been doing, creating a desert, making my own spot of isolation!''

Amy was so astonished she dropped a plate when Harriet came into the kitchen at five o'clock the next morning and said, ''I was awake, Amy. You sounded busy. Can I help?''

''I'm in a jam—my bread is ready to be kneaded and there are the pancakes to make—

''I'll put the bread in the pans.''

''If it's not too much for you—oh, thanks, Aunt Harriet.''

The next day Harriet said she would drive to town with the boys.

''But you wouldn't want to ride in their old car!'' exclaimed Amy.

''Watch me!'' replied Harriet.

She returned by mid-morning with several packages, and said, ''Amy, after the noon meal you're through until tomorrow morning. I've bought the makings of a supper here, mostly cooked stuff, for I'm not a cook. But I'll see there's a fair meal and plenty of it on the table tonight. Little Ken and Vivian are going to help with the dishes, and you're company!''

''Aunt Harriet of all things I'd wish for it'd be just that —a meal got that I didn't have a thing to do with, and a rest from everlasting planning and cooking. But you—why, Ken said you'd always been rich and never lifted a finger—'' tears were running down Amy's red face.

''I'll prove to you that I can lift ten fingers,'' said Harriet.

A couple of days later she called little lame Kenny to her room to show him the king-birds' nest in the apple tree beneath her east window. Tom, Al, and Verna followed. The four settled down and stayed for an hour while Harriet told them some of the things she had learned about birds in her years of study.

That was the beginning of making Harriet's room a family gathering place. Then, after she had taken blankets and sheets from her own store to Mrs. Myers, a neighbor who had been burned out, and began going twice a week to another home to start a blind boy on the road to education, the neighbors began to come to consult Harriet.

One day in autumn Amy came upstairs and said, ''Aunt Harriet, you'll just have to move into the big room on the other end of the storeroom. Your room's grown to be the most important one in this house. Every one of us runs to it a dozen times a day because we can't get along without seeing you about something. And the neighbors are as bad. You're to choose the paper and paint for it and it's all to be done over. There's plenty of room in it for all your nice furniture, and you can sleep in your own bed again!''

''Amy, my dear! And I'll give a house-warming party in my new room!''

''You would think of that—always for others!'' exclaimed Amy. ''The funny thing is that you seemed just the opposite when you came. I'll own up I plain didn't want you, Aunt Harriet. I though anybody that had always been rich and had everything needn't land on me with all my work when their money was gone. I was mean to you—mean on purpose! Oh, wasn't I a low one though, to act like that!''

''Just human,'' replied Harriet.

She glanced out of the east window across the yellowing fields, thinking what it would mean to have the big comfortable room, away from the mice, cool in summer, heated in winter. Yet how much this poor little room had done for her!

''There was a garden!'' she murmured and smiled at Amy. Amy did not know what Harriet meant, but she smiled back. —Janet T. Van Osdel, in The Watchman-Examiner.

OVER THE FENCE TALKS

''Looks as if it will pour down, Miss Mary,'' said Mrs. Williamson, as she came down the steps and over to the fence to talk with her semi-invalid neighbor.

''Yes. I don't think it will be long now, until it rains,'' said Miss Mary. ''I was just thinking of moving in.''

''I wish you would do some psychologizing on me,'' said the young neighbor, ''so I would not be afraid of storms.''

''Why accuse me of psychologizing?'' smiled Miss Mary. ''All I have ever told you was plain common sense.''

''Maybe that is all psychology is,'' said Mrs. Williamson.

''Probably you are right about that,'' was the answer. ''Just plain common sense, systematized.''

''I don't see how you have found time to read and study so much, with all you have had to do,'' said the younger woman.

''That was just one of the things I had to do,'' said Miss Mary, with a laugh. ''I had to stay interesting to my husband and children!''

''Well, you certainly did it, and to all the neighbors, too,'' said Mrs. Williamson, voicing the admiration she had long felt.

''You had better bring the children over, until the storm is over.''

''Yes, I will,'' said Mrs. Williamson.

''A great many people can't help being afraid of storms,'' replied Miss Mary.

''Well, I do hope my children will not be as scared as I am,'' was the answer.

''Probably they will not unless you teach it to them,'' remarked Miss Mary.

''That is exactly what I am afraid of,'' said the mother.

''Come on over and leave them with me,'' said Miss Mary, as she gathered up her pillows to go into the house.

''Edward,'' called his mother, ''do you and Little Sister want to go over to Miss Mary's a little while?''

Edward needed no second bidding, for well he knew the fullness of Miss Mary's cookie jar. Soon the little family came trooping in the door.

''Here is Bess Streeter Aldrich's new book,'' said Miss Mary. ''You just lie down there on my couch and read it. I will take Edward and Little Sister back to the kitchen and see what we can find.''

Mrs. Williamson took the book eagerly. Two small children did not leave much time for reading. She slipped down on the couch in the living-room and was soon lost in the fascinating tale of days gone by, in the middle West.

The children did not notice the down-pour that came in a few minutes, so great was their interest in the contents of the fascinating old blue cookie jar. Miss Mary kept up a steady stream of pleasant talk, as they ate. Edward told her a marvelous tale of something he imagined that he had done. Then she took them back to her own room, rather than to the living-room.

Just as they entered the room there was a blinding flash, and a crash of thunder. ''God is having fireworks, isn't He?'' said Miss Mary quickly. ''Shall we go to the window and watch?''

They went to the window and became much interested in the pouring rain and the quick flashing lightning on the far horizon.

''I like that kind better,'' said Edward. ''It doesn't make so much noise.''

''Yes, but when you get to be a big boy, the bigger the boom, the better you will like it,'' said Miss Mary. ''Charles can't get any firecrackers big enough to make all the noise he wants.''

Charles lived across the street and was Edward's model in all things. If he wanted big noises, so did Edward. Pretty soon, there was another resounding crash. Edward smiled. ''That one was big enough for me and Charles,'' he said.

''So it was,'' agreed Miss Mary. ''I hope Charles heard it.''

Little Sister was drowsy, so Miss Mary let Edward lift her into her lap, and slipping off one shoe and stocking began, ''This little pig went to market. This little pig stayed home.''

Soon the child was sleeping, and Edward went back to the window to watch the rain. ''Sing about the rain,'' he asked.

''Hear the music of the rain,'' sang Miss Mary obediently; ''On the roof and window pane, falling down.''

The thunder shower was gone before long, but still Mrs. Williamson did not stir. ''Rain's over,'' called Miss Mary.

''Rain's over,'' echoed Edward.

''That book is so fascinating I hate to lay it down,'' said the mother as she took her sleeping baby from Miss Mary's lap and put her on the bed. ''I am almost sorry the rain has stopped.''

''Did you see God's fireworks?'' asked Edward.

''No,'' said his mother. ''I was so busy reading I did not notice.''

''Pretty good psychology, then,'' said Miss Mary dryly.

''It is indeed,'' said the young mother. ''I will remember it.''

''What does that mean?'' inquired Edward.

''It means that Miss Mary is mighty nice, and has taught us both a lesson,'' said mother. But Edward did not understand that, either! — Willie Jean Stewart, in The Cradle Roll Home.

No left-wing revolution has ever occurred in a country where unions were well established. The right of collective bargaining is tied up with the maintenance of liberty. Unionism eventually becomes a socially constructive and conservative force.—Rev. A. J. Muste of the Labor Temple, New York City.

A BETTER EYESIGHT

It is quite true that we see what we are looking for. If we are looking for the worst, we see the worst. If we look for the ills and evils of society, we see them. If we look for defeat, we shall find it, and all too soon. If we seek the best, we shall find it and shall discover and utilize those forces which make for the development of human character and a better and happier world.

The person who is absorbed in making money can see only adding-machines, balance sheets, stock market reports, marching figures, and balanced budgets, free from red ink.

The person who demands thrills and unbounded play will see only rugged athletes, goal posts and bleachers, baseball diamonds, hockey clubs, the cinema and the bridge table. He can name every outstanding athlete and actor before the public and the date and place of each player's triumphs.

The one who is carried away by the craze of a gambling age knows the ponies, the dogs, and the best ''buys'' on the market. He develops an instinct for taking a chance, and he always sees an opening, a traffic-cleared avenue leading to hazards. His seeing creates in him the conviction that he can get something for nothing, and he will never learn otherwise.

The impersonal and negative individual is always seeing things, inanimate beings or possibly crowds—just so many people surging to and fro through the maze of a complex society, always getting in his way and always too many in numbers to suit his whims.

This defective eyesight does not make for the love and unselfishness that build a stable society. Moreover, it reveals distorted minds, a condition that is very unhealthful and not conducive to the best.

Better eyesight would enable us to see the best and join in the quest of the best. It would enable us to see people—human beings, brothers, individuals, precious souls in a humanity that is struggling with human problems—engaged in the battle for bread, in the battle for an honorable and self-respecting existence, in the battle to be somebody instead of nobody.

If our eyesight would improve we should know the value of friendships, of the warm clasp of the human hand, of the meaning of human brotherhood, of the love and kindness and service for which the world is hungry. We should put more soul into things; we should seek the beautiful, the refined, the sublime, and we should dignify every interest that is worthy of recognition by the stamp of a cultured personality.

There is nothing finer than this kind of eyesight, insight, foresight that sees above and beyond the sordid, the crass, the coarse, the stupid, the selfish to the heights, where dwell all of those who are doing their honorable part, and doing it well for the betterment of the race.

Young men with a grip on the essentials of the Methodist tradition so as not to be lost in the incidentals are much needed in the years ahead of us as we come to deal with the nation-wide reunion of American Methodism. The broad view and a grip on the essentials will prove most valuable.—North Carolina Christian Advocate.

THANK-OFFERING
Have You Given One?

It is thank-offering time in North Carolina from now until March 31, 1939. We hope every pastor will give his church people an opportunity to make a thank-offering, and send the resulting offering, which is a World Service credit, to Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, Denton, N. C.

The Convention Thank-Offering has the following to say about it:

"If there ever was a time when we should be thankful we are living in a Christian land, it is now. There isn't one of us who would trade our native land for another,—a land where we are free to worship and live as we please. We feel that God has been good to us to let us be born here.

"There are many ways we can express our thankfulness, and one way is with money. If every member of our missionary society would give something we could easily reach our goal. Think of the happiness we would bring to those less fortunate than we.

"George Macdonald has said, 'If I can put one touch of rosy sunset into the life of any man or woman, I shall feel that I have worked with God.'

"When we give our money to missions we do put a touch of rosy sunset into the lives of others. We help them to know of the Jesus way of living.

"In presenting our Thank-offering program we have a chance to reach folks who are just as thankful for many blessings as we are if they think about it. It is our job to make them think. Let us make these programs as interesting as possible, and present them at a time when the most people will hear them.

"We know it pays to advertise, so let us advertise our Thank-offering program.

"If you have not yet planned your program there is material to be had for the asking, samples of which were in the August-September number of the Missionary Record.

"Mrs. Ray Parsons."

THE UNION AND MYSELF

When I was a boy I was under church influences where the good pastors of that day, as well as the people, thought the Methodist Protestant Church was as good as the best. I was brought up to believe that way and I believe it yet. When, against great odds, I was seeking an education, I investigated what other schools had to offer me, but I found none that were so good to me as those of my own church. I went to college a Methodist Protestant, warp and woof. With other schoolmates who did not see as I did I frequently argued.

During my college days the question of union between the Congregational Church, the United Brethren Church, and the Methodist Protestant Church was discussed, with no little emphasis, especially with some. Dr. Lewis, of sainted memory, became very zealous over this question, and on returning home from a great meeting of representatives of these three churches, delivered an enthusiastic lecture to the Seminary body. I did not lose my love for my church, but I began to see the folly of churches which were so nearly alike being separate, and I thought then and I do yet believe that for the Kingdom of God and for the people of these like-minded churches it would be of great advantage for such bodies to get together.

For a time the three churches above mentioned kept up negotiations, but then the Congregational Church dropped out. For a time the United Brethren Church and our church kept working on a plan of union. By this time I had begun to feel that there was a weakness in the administrative plan of our church. I felt that our church government did not furnish enough authoritative head. Here I have never changed my mind. I secured information regarding the United Brethren Church. Among the books of that church I have yet are the Minutes of their General Conference and their Discipline. I studied these helps until I was quite well acquainted with the workings of that church. I found quite a great many things in this church that I felt we much needed in our church. Here again I have never changed my mind. But when it seemed that it was most certain that the United Brethren Church and the Methodist Protestant Church might become one, there arose questions that seemed to be insurmountable. Among them was the fact that they were not Methodist and did not care to become a part of the Methodist family. While we had always been a part of the Methodist family and could not see our way clear to leave it. Dr. Lewis and other great leaders of our church who now were not favorable to the union between these two churches constantly kept before our minds certain facts, and I was convinced that I was a Methodist and I always wanted to remain one.

About this time the Methodist Episcopal Church (North) brought overtures to our church in such a manner that Methodist union was very much encouraged. Then at a General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, I heard Dr. Lewis deliver one of his masterpieces on the subject of Methodist union. As a master he swayed that great conference. That was a great day and I shall never forget it. By this time my soul was so stirred and my convictions were so fixed that I began anxiously and prayerfully to look for Methodist union. I did not know that I would ever live to see it. Indeed, I doubted that I would. I have not stood for every suggestion of union that has come our way through the years. Through it all I have tried to stand by my church. But whenever a suggestion has come our way that looked fair to our church and in my mind looked to be an advantage to the Kingdom, I was ready to clap my hands while my soul was stirred to rejoicing.

Well, when the Methodist families began really to agree, seeing each other through eyes of love, and the air of the Methodist world began to be saturated with the spirit of union, I was happy as my soul rejoiced. I began to feel that my prayers were about to be answered. I felt that after all I might live to see what I for so long had hoped, even though it seemed almost like hoping against hope. I did not have to get on the band wagon: I was already there. I was so glad for a chance to cast my ballot on this subject. I have voted on some subjects with some doubts in my mind, but not on this subject. I was glad to say, "Yes." I felt that was right. I was ready.

Now the union is almost here. It is just around the corner. I do hope the good Lord will let me live until it fully arrives. I want to be a member of the Methodist Church. I want to see affixes removed from the Methodist Church name. I recently attended sessions of the Blue Ridge Atlantic Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. My heart has been thrilled when I have thought how fine it will be when we all get to be one, not only in name, but one family in Christ. I heard Bishop Purcell say that "the coming of Methodist union to the Western North Carolina Conference will mean an increase of 25,000 who now belong to the other two uniting Methodisms. But they might just as well say that they will have an increase of 150,000 members." We are not to join them any more than they are to join us. We are simply going together.

The union, to me, and I am sure to others, will mean some things that will bring sorrow and even cause hearts to ache and bleed. We as a people and as conferences will be separated. We will go into other conferences where we will never again mingle, and perhaps will never see each other again. We will go into larger conferences where, in a great measure, we will become lost. We will not receive certain recognition which we have heretofore received. These things may not be so pleasant. During the thirty years I have been a member of a Methodist Protestant conference, I have, at pleasure, made attempts at making speeches or statements on the conference floor. When in the union I never expect to attempt another. I have almost every year been on some kind of a committee; at some time I have headed up these committees. I never expect to be on another after the union. I have always made motions, and spoken to motions, but no more after the union. When delegates have been elected to our General Conferences I have always received a fair vote, and to my great surprise I was once elected—believe it or not. After the union I never expect another ballot counted in my favor for delegate or for any other such favor. All these favors and honors through the years I have greatly appreciated, but what I mean to say is that in the union I feel that such things for some of us will be over. But I am glad to forfeit all these things for what I feel will be the advantages gained. What will be gained will be worth the sacrifice. I do not want to leave the impression that I am going into the union in the least depressed. By no means. I am expecting to feel at home. I am expecting to be happy. I shall feel free to take the front seat in the conference room. But I feel that I shall find myself in an altogether different situation that will mean as I have above described. But I am hoping to be there to answer to my name when the roll is called, and I shall be looking to hear my name when the pastoral assignments are read by the Bishop. Amen.

"Look here, Pat," said his boss, "why don't you get that hole mended?"

"Begorrah!" replied Pat. "Not Oi. A hole may be the result of an accident, but sure a patch is a sartin sign of poverty."

Thanksgiving

At conference, which has just closed, we urged upon those present, as best we knew how, to do their best for the Children's Home at Thanksgiving. All of you who read this, please help your pastors and Sunday school superintendents to round up a good offering for us.

We Thank You

We thank you for your wonderful cooperation during the ten years of our stay here. We have had your interest, your prayers, your financial aid, and your sympathetic cooperation. We thank you and praise God for you, and may the Lord abundantly bless you, and give each of you a good year in service for Him.

We crave your prayers, your sympathetic cooperation, and your financial aid to make it another good year at the Children's Home.

Deficit

We regretted to have to report a deficit to conference, but we did the best we could and still had a deficit on current expenses of $3,800. Our income for the conference year was about $6,000 less than for the year before. You will help to make it up, and we thank you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, Nov. 8—Our conference year has ended and we are proud of our attainments. All claims were paid in full. Monthly contributions have been sent to the Children's Home, and we are going to cooperate fully with Dr. Dixon's plans for a real Thanksgiving offering.

All officers have been elected and will be ready to begin the new conference year. The church officers have been reported, but the Sunday school officers have not been reported. They are as follows: Assistant Sunday school superintendent, Ray Leatherman who succeeds Protus Koonts; secretary, Kyle Sink; treasurer, Dorothy Koonts; primary superintendent, Mrs. Floyd Leatherman who succeeds Miss Emma Berrier, with Mrs. Paul Swicegood as assistant.

This being my last report I gladly say that I'm sure you will enjoy the reports which will be given by our new reporter, Mrs. Kyle Sink. She'll be giving you news of our wide awake Sunday school; with our 300 enrollment; C. E. with 65 members; Woman's Auxiliary with 3 circles totaling 40 or 45 members; monthly prayer services with attendance of 75 to 125, a weekly prayer services with attendance of 25 to 40.

When this goes to press the annual conference will be in session and we are hoping for a very good conference, through the guidance of the Spirit. We are still saying: Send C. E. Ridge back to Shiloh charge please.

With best wishes to the conference and for every church for continued success in Kingdom's building and asking your prayers for our work.

MABEL BERRIER, Reporter.

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Charge, Rev. J. M. Morgan, Pastor, Nov. 7.—Many weeks have passed without a report from Matthews Chapel, but we are still moving on. New officers have recently been elected and we trust that they will do their best to make this year a very successful one .

Our pastor, Mr. Morgan, filled his regular appointment with us Sunday afternoon. He brought to us a splendid message on "Love." Since this was Mr. Morgan's last appointment with us before he leaves for conference, there were many things to be dis cussed. We were glad to see a large number present for this service. We are always glad to welcome visitors to worship with us.

The different organizations of our church are getting along nicely. We have had a large attendance in our Sunday school all this year. The different classes have made generous contributions toward the building of our church.

The Ladies Auxiliary has completed a very successful year. They have also contributed to the building fund. They will hold their regular meeting Saturday, November 12, at 2:30, at the church with Mrs. A. L. Taylor as leader.

The Christian Endeavor which was organized this year is steadily increasing in membership. The meetings are held regularly twice a month and each month plans are made to provide for recreation and financial sides of the organization. The young people have showed much interest and have also been benefited.

Lobelia Shell had a social in her home Saturday night for the benefit of the Christion Endeavor.

All the organizations of the church have made a wonderful contribution toward the building of the church. Organizations in the community have also contributed to the church. The Ladies Home Demonstration Club has bought shrubbery and had it planted on the church ground.

Our delegate to conference is Mr. A. L. Taylor. We are wishing for him success in bringing back our pastor for the next year.

This being the last of the conference year we feel that we have had a very sucessful year and we want you to pray for us that we may do much more in the coming year.

CAROLYN TAYLOR, Reporter.

College St. Church, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trolinger.—The third Sunday at 11 o'clock our pastor filled his regular appointment. We at this time gave our church a new name. The name as you can see is College Street church. And we are very proud and delighted to have a new name for our church.

We are also proud to say we have finished painting the church and have paid our salary in full. We were one of the first on the charge to have done this.

At the last quarterly conference, I'm glad to say we had a large crowd present. And good reports were made. We hope so much that our pastor will return to us for another year. He has done so much good, that we feel we owe him the praise, for making this one of our most successful years.

Due to a mistake in the names of those who were added last to our list of members, it was Mr. J. C. Harris, and Tasker Williams instead of G. C. Harris and Laker Williams.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening after the first Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. W. Warren. Mrs. Bobby Newsom has charge of the program. We are all working and hoping for a good record on the year's work.

ANNIE PERKINSON, Reporter.

Haw River Circuit.—I'm sorter like Echo —I want the last word. It's due the folks that I add just a little to my last week's report.

My last appointment for the year was at Mizpah. It was raining and I was a bit dubious about getting out with the finances —they were pretty far behind, so far that it didn't look like they could make it under the most favorable conditions. But when I got to the church door one of the brethren met me and said, "Preacher, we want to see you a minute before you preach. We've got the balance on your salary; we want to know what we owe on the apportionments." They cleared that after the morning offering.

Yesterday—Monday—the balance of my salary came in from Fair Grove. They had already taken care of the benevolent claims.

So the charge goes to conference again with a clean sheet. My reports are already made out; I shall not have to change a figure on them. And, to my best recollection, in all the years I have been in the ministry I have never done that before. Always something to add or subtract after I get to conference. So I say, thank you, folks; you've done a good job. You did it last year; I knew you'd do it again.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Mt. Zion, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge.—Another conference year has come to a close. We feel that it has been a good one for our church. Our pastor has delivered inspiring messages at each appointment.

The fourth and last quarterly conference for the year was held at our church Sunday afternoon (Nov. 6th) with a good number present. Each church on the charge gave good reports of the year's work. Everyone present voted for the return of our present pastor.

Officers for the coming year were elected on fifth Sunday night.

With all officers working together in harmony and the cooperation of everyone else attending we should be able to go a greater work in the Kingdom service this coming year.

REPORTER.

First Church, Henderson, N. C., Rev. T. J. Whitehead, Pastor, Nov. 14.—It was most fitting that the fifth Sunday rally of the second district of the Methodist Protestant churches of Vance County should be observed on International Temperance Sunday, Oct. 30 at Harris Chapel, Dabney.

Rev. J. D. Cranford, pastor of Vance Chapel led the devotional. Mr. C. B. Baskett chairman of fifth Sunday rallies presided over the morning and afternoon sessions.

Miss Lillie Mae Braxton, home demonstration agent for Franklin County was the guest speaker for the morning session and made a splendid talk on "The Church and the Dependent Child." She spoke very interestingly of the Children's Home at High Point.

Mr. E. C. Kittrell of Henderson also spoke in behalf of the home.

At the close of the morning session Mr. S. R. Harris urged all present to work for the cause of Christian temperance.

At the noon hour a bountiful luncheon was served picnic style.

During the afternoon session Rev. T. J. Whitehead, pastor of the First church, Henderson, spoke on the subject: "The Kingdom and Temperance." Miss Braxton's and Rev Mr. Whitehead's addresses were very much enjoyed.

Several vocal selections were given at both sessions by a male quarette of Harris Chapel and the Tharrington trio of Kittrell.

The Auxiliary was entertained by Mrs. S. R. Matson. The reports and attendance were very gratifying.

The last services for the conference year were held Nov. 6. Rev. Mr. Whitehead's sermon subject was "Reflections on Ten Years in the Pastorate."

As this service marked the tenth anniversary of Mr. Whitehead's ministry, a gift, as a token of love, esteem and appreciation from friends was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead by Mr. George Badger Harris who has recently celebrated his 87 birthday.

We congratulate Mr. Harris and wish for him many happy years. At 7:30 p. m. a very impressive candle light communion service was held.

The young people of the M. P. and M. E. churches enjoy the Fellowship suppers each Sunday evening at 6 o'clock and the helpful meetings following the suppers.

The Philathea class met with Mrs. W. H. Grisson Tuesday evening. They are planning to make happy at Christmas those who are less fortunate than themselves.

A Thanksgiving service will be held at the First Church Thanksgiving morning at which time a special offering will be taken for the Children's Home at High Point.

The members and congregation of the Henderson church are looking forward with much pleasure to the return of Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Whitehead from the annual conference. We are so glad to have them with us another year.

"The conference year is closed—the record made.
The last deed done, the last word said,
The memory alone remains.
Of all its joys, its griefs, its gains;
And now with purpose full and clear
We turn to meet another year."

Respectfully submitted.

(MRS. C. B.) ANNIE C. LASHLEY.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge, T. M. Johnson, Pastor, Nov. 14.—We were indeed glad and thankful to have such a large crowd out Sunday morning for worship with us. We enjoyed having the visitors and some of our old members back with us. Among them were: Mr. and Mrs. John Greene, Mr. and Mrs. William Greene, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Harvie McClimon and daughter of Lyman, Mr. Harvie Rogers of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vaughn and children, Mr. and Mrs. William Pearson, Mr. Paul Hamby and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt McClimon and daughters of Greer, and Mr. Herman and son of Mt. Lebanon and a number of others that I can't recall at this time.

We had 156 present in Sunday school Sunday morning. We are still having a grand Sunday school but there is still room for improvement. There are many in our community that do not attend church. We hope we can do something that will get them interested and cause them to attend, because we need them and their help. May we members use these few lines as our "motto" and stand by it:

"Lord lay some soul upon my heart
And love that soul through me,
And may I humbly do my part
To win that soul for thee."

There are two young couples of our community who married recently. Mr. Roy Westmoreland, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mont Westmoreland, a member of the young men's class of Liberty Hill to Miss Elise Gosnell. Mrs. Westmoreland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gosnell, of Greer, S. C. Mr. and Mrs. Westmoreland both hold positions with the Victor Mill of Greer and are making their home in this community.

Mr. John Nodine of this community and Miss Inez Jones were united in marriage recently, both are members of our Sunday school. Mrs. Nodine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fate Jones. Mr. Nodine hold a position with the Lyman Mill and they are making their home in Greer, S. C.

The Young Ladies class ended a contest a few weeks ago and the two losing sides gave the winning side a weiner and marshmallow roast at the home of Mrs. John D. McClimon. Discussion and plans were made for the coming year. We were indeed proud to have 21 present at this meeting and each one reported a nice time. The class decided to have a monthly meeting and the next meeting will be held at the home of Misses Hortense and Thalia Foster.

We are indeed glad to report the "Oyer party" of Greenville were with us Sunday morning. They rendered special music and singing and at the regular preaching hour, Mr. Oyer brought a very inspiring message. An offering was taken for them and received $18.38. May God bless this group of people at their work and we welcome them back to worship with us at our church any time.

Our pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson could not fill his regular appointment here Sunday as he was away at conference in North Carolina. He was greatly missed from this church as he always is a shining light. We believe much good has been accomplished the two years he has been with us. Many folks spoke highly of him and his work and voiced opinions that they would enjoy having him to return to our charge for the next year. And to our great joy, the delegate from our charge, Mr. Mark Compton, returned to tell us that Mr. Johnson would come back. May God's richest blessing be with him and his work upon his return to this charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gaston had as their guest Sunday, Mr. Oyer of Greenville, S. C.

Many friends of Mrs. Clara Bryant will regret to learn that she is real sick at this writing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brannon.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster of Fairview church at Easley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Foster Sunday. They are the parents of Mr. A. A. Foster.

MRS. JOHN D. McCLIMON, Reporter.

Weaver's Chapel Church, Littleton Charge, J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—Our pastor filled his regular appointment November 13. This was the last sermon of this conference year. We have enjoyed each service rendered by Mr. Trolinger and hope he and his faithful helper, Mrs. Trolinger, will be back to work with us next year.

Officers were elected for the new year as follows: Superintendent of Sunday school, Matthew Wilson; board of trustees and stewards are the same as last year; class leader, Edward Wilson; treasurer, Matthew Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Alice Mae Whitby; organist, May Shearin; church reporter, Bettie Mae King. Teachers were elected also.

Sunday school is running along nicely, yet we would be glad to see more people interested in this work.

During last month services were held at the church every Friday night, which was favorable. These services were enjoyed by all who attended.

Some of our members are working on a Christmas program. We are also planning to have a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Edward Wilson, who has been ill nearly all the summer and fall, has been improving for the last week. We hope she will soon be able to attend Sunday school and church. She was one of our most loyal workers and she has been greatly missed during her illness.

We are looking forward to a very successful year.

BETTIE MAE KING, Reporter.

Mt. Moriah Church, Cleveland Charge, T. G. Madison, Pastor.—Our church is now bringing to a close one of the most successful years in the history of the church. On the fourth Sunday afternoon in October our new church was dedicated. The president of the conference preached an excellent sermon at that time.

It gives us great satisfaction to know that the debt on this new and enlarged building has been paid and the dedication is now a reality.

We want to express our sincere thanks to everyone that has helped to make this possible.

Our pastor has worked hard this year, helping in every way he could. I think I speak for the whole church when I say we are hoping for his return, and if the conference sees fit to send him back to us we shall welcome him whole-heartedly.

Our Sunday school is still improving. Teachers were elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Mr. O. B. Wall, Mr. Glen T. Hickman, Mr. Hoey Hasting, Mrs. Hoey Hasting, Miss Dessie Waters, and Mrs. Ada Deviney.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Smith

Laura Jane Lowdermilk Smith, the only daughter of Reuben and Nancy Jane Richardson Lowdermilk, was born in Randolph County, N. C., February 26, 1871. The death of her mother, when she was only six weeks old, left her to the care of relatives. She knew very little of child-life, as such. By the time she was in her early teens she was the responsible home-maker in her father's household. Her early training in this practical school of domestic science was well reflected in her own home during the long years ahead. She provided well for her family in all those particulars that belong essentially to a wife and mother.

The married life of our departed sister dates back to 1890, September 20, when she became the wife of Charles F. Smith. This bond, uniting these happy and hopeful young lives, kept them in love and devotion to each other for forty-eight years. With the exception of a short time spent in Archdale and High Point, the married years of Sister Smith were lived in Asheboro. The family circle grew to six, as three sons and one daughter were born into the home. Eighteen years ago death first crossed the threshold of this happy family and claimed the oldest son, John Franklin, then a young man of twenty-seven. The other children, who, with their father, survive, are E. G. of High Point, Reitzel, of the home, and Mrs. J. T. Ryan of High Point. Sister Smith was the last surviving member of her father's family. Five brothers, E. G., W. R., J. O., S. F., and R. H. Lowdermilk, and a half-sister, Mrs Sherman Allred, preceded her in death. Two of these brothers, Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, and Rev. W. R. Lowdermilk, were beloved members of the N. C. conference of the Methodist Protestant church.

Sister Smith grew up under religious influences and early professed faith in Christ as her personal Saviour and she united with Brower's Chapel church. In 1899 she transferred her membership, with her husband, to the Asheboro Methodist Protestant church, where it remained until her death.

For a number of years immediately preceding her going, Sister Smith was in declining health and suffered much. She was under the constant care of physicians and fought long and patiently for the recovery of her health. But when her frail body could endure no longer, she closed her eyes in eternal rest. The end came in the early Sunday evening of October 2, 1938.

A good woman has gone from us. Her husband and her children rise up to call her blessed. So do her neighbors and her wide circle of friends, many of whom came to show sympathy and love. So do her pastors. She was loyal to them and to her church. Her Bible was an open book, and her devotion to her Lord was her highest concern. She was a woman of active mind, resolute will and abounding energy and activity. In both life and death, she magnified Jesus.

The funeral service was held in the Central Methodist Protestant church, in the presence of many sympathizing friends. The pastor was assisted by Rev. J. B. Trogdon and Rev. N. M. Harrison. The body was laid to rest in the Asheboro cemetery beneath a covering of beautiful flowers.

May the God of all comfort abundantly sustain those who feel most keenly this earthly separation.

Judge Lewis E. Teague

Resolutions of Respect from the A. M. Idol Philathea Class of the First M. P. Church, High Point, N. C.

Inasmuch as on the 27th day of October, 1938, our Divine Father saw fit to summon Judge Lewis E. Teague to his eternal home, therefore be it resolved:

That the members of the A. M. Idol Philathea class desire to express their deep sorrow for the loss of a wise teacher, a worthy counsellor, a noble leader, and a sincere friend. His place in his home, his church, his community, and in the hearts of his friends cannot be filled; but the memory of his beautiful Christian character will serve as an inspiration to all who were privileged to have known him.

He stood for the highest ideals; was fair and just in all his dealings with his fellowmen; was a faithful and inspiring teacher and was a true and unselfish friend.

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his wife with the assurance of our deep sympathy and abiding love for her and her daughters, and our desire to be of any possible service to them; that a copy be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald and the High Point Enterprise, and that a copy be placed in the record book of the class.

Tise

Sarah Boggs Tise was born in Davidson county June 12, 1866, the daughter of Adam and Sallie Albright Boggs, and died October 12, 1938, thus being 72 years and 4 months of age.

Mrs. Tise was twice married. She was married first to J. Jasper Tise. To this union was born four sons, three having preceded her to the grave. Later she married W. W. Tise, who died January 17, 1937. To this union was born three daughters, one having died several years ago.

Mrs. Tise joined the Spring Hill Methodist church in her early womanhood and was an active member until sickness in her home prevented her attending church anywhere. Even after she could not attend church she took a great interest in the work and often expressed a desire to go. Mrs. Tise was a loving wife and devoted mother. Her home was her first thought. She let her light so shine that to know her was to love her. She was ever ready to lend a helping hand to those who needed help. Her fondness for children won her many friends among the little ones. The fact that Mrs. Tise spent her life for her Master may be seen from her words to a local minister a few hours before her death, "I have ever leaned on my Savior. I am prepared to meet Him. I have nothing to fear." Yes, we grieve for this loved one because we loved her but our loss is Heaven's gain. Another angel is beckoning us to come. The bereaved ones have our sympathy and our prayers. May God give them strength to go forward. They have done all loving hands could do. When asked by her doctor several months ago if she wanted to go to the hospital Mrs. Tise smiled and quickly replied, "No, I am getting the best of attention. There are not any nurses in the hospital as good as mine."

Mrs. Tise is survived by one son, W. F. Tise; two daughters, Misses Lula and Rina Tise; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Abbie Boggs; and one brother, Mr. Peter Boggs.

Funeral service for Mrs. Tise was held from Spring Hill church on the day following her departure. The service was in charge of the writer, assisted by Dr. A. G. Dixon, Rev. O. L. Easter and Rev. Mr. Routh.

A Tribute of Love

Approaching sunset in the quiet of the afternoon, October 8, 1938, Mrs. Nettie E. Burroughs, lovingly known by her friends as "Miss Nettie," went home to live with God.

Mrs. Burroughs lived to be eighty-one years old. In early life she joined the Harris Chapel church in Dabney and remained a faithful member until her death.

She was of a calm, and quiet nature, a gentle woman, loved by all who knew her. She lived a beautiful life of service, high ideals, high spiritual influence, and faithfulness. Her church was among her chief joys. She believed in all movements for good, but her church was supreme. She was faithful in attendance, in contribution of her means and talents, faithful in service and faithful in her desire to be Christlike.

Her devotion in her home was outstanding. She made it a habit of her life to put her daily devotional exercises first even before reading the daily paper.

Among her treasured possessions were pictures of former pastors and letters from their wives, which was evidence of her desire to have friends among the best.

For many years she had subscribed to the Methodist Protestant Herald, having it sent to Canada the five years that she lived there. Her subscription expired the day before she died, a thing that would not have happened, if she had been well.

No words can properly evaluate her life, but I feel that her life is a beautiful example of Christian character in all of its completeness and is worthy to be emulated by us who follow.

The funeral was conducted Sunday, October 9, in Harris Chapel Methodist Protestant Church and interment in the cemetery there. Rev. J. D. Cranford, her pastor was in charge of the service. He spoke with emotion of his love for her and confidence in her, reading some of her favorite scripture. He commented on the fact, that homes of today were failing to rear up "such as she." A. H. Hoyle, a friend and neighbor, testified to the beauty of her Christian life and urged those who follow to reaffirm their faith in Him and resolve to be as faithful and as ready as she.

Her husband, G. R. Burroughs preceded her in death a number of years ago. From this union were born the following children.

Mrs. W. M. Clark, Delhi, Ontario; S. A. Burroughs, Vanessa, Ontario; G. M. Burroughs, Henderson, N. C.; Mrs. P. J. McMillan, Teeterville, Ontario, (deceased).

A friend,
ANNIE LEIGH PUCKETT.

Judge Lewis E. Teague

The death of Judge Teague is an irreparable loss to the Methodist Protestant Church, and especially to our educational interests. For over six years he had been a member of the Board of Christian Education, and was one of its most useful members. Although he was disinclined to take an active part in the questions and problems coming before the Board, his counsel was always eagerly sought and his judgments given the utmost consideration. Always quiet, unassuming, and modest, his very presence added dignity and power to the Board.

Judge Teague was honored in his selection by the Joint Commission on Union for a place on the Committee on Education. He attended the first meeting of the committee held at Asheville early in August and was planning to be present at the next session to be held in Chicago in December.

Although but 39 years of age at the time of his death, October 27, he had been judge of the High Point municipal court for many years, and on November 8 would have been elected to Congress from his district. He was an active and influential member of the First Methodist Protestant church of High Point, where his passing will be keenly felt. He was one of High Point College's most devoted friends, and was very proud of the great progress it was making. He had a just pride in his city and the great crowd attending the funeral, and coming from all walks of life gave eloquent testimony to the high esteem in which he was held.

Millard F. Johnson

Millard F. Johnson, son of the late Henry and Annie Johnson, was born in Chatham county, July 17, 1883, and departed this life at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, October 22, 1938; his age was 55 years, 3 months, and 5 days.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Lizzie Perry; three daughters, Mrs. D. L. Cooper, of Greensboro; Mrs. Grayson Thomas, of Burlington; Miss Suvarta Johnson, at home; four sons: Otto Johnson, of Greensboro; Tyree Johnson, at home; Russell Johnson, of Greensboro; Wilbert Johnson, at home; three sisters: Mrs. Ida Harris, of Raleigh; Mrs. H. C. Perry, Siler City Rural Route; Mrs. Pat Johnson, of Durham; three brothers: James Johnson, Rufus Johnson, and Charlie Johnson, all of this community; and two grandchildren.

For many years he was a member of Sapling Ridge church, Alamance charge, from which church the funeral was held on October 24. The service was conducted by the pastor. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

May the Lord comfort the bereaved.

H. L. ISLEY.

T. A. Williams, Jr.

T. A. Williams, Jr., was born in Albemarle N. C., on December 22, 1922. When he was ten years old he accepted Christ and united with the Chestnut Ridge church on the Orange charge. His membership remained there until March 28, 1937, when he transferred it to the First church, Burlington. He was very faithful to this church.

He never knew the blessings of normal health, but he did not complain nor grumble about his condition. He was jolly and patient in it all and did not want others to think that he was sick. He passed into eternal rest on October 26, 1938. His passing was rather sudden, but quiet and beautiful, and that was symbolic of his life.

T. A. was a most lovable character. He possessed a sweet spirit, genteel in manner, and Christian in character. He was deeply appreciative. His last words were words of appreciatoin. They were spoken to his mother. He told her how good she had been to him and thanked her for her love and care.

May God sustain and comfort the bereaved, especially the mother.

MARRIED

Dixon-McPherson

The Methodist Protestant Children's Home on Wednesday morning was the scene of a wedding of simple beauty and dignity when Miss Doris Dixon, was married to Fred W. McPherson, of Lexington, and formerly of High Point, at 10 o'clock.

The bride is a niece of Dr. A. G. Dixon, superintendent of the Home and Mrs. Dixon, and Dr. Dixon was the officiating minister for the vows which took place in the living room of the Boys' Dormitory where the bride has served as matron for the pst nine years. Only a few close friends were in attendance.

Mrs. McPherson was becomingly attired in a street dress of plum-colored velvet, made on simple lines, and her accessories were of a matching shade. Over this she wore a gray wool coat of sport design.

She is the daughter of J. W. Dixon, of Summerfield, and the late Mrs. Hettie Carroll Dixon, while the groom is the son of Mrs. Priscilla McPherson, of Burlington, and the late T. B. McPherson. He formerly was connected with the Sunshine lauundry in this city and is now owner of the Sunlight laundry in Lexington where the couple will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. McPherson left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to Asheville and points in the northwest and will return during the week-end. — From High Point Enterprise.

This little boost for conference week will not be according to the size of the amount of money that was reported in last week's HERALD, for there are a number of good things that need to be said for those who have come up so well in the matter of subscriptions and subsidy, and there may not be any need for this kind of work for the coming year. That remains for the Editor to say.

High Point, First Church, sent in the largest amount for the week. There may be some to report later that will outdo this charge, but it will take a good amount to get ahead of that. At any rate, they are ahead for this week's report anyway. We thank you, Brother Spencer, and only regret that you did not get your list in full before conference. But this is in the new conference year now and gives us something to start on for the first issue, although this should have been reported last week. There were quite a good many that sent in over a dozen dollars, and we thank them all. Only 21 charges got over on subscriptions. Let us hope for better rating in our wind-up as a separate conference and in our Appreciation Year's work.

Subsidy was paid by several charges, not all reaching their quotas, but the rule is to report all who make payments on this at any time. The following made payments either in full or in part: Mitchell's Grove, Guilford; Efland church, Orange; Canaan church, North Davidson; Halifax charge; Saxapahaw charge; by J. C. Auman, N. C. Council Religious Education; Spring Valley, Vance charge; Charlotte church; Chestnut Ridge, Orange charge. Thank you every one. This helps to get us started for the new year.

This corner may not be continued. I want to express my appreciation for all the kind words of encouragement that have come in at different times.

Rev HL Isley 2feb9 R1

The New Year

This week we begin the Herald's new year. It is one week behind the Conference year because of the difficulty of getting our financial set-up to coincide with the closing of the Annual Conference year. The editor has been continued by an act of conference for another year. And we hope to have life, health, strength, wisdom and guidance with the cooperation of our people in order that the Herald shall not only continue to make its weekly visits into your homes, but that it shall be a better paper as the weeks come and go. For a paper is like a book, it is a worthless thing to those who do not read it. And unless it is worth reading those who read it receive no benefit from it.

You, of course, know that since we have been your editor we have had other duties to divide our time between. The first year as president of the Annual Conference, the second year as director of the Fellowship Crusade and now as pastor of West End Church, Greensboro. We enjoyed our work in the past two years and we expect to enjoy doing the tasks of two persons this year; but you can recognize the difficulty of editing a paper like the Herald and being the pastor of a wide-awake Church like West End. We want your prayers and cooperation as we undertake this work.

However, we have been ably assisted by several fine cooperators: Dr. P. E. Lindley whose weekly messages are greatly appreciated by the Editor and our readers. The wide range of subjects covered in these articles, and illuminating manner it is done has attracted wide attention.

The Rev. J. C. Madison, pastor of First Church, High Point, who has presented each week most instructive and interesting comments on the Sunday school lesson, has greatly aided those of our readers who were seeking help on the Sunday school lessons. We regret that he will not be able to continue to do this. Rev. O. L. Easter will succeed him. Brother Easter has substituted for Brother Madison a few times, so he does not come to you as an entire stranger. We believe you will appreciate his weekly articles. Rev. Joseph F. Coble will continue to offer weekly comments on the Christian Endeavor topics. He has done this now for several months and we are sure our readers who attend Christian Endeavor meetings find these comments very helpful. Dr. N. G. Bethea, who has been our Official Booster has been widely read and has helped to keep subscriptions moving to us. We are indeed sorry that he now finds it necessary to give up his boosting on the back page, but know that he will continue to boost the Herald where he is. We have yet to pick his successor.

A New Department

This week we present Miss E. Vera Idol, professor of English Literature, High Point College, who will give us weekly comments on poets and poetry. She is splendidly equipped for this service, having specialized in the field of English Literature and taught it at High Point College for fourteen years; we know our readers who love poetry have a great treat in store for them. Look for her column, WITH THE POETS.

And Now

If pastors and Herald Agents will give the Herald a few hours of their time from week to week, we shall greatly increase the circulation of our Conference Organ. Who will be first to reach the quota for the new year? As it appears to the Editor, it would be a better plan to reach the quota of subscriptions at the beginning of the year rather than at its close. We crave your cooperation in this also.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Correcting Some Errors

It seems that by the time the report of the stationing committee got through the hands of the committee, the Press Agent, the Associated Press and the daily papers several errors had crept in. One which the stationing committee made was that the name of Rev. L. S. Helms was not mentioned. This should have read, "In hands of the President, L. S. Helms." I understand that Friendship-Love's Grove charge, Rev. E. A. Cook, pastor was left out of some of the daily papers and it was left out of the appointments in the HERALD of last week. Also, Anderson charge, Rev. T. M. Johnson pastor was left out of the appointments in the HERALD last week. I am sorry for all of these errors even though I am not responsible for many of them.

Some After Conference Appointments

Rev. Joseph Coble has been released from Spring Church charge and has been appointed to the Glen Raven charge. Rev. J. E. Garlington has been appointed pastor of the Spring Church charge. Rev. W. M. Loy has been appointed pastor of the Mt. Zion charge.

Rev. E. A. Bingham to Serve M. E. Churches

A telegram from Dr. W. J. Plint on Saturday brought me the reassuring news that Rev. E. A. Bingham who was appointed to Union Grove would also serve some M. E. churches in that section. I think this arrangement will be very satisfactory.

District Chairman Appointed

As authorized by the Annual Conference, I am appointing the District Chairman for all of the districts as follows: 1st, W. M. Howard, Jr.; 2nd, T. J. Whitehead; 3rd, D. I. Garner; 4th, H. F. Surratt; 5th, J. E. Carroll; 6th, C. W. Bates; 7th, J. W. Braxton; 8th, S. W. Taylor; 9th, J. C. Madison; 10th, J. C. Auman; 11th, C. E. Ridge; 12th, G. L. Curry; 13th, J. L. Trollinger; 14th, T. G. Madison; 15th, C. G. Isley; 16th, T. E. Strickland; 17th, T. M. Johnson; 18th, N. G. Bethea.

District Chairman and others who want to know what charges are in certain districts may find out by consulting the 1936 Conference Journal, page 87.

Charges Yet to Be Supplied

Two charges, Gibsonville and Shelby-Caroleen charges are yet to be supplied. I expect to supply the Gibsonville charge as soon as I can find an available man who is acceptable to the charge. The Shelby-Caroleen charge has left the matter entirely in many hands and I expect to supply them within the next week or ten days.

Getting Moved

One of the important things after conference is that of the pastors' getting moved to their new charges quickly. Sometimes it seems difficult for a man to move for some weeks. This usually works hardships on others and hinders the work all around. I am appealing to all our ministers to move just as quickly as possible, not only for the convenience of all concerned but for the sake of the work. It means a great deal to get an early start. It usually takes all of a year in which to do a year's work and if the first month is lost it will be hard to make up for this.

How Many Changes Did We Have?

Since the matter of whether we had many or few changes in pastorates at conference this year has been debated more or less let me give some facts. Last year we had ninety appointments. This year the number was reduced to 88, due to the fact that Whitakers and Yarborough were taken over by the M. E. Church South. Of the remaining 88, 21 charges have new pastors. This is approximately 24 per cent of our entire conference. While this might not be as many as we sometimes have, yet I am sure that the task has never been as difficult as it was this year. Those who had pastors which they wanted returned wanted them to that extent they were not willing to give them up and those who were looking for new pastors, in many cases, had difficulty in making themselves willing to take the ones we had to offer. So the committee wore itself out trying to make satisfactory arrangements. I am hoping and praying that when we get into the new church it may be easier to make appointments and that it may be done with less friction.

The Appreciation Year

The committee on Appreciation Year is meeting on Wednesday afternoon of this week in order to get an early start on its work. Of course I cannot say now just what the committee will do but I can presume that some one will be sent to just as many first quarterly conferences as possible and that district meetings and group meetings will be held. The slogan for the Appreciation Year is, "The World Service Budget In Full." Those wanting speakers for the first quarterly conference and for other meetings will please communicate with me. Remember this is supposed to be our last chance to better our record in raising World Service. Let us do our best.

Charges to Be Visited

There are a few charges which I did not get to visit last year. I am visiting them first this year and just as soon as I get to them then I will be in position to go to others. Those who want me at some particular time will please write me.

Appointments

Sunday, November 27th, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge, Pinnacle at 11 a. m. Pinnacle in quarterly conference at 2 p. m. and preaching at Mt. Zion at night.

Sunday, December 4th on the Mocksville charge, appointments to be made by pastor.

Sunday, December 11th, 11 a. m. Henderson in Anniversary Services.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

When Paul speaks of peace, good temper, kindliness, and generosity, he has reference to an inner harmony, an attitude of spirit, that does not mean standing for nothing, compromising, yielding one's convictions. Perhaps we have been too much afraid of conflict, too eager for harmony in the church itself.

Let Others Say—

Dost thou love life, then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Benjamin Franklin.

God is glorified, not by our groans, but our thanksgiving; and all good thought and good action claim a natural alliance with good cheer.—Bishop Whipple.

I have trusted many a man who failed me; but I have found enough true friends to make me forever believe in humanity and to keep on trusting.—Dr. J. M. Rowland.

Prosperity is no true scale; adversity is the only balance to weigh friends.—Plutarch.

It is better to be a pioneer of something that is in the future than to be a pensioner of the past.—Bishop W. W. Peele.

Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in mine age left me naked to mine enemies.—Cardinal Wolsey.

Both the names of Anderson Charge and of Friendship-Love's Grove Charge were left out of the plan of appointments last week. We did not detect the error. These were evidently left out of the copy supplied us; but we hasten to assure all concerned that both these pastoral charges are on the map and their pastors were return to them in good condition.

The best devotional services our annual conference has had since the writer has been attending the sessions were given us last conference by Dr. R. L. Shipley, Editor of the Methodist Protestant Recorder. We congratulate the program committee for giving us Dr. Shipley and thank him for that splendid series of addresses. The series was not only a unique way to preach the gospel, it was a most powerful way. We have heard nothing but praise for the series.

Modern Paganism

There appears to be no state of human development which is secure from the despoiling touch of paganism. Less than thirty years ago a feeling of satisfaction had settled our leaders in Church and state into the belief that war was doomed, that the Church was secure and that the great task before the preacher was to find the road to a state of Christian perfection. But alas, what a change! The road was never discovered, war broke out in such hellish fury that man had never known, and even the Church falls by the hands of those who once supported it.

Strange ideologies rise up now to displace the spirit of democracy by which our government was established. The doctrine of might makes right becomes dominant in countries once most considerate of human interests. It is indeed surprising that a country in which Protestanism was born, a people to whom Martin Luther gave the Bible in their own vernacular four hundred years ago; a country whose scholarship ranked so high; had teachers to whom our theological seminaries, and schools of religion in England sent their brightest students to study Biblical literature and exegesis, that they should have fallen so far below the ideals of their fathers. And what nazism and fascism, and communism is doing for Germany, for Italy and Russia, they can do to our people, and they will destroy us if permitted to take lodgment in our minds. The greatest peril threatening us is now destroying so much of Europe and Asia. Paganism of the rankest type; its fear, greed, brutality, and inanity are seeping through out gates and already proving how vulnerable we are to those forces which are working such havoc abroad. If ever a torn world needed the message of Christ through his Church in any age, it surely needs it now. We are greatly challenged who still believe in the potency of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Methodist Protestant Herald

Now that the annual conference has decided to keep the Herald going for another year, all doubt about its existence is settled for at least that long. It does not mean that the Herald may suspend next November; we do not know what may happen then, but now you can have it for this conference year. It will be published for you, if you order it. And we want you to have it for fifty weeks. Already several pastors have pledge to put on their canvass for subscriptions right away. We hope many pastors and Herald agents will do this, also send in your subsidy—there will not be any changes in subscription quotas and subsidies this time, unless you request it. REMEMBER the rule, if you want the paper when your time expires drop us a card telling us so and we will gladly send it to you. If we do not hear from you, we naturally assume you know our rule printed on the back page and that you want us to discontinue the paper. If post office address is changed let us know at once and we will see that you do not miss a copy of the paper.

To Reporters

We are very anxious for the church news. Please report as often as you have real news about the activities of your church; it is not necessary to make a lengthy report. We have discovered that lengthy articles and reports are more frequently passed over than briefer ones. So to make sure of yours being read, make it just as brief as you can to give all the items you desire to report.

And Pastors

The editor would appreciate more contributions from our pastors. We know that you have the impulse to write more frequently than most of you write. Write on some topic of public interest; about some method of doing church work, or give us an exegesis of a scriptural passage in a manner that would encourage our readers. This would help quite a good deal and would be greatly appreciated.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

THE FARMER AND HIS TOWN

Sociologists have much to say about the fate of the small village. Certain forces are working to undermine the little towns that were once well established throughout the country. Functions once performed by the village are now taken over by the larger city. The general store, for instance, that at one time carried a big line of merchandise from hardware to ready-to-wear garments, now can hardly survive and that primarily by selling groceries and soft drinks.

The village, blessed with certain peculiar advantages, suffers on the other hand from certain handicaps. It has no fire department, no health board, nor police system. Often cultural institutions and social benefits are lacking or running below par. Professional men flee the small town. Lawyers, engineers, dentists, and other specialists never or seldom settle in the village. To be sure the family physician still lives and serves in many of these community centers, but more and more he is drifting to the bigger city also as fine roads and telephones connect him with the remote sections.

Turning to the good side, we mention the very smallness of the community as an asset. Competition is less keen, fellowship is easy, and wicked men find it harder to conceal their evil deeds. The big city is the place of extremes, not the village. The metropolitan area is noted for property and riches, ignorance and learning, piety and crime. This contrast is not so likely to be seen in the small locality. Here everybody knows everybody else and no one finds a ready shield for his meanness. Some people are poor, but no one starves. There may be no millionaires, still few are without food and friends.

Besides, there are evidences that the small towns are actually gaining in some ways. New industries are seeking small centers, free from taxes, and near to easy and eager labor. Power, once derived solely from waterfalls, is now available in steam and electricity: There is no need to locate a plant on the river any more. Hosiery mills are turning to Randleman, Spruce Pine, Pilot Mountain, and similar centers, leaving the bigger cities behind. All of this is to the economic and cultural advantages of the places to which the factories go.

Again, the educational life of the small towns is facing a better day. State schools, especially in North Carolina, know no distinction of place. They serve all counties alike. Thus a boy or girl growing up in the village comes under the same type of teaching and organization that the city cousin enjoys.

But after all the farmer and his town must rise or fall together. As goes the agricultural life around the town so goes the town, for the merchants and shop-keepers in the village draw their income from the farmers. These farmers in turn, if prosperous, need the services of the middle men of the village. The security of the town rests, therefore, on the prosperity of the surrounding country. It is a reciprocal relationship; farmer must aid cityman, and townman must aid the rural population.

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, November 27, 1938

By Rev. O. L. Easter

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:15, Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46.

Let us notice at the beginning the arrangement of the lesson texts for our present study of the Ten Commandments. In the first verse there is the bare Mosaic Commandment of "thou shalt not" with no more added by the Old Testament. Then follows that same law stated by Christ in Christian terms which take up more space than just thou shalt not. This arrangement is truly a parable of the situation before us as we seek to get at a working basis of the Ten Commandments for Christian living. These Commandments are fundamental to Christian morals but without the fulfillment of Christ's spirit and wisdom they would have many vital areas of moral life untouched by the law. Jesus fulfilled the law with human examples of every shade and hue. His "but I say unto you" is the watchword of every true keeper of the holy laws of God. Without it we see how in many instances Jewish acts committed great crimes and gross violations within the boundaries of the law.

Hence as we look into this vital question of honesty in all things let us do so in the white light of Christ's interpretation of that Eighth Commandment, thou shalt no steal. Now if we could merely say in round numbers "thou shalt not steal" and let it go at that in the popular interpretation of stealing our lesson could right here be completed. But if we did we would have to welcome into the higher ranks of honesty many who not only Christ would consider dishonest but many who we could consider thieves and robbers. For surely the Jewish brothers of Zacchæus considered him so, but we know that he according to the law of the state could not be arrested as such. We need not point accusing fingers too hastily at this situation of long ago for we have only to look around us and perhaps within us to find its counterpart today. Many a racketeer is living on society street from the fruit of his very vicious kind of robbery, yet he can live there untouched by the hands of the law. Thus Jesus realizes that if God's will is to be spoken fully through his law he must cause his followers to probe deeper into its meaning than the Jewish group had thus far.

In the first place we see that the light of Christ in the life of Zacchæus uncovered areas of dishonesty that had remain covered under the former outlook of the law. Even the Roman law allowed him to collect more money than he was supposed to turn in to the government, but when Jesus stopped at his gate he confessed that he had much dishonesty to repay. Oh, if the Master were only allowed to stop at our gate today and cause us to confess our similar thievery—fraudulent advertising that make false claims through our newspapers, radios and billboards; industrialists who make profits at the expense of their employees, merchants who are guilty in large numbers of short weights and measures. "A false balance in an abomination to Jehovah."—Prov. 11:1. Thus we see that many covered areas of stealing on this level will come to light under the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

In the second place this Christian light revealed a higher form of dishonesty than merely that of incorrect balances. After Zacchæus had restored to those from whom he had stolen he did not stop there; he sought to square his account with God whom he had also robbed by giving half his goods to the poor. He had robbed God of the fruitfulness of his own life. God can use weak and stupid persons but he can not use a dishonest person, for honesty is at the very heart of Christian living. If we would have an honest world with honesty that reaches to the very center of things then we must have a Christian world, for Christ is truth and honesty is truth in action. In the parable of the Good Samaritan we find two types of robbers portrayed by Jesus. There were the first kind that robbed the poor man of his clothing and earthly possessions. They are robbers that steal primarily from man. Their name is legion and their burden on society is very heavy. But in the picture of the priest and the Levite Christ shows us a higher form of robbery—that which robs both man and God. In the name of Jehovah they walk by on the other side of this poor creature and ignore his needs thus robbing him of his God-given right to sympathy and brotherly aid; robbing God of his true will towards the life of his every child. It was this kind of robbery that caused the gentle Christ to drive the money-changers out of the temple saying, "It is written, and my house shall be a house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves." Honesty is not only the best policy among men; it is the only policy that can exist between man and God.

DEVELOPMENT

Don't bemoan your position in life. Just think of the millions who are worse off than yourself. Keep your head up and your hands busy—and all the powers on earth can't keep you down.

The firmer you keep your head, and the busier you keep your hands, the farther will you go toward the pinnacle of success. It is the fellow who stops to complain or to gossip about his neighbors that slips backward.

We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts. We have certain work to do for our bread and that is to be done strenuously; other work to do for our delight and that is to be done heartily. Neither is to be done by halves and shifts, but with a will; and what is not worth this effort is not to be done at all.

Once upon a time there was a man who wanted a strong, healthy body. He developed it by intelligent exercise and right living.

He wanted a keen, clear, informed mind. It developed as the result of the sound body and mental discipline of good books and right thinking.

He wanted a prosperous, profitable business. It developed as a natural growth of a sound body and a sound mind.

Success is development.

FRATERNAL MESSAGE OF DR. R. M. ANDREWS TO THE W. N. C. CONFERENCE AT CHARLOTTE OCTOBER 21, REPRESENTING THE N. C. CONFERENCE OF THE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH:

Following the usual words of courtesies, Dr. Andrews said: It appears that I am to be the last fraternal messenger my conference is to send to your conference, since the nuptial day has been appointed, both of us will be engaged in matter far too important to listen to the speeches of fraternal messengers.

I am also sure that no other messenger has come to you in days when times were more propitious for our beloved Methodism. This approaching merger will bring to the followers of John Wesley new and larger opportunities for growth. We hail it with joy.

It is quite natural that these days we members of the Methodist Protestant Church should be thinking much of the beginning of our church. For her name is soon to fade into a larger, though shorter name, Methodist Church. We have asked ourselves the question whether what we are doing will be well pleasing to the founders of the church. But as we understand the motive of ministers and laymen, they were not prompted by an unholy ambition at all, but by a love for the principle of democracy—they yearned for a democratic Methodist Church. Nor did they leave the Methodist Episcopal Church through choice, but through necessity.

Therefore you do not require that we do penance for their misdeeds as we enter into this larger church. You welcome us as brothers of a common cause, but brothers using a different method in church administration. For although the founders of the Methodist Protestant Church endured many trials and hardships in establishing the church, they never so far as we could ascertain, sought at any time to depart from the Methodist Episcopal Church. The articles of faith in the Book of Discipline were good enough for them.

The choice of the name Methodist Protestant was therefore significant. But it was stressed the fact that they were Methodists, while the Protestant part of the name declared their willingness to leave laymen out of the law making bodies of the church, equal in numbers to the ministers.

And since there is no divisive element in the gospel of Jesus Christ we have never been doctrinally apart; our separation came about through the way the affairs of the church were administered rather than the doctrines which we preached. Hence, it seems but proper that our church should have been first to seek union; and we greatly rejoice as we see its early consummation.

So, Bishop Purcell and brethren, as we are to have the privilege of joining you in setting up a church composed of those elements in the three denominations which usage has sanctified, and the good judgment of our leaders approved, the stones might cry out did we not speak our pleasure.

And we have come to pledge our whole-hearted support to it. Without reservations of any sort, we join you and the Methodist Episcopal Church in making this Methodist Church as nearly as human hands can make it, the handiwork of God. We shall forget those things which are behind, reach forth unto those things which are before and press towards the mark of the prize of the high calling of God as it is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

But Bishop Purcell, since such wonderful progress has already been made in Methodist unification, we feel that our visit here today is more the work of supererogation than of necessity. For we all have the Methodist consciousness and we realize our heritage as followers of John Wesley. And we have already accepted the plan by which the united church shall be established. So there remains nothing for me to do as a fraternal messenger, not even to urge you to fraternize a little more. Let me then discard all such words and say that we Methodist Protestants are ready to march, with bed and baggage bound for the new Methodist Church.

What a mighty host is being mobilized to attack the forces of evil. Eight million Methodists speaking every important language of the globe.

In this host are being marshalled the great leaders in education, in commerce, industry, in the law making bodies and religious councils of the globe.

The learned and the ignorant; the rich, the poor; the young and the old, all standing together as one man. Then can we sing as with one voice Baring-Gould's great hymn,

''Like a mighty army moves the church of God,
Brothers, we are treading where the saints have trod;
We are not divided, all one body we;
One hope and doctrine, one in charity.''

Let this be our emphatic answer to all who would preach division in the church of God. And we trust it will be prophetic of the union of those more widely separated denominations, that they shall learn of us and do likewise.

For as on the day of Pentecost Parthians, Medes and Elamites rejoiced together in the consciousness of salvation with Cretes and Arabians, it ought not to be thought a thing incredible for those Christian churches now divided by some ist, tist or ism, to leap the barriers which separate them and to have an experience like unto that so long ago. And since our motive is conquest we must be united. Every man must stand in his own place. We must be true to the trust committed to our hands.

Bishop Purcell, as I have tried to visualize this great church in action my joy has been tempered with a deepening sense of responsibility. For although we are to set up a Methodist Church with members in every country of the world; although we may have missionaries in the strategic centers of population, and although there may be in the membership of this great church those able and willing to finance her important projects, yet unless we as ministers and lay members are willing to deny ourselves, to take up our cross daily and follow our Lord and Master we shall see but few evidences of divine favor upon our organization.

We rejoice that we are to have a church in which there is no East nor West, no North nor South. And we expect to see the sectional lines which were barriers to our progress so long recede to the boundaries of human need; and while the slogan of this mighty host is ''The world is my parish,'' yet unless we are equipped, girded and endued with power from on high, our exhibition of the forms of power will become badges of shame upon us.

Certainly if we permit the wine-skins of prejudice to hold back the spirit of conquest which struggles in us, and if our leaders shall let the blasting mildew of jealousy smite them, we shall make a sorry spectacle as we pardon our numbers.

No, union must not fail. We must do our part with joyous abandonment! Too much is at stake for it to fail. Union in other communions would be delayed. Nor can we forget the labors of such pioneers in union as Thomas Hamilton Lewis of our church, of Bishop Mouzon in your church, and Bishop McDowell in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and many others. They labored and we are entering into their labors; they scattered the seeds of unification amidst hardships and disappointments, we are reaping in pleasant fields and with congenial companions.

Today we bear the greetings, the prayers and pledges of a church much smaller in number than yours; ours is a denomination with meager resources; we know that we cannot excell in these things, but we can be faithful, we can do our part, we can be true to the trust committed to our hands; and we have come to pledge you, this we shall do, to our utmost ability.—Reprinted from N. C. Christian Advocate by vote of the Annual Conference.

EXPERIENCE IS THE TEST

In his autobiography S. S. McClure says that he once asked Robert Louis Stevenson how he knew so well the feeling of extreme fatigue which he describes in his hero in ''Kidnapped.'' Stevenson laughed and said he had been through all that himself. Experience! That is what makes great books. It is the life of men in relation to God that makes the Psalms and many other parts of the Bible so vital today. Jesus said, ''We speak that we do know and testify that we have seen.'' I know a minister of very ordinary scholarly attainments whose experience of the things of God is so real and vital that it carries many a sermon to a most desirable issue. Experience is what makes great books, and experience is what makes great sermons, though not ignoring the value of scholarship. Experience is the test.

Bishop Thoburn was a man so widely traveled, so humanly approachable, so crisp and keen of speech, and so penetrative of other people's individuality, that his long life made a lasting impression in India, America, and among those who went down to the sea in ships in his company. The story is told that once he was crossing the Indian Ocean on a boat on which were two English women who avowed themselves atheists and who argued atheism for days in his presence. As the journey came near its end one of the women said: ''Bishop Thoburn, we do not wish to be impertinent, but we wonder that you could listen respectfully to our arguments for two weeks without being convinced.'' The bishop replied: ''Madam, I have greatly enjoyed your conversation. I have never heard the case for antheism more brilliantly put. I am sorry the journey is so nearly over. But I have enjoyed the conversation merely as an intellectual exercise. There was no more likelihood of convincing me of the non-existence of God than of the non-existence of myself. For I have known God for forty years."

Of course. Experience is the test.

An old Scotchman who was converted was asked why he was not more humble and why he did not say he hoped he was saved or trusted that he was saved, how he knew so much about his conversion. The one who heard will never forget his answer. He turned around quickly and said: "Know! Why mon alive, I was there when it was done!"

Of course. Experience is the test. "We speak that we do know and testify that we have seen." Experience qualifies.

A minister was appointed to a new field. On arrival he met a young boy of the village and asked him, "Do the people of Woodbridge enjoy their religion?" The boy answered, "Yes, them that has it does."

An old physician found recreation when worn with duties at times in a day of fishing in a quiet spot. There was rest in the silence and calm of the wood, healing in the voice of the wind through the trees and the murmur of the mountain brook, and he always returned to his work refreshed. Once he took with him a younger man who was somewhat of a skeptic. The young man, though enjoying his surroundings, was quite inclined to argue about everything. In his questioning he said to the physician: "Doctor, where does this stream come from? You say you have known it a long time, and its volume of water seems unaffected by heavy rains or long droughts. How do you account for it?"

"I don't," answered the doctor, with twinkling eyes; "I just fish in it."

Experience is the test. There was wisdom in the reply. Heaven and earth hold many a blessing, and life holds many a truth that is ours for rest and comfort if we will simply appropriate and use them. "O taste and see!" We find out by testing, by tasting. It is by failing to test so many are left in doubt.—Religious Telescope.

IT ISN'T YOUR CHURCH, IT'S YOU

"If you want to work in the kind of a church
Like the kind of a church you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

"You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new;
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your church;
It isn't your church, it's you.

"Real churches aren't made by men afraid
Lest somebody else goes ahead;
When every one works and nobody shirks,
You can raise a church from the dead.

"And if while you make your personal stake,
Your neighbor can make one too,
Your church will be what you want to see,
It isn't your church, it's you."

The Character of the Happy Warrior

By William Wordsworth

This poem has been an inspiration to many leaders in world affairs. Three presidents have claimed it as a favorite poem. Woodrow Wilson is said to have kept on his desk a copy of Wordsworth's Poems open always to this place, and at the request of their wives, who knew what it had meant to their husbands, it was read at the funerals of both President Cleveland and President Coolidge.

Wordsworth himself says that The Character of the Happy Warrior was inspired by Admiral Nelson, who had been killed at Trafalgar a few months earlier, and also by his brother John, who had died in the wreck of his ship in the same year. Notwithstanding this note, there is little in the poem to suggest Nelson, excellent though most of his characteristics were. Indeed, the word "Warrior" does not even carry the connotation of a military character. But there is much more of his brother John. His poetic nature, his simplicity, his modesty, his love of nature and solitude, his noble life, as Wordsworth felt them, are all in the portrait which he paints of a hero in peace or war who "makes his moral being his prime care."

The poem is in origin and tone an elegy, but Wordsworth with a lofty reticence utters no direct word about his brother. His grief and consolation are raised to a noble generality.

In this piece of magnificent illustrations of general truths as enunciated in his "Ode to Duty," written earlier in 1805. There is also a spiritual link between these two poems and the general idea underlying three later nature poems, "My Heart Leaps Up", "To the Cuckoo", and the famous "Ode on Intimations of Immortality", that "The Child is Father of the Man." This is apparent as he portrays the happy Warrior as one who

> " . . . "hath wrought
> Upon the plan that pleased his boyish thought."

While the poem is didactic it does not insist upon a moral. The poet would show man the way to wisdom and happiness; if he chose it, the inspiration must, like salvation, come from within himself.

All phases of life are included. There are the times when he must > " . . . go in company with Pain,

> And Fear, and Bloodshed, miserable train!"

But the happy man is he who

> "Turns his necessity to glorious gain."

and

> "Controls them and subdues, transmutes, bereaves

In these days, when so much of the chicanery seems to surround so many political preferments, the noble statesman is he,

> "Who, if he rise to station of command,
> Rises by open means; and there will stand
> On honorable terms, or else retire."

> " . . . . a Soul whose master-bias leans
> To homefelt pleasures and to gentle scenes."

As a grand summary of the qualities such a hero must possess, Wordsworth concludes:

> "'Tis finally, the Man, who lifted high,
> Conspicuous object in a Nation's eye,
> Or left unthought of in obscurity,—
> Who with a toward or untoward lot,
> Prosperous or adverse, to his wish or not—
> Plays, in the many games of life, that one
> Where what he most doth value must be won;
>
> * * * *
>
> And while the mortal mist is gathering, draws
> His breath in confidence of Heaven's applause:
> This is the happy Warrior, this is He
> That every Man in Arms should wish to be."

THE STARLINGS

Forty years ago, we are told, a few English starlings were released in Central Park, New York City. Today there are millions of them throughout the eastern section of the United States and southern Canada. Have they any friends? As a rule, we have found them thought of by farmers and others as most objectionable visitors to our rural sections, and as veritable enemies of many other birds. However, Nature's News tells us that they are one of the most effective enemies of insect pests in this country. We do know that they are foes of bluebirds and also, to a certain degree, of martins, house wrens, robins and sparrows. Yet, investigations of the United States Biological Survey show that nearly half of their entire diet consists of insects, and that where the Japanese beetle has become a destructive insect pest, it has been found that practically all of the diet of the starlings consists of this pest.

THE THINGS YOU REMEMBER

It's strange the things we remember when the years have fled and we look back over the empty road of life.

So frequently they are of people to whom no one then would ever have given a place among the few to be recalled after long, long years. Sometimes it is an incident that seemed trivial indeed then, but since has grown into commanding prominence and influence. Again it is some life that was considered useless almost, but from which came a warning never forgotten.

As each year passes there grows a deeper appreciation of these people, forgotten by others, but living hallowed our own little memory shrine.

A school teacher who fired our imagination into a life-long passion for life without—the birds, their nests, the little animals of the field and wood and the flowers that bloomed among the meadow grasses and the underbrush of the woods.

The Indian at whose poor door we stopped one August day many years ago to ask for a drink of water. He tossed away the half-warm of the pail to trudge to the bottom of the garden to draw an ice-cold supply for us. Then our thirst gone, we asked if we might pick a few plums from the ground beneath his tree. But he picked our pockets full from the biggest on the tree.

A civil engineer tells this story:

''Out in the Philippines one day I met a man on a boat and talked an hour with this stranger. I had never seen him before; I have not seen him since or heard of him. That conversation, lasting just about an hour, changed the whole course of my life and set me on a way that led to my present profession.''

And the stranger passed on—unaware that his little talk had given a brother a profession and set loftiest ideals of service before him forever. He never knew.

Two miles away there lived a man of ordinary means and training. He was a good man, the standard of perfection for most people in the community—a ''saint who judged the world.'' He never ''preached'' to the lads of the countryside, but somehow each grew up wondering if in some way he couldn't be just such a man some day. And though he has been long away now, his memory lingers—inspiringly in many a heart.

One day a rural minister preached a sermon to fifty or sixty people in a little hall, old and dilapidated, on a roadside. Nothing resulted apparently, but twenty-five years later a woman applied for baptism and membership in a Baptist church and dated her Christian experience from that hour. She knew text, sermon, and all about the service.

There are persons one cannot forget, even if the contact has been brief and once only.

In a strange country, a thousand miles from home, these things occurred, all little things but deathless:

Asked about hotels in a certain city, the dining-car steward brought half a dozen names written on a slip of paper with an estimate of rates;

A waitress in a hotel drew a rough diagram of the location of the best stores to see down town;

A street car motorman, with whom the visitors had gone far from the heart of the city to the semi-rural district beyond the mountain, discovering he had two strangers aboard, had then come and sit immediately behind him on the return trip so he could point out and explain every thing of interest along his route.

Nothing of any importance, and everyone has forgotten the incidents—except the visitors, for it was a series of incidents like these that made the brief sojourn so delightful. Each, steward, waitress, and motorman, was paid for one mile of service, but a second mile was put in for good measure.

In love miles are not reckoned.

In the busy days of life much is forgotten, but a host of insignificant memories remain; the little barn owls that came in the winter, the mourning doves of the orchard, the groundhog that lived beneath the roots of the big cherry tree, the killdeers whose meagre nests we sought diligently but fruitlessly on the hillside in the meadow, the lambs that played a game daily from the flat top of a stump in the field behind the barn—little things indeed, but coming back again and again to cheer a winter's night.

''Oft in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Fond memory brings the light
Of other days around me.
The smiles, the tears,
Of boyhood years.
The eyes that shone,
Now dimm'd and gone.''

And sometimes this verse is truer:

''When I remember all
The friends, once linked together,
I've seen around me fall,
Like leaves in wintry weather;
I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed.''

We remember so much—and the strange feature of it all is that most memories are in themselves so trivial—but so lovely.—The Canadian Baptist.

The frustrated and unhappy individual is lacking in Christianity. Now this does not mean that there is no suffering in the Christian life. It means joy that is deeper than transient experience. The ''singing martyrs'' of early Christianity knew the abiding meaning of Christian joy. The whining, submissive, selfish persons who today call themselves martyrs are victims of self-pity and know not the joy that Christ brings to human hearts.—Talmage C. Johnson.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. A. A. Lackey, Fallston, a box of clothing for boys.

Mrs. E. S. Jones (84), Hickory Grove, Guilford, a bushel each of Irish and sweet potatoes.

These two items should have been reported earlier. We apologize.

Fairfield, Guilford, an additional three half-gallon cans of vegetables.

Fair Grove, Haw River, 1 bag of walnuts and one bag of corn, about 7 bushels of Irish potatoes and 4 bushels of sweet potatoes, 1 bucket of molasses, and 6 pounds of bacon.

Ladies' Aid society, Spring Hill, N. Davidson, 8 half-gallon and 16 quart cans of fruit and vegetables.

Giles Chapel, Richland, 11 boxes of cookies for school lunches.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Canaan, N. Davidson, 2 cakes and 4 boxes of cookies for school lunches.

We are thankful to have so good a start on Thanksgiving and harvest home offerings. If all the other churches keep up the batting average of those reporting yesterday and today, we will get a fine Thanksgiving offering. We say "Thank you" to all who are helping.

A Truck Trip

We have promised to send our truck to Orange, Mebane, Alamance, and Mt. Hermon next Tuesday, November 29. Will send to the parsonage at Efland, then back to Mebane, and on to the parsonage on Mt. Hermon and to Brother Lonnie McPherson's on Alamance. At these points we will get directions for other points. Please plan to save us all the time and driving you can. Also, please list the produce at each place before placing on the truck, so we will get it reported right.

Other trips will be made soon, if needed. All we have gotten so far has been sent to us, and we appreciate that. Thank you, and God bless you every one.

Yours in His service.
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

DAMAGING LIVES FOR PROFIT

The Christian Endeavor Topic for Dec. 4,1938

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings:

Monday, November 28—A Drinking Party. Esther 1:1-9.

Tuesday, November 29—Drunk dull, and destroyed. I Sam. 25:1-4.

Wednesday, November 30—I Kings 16:8, 9.

Thursday, December 1—Isa. 5:11, 12, 22.

Friday, December 2—Isa. 28:1-8.

Saturday, December 3—Prov. 23:29-32.

Topic Text: Jas. 5:1-3; Matt. 6:19-21.

To drink or not to drink is a question that youth must face and answer. The temptation is very strong in these days. Youth must have and use spiritual power, heavenly, wisdom, strong will-power, acurate vision and common sense to combat the wicked foe supported by the liquor interests. A look at wretched lives caused by strong drink is a sight of damaged goods, the fruit of the liquor interests. Make a survey of the present liquor traffic and its ruthless exploitation of lives for profit. Note how the liquor traffic has reached out into advertising, transportation, big business, social gatherings, hotel grill rooms, roadhouses, taprooms, semi-respectable barrooms. Show how every inducement to drink is at hand.

John Henry Jowett writes: "We are accustomed to oppose excessive drinking by the claims of abstinence; but here the alternative counsel is the reception of the Holy Ghost. Do not try to accomplish by one way what can only be attained by another. The fundamental need of life is not a sensation but an inspiration. Man has a body; he is a soul. It is folly to seek to spur the essential powers of life by a stimulus of the flesh. If a human wants power to contend with a sea of troubles, and keep his head above the water; if he would be lighthearted and have power to resist the awful pressing weight of urgent care; if he would be optimistical and realize the golden morrow beyond the secret must not be sought in the body but in the soul. Wine may excite a nerve; the Holy Ghost inspires and stimulates the life."

There are some who think they are strong enough to take a social glass now and then without harm or to drink moderately without losing their heads. But the social glass has started many down the road to failure and ruin—many, too, who thought themselves strong. Since liquor does make so many of our brothers slip and does cause so much pain and heartbreak to so many, will not Christian love lead us to put personal responsibility before "personal liberty" and to join Paul in his great personal abstinence decision?

Problems

1. Give as many reasons as you can why drinking is a far greater social menace today than it was in earlier times.

2. What groups today are "damaging lives for profits"?

3. How can we help young people to overcome the lure of liquor in all forms?

4. Has liquor a harmful influence on society?

5. To avoid anything that would cause us to lose our good influence never to treat the drinking of liquor as a joke; to take the initiative in turning liquor down if the occasion ever arises. To help other young people to get the real facts about the actual effects of liquor—even in its milder forms. To enlist them in worthwhile interests and help provide a social life for them that will attract them from the wrong kind of "high life" to the right kind of high life.

Thick as billows of the seas
Are the graves of debauches,
Shall we warning take of these
Since they form of death the line?

See the faces white with care,
See the pictures of despair
See the shadows in the air
Coming from the cup of wine.

AN APPLE A DAY

A young doctor, whose practice was not great, sat in his study reading away a lazy afternoon. His servant appeared at the door.

"Doctor, them boys is stealin' your green apples again. Shall I chase them away?"

The doctor looked thoughtful for a moment, then leveled his eyes at his servant.

"No!" he said.

A professor was once accosted by a dirty little bootblack. "Shine your shoes, sir?"

The professor was digusted by the dirt on the lad's face. "I don't want a shine, my lad," he said, "but if you'll go and wash your face I'll give you sixpence."

"Righto, guv-nor," replied the boy, as he made his way to a neighboring fountain. Soon he returned looking much cleaner.

"Well, my boy," said the professor, "you have earned your sixpence; here it is."

"I don't want your sixpence, guv'nor," replied the boy. "You 'ang on to it and get your 'air cut."—Tattler.

"Don't make me laugh!" chirped the patient, as the doctor gave him gas.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Draper, Rev. J. L. Love, Pastor.—We have started on a new conference year. We have Pastor Love back with us and we are glad that it was God's will to send him back.

Our little church is looking forward to a big year in the Lord. We are hoping that by God's help it will be the most successful year we have ever been permitted to see.

We desire the prayers of all the Christian people that we may all stay in the center of God's will.

Friendship Church, Fallston Charge.—Rev. Mr. Hethcox is back with us for another year, for which we are grateful. He was present for our third Sunday services. After the worship period officers were installed for this year, followed by observance of the Lord's Supper, instead of the regular church services. The pastor summarized the meeting of the last quarterly conference. The members of the conference made three resolutions: first, the conference pledged itself to cooperate with the denomination in observing Appreciation Year; second, the conference buy new registers and all the corrections to old ones be made; third, all the stewards push the campaign in the next three months to help raise next year's expenses.

The first quarterly conference for this year will be held at Laurel Hill the first Sunday in December, preaching at 11 o'clock and the quarterly conference at 2 o'clock.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will have its regular meeting at the church next Wednesday instead of the parsonage. Mrs. R. L. Leonhardt is slowly improving at the her home from injuries received from a fall.

The annual thank-offering for the Children's Home was taken last Sunday. The amount received was $140.

Lexington, First, and Mt. Carmel.—It is a pleasure for us to begin our fourth year of service with the good people of this charge. We have been received as if we were new, and the people have been very gracious to us since returning from conference. At our services yesterday we had good congregations at both the morning and evening services.

Since our return the people have not only spoken kindly and encouragingly to us, but have remembered us with many useful gifts. On last Thursday evening the ladies and some men from First church came to the parsonage in great numbers, bringing with them refreshments for the evening after the meeting of the auxiliary; and also many useful gifts for the pantry and our home. It was an old-time pounding, and even more than that,—a miscellaneous shower also. We regret that we cannot give the names of the donors, but the list was not complete; so we will just say it was a very pleasant surprise to us, and we are grateful for everything that was given, and appreciate greatly the lives of the givers. Our needs will be taken care of for some time as a result of this generous pounding and shower. Also it has not been very good weather for hog-killing, but Brother R. H. Gibson got one over on the weather, and shared most generously with us in some fine pork the past week, for which we are very thankful.

We are now all set for another year's work for the Master, and with good people to work with, we are looking forward to our fourth year here as being one of the best ever. I trust all the churches of our conference will experience a good year in service for our Lord and Master.

Lincolnton, W. L. Harkey, Pastor, November 21.—Our church members are very fortunate and very glad to have Mr. Harkey come back to us for another year. He began a new year by preaching to us a very interesting sermon. He also told us a few happenings at conference. We are very glad to hear that our charge ranked second place in the number of new members and conversions. Needless to say, we are very proud of the record, but we hope there will be a better record this year.

Last Friday night a number of our folks gathered at the pastor's home and gave him a pounding. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

We are having a circulator fixed onto our furnace which will make it heat the church much better and quicker.

Our Sunday school has decided to have a Christmas program again this year. There has been a committee appointed to have charge of the entertainment.

The Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home was taken this morning and will be turned in by our pastor next Wednesday night at the joint service held in Fallston.

The Woman's Auxiliary has been having very interesting meetings. They sure are a busy bunch of ladies, and good saleswomen too. They have been selling flavoring, small crosses and necklaces, aprons, and other things to make money.

If every member of the congregation would work as hard and support our pastor as this organization throughout this year, I am sure it will be very successful in every way.

Worthville Church.—Our church brought to a close one of the most successful years in the history of the church. All our conference claims were paid in full, and we want to express our sincere thanks to everyone that has helped to make this possible.

We were all indeed glad when we read in the paper to see that our pastor, Rev. C. L. Spencer, was returned to us for another year. We pray God's blessings on him and his dear wife.

Sunday morning we were indeed glad to have Rev. N. M. Harrison, of Asheboro, to preach for us. Mr. Harrison brought a very inspiring message, using for his text, "Is my son Absolom safe?" Master Nat Harrison was with his father. We were so glad to have him, and we hope to have them both back with us some time soon.

The young people met Sunday evening, with a large crowd. Mr. John Kirkman and Mr. Fred Allred were leaders of the C. E. society meeting. Each member took a part. Mr. Gilbert Christenberry is the leader for next Sunday night.

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Spencer left this week for a ten-day visit with relatives in Bolling, Alabama. This is their first visit in 19 years. We wish for them a pleasant visit.

Chapel Hill Church, Davidson Charge, Rev. W. H. Neese, Pastor, Nov. 21.—We are glad to welcome Mr. Neese as our new pastor for this year. We hope all will cooperate with him in every way possible. We were sorry to give up Mr. Grant and his family, but wish them a happy and good year's work on their new charge.

Rev. W. H. Neese preached his first sermon at Chapel Hill, Sunday, November 20. He delivered a splendid sermon on text from Numbers 13:30, "A Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it." At this service the Thanksgiving offering was taken for the Children's Home.

We are glad to report that the attendance in our Sunday school and church services is holding up very well.

The date for our first quarterly conference has not been definitely decided on, but will be announced later.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Morris on Tuesday night before the third Sunday in December.

MRS. A. C. HARRIS, Reporter.

Lawndale, Cleveland Charge, Rev. T. G. Madison, Pastor.—Since there has not been a report from our church in such a long time, I hardly know where to begin. We are all happy indeed to know the conference saw fit to return our pastor for another year. Not only our branch of the church, but the other two branches that worship in the same building, along with their pastors, are rejoicing that he came back.

The Woman's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. T. G. Madison is president, sponsored a musical program in song, most of which was by quartets, on Sunday night, November 6, to raise their thank-offering. After a few selections the envelopes were passed. We had a short, appropriate talk by the pastor, followed by more singing. Then the pastor had the ushers come forward to take the offering, and suggested we wanted the sacks at least all returned. After the congregation was dismissed the spoils were counted, and we found the amount of the collecton to be $18.40.

After the spoils were counted, the M. P. church was called to order and the following officers elected for the coming year: stewards, P. P. Richards, Tom Richards, Garland Richards, and Bert Brackett; church treasurer, Fred Richards; class leader, Mrs. Alvin Blanton; reporter, Mrs. Mamie Neal; assistant reporter, Mrs. Peeler.

The Woman's Auxiliary met Tuesday, November 16, with Mrs. Garland Richards as hostess. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. Peeler, presided. Mrs. Eskridge gave the devotional in her usual impressive way, after which Mrs. Eva Mauney led in prayer. Mrs. Mamie Neal was program leader; Mrs. Laxton Mauney, question box leader; Mrs. Mamie Neal called the roll, with each member answering with a verse of scripture. Mrs. P. P. Richards took the collection, after which Mrs. Neal read the minutes of the last meeting. During the business session an invitation was extended for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Richards, with Mrs. Laxton Mauney joint hostess. During the social half hour the hostess, assisted by her little son Kenneth, and little Miss Patsie Mauney, served dainty refreshments.

Mrs. Charles Southards, a member of our church, who is a patient in the State Sanatorium, is slowly improving. On last week-end two of her nieces took a collection among her many friends here and purchased a radio for her room.

A Thanksgiving program will be held at Friendship church, Fallston, for the 14th district on Wednesday, November 23, at 7 p.m., at which time a special offering will be taken for the Children's Home.

Our Sunday school took an offering on Sunday, November 20, for the Children"s homes. The offering amounted to $30.00, which was equally divided between the three orphanages, as our Sunday school is a union Sunday school.

MRS. PEELER, Ass't Reporter.

St. Paul M. P. Church, A. D. Shelton, Pastor.—Well, folks, we've been having a mighty good time over at St. Paul's lately. First of all, we're happy that we were able to retain our pastor for another year. At our church we like gospel sermons, and Mr. Shelton brings them to us. Second, at our fourth quarterly conference we found that all our obligations had been met for the year, and we had enough left over to present the pastor with a little goodwill gift.

The church is very happy to have Mrs. Shelton and Maxine Shelton, both of whom have been ill, back at the meetings again. Our pastor's family has had a full measure of hospital and it is with much pleasure we welcome them all back again.

Since the annual conference met in Greensboro this year we had the privilege of hearing two visiting ministers. At the morning service we heard Mr. Harkey, from Lincolnton. We were glad to have him and hope it will be convenient for him to visit us again. Mr. Morgan, a former pastor, was with us on Sunday evening. We are always glad to welcome Mr. Morgan. He has a message we want to hear and it seems very good for him to be with us.

We hope to have a report soon about some improvements on our church building.

REPORTER.

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We have just closed another year which we believe has been successful spiritually and otherwise. We have made some progress. We have just received several new members into our church. All conference claims were paid in full, and improvements have been made in our church building. One side of the roof has just been covered and some painting of Sunday school rooms has been done and others in progress. Also we have some money on hand to begin painting the auditorium. We hope this shall be under way very soon.

We were ready to welcome back our pastor, Rev. Mr. Anderson, but due to illness he could not fill his appointment Sunday. We hope he will soon recover and be with us again. Rev. Wayne Curtiss preached for us in our pastor's stead. His message was splendid and I am sure everyone enjoyed having him with us.

Having organized another circle in our auxiliary we hope to interest more members of our church in our missionary activities, and to accomplish more in the year to come.

The choir under the direction of our pianist, Miss Truth Isley, is working on a cantata for Christmas. We feel some good work is being done and hope everyone will continue to cooperate with Miss Isley in this work.

Again, may we wish for our pastor a speedy recovery, and that he will be with us again very soon. We are looking forward to a greater and more successful year in the Lord.

MRS. PAGE JUSTICE, Reporter.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge, Rev. J. R. Anderson, Pastor.—We are very glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Anderson and family with us for another year. We are very sorry to report of our pastor's illness, but glad to know that he is improving at this writing. He was not able to fill his appointments for the first Sunday beginning the conference year. Rev. Wayne Curtiss filled this appointment, giving us a splendid sermon on the subject, "Calvary." He pointed out very clearly the need we have for Chirst in our midst today.

On Friday night, November 18, at 7:30, Circle No. 2 of Friendship church met with Mrs. Ralph Braxton at her home for its regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Dean Shoffner had charge of the program for the evening. We are glad to have Mr. Norman Johnson back to worship with us again. He has been confined to his bed with rheumatism for several days.

MRS GARLAND ISLEY, Reporter.

First Church, Thomasville.—A few weeks ago, the young people of our church put on an amateur program. It was such a success that everyone wants to hear it again. They made enough money from this program to buy a new pledge for the C. E. society, which they have been needing for some time.

The members of our church were very glad that they could send our pastor off to conference with all the church's dues paid up in full.

We have had several visitors to worship with us during the past few weeks. Among those visiting, we were very glad to have Mr. Tussey from High Point to be in our morning service.

The Minnis circle had their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, November 15. The meeting was started by the reading of the minutes. Each member was urged to see the boys and girls who were not present, and inform them that they were missed.

As soon as the business had been attended to, the meeting was turned over to the hostess. What a jolly hostess she proved to be! All the young people left with a great sense that their time had not been wasted.

The church was decorated with flags Sunday, November 20; not to celebrate some battle fought and won, but to celebrate the Great Peace Army which is trying to make better men and women—the Scouts of America. This program was in honor of Mr. A. H. Ragan, who was an active worker in the Scout movement. A splendid address was given by the Scout leader, Mr. Hackney, of High Point. His topic was "Respect for Another's Profession." His belief in the Scout movement was brought out in such sincerity that I am sure that everyone was filled with a great desire to become a real true Scout.

AUDREY SULLIVAN, Reporter.

Spring Church Charge.—Due to the fact that our pastor, Rev. J. E. Garlington, is attending the Seminary at Westminster, Md., we have agreed to change the preaching appointments (while the Seminary is in session) in order that he may preach at all three churches the same day twice each month. The changes are scheduled as follows: on the second Sunday in each month he will preach at Spring Church at 10 o'clock a.m., Lebanon at 11 o'clock, and at Pleasant Hill at 7 o'clock p.m.; on the fourth Sundays the services will be at Lebanon at 10 o'clock, Spring Church at 11 o'clock, and Pleasant Hill at 7 o'clock in the evening.

We feel we are indeed fortunate in having Mr. Garlington as our pastor. We welcome him and shall try in every way to cooperate with him.

MRS. R. M. ROBINSON, Reporter.

Concord, Rev. E. O. Peeler, Pastor, Nov. 21.—We were really happy to welcome our pastor and family back for another year. Last Wednesday night was our first service in this year and we really enjoyed the service. Mr. Peeler brought back two pictures; one was the picture of the Lord's Supper and the other was Jesus at Emmaus. Mr. Peeler passed the pictures around and gave us plenty of time to look at them, and he told us about the pictures. He told us about the wonderful talks that Dr. Shipley made at conference. Mr. and Mrs. Peeler enjoyed the conference and our delegate enjoy it too. We just hope and pray that this will be our very best year yet and we know that it will be if we will work and pray and follow the leadership of our consecrated pastor, so that we can do great things for our Master this year.

Sunday morning Mr. Peeler gave us a beautiful message, using for his theme "The Future Is Ours," or "Facing the Future." Sunday night he gave us another beautiful message on the theme, "Christ Is the Door." We knew if we go into the future of this year with Christ as the door, and each time we go in and out of the church think of passing in and out through Christ, we know great good can be done. We were happy to have a large crowd at church Sunday and Sunday night. Mr. Peeler said he believed we did think we had a new pastor.

Sunday morning we were so happy to welcome into our church family Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCall and Miss Curvly Widenhouse. They have been good workers in our Sunday school for a long time and we know they will be good workers in the church.

Mr. Peeler told us that he hopes to hold a series of services at 5 o'clock on Sundays. We did that last year and everyone seemed to enjoy them, and then we could visit some of the other churches.

The B. and S. class—this is the women's class, with Mrs. J. L. Sides as teacher—will hold a Thanksgiving service Thursday night at the church; so instead of having our regular Wednesday night service we will all meet with the class. Our Sunday school seems to be very much interested in the Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home. We hope we will have a real good offering.

It seemed good to see Miss Margie Pittman Sunday. Margie just seems like she belongs to us. She was such a good and willing worker while she was with us. We were sorry that she did not get to stay here. Mrs. C. D. Sides gave a party at her home for our new brides, Mrs. James Blackwelder, Mrs. Clyde Waddell, Mrs. Lane Harrington, and Mrs. Merritt Osteen.

BERTHA EARNHARDT, Reporter.

Davidson Charge.—I met three appointments on Davidson charge Sunday. The attendance was fairly good. The churches visited were Chapel Hill, Liberty, and Lineberry. Four renewals to the Herald were secured. We are ready to move any day, and hope to do so soon.

The quarterly conference will be held at Lineberry church on Saturday night, December 10, at 7 o'clock. All officials are urged to be present.

WM. H. NEESE.

Roberta Charge, Rev. H. W. Bell, Pastor, Nov. 22.—Our new pastor, Rev. H. W. Bell, arrived Sunday morning, accompanied by his wife, and brought an inspiring message on the 23rd Psalm, using as his subject, "The Lord Is My Shepherd." All were seemingly pleased; at the end of the service he was paid $100 on the salary, and he was pleased.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. Cochrane have been very ill, but are able to return home from the Cabarrus hospital; we hope to see them at church soon.

We hope all churches will have the biggest year in conference yet.

REPORTER.

Shiloh, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor, Nov. 21.—Our people are very happy over the return of our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, to this charge for another year. Although there was somewhat of a difficulty in securing his return by permission of the stationing committee, we hope it is for the best, and we are going to try to make this another good year.

The new conference year began Sunday, when the pastor brought us a very inspiring message on the subject of Gratitude, which was a special Thanksgiving message. Our people cooperate fully with Dr. Dixon in our offering, which totaled $120. Sunday night our board secured $95.25, but the C. E. society raised it to $120. The primary department turned in $22, having been secured by filling the dime cards, each card requiring ten dimes. We commend all who had a part in making this offering possible.

A Thanksgiving service will be conducted at Shiloh on Thanksgiving night at 7 o'clock by some of the auxiliary members, and the offering taken will go for our missionary work.

Our monthly prayer service will be conducted by the young girls' class next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Our weekly prayer services are also being continued and are proving a great blessing to those who attend.

We are still asking that the Christian people pray for us in our work, that something may be accomplished that will be worthwhile to the church and the Kingdom.

Due to sickness in her home, our new reporter asked me to report this week, but she will report the next time.

MABEL BERRIER.

Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge, Rev. J. W. Braxton, Pastor.—Conference is over, and we on the Mt. Pleasant charge are proud to have our pastor and his family back with us. We hope to have a better year than we have ever had before.

Our attendance at Sunday school last Sunday was 176 with 8 visitors. The collection was $37.54, which will go to the Children's Home for our Thanksgiving offering. The junior class collection was $9.00; only one other class, the Men's Bible class, exceeded this collection, it being $10.60. A junior group that has a collection like that deserves honorable mention and should wake up some of the older classes. This group has been furnishing some beautiful children's hymns at the Sunday school hour. Their pianist is Miss Francis Stafford; the teachers are Mrs. Edna Phillips and Mrs. Louise Shoffner.

Our pastor brought the morning message on the subject, Building an Efficient Church. The scripture reading was taken from Isaiah 6:1-8.

The Mission Band and their teacher held a meeting at the home of Rose Curtis Tuesday night, November 22. A Thanksgiving program was rendered and a chapter in the study book reviewed. Refreshments carried out the Thanksgiving season.

Two more bodies have been laid to rest in Mt. Pleasant cemetery: Mrs. Loretta Smith, wife of A. M. Smith, of Burlington, and Mrs. Maggie Holt, wife of Robert Holt, of Belmont.

Mrs. Peggy Phillippe, mother of Albert and Cleve Phillippe, was laid to rest at Coble's church last week. She is also survived by her husband, two grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Mary Patrum has returned home from Piedmont Memorial hospital. Miss Jauncie Smith, a patient at the same hospital, is some better.

MRS. CARL CURTIS, Reporter.

Shiloh C. E. Society, Rev. C. E. Ridge, Pastor.—The last meeting of the conference year was held Sunday evening, November 13. The following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Ray Leatherman, who served us so faithfully last year; vice-president, Protus Koonts; secretary, Arlene Berrier; assistant secretary, Blanche Sink; treasurer, Naomi Swicegood; general treasurer, Grady Leonard; pianist, Rachel Koonts; assistant pianist, Gladys Evans; social committee, Rev. C. E. Ridge, Lessie Lanning; reporter, Mrs. Willie Kepley; assistant reporter, Beatrice Sink. We are going to cooperate 100% with our good president and strive to make 1939 the best year ever in our C. E. society.

We were indeed glad to have with us Sunday evening, November 20, Rev. and Mrs. Charlie Hiatt, the male quartet, and other visitors from Beck's Reformed church. Rev. Mr. Hiatt delivered a wonderful message from the subject, "Gracious Living." We as Christian should try to live graciously every day. If we would live graciously we would have more love for others, would do more kind deeds for our fellowmen, and thus show reverence to our Christ who died the cruel death on Calvary that we might have eternal life.

The president asks the officers of the society to please bear in mind the called meeting at his home Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

"Let's give them smiles, they mean so much
To young and old who come our way;
A cheery word costs not one cent,
But helps to make the whole world gay."

MRS. WILLIE KEPLEY, Reporter.

Liberty, Aubert M. Smith, Pastor.—We are exceedingly glad to have our much-loved pastor returned to us for the fourth year. We pray that he may continue to have the cooperation of all our members in winning souls for Christ, for that is our chief aim.

Some of our members have been sick, but are improving and well on the way to recovery.

A goodly number from Liberty attended conference: Miss Marie Ward, Miss Katherine Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gregson, Mr. and Mrs. Colon Brady, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hanner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ward.

Mrs. J. A. Lyles was hostess to Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary for the October meeting. The subject for study was Christian Education. Mrs. Lawrence Brown read the scripture, and prayer was led by Mrs. F. A. Shepard. Mrs. B. J. Gregson gave an account of the life of John Wesley.

Circle No. 2 motored to Asheboro to hold the meeting with one of our much loved members, Mrs. Joe Swaim. Mrs. Colon Brady, circle leader, presided at the meeting. Mrs. R. L. Elkins had charge of the program. The subject for discussion was "Christian Citizenship." Mrs. Wade Hardin led the devotional. Mrs. J. W. Curtis read a very interesting paper on "Positive Christianity for America." "Woman's Responsibility in a Changing Order" was given by Mrs. R. L. Elkins. The hostess was assisted in serving by her daughter, Mary Ellen and Mrs. John Swaim. Those enjoying Mrs. Swaim's hospitality were Mesdames W. M. Hanner, B. J. Gregson, J. N. Isley, Colon Brady, J. W. Curtis, J. E. Cox, R. L. Elkins, Earl Frazier, and Wade Hardin. When Mrs. Swaim was here she was a favorite, and we all revere her memory.

A special program of music is being prepared for Thanksgiving.

MARRIED

Jones-Pleasants

Miss Mary Scott Jones, one of the fine young ladies of Grace Church, was united in marriage at the church on Saturday afternoon November 12, at 5:00 o'clock, to George William Pleasants, Jr., of High Point. The services was one of unusual beauty and performed by Rev. J. Elwood Carroll.

The bride was escorted by her father, Carl Jones, and had as her matron of honor her only sister, Mrs. Ralph Cook. Her bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sisters, Misses Sarah Clark and Anne Elizabeth Pleasants. J. Edward Pleasants was the best man. The ushers included Carl Jones, Jr., Dan Faris, of Charlotte, William Von Drehle, of Wadesboro, and Herbert L. Wright, of Clover, S. C.

Wedding music was provided by the bride's mother at the organ and David H. Witherspoon, tenor, of the Grace choir.

The bride is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, and was educated in the schools of Greensboro and at Greensboro College. Mr. Pleasants is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pleasants, of High Point, and received his education in the grammar schools of Clover, S. C., and High Point College. He is connected with the Carolina Coach Company. After a brief bridal tour they will be at home at 306 Steele Street, High Point.

STONE AGE STUFF

First Cavewoman—I hear that Ug's husband beats her daily with a club, and another thing—last last I heard her begging him to put a notch in the club for each beating he gave her.

Second Cavewoman—Whatever's the big idea?

First Cavewoman—Well, she probably figured it's safer having the club filled with notches than having it filled with spikes.

LEARNING TO SPELL

All of us hope we are good spellers but all of us sometimes misspell words. Often we misspell words in letters, articles, and papers when it should not be necessary. A brief second of time in checking the word in a dictionary will save us endless embarrassment.

Once I followed a girl as stenographer in a business office, and when she was showing me the office supplies and routine, I asked if the company supplied a dictionary, as I had not seen one and she had not mentioned it. She looked at me in great surprise and said, "Why, they don't furnish one and I wouldn't let them know I needed to use a dictionary."

I said nothing. Later, when I had procured a small desk dictionary and one of my employers saw it, he said, "I'm glad to see you use a dictionary. Miss Blank was a fine little girl but she certainly could not spell."

One of our national columnists made the suggestion some years ago that every person should possess his own dictionary and every time it becomes necessary to look for a word in it, a small check mark should be made by that word, if it was referred to for spelling, pronunciation, or definition.

I adopted that plan and for about ten years have kept at my elbow a good dictionary. I have used it frequently and every word referred to has been checked. Besides being helpful, it has really been like a game. The only tragic part is that many words acquire two or three or even more of those little tell-tale marks.

But the row of little checks by one or two words has served me in the same way that my fourth-grade teacher's plan helped our class. For some reason, practically the entire class was having difficulty in learning how to spell "separate." We invariably insisted on spelling it "seperate." Finally in desperation, she turned to the blackboard behind her desk and in fairly large letters wrote "sep." Then she put an immense "a," and finished the word in the smaller letters.

Turning to the class, she announced: "There! that is the way to spell 'separate,' and I want you to look at it every day until every one of you can spell that word." That was—well, I was in the fourth grade. Many years have passed, but I can shut my eyes any time and see "separate" written on that blackboard with a big "a." Needless to say, I have never misspelled that word.

Some years ago I had secured a position as secretary and was very anxious to make a good impression on my new employer. The very first week I wrote a letter containing the word "judgment"—except that I spelled it "judgement." When the letters were signed, back came that letter with a heavy red ring drawn around that "e." My cheeks burned redder than the pencil-mark—but I have never misspelled "judgment" from that day to this.

Poor spelling is not only a sign of ignorance, it is a poor habit. Dictionaries can be bought for a small amount, and a little care and time each day will show wonderful results in our spelling.—Mabel Brown, in The Girls' World.

FOR TODAY

O God, give me strength to live another day. Let me not turn coward before its difficulties or prove recreant to its duties. Let me not lose faith in my fellow men. Keep me sweet and sound of heart, in spite, of ingratitude, treachery, or meanness. Preserve me from minding little stings or giving them. Help me to keep my heart clean, and to live so honestly and fearlessly that no outward failure can dishearten me or take away the joy of conscious integrity. Open wide the eyes of my soul that I may see good in all things. Grant me this day some new version of Thy truth, inspire me with the spirit of joy and gladness, and make me the cup of strength to suffering souls; in the name of the strong Deliverer, our only Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.— Phillips Brooks.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Cyrus N. Thomas

A good man has fallen asleep in Israel in the passing of Cyrus N. Thomas, of Grace Church, Greensboro. Brother Thomas passed away after a prolonged illness since May, on Friday morning, Nov. 11, and funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the church.

Brother Thomas passed away at the ripe age of 85 years. For more than a quarter century he had been a member of Grace Church, from which services were conducted by Pastor Carroll and Rev. R. L. McClusky. He was laid to rest beside his wife in Buffalo Cemetery.

Many friends and relatives mourn his passing, especially his four children—W. R. Thomas, of Mooresville, J. R. Thomas, Grace, and Mrs. Harry Edwards, of Greensboro—16 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

(J. E. C.)

Mrs. Delia Bustin

Funeral services for Mrs. Delia Beavins Bustin, 90, widow of W. D. Bustin, were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home near Enfield. Rev. D. R. Williams, of the Methodist Protestant church, conducted the services. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery.

Mrs. Bustin died on Monday morning. In 1935 she sustained a hip fracture, and although she apparently recovered from this, she had been confined to her bed ever since.

Surviving are a son, John Bustin; one niece, Mrs. Stanley Whitaker; and three nephews, W. E. Beavans, Dr. Ferdie Whitaker, and Beavans Whitaker, all of Enfield. Although confined to her bed for three years, she was always bright and cheerful, and interested in her church. She was a good woman, not dead but just gone on to be with her loved ones.

Many friends and relatives attended her funeral and the grave was covered with beautiful flowers.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

Mrs. Delia Beavans Bustin

On Monday, October 24, the Woman's Auxiliary lost its oldest member when Mrs. Delia B. Bustin passed away. The auxiliary, in session that day, stood in silent tribute to one who was ever a loyal, devoted member of the church and the auxiliary, a regular attendant as long as her health permitted, a constant reader of her church paper, and one who was always interested in every enterprise of her church. For many years her birthday celebration had been an annual occasion with the auxiliary. Although she had been confined to her bed for the past three years, Mrs. Bustin's interest in these things never flagged, and her faith never wavered. On account of the admiration and affection which the members of this organization felt for her, the auxiliary desires to pay this tribute to her memory.

Resolved: First, That in the passing of Mrs. Bustin the Woman's Auxiliary has sustained the loss of one whose sweet-spirited life was an inspiration to all who knew her.

Second, That the Auxiliary wishes to pay tribute to her loyalty, sincerity, and serene Christian faith.

Third, That her Christian fortitude and her bright, cheery personality will ever be remembered, and her memory will be cherished as a precious possession.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her son, a copy to the Progress, and a copy to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD.

Lewis E. Teague

On October 27 the First M. P. church of High Point lost one of its most prominent and most useful members in the death of Judge Lewis E. Teague.

Judge Teague was born in High Point August 12, 1898. He studied law at the University of North Carolina and after the completion of his study practiced law in High Point until he was appointed Judge of the City Municipal court in 1927, which position he held until his death.

Judge Teague united with the First M. P. church of High Pont early in life. During his membership the church honored him with practically every position which one can hold. The service he has rendered to his church has been an invaluable one. In 1924 he was married to Miss Margaret Rankin, daughter of Captain A. M. Rankin, with whom most every Methodist Protestant in the state is acquainted. To this union were born two daughters, Peggy and Jean, who, along with Mrs. Teague, survive. Also surviving are five brothers, Carson, Homer, Earl, Hunter and Lester, and one sister, Miss Gertrude Teague.

Already several tributes of respect to Judge Teague have appeared in these pages. It is not at all fitting that I should add a lengthy statement thereto. I would say this, however, that outside of the immediate family the pastor feels more keenly than anyone else the death of a good and useful man. I shall sorely miss Judge Teague as a leader in the church and as a personal friend.

Funeral services were conducted from the church, October 29, by Dr. George R. Brown, Dr. A. G. Dixon, Dr. F. W. Stevenson, Dr. G. I. Humphreys, and the pastor.

THE COUNTRY HOME

Down a pretty lane where mocking birds sing,
By the tanglewood of the whippoorwill,
Runs fresh cool water from a nearby spring
To the creek at the foot of the hill.
On the hill is the home of a strong man
So pure in heart that ugly sin hides.
In that country home on acres of land
True love is, God rules and peace abides.

A kitchen, comfortable chairs and a bed,
Music, good books and a warm log fire,
Where night means rest and the Bible is read
Is the quiet home human hearts desire.
Where mother sees to everyone else's need,
And tired father nods showing thin hair.
Sister teaches the baby how to read
And a clock strikes during evening prayer.

For full barns, for good health and plenty,
There's thanksgiving in the calm nightfall.
A squirrel curls in his nest in the oak tree,
Cows chew contentedly in their stall.
Tobby is in the feed room with a mouse
For her basket of wide-eyed kittens;
The lightly sleeping guard dog by the house
Has ears for noise disturbing chickens.

The late garden waits in the falling dew
With red roses—a green plant or so.
The orchard, relieved of its yearly due,
Rests o'er the fence from the cedar row.
The pretty new moon shining from her skies
On the heaven of the peaceful family,
Doubts fate can hold a better paradise
In the beautiful cold of eternity.

SOME COMPARISONS

For the year ending March 31, 1938, the N. C. Branch of Women's Work undertook to raise $750 of the salary of Rev. J. F. Minnis, missionary to India, and succeeded in the undertaking.

When half our last Branch year was gone plans had just gotten under way for raising this half of our missionary's salary. A card in my files from Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, branch treasurer, dated Nov. 23, 1937, said, "This is the only dollar I have received on Minnis salary."

Last week Mrs. Kearns reported receipts on Minniis salary up to November 14, 1938, of $746.41 toward the total salary of $1,500 that we have set out to raise this branch year. That puts us within four dollars of the half-way mark.

Surely if we could raise $749 for this cause between November 23 last year and March 31 this year, we can reach our goal this year. There is an old saying, "Well begun is half done." We are surely well begun, now let us pray without ceasing that not only our financial goals may be reached, but that the spiritual life of each person in our church may be enriched, remembering as we pray that "God loves a cheerful giver."

The Privilege of Being a Pastor

Although the world has had nineteen hundren years of Christianity it is not yet Christian. The prayer that our Lord taught his disciples to pray for the Kingdom to come is still unanswered. While millions know God and rejoice in the triumph of his gospel, some billion of the population of our globe are motivated by selfishness, by prejudice, greed and hatred. The profit motive is the major motive; class distinctions separate men for whom Christ died into groups of untouchables in varying degrees from the Asiatic outcast to the social outcast in our city slums. Vice, crime, war, are the three horsemen of destruction today who divide nations, separate families and destroy the works of the people of God.

So it is into such a world as this that the present day pastor finds his work. He comes as a shepherd to lead his sheep into greener pastures, beside living waters, and to protect them from the hands of the destroyers. It is his high privilege to stand between the widow and her oppressor. To become a father to the orphan child, a friend to the friendless and to find a home for the neglected. Like his Lord he daily seeks the sick, those in prison, the naked and all in sorrow.

God never called a human being to a higher or a nobler task. And yet he has nothing for his servants to do that is more difficult. The pastor forgets himself. Refuses to see the unkindnesses intended for himself in his eagerness to bear the burdens of those who are in need of help. Even though there may be hearts closed to him he is kind, for he knows love never faileth. Prophecies may fail, tongues may cease, but the love which moves his hands faileth not.

Yes, it is a high privilege the pastor has. And not only the pastor, but all who love the Lord. To represent the Lord of glory, to be his ambassador, his spokesman, his messenger into the life that needs relief; what is higher? Could the six or seven hundred million nominal church members of the globe thus see the privilege to serve into which they are called, would any of them be slow to answer or to serve? Christian service is a privilege, not a burdensome duty,—the fiat of some soulless king. It is an opportunity to enter into the relationship of a co-laborer with God; to be workers together with God. For God has intrusted the redemption of the world into the hands of those who love him. The progress of the Kingdom is gauged entirely by the progress of the Christian worker. We have often heard people in distress say, "Why does God allow such things to happen"? It is not God, but humanity. The question properly framed would be "Why will the races of men so live and act as to bring upon themselves such tragedies? Men reap as they have sown. God fixed the law of retribution and he who refuses to regard it must suffer its penalities. Sin always exacts high penalties of the transgressor. Is it not your privilege and mine to help lift the standard of life that wars will cease, crimes will be no more, and sorrow and suffering shall pass away? For the grand objective of grace is, "And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain".

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

One More Error

Everybody dislikes to talk about errors but there is one more error in the report of the stationing committee as printed in the HERALD a week ago, namely, the name of Rev. J. R. Hutton does not appear as one of our honored superannuates. By looking at the list as read to the conference I see that the name is there in proper place. The error evidently crept in while somebody was copying the list.

Rev. E. L. Ballard Appointed District Chairman

In naming the district chairmen last week I appointed Dr. Bates as chairman for the sixth district. Brother Bates tells me that his work as secretary of the Annual and General Conferences takes all of his space time, so I am relieving him of the task of being district chairman and am appointing Rev. E. L. Ballard of Reidsville to that position.

To Preach At Gibsonville

The past two Sundays Rev. C. E. Anderson, a member of the Eastern Conference and a senior at High Point College has supplied the pulpit at Gibsonville. Next Sunday Dr. P. S. Lindley will preach there. I am trying to find temporary supply for that church until such time as a regular pastor can be secured.

Rev. Herbert Garmon Appointed Pastor At Shelby-Caroleen

Rev. Herbert Garmon has been appointed supply pastor of the Shelby-Caroleen charge. Brother Garmon was brought up in our Children's Home at High Point and spent two years at High Point College. He assisted some of the brethren in revivals last summer and made a good impression. I trust that his ministry on the Shelby-Caroleen charge may be very fruitful.

The Quarterly Conference At Midway

The first quarterly conference for the Midway charge was held at the church last Friday night. Even though the night was extremely cold there was a fine attendance. The business was transacted in a very harmonious spirit. Rev. Paul Hamilton, the new pastor has entered upon his new duties as pastor and seems to have made a good impression. This year he will serve two separate charges, Midway and Brown Summit. He has served Brown Summit during the past two years, I believe. In the quarterly conference last week the Midway people expressed a desire to have either a morning or an evening service each Sunday. This matter was to be taken up with the Brown Summit people with a view of being at Midway on one Sunday morning and Brown Summit at night and on the following Sabbath to reverse the order, being at Brown Summit in the morning and at Midway at night. This seems to be a fair arrangement and I trust it will be satisfactory.

A Sunday On the Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge

Last Sunday was spent with the people of the Pinnacle-Mt. Zion charge, Rev. J. D. Morris, pastor. The morning appointment was at Pinnacle, the quarterly conference was at Pinnacle in the afternoon and the night appointment was at Mt. Zion. While I have assisted in revival services at every church on this charge and have been there on various other occasions yet I never had been there before without seeing my good friend, the Rev. A. L. Hunter, now of sainted memory. Brother Hunter spent more than twenty-five years of his ministerial life on this charge and following his superannuation in 1934 he settled near the Mt. Zion church and lived there up to the time of his sudden death last August.

While the weather was very cold last Sunday morning a goodly number came for the morning church services at Pinnacle. I found Brother Morris, the pastor, teaching a class of young people in the Sunday school. In so far as I could tell the most of the Sunday school remained for the church services. It was a pleasure to preach to them again even though it was difficult to keep the house comfortable until the close of the service.

In the afternoon a fine attendance was at the quarterly conference even though the Pilot church was not represented. Brother Morris seems to have the work well in hand and does not hesitate to tell the officials what he wants them to do. Like a great many other charges this charge raises a good portion of its finances during the last few weeks before conference. Brother Morris plead earnestly for improvement along this line, not for his own sake but for the sake of the people themselves. His position is—and I think the correct one—that finances should be an expression of one's religious life and that if this is all done within a few weeks, there is something lacking the remainder of the year. I give this information for the benefit of other people on other charges. Giving should be part of our worship and it should be done weekly or as often as services are held.

There was a good attendance at Mt. Zion Sunday night considering the cold weather and it was a pleasure to preach to them. This is one of our best rural churches. Brother Morris seems to have quite a hold on the affections of the people and I trust they may have a good year.

The Appreciation Year Committee Meets

The Appreciation Year Committee as elected by the Annual Conference together with the three members appointed by the President of the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work met at High Point College last Wednesday afternoon. It was decided for the District chairman to take the lead in this work, calling to his aid the person appointed by the North Carolina Branch for Women's Work. A committee in each local church is to be appointed. A letter is to go out to the district chairmen right away. The fact that the General Conference year runs from May 1 to April 30 makes it difficult for our Conference to meet all requirements. But we are asking our people to speed up their activities for World Service and try to have it in by April 30th.

THE STEADY SUBSCRIBER

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber,
Who pays in advance at the birth of each year—
Who lays down the money, and does it quite gladly,
And casts round the office a halo of cheer;
Who never says: "Stop it; I cannot afford it;
"I'm getting more papers than now I can read,"
But always says: "Send it; our people all like it;
In fact, we all think it a help and a need."

Keeping History Straight

The statement was made on the conference floor recently that the conference never assisted Editor McCulloch while he ran the annual conference organ, our Church Record, later the Herald. The facts according to the Journal show that assistance was given Dr. McCulloch as far back as 1899 and was continued every year until the Publishing House became an asset of High Point College. The appropriations ranged from $240 in 1899, increasing gradually, until 1922 the annual gift was $1,200.

The annual appropriations remained $1,200 until the publishing house was sold and the proceeds absorbed in the indebtedness of the college. We make this correction because we think it would be very unfortunate for any of our people to believe that Dr. McCulloch was allowed to struggle unassisted through all the years he was publishing the annual conference organ. The appropriations amount to many thousands of dollars. The writer is glad this was done, he was worthy of it; and as a member of the Board of Education the writer always supported the motion to increase the appropriation as the income from our property permitted us to do it: notwithstanding the fact the paper was then his own personal property.

Getting a Good Start for the Year

Some church officials manage to get the affairs of their church organized and moving so soon after the close of an annual conference that we have often wondered why other church officials and pastors did not catch the spirit and learn the technique. But some are very slow of heart to learn how to do this good thing.

These splendid leaders will have their every member canvass completed, all officials elected and installed before the annual conference meets. So the pastor and the people are ready to start for the new objectives when the Plan of Appointments is read. And the churches with such officials are the ones which usually are on the Honor Roll at the end of the year.

These churches which never hold their first quarterly conference until several weeks after Christmas, as is the custom of many, as a rule never really get started on the annual conference program until the early spring. Then instead of having twelve months to do a year's work in they have about seven or eight months. It would be marvelous if they should accomplish as much as those churches which began the work of the year at the first of the conference year. The quarterly conference, especially the first, is a mighty good time to lay plans, to select leaders, and to choose objectives for the church. It is contended by some who hold late first quarterly conferences that there is so little to report if it is held immediately after the adjournment of the annual conference; true, but it is a fine time to get ready to have something to report later in the year; and this is no small matter. Our annual conference closing when it does no church should wait until Christmas to have all its arrangements made for meeting the requirements of the new year. The church which delays thus is much in its own way of success for the year. Come, let's all get ready for a great year in our Church.

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

"But We Want A Younger Man"

When the conference year is up we often hear: "But we want a younger man,"—words that exasperate the stationing committee, flatter the immature, and discourage those of riper years.

But there must be a little something to the request. For one thing the young man is full of life and enthusiasm. His theology may be a bit rare and unseasoned, yet he does know how to do things. His interests conform to those of the rising generation, and, therefore, he is quite naturally in sympathy with youthful points of view. He gets along better with the young people, and this, it would appear, is the vital point with many local churches.

Again, the young preacher is optimistic. He looks upon the world as a good place and believes he can make it even better. Of course people, having gloom and trouble enough of their own, turn with pleasure to one who talks and acts as if the world is not "going to the dogs" in the immediate future. There is power, momentum, in the idealism of the young. Churches need this and ask for the kind of leader who possesses it—the young pastor.

It must be remembered, too, that the older man is more likely to get into a rut—something that may not be necessary but something that does often happen. The beginner is free from this trait for the simple reason that he has not traveled long enough. He too will find himself in a rut, if he is not careful, after he has gone for many years over the road of life. But he is new, fresh as he starts out.

Perhaps, also, the industrial trend supports the younger man argument. Business and economic firms look for young workers. More and more, it seems, it is difficult for an elderly man to find employment. This is one point in the social security movement, a plan to give work to the rising generation while the older men step aside. So when churches ask for young talent they are doing just what industry is doing —taking the vigorous, active hands in preference to the older ones.

These are some of the reasons why they ask for younger men in the pulpit. Yet the older men hold certain advantages, and when the problem was introduced before my class of young ministerial students, I was impressed, if not surprised, to hear that many favorable points advanced in support of older men in the pastorate. Case after case was cited to prove that men need not grow dull with increasing years. A number of ministers in our own denomination and in others were mentioned to prove how vital and interesting our pastors can be in spite of considerable age. Years alone do not mean stagnation. A willing mind can outrun old fogyism, and a preacher can, if he will, keep well up with the times.

In fact riper years mean increased wisdom. The aged preacher was once as young as any. Now he has that youthful outlook plus that of saner years. Living has taught him something never gathered from books. One of my students said that he had three older brothers, but whenever he really wanted serious advice on the greatest problems of life he went to his father instead of those younger minds, his brothers. Say what you please, but there is still a veneration for age, and we had better not disregard it.

Much of the clamor for youth in the pulpit betrays a superficial religion. If it is a pep meeting you want, then, of course, call a young man to put it on. But if it is deep spirituality you wish I recommend more age. This point was, much to my delight, emphasized by one of the students.

There is, as Dr. Forlines suggested at Conference, a trend back to theology in our religious thinking. This is going to be to the advantage of older men. Young preachers have always been great for action, organization, speed; older pastors lean more toward devotion and theology. The beginner may have a notion that he can remake the world by himself, but the older man, having tried this also with little success, now recommends "a closer walk with God." Call it conservatism if you please, but still it is what the human heart craves and no church can prosper without it—an emphasis upon the old doctrines of sin, justification, indwelling of the Holy Spirit, and immortality.

And so I see a better day for ministers of advancing years. Even the young preachers see it too. I like to think of the ministry as a calling in which one's powers can grow on and on while his larger and broader views, his richer and deeper insights, come into finer use even to the end of the way.

Such is the great future of the pastor. He need not stand aside while others take the lead. Let him love scholarship, enjoy reading, attend conventions, cultivate optimism, and then, this together with his maturer experience of life will enable him to serve a larger field as time goes on. Some of our best work is being done by elderly men, and I see no reason why it cannot continue. Let life grow richer as it grows in years.

LIBERTY

"O Liberty, what crimes have been wrought in thy name!"

Liberty is not restrained freedom; liberty is freedom to do right.

Liberty is never individualistic; liberty is corporate.

Liberty was not born in the jungle; liberty had birth where truth and privilege had severest contest.

"The right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" is not a braggart's boast, but a freeman's passion.

Nations have had their birth in liberty as brave men died to make them free.

Liberty is the patriot's halo, the martyr's crown.

WITH THE POETS

Elizabeth Vera Idol

ULYSSES

By Alfred Tennyson

Ulysses is a great classical idyll, not only on a Homeric subject, but also echoing the dignity and nobility of conception as well as the imaginative fervor of the Greek bard. Add to this a similarity to Milton in power of expression and it is not difficult to understand why critics have acclaimed this as one of the high watermarks in nineteenth century poetry. In a remarkable way Tennyson was able to adapt the melody of vowel and consonant to the mood of the poem, and by the time this piece was written he had mastered his decorative style and had also gained in thought, dramatic insight, and depth and poignancy of feeling.

Ulysses was written not long after the death of Arthur Henry Hallam, and in his Memoirs Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, says that it expresses the need of the poet's going forward and braving the struggle of life perhaps more simply than anything in In Memoriam.

The idea for the poem is found in Dante's Inferno, but Tennyson differs from Dante in having Ulysses, though an old man, start again on his travels from his home in Ithaca where idleness is hateful to him—where he scorns "to rust unburnished, not to shine in use." He must obey the urge to action driving him on in a quest for ever fuller experience.

Tennyson's intolerance of the spirit of life as a mere existence is apparent in many poems; "As tho' to breathe were life", he says. What profit to spend one's years with " . . . a savage race

That hoard, and sleep, and feed, and know not me?"

Another theme that runs through many of the things Tennyson has written is his interest in the future and the evolution of the human race from generation: "its echoes roll from soul." In Ulysses this idea is advanced in the fine picture of a worthy son:

" . . . "mine own Telemachus,
To whom I leave the sceptre and the isle."

Still another theory of Tennyson is that age brings wisdom:

"Old age hath yet his honor and his toil."

The lines,

"I am a part of all that I have met:
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravell'd world whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move," is not the sentimental reminiscence of an idle old man, but a review of the pattern as it arranges itself from his maturer point of vantage and life shapes itself out of that which has entered into it.

The nineteenth century was an age of restless adventure in the realm of intellect and Tennyson causes Ulysses, though now a "gray spirit", to yearn still

"To follow knowledge like a shining star",

just as King Arthur, as he speaks of the dissolution of the Round Table, says,

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfills himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world."

Ulysses and The Lotus Eaters have their inception in the same classical story, but the central idea in each is exactly opposite. In the latter is lethargy and indolence, the acceptance of whatever fate may bring:

"This mounting wave will roll us homeward soon."

But in Ulysses is ambition and the urge to action:

" 'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and sitting well in order, smite
The sounding furrows."

At the end of the quest may be "eternal silence" to which the pagan man looks forward stoically, or it may be a hope that never rises quite to faith in a new life beyond where one may enter

" . . . the Happy Isles,
And see the great Achilles whom we knew."

The last five lines of the poem contains Tennyson's favorite doctrine of the unconquerable will:

"We are not now that strength which in old days
Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are,—
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

THE SIN OF LYING

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, December 4, 1938

By Dr. O. L. Easter

In breaking this Ninth Commandment we sin perhaps the worst against society. Of course, when we break any of God's moral laws we sin against man and God. Now when we come to consider just God's part in the matter of our sins we put very little emphasis upon this brand of sin or that one, for in his moral system it seems that when we break one law we are guilty of breaking all the law. This fact is not hard to understand when we see that the essence of sinning against God is disobedience to his will and choosing the will of sin. In the case of Adam, for instance, he was considered fallen when he first disobeyed concerning the fruit of the tree, and God did not wait until he had committed murder and other crimes before driving him forth from the garden. Many would-be theologians have revolted against such an apparently trivial sin bringing to all mankind such far-reaching results and have interpreted into this story elements of other sins of which they say this story is merely a parable or an allegory. Still I say that with God it is not so much the amount of sin nor the brand of sin that affects our relationship to him but it is rather the condition of the heart that prompts the sin or disobedience. Jesus says that in this sin of lying we become the children of the devil by choosing the lie for he is father of the lie. Thus this one sin separates man from his Heavenly Father and that is the height of sin for God.

We fight for truth, we fight for God
Poor slaves of lies and sin;
He who would fight for thee on earth
Must first be true within.

Thou God of Truth, for whom we long
Thou who will hear our prayer
Do thine our battle in our hearts
And slay the falsehood there.
—Thomas Huges.

But it is not the same in our relationship to our fellowmen. Here we see that sins against society can have their degrees and brands. For instance, we would do an individual more actual harm if we should steal his goods than if we should merely covet them. And so with this sin of false witness we find that it is very hurtful to our fellowmen. Stealing has ill results upon the victim but with false witness the thief can steal from him the best things he possesses—his good name or reputation. It was this sin that made the lot of Christ so hard when he was a man standing before his judges. His enemies were able with their weapon to bring judgment and condemnation upon his spotless character. Of course, as with Christ we believe that truth will finally win out as the poet has expressed it.

Truth crushed to earth will rise again
The eternal years of God are on her side.

But let us think here of the agony and injustice suffered by innocent persons while they are waiting for those eternal years to appear. Here is the danger and harm of gossip which is so easily engaged in by us today. After its first send-off and often then gossip is mere hear-say and we know that as it passes on it gathers size as the rolling snowball and is therefore in most cases false witness which will crush some heart to the earth. ''Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another.''

This one sin is causing our present world most of its suffering and fear. Propaganda is being used in many ways today by nations as its most effective political weapon and propaganda is in most cases false witness. It was this kind of false witness that sent the noble nations of the world into the terrible bloody war of 1914. Many on returning home found that most of the ''incidents'' that had sent them to this war turned out to be vicious false witness through war propaganda. To a large extent false witness is the demon power behind the throne of our modern crisis. Because of its false accusations whole peoples are being banished from nations or cruelly treated, men of noble character and pure purpose are being falsely arrested and cast in prison, and there is general distrust and accusation among all nations. Surely we need to pray for deliverance from such a sin for as Paul says we are members one of another.

Set up thy standard, Lord, that we
Who claim a heavenly birth;
May march with thee to smite the lies
That vex thy groaning earth.
—Thomas Huges.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH GRANDPA?

The increased consciousness of the ''old age problem'' is greatly aggravating the present generation. Is there not a niche somewhere where the ''old man'' can be shelved until the Grim Reaper has time to remove him? The conviction that these ''old people'' who are holding positions and jobs ought to vacate is bearing rather heavily upon the consciousness of certain types of workers. The god Efficiency is demanding workers with strong hands, clear eyesight, and quick discernment, we are told. And the demands of this god must be granted. Why let old codgers slow down the speed of this machine-civilization?

Back just a few generations ago granddad retired when he found his sight failing a little; he turned his farm, or shop, or store over to his son or to his son-in-law, so the present problem of disposing with granddad did not worry the younger set; the undertaker in due time disposed of the ''old man''. But now it is quite different. Grandpa uses lenses fitted to his age touched eyes and sees pretty well; he hooks up an accusticon to his dull ear and hears about normally; he uses his car for transportation and saves his legs as he commutes back and forth from his place of business, and he employs younger hands to do the manual labor about the place; so grandpa continues to be the monarch of all he surveys, and exhibits poise and foresight enough to appear to be good for at least a decade more of business and life. So the problem becomes rather acute. How can we dispose of grandpa?

It is not yet considered a crime for the old man to stand in between zealous, romping youth and their chance at life, but many really do object to it, subrosa like. So the time has come when something must be done about it. These youthful, ambitious, skilled workers, must have their chance. Whoever conceived of the idea of making human beings grow old so slowly surely made a mistake. The whole matter must be reconsidered. Now let some person who voted in the affirmatime when this was done move a reconsideration in order that there shall be a full and a fair consideration, because there are several alternatives any one of which might be adopted. First, why not gear up the human heart so it can make just so many beats, so when this mamixum number is reached it stops automatically. That surely would fix granddad, would it not? Or let it be decided that whenever granddad is unable to stand the strain of his allotted number of ''nights out'' with the younger set every week, he shall be counted unfit for the game of life; or as a third alternative, it might be decided that whenever granddad reaches his forty-ninth or fiftieth birthday, he be chloroformed upon the spot. That would also dispose of the "old man".

Now there might be certain advantages accruing from any of these methods of elimination. First, granddad would be surely put out of the way of advancing youth; he would no longer be hanging around to suggest how things were done in his youth. The government would be able to save millions it is now giving away to the old and infirm.

So let the question be reopened, and let a majority vote determining the whole matter. Of course it would not be fair to those who wanted any of these measures passed to allow granddad to attend the assembly nor to vote on the measures—only allow the younger people to vote. For if granddad should by any chance get into the assembly he might outwit the youth and defeat every project by some parliamentary stunt. Therefore the time has come for youth to arise and decide upon a better plan for disposing of grandpa than the one now in vogue.

Son of Methuselah.

SENTIMENT OR SENSE IN OUR MISSION POLICY?

(Plea of Rev. S. A. Stewart at Saturday Morning's Devotional Hour of M. E. Conference at Charlotte)

There is danger that we lose interest in our missionary work in Japan because of our disgust with the military authorities for their wanton and cruel attack on China. I am trying to suggest some reasons why we should carry on in Japan:

1. The Japanese people need to be Christianized. After the battle ends and the smoke clears away, the Japanese people will remain 70,000,000 strong. Less than one per cent of them are members of any Christian church, either Protestant or Catholic. They need Christ.

2. To overcome "Thought regimentation," a new standard of values of conduct must be given the people. This can only be found in the Bible and in the teachings and spirit of Jesus.

3. To raise up liberal leaders for the country. Most of the liberal leaders of the past have come from among those who have been influenced by Christianity. Japan is not yet a dictator nation. The present prime minister, Prince Konoe, has promised that parliamentary government shall not be overthrown. During the last session of Parliament the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the parliament was loudly celebrated, and that just at the time when the government's bills for regimentation were being passed.

4. How shall be pray for Japan? Some time ago one missionary asked another how she prayed in regard to this Oriental conflict. (Both were missionaries to Japan and both were pro-Chinese in their sympathies). The other replied: "I just pray for God's will to be done." "Well, but how do you know what is God's will?" came the next question. "I just leave that to God. He knows what his will is," was the reply.

This may seem a little indefinite but fundamentally it is the proper attitude. However, I want to suggest a few definite objectives for our prayer with regard to Japan:

1. That oppression and aggression and selfish nationalism may be rebuked, and that a real Christian world community may be established.

2. That God will give comfort to all the bereaved and sorrowing ones in Japan and China alike, to all widows and orphans who are the victims of this cruel war.

3. That the spread of the gospel be not hindered, but that freedom in the propagation of the gospel may continue; that this may be true of Japan proper and of all her protectorates.

4. That the liberal movement may be strengthened and that constitutional government may be advanced. To this end that many great progressive minded leaders may be raised up from our Christian ranks.

5. That the Christians and missionaries may stand true to Christ at this time. That they may be instant in season and out of season in preaching the gospel to all who will hear, especially to those who are oppressed and to those who are sad.

6. That God will overrule all these great movements of our day and cause them to redown to his glory. He can "make the wrath of man to praise him." May new opportunities of preaching the gospel to the suffering and oppressed, to Jews and to Gentiles, be opened up to us, and may the Christian forces be ready to enter every open door.

"This is my Father's world.
O let me ne'er forget
That though the wrong
Seems oft so strong,
God is the ruler yet."

"He will not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set justice in the earth; and the isles shall wait for his law."—Isaiah 42:4.—Reprint from the N. C. Christian Advocate.

HUMAN SUNSHINE

The people we know and love best are those who carry a torch and bring light and joy. They inspire, they lift, they stimulate and help others to believe in themselves.

These are the people we part from reluctantly and hope to meet again. As a matter of fact, we do not really leave them; something of their quality remains with us. We carry a part of them with us wherever we go.

Thus are we drawn to people who cheer us up. We seek them out and stay with them when we are depressed.

On the other hand, we avoid those who are gloomy and cynical and critical. They have nothing to give. How idiotic to go around with a grouch.

Often we hear people speaking of the attractiveness of this one, the fascination of that one. Nine times out of ten, people refer in these terms to those who have cheerful dispositions.

We have watched people gradually isolating themselves because they are so witless as to appear in public complaining and grumbling. Others shun them. Bees go to honey—people gravitate toward sunny dispositions.

But if you expect to be sunny in public, we suggest that you stay sunny in private.—Selected.

We are so thankful for such a good financial report this week. You will all please accept our deep appreciation.

Note that 63 of the above Thanksgiving offerings came from without the North Carolina conference, and the dear friends in Canada, who went from Henderson, send $50.00 each year which otherwise they would have to pay on income taxes. Why not others do likewise? Note again, the splendid increase in offerings from most of the local churches.

And note again, the Thanksgiving offerings to date amount to $2,767.03, and on November 1st we were $3,800 behind on bills. So we are now in shape to make substantial payments, and other offerings yet to come in will enable us to pay more.

And please note again—this we have said to ask pastors and Sunday school superintendents to take time on the first Sunday in December to get your Sunday schools to set a monthly goal for the Children's Home. And, except in a very few cases, set it a bit higher than last year. A note from Henderson acompanying their T. O. said, "We have set $—— as a monthly goal," and this means that Henderson will send us several dollars more this year than last. Please let us know at the earliest possible date what your goal is.

We thank you for your continued cooperation, and pray God's richest blessings upon every one of you. We especially thank the chairmen of districts and all others who have worked so faithfully to make this a good Thanksgiving for the Home.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Fallston, Macedonia, 72 half-gallon cans fruit and vegetables; Friendship, 66 half-gallon and 21 quart cans fruit and vegetables.

Forsyth, Mt. Carmel, 3 bags sweet potatoes, 2 bags Irish potatoes, 1 pumpkin, 4 half-gallon and 3 quart cans fruit and vegetables.

Pine Grove, Kernersville, 3 half-gallon cans fruit, 5 cakes, 1 bag of cookies, and 1 bag of apples.

St. Paul, Greensboro, Mrs. Fred Jones' class of girls, one basket of fruit.

Lebanon Auxiliary, High Point, 19 towels, 26 wash cloths, 8 pair socks, 16 handkerchiefs, 1 dish and 1 piece of underwear.

First Church, Thomasville, 16 towels, 1 coat, 3 half-gallon cans fruit, 8 pair socks, 12 handkerchiefs, and 1 piece of underwear. Precious Jewels, same church, 3 towels, 1 wash cloth, 1 tube of dental cream, 7 cakes soap, and 8 handkerchiefs.

Mrs. J. W. Hopkins, Brown Summit, 7 quart and 1 pint cans of fruit and vegetables, 1 dress and 3 scarfs.

Spring Hill, N. Davidson, 2 bags Irish potatoes, 1 bag sweet potatoes, 2 cakes soap, 1 pumpkin, and 3 half-gallon cans of fruit.

First Church, Burlington, four 48-lb. bags of flour.

Bethany, Randolph (the list was handed in with this donation, and in some cases the number of articles was not given), 14 sheets, towels, 17 wash cloths, 1 pair pillow slips, Window curtains, and 1 quilt.

Haw River, Woman's Auxiliary and the men (this is about the third donation of produce from Haw River this fall), 9 chickens, half-gallon of honey, 1 bag of meal, 1 bag of flour, 1 box of turnips, 56 half-gallon and 6 quart cans of fruit and vegetables, 4 bushels corn, 8 bushels wheat, 4 pumpkins, 1 bag of walnuts, 35 lbs. sugar, 19 bushels Irish potatoes, 11 bushels sweet potatoes, 1 box of clothing, 1 pair overshoes, 2 pair pants, a package of cocoa and a box of pepper, and a quilt.

State Street, Lexington, 2 pair shoes, 3 sweaters and a sweater suit, 1 dress, and some packages of apples, oranges, and bananas.

Moriah, 2 gallon, 15 half-gallon and 19 quart cans of fruits and vegetables, ½ bu. Irish potatoes, 1 bu. green tomatoes, 1 large bag of green peppers, 5 pumpkins, 24-lb. bag of flour, 1 bag of meal, and a bag of sweet potatoes.

Mrs. E. W. Mason, Owasso, Mich., a box containing pajamas, towels, wash cloths, pillow cases, and clothing.

The most of this produce was listed by our older girls as it came to the door. If we have omitted any donation, or any part of a donation, please drop us a card and help us to correct.

We sincerely thank all of you for these splendid donations. They help greatly.

Lots of the names of the donors were sent with the donations, but for the sake of saving space in the Herald I have shortened the reports all I could.

Again thanking you and praying God's richest blessings upon each of you, I am

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

WHY HAVE A CONSCIENCE ABOUT LIQUOR?

Christian Endeavor Topic for Dec. 11, 1938

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Monday, Dec. 5—Because drink deals out death. Prov. 20:1.

Tuesday, Dec. 6—Liquor rackets and ruin. Prov. 1:10-19.

Wednesday, Dec. 7—Liquor the enemy of Christ. Phil. 3:17-21.

Thursday, Dec. 8—Liquor and poverty. Prov. 21:17; 23:21.

Friday, Dec. 9—A forgotten woe. Hab. 2:15.

Saturday, Dec. 10—Liquor ruins souls. I Cor. 6:10.

The Text: I Cor. 6:19, 20; Rom. 14:21.

Young people today sooner or later are faced with the problem of drinking. If they have thought this problem through and have some strong reasons why they will abstain, they are less likely to be led to take a social drink. If they have formulated good replies for their tempers they will be standing on more solid ground. Our advocates of liquors have been quick to seize upon the Bible and the wine offered at Cana. Bishop Hughes reviews the mention of wine in the Bible for us:

First: There are passages where wine is rated with medicine.

Second: We find passages of poetic reference where wine is listed among the symbols of noisy joy as in the description of Penticost. Even here there is the offset in those other verses where wine staggers into the company of evil words and moods. The wine of the condemned; the wine of fornication; the wine of fury.

Third: We note the passage in which the evils of wine and strong drink are vigorously recognized and in which the red signals of warning are lifted above the rocks of life. This group of verses, gathered into a unity, would make an impressive code of caution. There are sign posts directing men away from the paths of poverty and imbecility, and death—perhaps fearfully climaxed in the warning of Proverbs—"Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine. Look not upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup. At last its biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."

Fourth: There are found passages in which the social dangers are noted. St. Paul in I Corinthians pronounces one dreadful word of expatriation: No drunkard shall inherit the Kingdom of God.

Fifth: We discover the passages in which the individual effects of drink are given in story form. Noah lying in the naked shame of drunkenness; Lot betrayed by his daughters into an inconceivable paternity; Annan made merry and silly with wine by Absolom; the Corinthians moving to the wine of holy communion to debaunching bodies and hearts and to sleep in premature graves.

Sixth: Some passages which describe the sacred dutied—first, the counsel to Aaron, "Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou nor thy sons, with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, let ye die." Here are the Nazarites, set aside to God, and so set aside from the false stimulations of drink. Here is the priest's rule ere he enters the deeper sanctuary, "No priest shall drink when he enters the inner court"; or as in the lament of Amos:

I raised up sons of yours as prophets,
And young men to be Nazarites.
Is it not so, O Israel? the Eternal asks you.
But you gave Nazarites wine to drink,
And forbade prophets to prophesy.
So now I make your steps collapse,
As a cart collapses, laden with sheaves.
—Moffatt.

> Son of mine, heed what I say,
> Listen, O son of my prayers, and obey.
> Waste not your strength on women,
> Your love on these destroyers of a king.
> It is not for kings to be quaffing wine,
> Nor for princes to be swilling liquor.
> —Moffatt.

We see that the Bible classes wine and rum as among the social curses of life.

Since legalized liquor has returned more accidents have occurred on our highways. Our people have been caught in the disaster. Where they have not become the physical victims they have sometimes become its financial and spiritual victims. We see them in the restaurant business, in various allied lines, related to the liquor trade. The question arises "am I my brothers' keeper"? Do I have a right to interfer, to save someone?

Vincent and Madge had grown up in their uncle's home where light wines were served, neither had ever indulged to excess.

When Oscar Leigh, son of a friend of the family, came to the city, he was invited to stay several weeks in the Whiting home. Something about the cautious way he tasted a cocktail made Vincent and Madge suspect it was a new indulgence to him. When finally Oscar secured a position he moved to a boarding house near his place of employment. For a time they saw him often, then very infrequently. One evening Vincent said to his sister, "I ran into Oscar today. He was coming out of a bar when I saw him."

Even then they were not prepared for having Oscar lose his position because of intemperate habits. "I wonder how much I'm to blame," Vincent said.

"It's not your fault if Oscar makes a beast of himself."

"He's the high-strung sort. He ought to leave liquor alone. And he had till he came here. Then he saw us drinking and throught he could too."

"He didn't see us drunk," Madge corrected.

"No, but because we know when to stop, it doesn't follow that everybody does."

"It's enough to live one's own life," said Madge, "without assuming responsibility for all the weaklings in the world."

Had Vincent any reason to feel he had failed to prove a real friend? In his place, what would you do?

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM
Of Fourteenth District

On Wednesday evening, November 23, the Fourteenth District held its Thanksgiving program at Friendship Church, Fallston. The attendance was very good considering this was the first meeting of its kind to be held in our district.

The program was very interesting. The devotional was by Rev. W. L. Harkey. He read very impressively several verses of scripture relating to Thanksgiving. A prayer of thanks for past and present blessings was led by Rev. T. G. Madison. The Thanksgiving reading, "Count Your Blessings" was given by Miss Faire White. Miss White spoke in her usual gracious way. "The Thanksgiving Guest" was given by Miss Knox Wray Bess. Miss Bess is an excellent speaker and was at her best.

Then followed a Thanksgiving talk, by Rev. Tom Swafford, of the M. E. Church, Polkville, N. C. Mr. Swafford began his talk very humorously, stating that he is now a full brother to all M. P. brethern, and not just half brother. He related several funny incidents of false Thanks-giving. Then seriously he contrasted the temporal with the eternal in Thanksgiving.

All pastors present made remarks regarding the offerings to the Children's Home.

Then came the reports of the secretaries to the home. Fourteen churches responded with good offerings. The amount was $359.69.

A special offering was taken. I did not learn the amount, and is not included in the above.

The program we believe was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. In all, we feel the meeting was a success.

MRS. B. L. HEAVNER.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

John Yarborough

Mr. John Yarborough was born near Cross Anchor, S. C., on October 17th, 1875. He was the son of the late Daniel and Elvira Snead Yarborough, and spent his entire life at and near the place of his birth. He had been in ill health for something like a year, but was considered critically ill for only about ten days before his death, which occurred on August 23rd, 1938.

Brother Yarborough was of a jolly, happy nature and delighted to have company in his home. He had been totally blind since 1921, and many a man would have been morose and despondent; but through it all he was courageous, and was happy beyond all expectation. For a long time he fully believed that his eyesight would come back, but it never did until he was called at the age of 63, into the glories of the heavenly home where he was freed from all the infirmities of the flesh.

He was a lifelong member of the Methodist Protestant Church at Yarborough's Chapel, the church home of his parents and his grandparents. He loved his church, and gave freely of his time and substance in its service. At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of trustees of the local church, and also a member of the board of stewards.

On March 14th, 1911, he was happily married to Miss Andrella Buchanan, who survives him. He is also survived by three brothers and one sister, Hiram Yarborough, Hendersonville, N. C.; L. Yarborough, Enoree, S. C.; C. D. Yarborough, Clinton, S. C.; and Miss Lily Yarborough, Enoree, S. C.

Funeral services were conducted from the home, near Cross Anchor, on Wednesday, August 24th, at 5:00 o'clock p. m. by Rev. J. P. Patton, assisted by Rev. W. B. Garrett of Greenwood, S. C., and the body was laid to rest in the family plot in the Yarborough's Chapel Cemetery to await the resurrection. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

His nephews, D. A. and Charles Yarborough of Clinton, S. C., N. P. Yarborough of High Point College, James S. Yarborough of Enoree, S. C., G. A. Buchanan of Columbia, S. C., and S. S. Martin of Martinsville, Va., were the pall bearers.

Brother Yarborough was a noble husband, a faithful friend and a good neighbor. He delighted to serve his fellowman. He was my personal friend for thirty years and more. God bless his memory.

A. G. DIXON.

COUPONS! COUPONS!! COUPONS!!!

Listen Friends of the Children's Home:

This proposition of the Octagon Company on their Granulated Soap the best we have ever had, and the best we are likely to have for a long time. It is too good for us to miss,—when it is possible for us to get $28.00 per thousand instead of the regular price of $4.00 per thousand.

I am glad that a great number are working earnestly for this. And I am so sorry for those who would work if they could get the product, so I am making this proposition. Get as many of the Octagon Granulated Soap sold in your community, and I will get the soap here and send it to you as soon as you send me the money. $1.00 will buy one dozen boxes which will mean one dozen coupons, which will mean to us 84 coupons. The quality of the soap, its price and it many uses make it the best buy of its kind that I know of, and then we get such a big cash return on the coupons.

I can get any quantity of it here in High Point, at the rate of three ten cent boxes for a quarter, and will be glad to buy it and get it to you.

Thank you for your help.

MRS. A. G. DIXON.

For Christmas at The Children's Home

Since several have asked us for a list of our children with their ages we have been prompted to ask our church papers to publish the following, which will give you an idea of the ages and sizes of our boys and girls, and if any individual or group of individuals care to send an individual present to any one of the children, please do not hesitate to do so, and we will make up to any, who do not so fare, gifts out of the undesignated packages.

We have boys and girls as follows:

Age 5—Three girls and two boys.
Age 6—One girl and four boys.
Age 7—Four girls and two boys.
Age 8—One girl and three boys.
Age 9—Three girls and four boys.
Age 10—Five girls and three boys.
Age 11—Seven girls and five boys.
Age 12—Five girls and three boys.
Age 13—Five girls and four boys.
Age 14—Six girls and four boys.
Age 15—Six girls and five boys.
Age 16—Two girls and four boys.
Age 17—Seven girls and nine boys.
Age 18—Four girls and two boys.
Age 19—Two girls and one boy.
Age 20—Two boys.

These 19 and 20 year olders are girls and boys who have remained with us to go to High Point College, and are helping with the work in the Home to pay for board and lodging.

Anything in the way of clothing for the above aged girls and boys will be greatly appreciated by them and us. If things go as usual they will get an abundance of candy, fruits and toys. We thank you in their behalf for anything you may do to help make Christmas a bit brighter for them. God bless every one of you and give you a happy Christmas in your unbroken homes.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

High Point, N. C.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Rockingham, R. L. Vickery, Pastor.—The people of Rockingham charge welcome their new pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, who came to us from the Danville church. We want to give him our fullest cooperation this coming conference year. We regretted to see our former pastor, Rev. H. W. Bell, leave us, but we pray God's richest blessings upon him and his dear companion.

The members of the Ladies' Aid society held a chicken supper at the home of Mrs. Boyce Martin last Friday night. Everyone enjoyed themselves very much. The president of our Ladies' Aid society is Mrs. Vester Bell.

Our church services are increasing in attendance. We ask all the churches to pray for us, that we may stand by our pastor and his family and work to the upbuilding of God's Kingdom. We love our Heavenly Father, and we thank Him for His many blessings.

MRS. EUGENE BULLARD, Reporter.

Kernersville-South Winston, Nov. 28.—The pastor has met one appointment at each of the five churches on this charge during the past two Sundays. We are beginning our second year with the people of this charge, and appreciate the privilege of serving them for another year. The pastor and family fave been given a very cordial welcome to the charge for the second year of our pastorate. There seems to be a delightful spirit among the people, and we shall expect a good year's work by all of the churches.

The pastor and family were given a very cordial invitation at the first service of the new conference year at the Kernersville church Sunday, November 20, to visit the splendid home of Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Boone, who were visitors in the service. The good dinner was thoroughly enjoyed, and the hours spent in the home proved very delightful fellowship. Mr. and Mrs. Boone accompanied the pastor and wife to Pine Grove church at 3 p.m. for the first service of the new conference year. While Mr. and Mrs. Boone are members of the Presbyterian church elsewhere, they are friends of our church in Kernersville.

The prayer service of the Kernersville church Wednesday night of last week was held at the parsonage, and conducted by Bro. H. M. Casper, one of our new members, who made a splendid talk on Thanksgiving Day observance. Others spoke briefly. After the close of the service, a very pleasant and delightful surprise was given the pastor and family. Bro. A. N. Linville made the announcement of a pounding, and soon the kitchen table was filled with various gifts, such as flour, meal, meat, sausage, coffee, sugar, lard, fruits and vegetables; and last but not least, a live chicken, which furnished the principal dish for the Sunday dinner at the parsonage. We express our sincere appreciation for every gift, and also for the spirit which prompted the giving.

A new member was received at the Kernersville church Sunday, November 20, the first service of the new conference year. Mrs. Nellie Rector was received by transfer from a Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in South Carolina. We welcome Mrs. Rector into our fellowship, and are expecting to receive others in the near future.

The first quarterly conference has been called by the pastor to meet in the Kernersville church on Saturday, December 17, at 2 p.m. We shall urge the people to attend this conference as we make announcement of the conference at the different churches during the next two Sundays.

The Kernersville church suspended the evening service last Sunday and the pastor and several of the members attended the final service of the eight and one-half years pastorate of Rev. E. F. Baker at the Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Baker has accepted a call to the pastorate of the large Baptist church at Andrews, in the extreme western section of the state.

We will meet the congregations of Ai, Pine Grove, and Kernersville for the regular appointments next Sunday.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Mill Grove Church, Midland, Nov. 28.—We are starting a new year with Rev. E. A. Cook returned to us. We are very proud to have Brother Cook back again. Our little church is trying to help Brother Cook carry his burdens as a pastor. We are trying to do our part in carrying our part of the church work. We have a very good Sunday school. We have one man that is doing more than the most of men would do. He is Brother O. B. Furr. He is taking the children from 6 years old to 10 and 12 and every Sunday he gives them a singing lesson; and believe me, they are doing fine. The children are the future of the church.

We enjoyed Brother Cook's message very much Sunday evening. Nearly all of the community seems to like Brother Cook. We are going to try and have a good year this year. Our prayer meeting is not as good as we would like it to be. We know that a good lively prayer service is helpful to the church. We have some very loyal workers here.

CHAS. W. MISENHEIMER, Reporter.

Orange Charge, C. P. Morris, Pastor, Nov. 28.—Here we are back on the job after attending the annual conference and spending a few days with my wife's people in Danville. We are very happy over the fact of being returned to work with the good people of Orange another year. Already appointments have been filled at all the churches, and I feel that another prosperous year's work is under way.

Perhaps it would be profitable for us to summarize briefly our outstanding accomplishments of the past year. All the churches paid all of the Fellowship Crusade assessment, for a total of $500. Hebron, Efland, and Union Grove paid all claims in full. Chestnut Ridge paid all but two items in the annual conference budget. The total amount raised for the Children's Home for the year was $456.81. The total amount raised by the auxiliaries was $256.64. The grand total of money raised was $3,544.91. In four revival meetings there were 40 professions and 30 accessions. 79 Vacation Church School certificates were awarded. Three Christian Endeavor societies were organized. 52½ subscriptions to the M. P. Herald were received, the third largest in the conference, with Hebron, Efland and Union Grove reaching their quota.

Still, we are looking forward to greater things in the new year. It is our aim to raise all our financial claims, add at least 50 to the church rolls, increase our church attendance by 10%, place new song-books in several of the churches, visit all inactive members within reach, make certain improvements in church buildings and the parsonage, enroll more young people in the Christian Endeavor societies, put on a Leadership Training School, conduct Vacation Church Schools, and strive to awaken within the hearts of our people a deeper sense of church loyalty in keeping with Appreciation Year.

The first quarterly conference will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at Efland church. At that time plans will be made for the year, and the work of the charge duly organized. We are anxious to have a good attendance. We are urging the board of stewards at all of the churches to adopt some sound financial plan, and to conduct an every-member canvass. Stewards' meetings are being held for this purpose, and we trust the members will accept and cooperate with the plan proposed by the boards.

I must not close this letter without making some mention of the many favors shown my wife and me the past few months. One of our most loyal members sent me to the annual conference with a new overcoat, including sales tax and then some to spare. Articles for the pantry have been too numerous to mention. And in every way the needs of the parsonage have been provided. For all of these things we are profoundly grateful. May God bless you all richly.

C. P. MORRIS.

Hollister, Halifax Charge, Nov. 28.—Since we have not had a report from our church or this charge in such a long time, I hardly know where to begin. The people of Halifax charge are happy indeed to have our much-loved pastor, Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., return to us for another year. We know that much good has been accomplished here since he has been our pastor, and we hope to make this year the best ever, both in a spiritual and financial way.

The Auxiliary continues to hold its regular monthly meetings each month. The November meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Sarah Gupton on Tuesday afternoon, November 15, with several members and one visitor present. Mrs. R. L. Parker led the devotional service, using the theme, "Christian Education." The program leader for this meeting was the writer. Mrs. M. G. Satterwhite and Miss Madgie Lee Shearin gave very interesting readings on "Unique Value of the Christian College" and "Price of Leadership Today." Mrs. E. T. Ellington led the closing prayer, after which we were served delightful refreshments by our hostess. Several of our auxiliary members attended the district meeting at Spring church on the fifth Sunday in October. We enjoyed the program and meeting with the Spring church people in their beautiful new church.

They are to be commended for building such a nice church.

We are glad to report that the attendance and interest in the Sunday school have been holding up very well.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shearin, of Hollister, N. C., announce the marriage of their daughter, Rosa Mae, to Mr. Claude Lillington Cannon, Jr., on Tuesday, the 8th of November, at Washington, D. C. They are making their home in Washington, D. C., where Mr. Cannon holds a position in a store, and Mrs. Cannon is a registered nurse in the Emergency hospital in Washington, D. C.

KATHLEEN SHEARIN, Ass't Reporter.

Asheville, N. G. Bethea, Pastor.—This writer has been sending in something for the Herald for so long it will be hard to get away from the habit, though I promise you that it will not be in the form of a boost every time. But there are a few things that I feel should be written by way of appreciation.

The last week in Greensboro was a very busy one. So many invitations to take meals out had to be refused on account of the fact that we wanted to get to our work for the first Sunday. This has always been our rule, though in a few instances we have been forced by circumstances to depart from it. But one call came from Mrs. C. C. Lemonds that we had an invitation to take supper on Thursday night, before we left on Friday, and that she was not going to take no for an answer. Well, she had been such a faithful and loyal supporter of the church that we agreed to go, not knowing what all was in store for us. A bountiful meal, of course, as all know who have ever dined there. Then after the meal folks began to come in, and we wondered what it all meant. There were 38 in all represented, most of whom came. They brought in all 43 articles, every one of which is usable, valuable, and appreciated beyond measure. And the beauty of it all, such things as could be easily packed, and that is worth much when a preacher is moving.

Well, we had a good time together, and then before we left we had prayer together, thanking God for their loyalty through the four years of our pastorate there, and praying God to help every one of them to be faithful to their new pastor and the church through the years that are ahead. And I am sure that every one of them will give Brother Andrews their prayers and the cooperation that will enable him to succeed from the human side.

Such a farewell, to those who have been true and faithful, is sad, but the great fact of the promise of faithfulness to God and his church, it matters not who their leader may be, is an inspiration to the retiring pastor that he has pointed them to God and not to himself. That kind are the only ones that can be depended upon to carry out any Kingdom program effectively. They are the ones that have an influence to lead men to Christ and into the church. And after all, if we do not win men for Christ we have missed obedience to His commands and must suffer the consequences sooner or later.

We want to again express our thanks to those who so generously remembered us in the last hours of our sojourn in Greensboro. Then, to cap the climax, Brother Charles Routh called up the last day, just before we left, and told us that the dining room suite that we thought had been loaned us while there was ours. He said that he had intended all along to make us a present of it. Well, that gave us another boost and sent us on our way rejoicing. Thank you, Brother Routh. Such acts enable one to go away thinking of the good things, and, while we have the habit of talking about the unpleasant, there were so many more good things than the other we will try to remember these and forget anything else that may have happened. God bless every one of you, and may there be such prosperity this year at West End that every member may see the hand of God in it all, and may every member hear the voice of God to obey, and in that way great blessings will be in store as pastor and people work together for the advancement of God's kingdom.

A royal welcome has been given us here, but we will tell about that in another issue.

Richland Charge, C. L. Grant, Pastor, Nov. 28.—I have filled three of the appointments on Richland charge as follows: Giles Chapel, Browers Chapel, and Cedar Falls. The attendance was good, the spirit shown among the people was fine. We have been received in a very fine way. Some repairs were needed at the parsonage; this is being done, which we appreciate. With the fine spirit in which we are getting started, I see no reason why we should have anything else but a fine year. So we trust that the honor rolls will be our goals. We covet the prayers of all Christians for a successful year in His service. C. L. GRANT.

West End Church, State Street Charge.—We have just closed one of the best years in the history of our church, for which we are very thankful, and we feel deeply indebted to our pastor for our success the past year. We also thank the stationing committee and the president of the conference for sending Mr. Loy back to us.

We have a fine Ladies' Auxiliary that we think is doing a great work for the church. We also have two Christian Endeavor societies for the young people, and a Fellowship club for older people that we think is helping our church very much.

We hope for success for the entire conference for the coming year.

Yarborough Charge.—"I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believth in me shall never die." "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors: and their works do follow them."

Such can be said of our dear brother who has passed on from us. "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part: but then shall I know as also I am known."

On October 29, 1938, Brother Richards, as far as I know the oldest member of Yarborough's Chapel church, passed on to be with us no more. He was a member of Yarborough's Chapel church about 45 years. He lived in sight of the church, and as long as he was able, came regularly and supported his church. The writer had the privilege of being at this man's home and saw him only a short time before his death. His going came as a shock to me, but "in the midst of life we are in death," and Brother Richards is enjoying his heavenly reward.

He was born in 1862, dying on October 29 at the age of 76. He was married to Miss Lula Trammell in 1889, by whom he is survived. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, one brother, and one sister.

He was outstanding in his service to his God, his church, and his community, living in this locality all his life. He will be missed, but may God bless, comfort, and keep his dear wife, brother, and sister, and all that he leaves behind, remembering that they can see him again and go to be with him, where they will never more be parted.

His going was a loss that is hard to fill. Again, may God comfort all that mourn his loss. We shall miss him, but we shall see him again, with our dear Savior, Jesus Christ. A good man gone to his heavenly reward.

THURMAN H. VICKERY.

College Street Church, Littleton Charge, D. D. Broome, Pastor.—We are now standing on the threshold of a new year, with the prospects of doing many worthwhile things, by the help of our new pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome. We are indeed glad to welcome Brother Broome and his family into our communion, and feel we are fortunate to have them with us for the coming year. But along with our delight, our hearts are saddened by the thought of Mr. and Mrs. Trolinger's leaving us. For the past two years he has been our devoted pastor and friend, and he has helped us in every way he could. He has helped us to accomplish many good things, and it has been hard for us to think of giving him and Mrs. Trolinger up. But we are praying God's blessing upon them in their new work for the coming year.

On Friday after Thanksgiving a number of our members met at the parsonage to greet our new pastor and his family. They arrived about 8:30 o'clock, and after warming themselves from a long, cold drive, we served them supper. We have found them to be just the friendly and kind people to suit us, and we feel assured that we are going to cooperate well together.

He filled his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and delivered to us an excellent message. We had visitors from other churches to be with us, which we were glad to see among our congregation.

Brother Broome was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Perkinson, and was the supper guest of Mrs. Sallie Williams.

Our church has bought some new hymnals. The Sunday school is holding its own well. We expect to have some new members added to our Sunday school list.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Jim Warren for the last meeting. The business discussion for the evening was the pounding of our new pastor. Mrs. Gurdia Morris was awarded a prize for raising the most money on the quilt squares. Mrs. Alice Glasgow was also the winner of the Octagon soap contest. Her prize was a nice new Bible.

Monday night, November 28, has been decided on for a meeting of our Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. W. L. Perkinson. This is for the benefit of putting our quilt together, and also to give a farewell to our dear and beloved pastor and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Trolinger. We are expecting all members of the Auxiliary to be present.

May all pray that we may have another successful year.

ANNIE PERKINSON, Reporter.

Rehoboth Church, Granville Charge.—We are glad to have Rev. J. P. Pegg and family with us again this year.

November 20 the Ladies' Auxiliary held a thank-offering service at our church. Mrs. H. L. Wright, T. O. secretary, had charge of the program. We were fortunate in having Mr. Zollicoffer, attorney of Henderson, who brought us a splendid message on home missions.

Much interest is shown in choir practice, which we have every first and third Sunday evenings at 7 o'clock, conducted by our pastor.

We are having a very good Sunday school at present, under the leadership of R. W. Harris, superintendent, and Gray Kittrell, assistant; but we want to keep climbing and have a better Sunday school the coming year than we have ever had before.

Our hearts were saddened by the death of one of our members, Mrs. W. S. Hunt, who passed away November 23 at her home near Henderson. She had been in declining health for some time. Surviving are her husband, son, and five daughters. Funeral was conducted by her pastor at Rehoboth church. The large congregation present and the beautiful flowers were proof of the high esteem in which she was held.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge, T. M. Johnson, Pastor, Nov. 28.—We certainly welcome the return of our pastor and the messages he has brought to us since his return have been very inspiring. The sermon delivered to us on Sunday morning was taken from Gal. 5. Our pastor gave us striking examples of poverty, war, persecution, etc., in other lands. When we sense such horrible situations we can do nothing else but offer up praise to our Heavenly Father that we are such fortunate humans.

A recent marriage of much interest to this community was that of Miss Lucille Davis to Mr. Jesse Johnson. Miss Davis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davis. She is a member of the Willing Workers class of this church and a graduate of Duncan high school. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson. He is a member of the Abner Creek Baptist church and a graduate of Duncan high school. We wish for them the greatest happiness that could be experienced by onyone, and may God bless them.

A Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home was given by the people of Liberty Hill Sunday morning. The amount was $18.84. We appreciate this offering very much and hope the children enjoy receiving it as much as we enjoyed giving it.

We regret to report the illness of Miss Lula Pearson, teacher of the junior boys' and girls' class, and Mrs. Dee Pike, a member of our community. Our sincere wish is that they may have a speedy recuperation.

The C. E. society of this church was entertained at a social given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Foster on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves and we were very glad to have with us Dr. T. M. Johnson.

The Willing Workers' class will have their monthly meeting on December 6 at the home of Misses Hortense and Thalia Foster. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Greer and son, of Duncan, were the guests of Mrs. J. F. Compton Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Houston Poole and their son and daughter, of Greenville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Poole Sunday.

Our weekly prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. Mr. T. F. Gaston, former superintendent of the Sunday school, will be the leader. We know all that go will receive a blessing that will benefit us much more than if we remain at home. Everyone please be much in prayer for our prayer meetings.

May this thought expressed in the poem below be with us when we are amid the storm and stress of life:

"I have a tryst with God;
  Wherever I may need,
That is the trysting place,
  And He is there indeed.
If fear would overwhelm,
  Or pleasure, pain, or pride,
It is a sign to Him,
  And He is by my side.
I have a tryst with God,
  No matter where it be—
In life and death I know
  That He will meet with me."

HORTENSE FOSTER, Reporter.

Eden-Halifax, Nov. 25.—Having recently been appointed reporter, and not knowing what has already been reported, I hope I may be forgiven any errors I may make.

The following is at least a partial outline of work done this year:

The members have had a new roof put on the church, and Mr. I. D. Wood has had the cemetery fence painted. The Ladies' auxiliary have met all financial obligations hut painted, and the church windows repaired. We are especially grateful to Mr. Z. A. Hardee for his generous help in getting the hut painted and the windows repaired. He gave us a special price on the painting and used his truck and went with Mr. Howard to take the windows to High Point.

Besides these things, the Auxiliary has filled several dozen jars of fruit for the Children's Home. Also they have supplied clothing for the year for one child.

I have been informed that the church and auxiliary has met all financial obligations for the year. We are humbly thankful for this.

We were glad to welcome several new members into the church at the close of our revival meeting in August.

A membership meeting was held in the hut on October 28. Officers for the year were elected. Am sorry the list of names is not available at present. However, Mr. R. G. Willey was added to the board of trustees, and Miss Alta Jean Hamill to the board of stewards.

We deeply appreciate having Mr. Howard with us another year. We realize that he is putting forth great effort in serving us and going on with his education. He is faithful and prompt under all circumstances to fill his appointments with us, and his messages are filled with comfort and inspiration.

In conclusion, may I have a personal line to say my husband and I are happy to be back in the Eden community after an absence of seven years. (Am taking a personal risk in saying this, as I mentioned this seven year period in a crowd recently and some one promptly mentiotned the seven year locusts.)

MRS. L. A. WILLIAMS, Reporter.

Asheville - Reidsville.—Surprised? So were we; and we haven't recovered yet. Perhaps there is some mistake, especially since a recent edition of the Herald carried the name of E. L. Bellamy as the new pastor of Reidsville church. Anyway, here we are!

Up in the mountain city we left some very fine people in our church. Frankly, it was the hardest and most discouraging task we had ever tackled, but there are as loyal, as liberal, as likable folks there as anywhere. We didn't want to leave them. Especially would we venture to mention Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Williams. Although "the Good Samaritan" of Asheville had his own responsibilities outside of the church, he was (and is) very much interested in its progress, and, with his faithful wife, responded to every appeal for every worthy objective. Mrs. Williams is always on the job, in the Sunday school, in the church service, and in the Auxiliary work. God bless them with many more years of service is our petition.

Our arrival in Reidsville was not the most inspiring and encouraging. We drove all of the way on Saturday in a steady downpour of rain. We found that Dr. and Mrs. Brown had not been able to vacate the parsonage; and our belongings, which preceded us, had been stored in one room. We spent the week-end in the hospitable home of J. H. Allen. The aged, loyal, and revered member, Mrs. Sallie Kernodle, passed away Tuesday and her funeral rites were conducted the next day by Dr. Brown, Dr. J. D. Williams, and the writer. Also, a ten-year-old Sunday school boy passed away. Several sick members required immediate attention.

On the other hand, we have been received most graciously. A large number greeted us both at Sunday school and church services. Besides the Allens, several others have had us to meals. And the fine new parsonage in which we shall live would be a joy to any preacher and his family. Already we have seen evidence of the effective work performed by Dr. Brown and his competent helpmeet, during their long sojourn, and we follow them in this pastorate with no little trepidations. However, to do our best, guided by the Divine Will, is our primary and constant prayer and ambition.

E. LESTER BALLARD.

Forsyth Charge, Maple Springs Church.—We are very glad to have our same pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter, and his family for another year. The pastor is beginning his eighth year on this charge. He and his family have meant a lot to our Sunday school and church these past years. We hope that this may be our best year working together in the Master's work.

The first service of the new conference year was held on the third Sunday night.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has been doing a great work during the last year. Through their untiring efforts, many improvements have been made to the church, which include a new porch in front of the church and a new roof. On the inside a choir loft has been built and new carpet for the floor. All of this beautifies our church immensely. The young girls' class presented the church with a new pulpit Bible.

The Sunday school is planning to give a Christmas entertainment which will be under the direction of Mrs. Ira Baity, Mrs. Horne and Mrs. Grubbs.

REPORTER.

First Church, Burlington, Dr. F. W. Paschal, Pastor.—How fast the time flies! Another year has passed, and we find ourselves at the beginning of a new conference year.

This church whole-heartedly welcomes Dr. Paschal and his family back with us for another year. In the church bulletin for the past week we find these words from Dr. Paschal, "Your pastor is very glad to be with you another year. He is your servant in Christ. He will do all that he can for every member of this church. Let him help you."

The writer feels that these words are the very sentiment of our pastor. Wouldn't it be fine if every member of our church would accept these words as a challenge, and resolve in our own hearts that we would be servants in Christ, and do all that we could for every member of the church and everyone with whom we come in contact?

This church raised all financial obligations last year, and raised for all purposes $9,711.00.

Wednesday evening, November 23, a district Thanksgiving service was held in this church. Rev. H. Freo Surratt, pastor of Graham church, led the service. There were representatives, aside from Burlington, Gibsonville, Glen Raven, Fountain Place, Haw River and Graham churches. An offering was taken for the High Point Orphanage. The amount collected from Burlington First church to date is $325. The other churches in the district have not reported their amounts at this writing.

On Thanksgiving day at 10 a.m. the City Union Thanksgiving service was held in this church. Rev. Banks J. Peeler, pastor of the First Reformed church of this city, delivered the sermon.

Speaking from the topic, "Wait for the Lord," he called our attention to the fact that in our business life we were in such a hurry that we did not have time to stop and be friendly, or to say a good word to our neighbor. He stated that we thought too much in terms of things, rather than in terms of eternity.

Special music was rendered by the church choir. Rev. A. D. Kennett, pastor of the First Baptist church, this city, was in charge of the meeting. The offering received will be turned over to the county welfare department.

The regular monthly meeting of the Auxiliary met in the hut, Monday evening, with a large attendance, and some very interesting reports were given.

A junior choir has recently been organized and is doing nicely.

There has been an increase in our church the past year, in church membership, Sunday school members, and Woman's Auxiliary. We are hoping for great things for the new year. Pray for us that we may go forward in His service.

REPORTER.

Friendship Church, Chase City Charge, D. D. Broome, Pastor.—Here we are beginning with a new year. Conference is over and we have settled down to work again with a new pastor.

Our pastor filled his regular appointment Sunday. I am speaking for all when I say we enjoyed his inspiring message, his friendliness and gratitude toward us. We are also very glad to have the opportunity to claim Brother Broome as our pastor, and sincerely hope this will be one of the most successful years, for both pastor and people, that we have had.

Although sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Trolinger, Seagrove-Love Joy—we are speaking to you—you have two faithful workers for this year. Just help him and I am sure he will help you.

Brother Broome will be with us again next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, and everyone is cordially invited.

Pray for us that we may always do God's will and serve Him in the right way.

PAULINE JARRELL, Reporter.

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Charge, Rev. J. B. Trogdon, Pastor, Nov. 28.—Our new pastor preached again for us last Sunday. We are all so glad to have Brother Trogdon with us for another year. His sermon was so good and helpful to us in starting off in the new year's work. Our pastor told us we must work harder this year than we did last year, for whatever comes our way God is in the very midst of us. He is our strength and wants to be glorified in our bodies and spirits, which are His. So may we do the little and seemingly insignificant things that are not noticed by us so many times, for they are the big things after all.

We have made some improvements at our church. A vestibule has been built, which adds so much to the appearance of the church. A bell has been placed in the balcony, also new pews and a new coat of paint inside and out.

On Thanksgiving night a service was held. The leader was Mr. Russel Robbins, one of our most faithful members; it was a real inspiring service which was intended for all to express their gratitude for the many blessings that had been bestowed on them the past year. There was a special song by Miss Gwema Jones and Mr. Everett Witcher, also quartet by Mr. Milton Cashatt and others from Winston-Salem.

Our Christian Endeavor society is still going forward and pressing upward, and we hope the young people will take advantage of the opportunity which the society affords in leadership and in the building of Christian character; for we all must work out out salvation with fear and trembling.

MARTHA PARSONS.

Gray's Chapel, Randolph Charge, H. L. Isley, Pastor.—Our church has just finished one of the best years in the history of the church. We paid all of our claims in full. But most important is the revival of spiritual activity among our members. We feel that we owe most of this success to our pastor, Mr. Reynolds, who is leaving for Danville. The people of Danville are fortunate in getting such an active, well educated, sincere preacher.

Our new pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, met his first appointment today. Despite the severe cold weather, a large crowd was there to enjoy his good sermon. We are looking forward to a good year under the leadership of Mr. Isley.

We are making plans to build some much-needed Sunday school rooms. We probably won't get startetd until the first of the year.

Pensacola, W. C. Clark, Pastor, Nov. 28.—We are indeed glad to have Rev. W. C. Clark as our pastor again this year.

The painting of our church is completed. We wish to thank the following for making it possible for our church to be painted: Mrs. C. W. Robertson, Messrs. Donald Banks, M. H. and Wayne Blankenship, Lon Autry, W. W. Gardner, Joe Goodwin, Floyd Hollifield, Jim McClurd, Fred Proffitt, Straley Rathbone, R. R. Ray, L. B. Silver, and A. G. and S. M. Wilson.

We are glad to say we raised our quota of Herald subscriptions before conference. We also raised our superannuates claim in full. MRS. W. G. BLANKENSHIP.

Brower's Chapel Church, Richland Charge.—We have closed a conference year and feel that the past year has been very successful. Our church has paid all of its conference claims in full and we want to express our thanks to all of those who made this possible.

We were very happy last Sunday to welcome our new pastor, Rev. C. L. Grant, in our church. He and his family were with us for the first time last Sunday for a service. Rev. Mr. Grant selected for his subject "Faith." This was a very impressive sermon. There were two things that Rev. Mr. Grant asked us to do, and those were, Pray and Cooperate. I am sure he will find the people of our church willing to do both.

It seems that our Sunday school is on the upward move now. Our attendance is good, our treasury is in good condition, and we are now making plans to underpin the church and build a new flue.

We are very proud of our Christian Endeavor. We feel that we have done a fine piece of work since we were organized. The C. E. sent a thank-offering of $10 to the Children's Home. They now have plans under way for a Christmas program.

We must not forget our Ladies' Auxiliary in this report. There also is a fine organization. This band of ladies have done much for our church during the past year and we are proud of them.

In closing we say again that we are very pleased with our new pastor and his family, and we are all looking forward to a very spiritually successful year.

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge, Rev. Joseph F. Coble, Pastor, Nov. 27.—Our church members are very fortunate and very glad to have Mr. Joseph Coble with us for the new year. We hope all will cooperate with him in every way possible to make this a successful year.

Rev. Joseph Coble preached his first sermon at Haw River November 27. He delivered a splendid Thanksgiving message. Our Thanksgiving offering for Sunday school and church amounted to $45.62.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met November 18 and celebrated their 10th anniversary. The M. E. Ladies' Aid were invited and a number of other guests. The new pastor and wife were present. A birthday cake with other refreshments were served, and a nice time was enjoyed by all.

We hope every member of our congregation will work hard and support our pastor in making this the best year ever.

MARRIED

Crabtree-Coble — Thompson-Isley

Of interest to those in the Mt. Hermon, and surrounding communities was the marriage of Miss Mildred Crabtree to Lonnie Coble and Miss Florine Thompson to Broadie Isley in a double ceremony at the home of Rev. H. L. Isley, Saturday, November 26th at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Alberta Keck and O. D. Curtis witnessed the ceremony.

Miss Crabtree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crabtree and a prominent member of Mt. Hermon church. She is a graduate of Alexander Wilson High School and at the present is employed in Burlington. Mr. Coble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Coble. He is employed at the Wilson Finishing Mills in Burlington.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson and is also a member of Mt. Hermon church and a graduate of Alexander Wilson High School. Mr. Isley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Isley. He is employed at McEwen Hosiery Mills. All young people are from the Mt. Hermon community.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Coble will make their home with the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Isley will reside near Graham.

"But the Greatest of These"

The exactitude with which the Apostle Paul evaluates human motives, desires and impulses is wonderful. His comparison of love with tongues and prophecies and faith and hope is so well done that he leaves nothing for his successor to add to or take from. And when he has completed that evaluation of love in the thirteenth of First Corinthians we are ready to agree with him when he says, "but the greatest of these is love." A consideration of this chapter will surely inspire confidence in any despairing soul were he to tarry long enough over it to inquire, is it indeed true that love is the greatest thing in the world? And if so, why?

Love is mighty as a builder of men, while its opponent, hate, is a destroyer of men. As our Lord said, "The thief cometh not but for to steal, to kill, and destroy. I am come that they might have life, and have it more abundantly." What peace, between death and life, between sin and salvation.

For love does the impossible; it lifts the moral direlict whose stranded soul is wedded to despair, and puts his feet upon the pathway of life. There is no other power known to men that can do this so completely. Love transacts man's vocabulary and takes from it all strife, provoking words, words of hate, of bitterness, of evil desire, and gives in their sted a new language and a new song to stir anew the wings of hope. What other power can do this so well?

Love is a mighty transformer of human personality, as Paul has so well said, "For we all beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord are changed into the same image from glory unto glory." Love gives words their true meaning, deeds an induring vitality; love glorifies forgiveness and peace instead of war and destruction. It is love that gives spiritual values to money, to stocks and bonds, to real estate; love changes gold into goodness, silver in service. "The greatest of these is love."

Loves takes from memory's gallery those who have spoken ill of us, all who have done us wrong. It takes the old catalogue of slights, insults, and prejudice which is so often treasured and destroys the complete list so that we remember them no more forever. But it does not leave the walls of memory bare for it puts in the place of all these the life-size picture of our Lord upon the cross as he prayed, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." Yes, the greatest of these is love. "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Appointments Cancelled

A severe cold kept me in bed all of last week and caused me to be absent from the High Point College Trustees meeting on Wednesday afternoon, the Why Not quarterly conference on Saturday and all of my appointments on the Mocksville charge on Sunday. I hope to visit these charges a little later. The fact that I was not out on some charge last Sunday leaves me without anything to write about so far as my visitation of the churches is concerned. But there are other things that ought to be said, so I expect to use the space to good advantage.

The Appreciation Year

For the same reason that I was unable to keep my engagements last week I was also hindered in pushing my part of the Appreciation Year Program. But the letter has gone out to the District Chairmen and I trust they may be able to go to work right away. But in order that our people generally may understand more perfectly the meaning of the Appreciation Year Campaign I am reproducing some of the things said to the District Chairmen. What is all of this about and where did it originate? The Appreciation Year Campaign originated in the Board of Administration at Tiffin, Ohio, last May. There a committee was appointed to suggest a program for this year. After considerable deliberation it was decided that for this conference year the whole church would major on raising the World Service budget in full. There seemed to be considerable desire manifested for working at something which was already in the budget rather than to go outside the budget. The present program does that very thing. It is nothing new, but an effort to do the thing which we have failed to do in other years. If the churches throughout the denomination had been raising World Service as they are asked to do this year there would now be no debts on our General Boards, but since we have not done it, it now becomes necessary for the whole Church to do the thing in one year in order that we may pay our just and honest debts. Of course the Appreciation idea carries with it some things not in a budget but originally the plan was to raise the World Service Budget in full. Then the idea came to some member of the committee that as a means to an end we might bring in the Appreciation idea.

The committee appointed by the Annual Conference has had a meeting and has decided that the work should proceed along these lines: The District Chairman appointed by the President of the Conference is to contact the person known as District Chairman for the Women's Work. These two persons are to have oversight of the work in the district. If they wish to do so they may call to their assistance some other persons. They are to see to it that a World Service Committee is appointed in each local church who shall keep this matter before the people from time to time.

The two District Chairmen also are to plan district rallies to discuss this matter and other things vital to the church. Some suggested subjects for discussion are: What the Methodist Protestant Church has meant to me, What the Methodist Protestant Church has meant to the World, What the North Carolina Annual Conference has meant to me or What we are Taking Into the Union or various other subjects which they may want to use. Anyway, what we need is to keep this subject before us.

What Is To Be Counted

The Board of Administration decided that all money raised for World Service in the Fellowship Cruside would be a credit on this year's budget for World Service. Here in N. C. we had a cosmopolitan budget in which High Point College and the Annual Conference had a share. But 4-15th of what we raised in the Fellowship Crusade went to World Service and can be taken as a credit on this year's World Service appointment in the local church. Then, our Conference Committee voted that those who will complete their work of raising their World Service apportionment by April 30th, 1939, in order to receive an Appreciation Year certificate, will be allowed to take cedit for other World Service money raised since May 1, 1938. While this is allowed for those who will complete their apportionment by April 30th, it cannot apply to those who take until Nov. 1 to raise their apportionment. But the thing of importance is to raise the money for our General Boards that they may pay their debts. The matter of credits is not half so important as to have the missionary and educational spirit that will enable the Church to go forward. While we are soon to go out of business as an Annual Conference and as a General Church yet we go on in the larger fellowship of the new church. The man who forms a new business partnership does not squandor his money for he needs it in his new business relationship. Our local churches are to go right on in the work of the kingdom after the union. Some of them will hardly know any difference in their own work. We need to be cultivating the habit of liberality among our people so as to more nearly measure up to our opportunities in our new relationships.

Visiting Quarterly Conferences

While I hope to visit several quarterly conferences yet all of us realize that it is impossible for me to visit all of them. For the past several months I have run on a schedule that is too strenous to maintain indefinitely. In many cases District Chairmen will be able to go out and assist in quarterly conferences. So, consult your District Chairman and in the meantime I shall be glad to visit as many quarterly conferences as possible.

A PRAYER

Sometimes I wish that I might do
Just one grand deed and die,
And by that one grand deed reach up
To meet God in the sky.

But such is not Thy way, O God,
Nor such is Thy decree,
But deed by deed, and tear by tear,
Our souls must climb to Thee.

As climbed the only Son of God
From manger unto Cross,
Who learned, through tears and bloody sweat,
To count this world but loss.

Who left the Virgin Mother's arms
To seek those arms of shame,
Outstretched upon a lonely hill
To which the darkness came.

As deed by deed, and tear by tear,
He climbed up to the height,
Each deed a splendid deed, each tear
A jewel shining bright.

So grant us, Lord, the patient heart,
To climb the upward way,
Until we stand upon the height,
And see the perfect day.

On the Lookout for Mercies

Somewhere as I was reading this phrase caught in my memory, "Be on the lookout for mercies," and I thought of a pioneer exploring new countries ever alert as he travelled looking for the strange, the new and the valuable there; or it may be more like the pilot of the vessel as he stands watch for the shore line as his ship ploughs the lashing waves. So the good man who is watchful each hour of the day for new mercies and blessings which God has all about him.

The psalmist had found by experience that "The Lord is good to all, and his tender mercies are over all his works," indeed he was so mercy conscious that he declared, "I will sing of the mercies of the Lord forever."

What a splendid attitude for one to cultivate, ever alert for mercies rather than for disappointments, for discouragement and failure. He who has become aware of the truth that God is good to all will live momentarily in the expectant mood when there is so much in the Bible to encourage us. Over and over again the reader of the Bible sees the word, ask, seek, knock, come, believe, hear. Every one of these words puts the responsibility of failure upon us. "For he that asketh receiveth, he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be open."

◆

Life's Vital Verbs

When you come to think of it, there are only a few verbs which are vital to life. Be, believe, do. How important these are. Be, be something. Believe, believe something. Do, do something. This trio just about spells success wherever they are dominant. And of course their absence, or the absence of just one destroys the possibility of success. How important is being. We like people because of what they are really more than for what they do. Even the difference in race, nationality is forgotten, ceases to be a barrier between those who are joined by a community interests. And what a wonderful fellowship belief makes. Millions of Methodists, of Baptists, or Presbyterians who are one in doctrine. But how empty is a life which never accomplishes anything. How true the lines of the poet when he said:

> "Count that day lost whose low descending sun,

Team-Work

Here is an expression so well understood that even the child in the kindergarten knows its meanings. Team-work is the work done by the team, the whole team. A ball team may have a star, one who outplays all the others and may be able to win the game; but the real benefits which come from playing the game whenever all the members of the team fail to participate. So it is in religious organizations. The Sunday school or the Christian Endeavor Society or the church membership may have in them one or two people who run the whole organization. Do most of the talking, take most of the parts, and sometimes pay a great deal more than is their share. And their activities mean that there are several in those groups who do practically nothing. Now this is wrong. No church should be run by one person, or even a small group of people. If such happens the first thing the church should do is to enlist more of its members—get more folks working, praying, doing things, paying money. Because until they thus participate they will never get much joy out of their membership of the group.

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

International Sunday School Lesson for December 11, 1938

By Rev. O. L. Easter

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:17; Luke 12:13-21; I Timothy 6:6-10.

Golden Text—Thou shalt not covet.—Exodus 20:17.

On our first thought this commandment or sin might seem superficial. To covet defined in simple terms means to desire something that belongs to someone else and perhaps to get more of its nature into our minds in all of its sinfulness we should name a few synonyms of covetousness. In other common terms it means avarice, greed, lust, grasping desire, etc., and by common consent we place the sin of which these speak in the list of the seven cardinal sins of life. The word "cardinal" comes from the Latin word that means "hinge" and is used here to say that upon a cardinal sin hinge many other sins. We shall see in this study that instead of being just a superficial sin this Tenth Commandment occupies a very cardinal place among all the commandments.

Paul has placed this sin head of the list when he says here that the lobe or lust of money is the root of all evil and the study of life and the history of man makes us to feel that he has in no way overstated the case. We can easily trace the thread of this sin running through these other sins spoken against in the nine other commandments. It is because of the lust for money that so many men today viciously break the Sabbath, that others neglect their parents and elders, commit murders and steal. Many of the leaders in desecration of the Lord's day would be discouraged in it if the profit for them could be taken away. They, under license, lead our people to flagrantly break the Sabbath not merely to desecrate it but to commercialize their sin. This motive lies back of the present neglect of parents and certainly back of the like sin of casting aside our elder people in our society. Employers on every hand are casting off those in their employ who have reached a certain age using as their reason that they are not able to produce enough money to satisfy the firm. One has only to read one sad chapter in the story of the white slave traffic to see that the root of this terrible evil is the desire of money—a desire that can be realized through the passions of mankind. And so we can go through the gamut of human sins. As one commentator has put it, can we not really say: "Thou shalt not covet in order that thou shalt not break the Sabbath, steal, commit adultery, or murder?"

In our last weeks lesson we ventured to say that the victim who suffered most in the sin of false witness was our neighbor but in this study I think we shall readily find that in the sin of covetousness the individual sinner himself suffers the most. Paul says here that by coveting money men are led astray from the faith and pierce themselves with many sorrows. Jesus gives also his strong warning against the damaging results of this sin to the individual life in his graphic parable of the Rich Fool. "Take heed and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." In other words the sinfulness of the sin of covetousness lies in the fact that it crowds out of mans life the riches of God by making room for earthly goods that are desired in coveting. For God would have us to see the terrible folly of man when he covets the things of the world and loses himself or his soul in the process. The tragedy of the miner, says Jesus, is not that he hoards his gold from circulation but rather that in making so much room for his gold he leaves no space at all for his soul which after all is all the real treasure that he possesses.

In other words Jesus is saying that the real trouble lies in the fact that in our coveting we are desiring the wrong things; that we should rather covet the treasures of heaven which when attained last forever and are ours to seek. Instead of drowning our souls in destruction and perdition, as do these hurtful lusts of the flesh, the passionate desire for the treasures of Heaven will make our lives blossom into the abundant life of God. Then it might be said that this commandment is really directed against the sinful and fleshly objects for which we long and that to best solve our problem of coveting we should seek a higher and more honorable object for which to seek—even the riches of God. Napoleon, that great soldier, was possessed with a great passion for building his great earthly empire and he actively coveted many peoples and lands for this empire. General William Booth, that great Christian soldier of the Salvation Army, was equally possessed with a great passion for heavenly empire in Christ and he coveted every soul under heaven for his empire. Napoleon seeing the great city of London would say "What a city to conquer"; General Booth said "What a city to save". If mankind could be fully led to seek first the kingdom of heaven then he would be free from the possibility of sinning against this Tenth Commandment and thereby society would be saved from these other sins. As just shown in the picture of Booth and Napoleon if we would seek those things that make us rich towards God this process would color and change our whole attitude towards our fellowman. Instead of breaking the Sabbath as before to get his money we would keep the Sabbath holy in order to help save his soul; instead of taking his life to grab his wallet we would lay down our lives to save his; instead of wanting his possessions we would give him freely of ours as he has need of them. For in seeking after the things of God we are seeking chiefly after love (for God is Love), and perfect love needs no Ten Commandments. Let us then sound abroad this timely commandment of the Mosaic Law of thou shalt not covet anything that is thy neighbors but let us follow it up with that greater commandment of our Master: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these other things shall be added unto you."

CLASSROOM ECHOES

By P. E. Lindley

The Nature of Desire

In a very large sense our basic human desires are good. While there may be such a thing as "evil desire," what we ordinarily mean by the term is a good desire threatening to gratify itself in the wrong way. There is nothing wrong in wanting to win the approval of other people, but the manner we select to get that approval may be wrong. There is nothing bad about wishing to own a watch, yet there is something terribly wrong in stealing the money with which to buy the watch.

Thus it runs; our cravings are, according to nature, just a part of our being, and the manner, the time and place, in which they are satisfied makes them wrong. According to W. I. Thomas, an eminent sociologist, we have four major wishes. The first is the desire for new experience. Now, I see nothing evil about wanting new experiences. But the trouble comes in the way we seek those new adventures. Let a man seek new experiences in good reading, sensible travel, or honest money-making and he will reap happiness and profit, but let him look for, and find, the new experience in strong drink and the trouble starts. He is finding adventure, to be sure, but in the wrong way. Fortunate indeed is the person who launches out to enjoy new experiences in the higher realms of pleasure. Here he can go on and on, reaching finer and finer joys to satisfy his natural bent for adventure and still be adding to his life instead of robbing it.

Thomas said, again, that we all desire security. It is natural to want protection, wealth, safety, stability. Here too we can seek satisfaction in different ways—some good ways and some wrong. As a matter of fact certain men are so bent on his security that they will scheme and fraud other people in order to get it. But there is nothing wrong in the wish to be secure. In reality this urge has built homes, blazed forests, organized railroads and industries—there is no harm in wanting security. But, I repeat, the harm comes in the manner it is sought and won.

Self-expression is the same way. Everybody wants to respond, to express himself, to talk. He wants to be felt as important in the group. Again the danger lies in the manner of this expression. Some are so eager for the feeling of self-expression that they turn to exaggeration and conceit in order to find it.

Or, finally, we have the wish for recognition—one of the strongest traits of the race. We just must be noticed. But think to what utter, even sinful, means men will stoop in order to win this fame and attention. Some will sell character, friends, and health to gain public notice. Now, there is nothing wrong with the desire to be popular, but the danger lies in the means employed to gain popularity. As Benjamin Franklin used to say, one may "pay too dear for the whistle" in this struggle for attention.

Still in all of these cases it is good to notice that the end sought can actually be won in a good and legitimate way. Fame, self-expression, security, and new experiences await the person who launches out with a high purpose, stays on the right track and labors for noble, unselfish ends. In the words of the Teacher, "Whosoever would save his life must lose it, and he who would lose his life shall keep it."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION OF CHILDREN

(Under Twelve)

The Situation

Not having an employed director of Children's Work, we must depend upon volunteer directors, local church leaders, and the helps from the Board of Christian Education and other sources. We have many churches doing excellent work with children in various organizations, but ofttimes our churches are adult minded and the Children's Work is neglected. Not only are those reached by our churches inadequately cared for, but in our very communities there are many children under twelve years of age unreached by any religious organization.

What May You Do About It

Have your leaders who are responsible for Children's Work make a study of your church and community situation for the purpose of discovering where improvements can be made.

Organize your Children's Department of the Sunday school so as to provide proper grouping, adequate worship, suitable equipment, fruitful study and activity.

Organize some type of Leadership Development—a training class, reading circle, discussion group, etc.

Conduct classes for parents which will help them to cooperate in the religious guidance of children in the home, etc.

Make use of the best literature and helps available. Provide these for your teachers and leaders.

Cooperate with the school, home, and community agencies in providing the most wholesome influence for the building of Christian character.

IMMORTALITY

As I see it, faith in God calls for faith in personal immortality. To be sure, if we are simply bodies whose chemical reactions—some of them—lead us to do queer things, such as write poetry, compose music, lay down our lives for a cause, then, of course—when the body goes we go. In that event we can no more survive the dissolution of the body than a shadow can linger on after the tree which has cast it is cut down.

But are we flesh and bones, and nothing more? Certainly no known facts require us to think so. Indeed, so far as known facts are concerned, we are entirely free to suppose that we, essentially, are invisible spirits who for the present have and use a physical body and who, later on, may have and use some other kind of body.

That, of course, is the Christian expectation. What is to become of this body, whether it shall be buried or cremated, Christianity hasn't the slightest concern. It does not expect this body, after death, to be reanimated and restored. Christianity recognizes and accepts the fact that this body is destined, in one way or another, to be reduced to dust. The man who had it has it no longer, but neither does he need it any longer. He now has a new kind of body which permits him to experience not less but more of life.

When it comes to the question, What is possible? our generation is hardly in a position to be very dogmatic. Yesterday afternoon, sitting in my own home in Evanston, I heard Madame Kirsten Flagstad singing "Lohengrin" in New York City. When I was a boy an experience of this sort would have been considered impossible. . . .

Let us not be so foolish as to suppose that only such things are possible as we now know or are now able to imagine. Let us not attempt to prescribe limits within which alone the human soul can live and move and act; as though one should say to life, Thus far you may go but no farther.

Above all, let us not attempt to circumscribe the power of Almighty God. Is it necessary that we should now be able to visualize life after death? Is it not enough that we should be able, because we believe in God, to recognize the possibility of it, and to suppose that God can and does make some adequate and wonderful provision for it?

To my mind it is incredible that a Christ-like God, at great cost to himself, through eons of time, by a slow and painful evolutionary process, should lift life up to the level of Jesus Christ, and then permit it to be blotted out forever.

A world in which the human individual, even though he be a Plato or a Christ, is used merely as a means to an end and then scrapped; a world in which the whole human race eventually comes to an end on an ice-bound planet no longer capable of supporting it; a world in which, at last, life shall be no more but death shall seign supreme—that is a world without personal immortality, but, as I see it, that also is a world without God. For my part, I believe in the God of Christian faith; I therefore believe in immortality.

And this, too, I believe: In Jesus Christ we can see the direction in which life is going. To be sure, there are all sorts of eddies, cross currents, and terrible backwashes; but in Jesus Christ we can see the direction in which life is moving on the plane of history.

In him, nineteen hundred years ago, there appeared upon the earth a new type of man, one who gave himself utterly to the service of a God of love and who, although he died on a cross, apparently defeated, has undoubtedly invaded more realms, captured more hearts, influenced more minds, controlled more lives than has anyone else who ever lived in this world.—Ernest Fremont Tittle in The Christian Advocate.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY—January—1939

Young People's Day again! Christmas and the approach of the New Year reminds us that it is just around the corner. This may be our last year to promote this day. Special effort and ten years of experience has given us excellent materials. An attractive poster and samples will reach Pastors, Superintendents, and C. E. Presidents about the middle of December. "Shrines"—Our Religious Heritage in Chancel Drama, written by Mrs. H. W. Maier, is appropriate, not only, for Young People's Day but for "Appreciation Year Programs."

Place your order at once with the Board of Christian Education 3269 W. Liberty Ave., Room 208, Pittsburgh (16), Pa.

WITH THE POETS

Elizabeth Vera Idol

THE LOST LEADER

By Robert Browning

Wordsworth's The Character of the Happy Warrior is an analysis of the essential virtues of any great man in the various situations of life; Tennyson's Ulysses depicts the surging intellect and unconquerable will of a hero who will not let even old age overcome him. Browning's The Lost Leader, on the other hand, is the picture of a man who has the qualifications which would place him on the highest pinnacle of fame to which his fellowmen would gladly raise him, but who deliberately chooses not to attain this great eminence. With the best within his grasp, he refuses it for the sake of—what?

"Just for a handful of silver he left us,
Just for a riband to stick in his coat—"

It has always been generally believed that Browning had Wordsworth in mind when he wrote the poem. It is true that Wordsworth had become a convert to reactionary Conservatism and had abandoned the Liberal principles of his youth, even after accepting the poet-laureateship. But this he did from sincere principles, not with any thought of a reward of any kind. In a letter written in 1875 Browning said in part: " . . . I did in my hasty youth presume to use the great and venerated personality of Wordsworth as a sort of painter's model; one from which this or the other particular feature may be selected and turned to account—so, though I dare not deny the original of my little poem, I altogether refuse to have it considered as the 'very effigies' of such a moral and intellectual superiority." So why not let the matter rest there, allowing Browning, as he should, to have the last word? After all, it is not so much a question whether a certain man is guilty of so sad a loss of opportunity as it is that any man would deliberately choose not to maintan a position which was within his grasp—the highest to be attained. Had he been unable to achieve, his failure to do so would have been deplorable, but nothing for which to blame him; since his ability was great, his dereliction was more grievous. It was, on the part of the Leader, something of the sad realization with which Guinevere was overcome in regard to her sin an Arthur's Court:

"It was my duty to have loved the highest:
It surely was my profit had I known."

In Browning's characteristic condensed fashion he has given both sides of the picture. He showed how much "their" side had to offer, but how grudgingly (note the verb doled) they gave and for how little the Leader really sold his birthright:

"They, with the gold to give, doled him out silver."

On the other hand, "we" had no material benefits to offer; "ours" were all the things of the spirit—the honor of following his great leadership, of catching the vision of his idealism.

"We that had loved him so, followed him, honored him,
Lived in his mild and magnificent eye,
Learned his great language, caught his clear accents,
Made him our pattern to live and to die."

All this made his apostasy even more grievous.

The second stanza of the poem is another paragraph, this time having as its main thought the inevitable truth that the destined end of life will be achieved even though the individual may lose his share in its accomplishment:

"We shall march prospering—not through his presence:
Songs may inspirit us—not from his lyre;
Deeds will be done—while he boasts his quiescence."

To do a thing because it is a task may be better than leaving it undone, but the compulsion denoted by the word is the lowest incentive to accomplishment, and in the following lines the magnificent climax of failure from "task" to "insult to God" is one of the finest things in the poem:

"Blot out his name, then, record one lost soul more,
One task more declined, one more footpath untrod,
One more devil's-triumph and sorrow for angels,
One wrong more to man, one more insult to God."

One of the keenest disappointments in life is the loss of faith in a person in whom one has placed implicit trust; and nowhere in literature is there a more poignant picture of such an experience than in these lines:

" . . . let him never come back to us!
There would be doubt, hesitation, and pain,
Forced praise on our part—the glimmer of twilight,
Never glad confident morning again!"

The poem ends with Browning's certain optimistic faith that with all earthly recompense gone, the sole reward left for such a man is that he may receive full pardon in heaven:

"Then let him receive the new knowledge and wait us, Pardoned in heaven, the first by the throne!"

◆

It is evident that praises are infinitely more excellent than all the creatures because they proceed from men and angels. For as streams do they derive an excellency from their fountains, and are the last tribute which can possibly be paid to the Creator. Praises are the breathings of interior love, the marks and symptoms of a happy life, overflowing gratitude, returning benefits, an oblation of the soul, and the heart ascending upon the wings of divine affection to the Throne of God.—Thomas Traherne.

OUR STORY PAGE

A Fairy Story

One beautiful spring morning Perry started to the pasture for the cows. He went whistling along, merry as the birds that were frolicking in the bushes and trees by the roadside. He spied a bunch of flowers in a fence corner, and when he stooped down to gather them, what do you suppose he saw? A dainty little lady in the heart of the largest and prettiest flower of the bunch.

''Hello!'' said Perry. ''What are you doing here?''

''Having a good time,'' said the fairy. ''I always have a good time.''

''I don't,'' said Perry.

''Let me come and live with you and see if you will not.''

''All right,'' Perry answered. ''I'll be glad to have you live with me.''

''If I come to live with you, you must obey every word I say; for, if you do not, I will go away.''

''I'll try to;'' and Perry smiled and looked doubtful.

''It is rather hard for you to obey sometimes, is it not?''

''Yes,'' said Perry, ''and I don't always do it.''

''Well,'' said the fairy, ''I will sit in your ear and talk to you all the time; and if you listen you are sure to have a good time, and when I tell you to do anything, you must not fail to obey me.''

''All right,'' said Perry.

So the little lady crept into his ear, and he went on his way after the cows. Perry thought he had never seen as many pretty things in all his life.

The fairy kept talking all the time, saying every little while, ''Look at this!'' or ''Look at that; oh, how lovely!'' and Perry looked and thought it was lovely, too. At last he reached the pasture, and he told the fairy the cows' names. ''There is Daisy and Queeny and Dolly; but I don't see old Star. Oh, yonder she is, making for the far end of the pasture. I'll show her a thing or two.'' Perry picked up a rock and ran after Star as fast as his feet would carry him.

''Never throw stones; it is a bad habit,'' said the voice in his ear. Perry threw down the rock and ran in front of Star, and soon the cows were walking quietly before him on their way to the barn.

After breakfast Perry's father told him he would have to thin the corn that day. Now Perry hated to thin corn, and his face clouded all over, just like the sky clouds over when there is going to be a thundershower, and several large raindrops gathered in his eyes and ran down his rosy cheeks.

''Don't cry,'' said the fairy. ''I will talk to you all the time, and you will not find it very hard work.''

So Perry dried his eyes and walked along behind his father, whistling a tune the fairy was singing in his ear. The sun was hot and his back hurt, but Perry had a good time, for the fairy told him so many wonderful stories and sang so many songs for him to whistle that he forgot the work was hard. And so through all the long days the fairy talked and sang, and Perry worked and whistled. It was not long after the first fairy came until another fairy crept into his other ear. One of them kept him happy and the other kept him busy. He helped his mother in the house and his father in the field. He built play-houses for his little sister and rode her in his wagon. He found lots of things to do for everybody, old and young, and all the neighbors loved him. He was petted and praised at home and abroad, but it did not spoil him; it only made him happy. Days became weeks, and weeks months and months years, and still the fairies lived in his ears, and still he listened to their voices and obeyed them, and was happy and beloved his whole life. Would you like to know the names of these fairies? They were Kind Thoughts and Kind Deeds.—Selected.

How Old Are You?

Here is a simple and clever way to learn the age of your friends. Learn it by heart, and try it when you can. It will amuse your friends and afford a good mathematical exercise for yourselves.

One day there came to the court of a king a gray-haired professor, who amused the king greatly. He told the monarch a number of things he never knew before, and the king was delighted. But finally he came to a point where the ruler wanted to know the age of the professor, as he thought of a mathematical problem.

''Ahem!'' said the king, ''I have an interesting sum for you; it is a trial in mental arithmetic, Think of the month of your birth.'' Now, the professor was sixty years old, and had been born two days before Christmas; so he thought of twelve, December, being the twelfth month.

''Yes,'' said the professor.

''Multiply it by two,'' continued the king.

''Yes.''

''Add five.''

''Yes,'' answered the professor, doing so.

''Now multiply by fifty.''

''Yes.''

''Add your age.''

''Yes.''

''Subtract 365.''

''Yes.''

''Add 115.''

''Yes.''

''And now,'' said the king, ''might I ask what the result is?''

''Twelve hundred and sixty,'' replied the professor, wonderingly.

''Thank you,'' was the king's response. ''So you were born in December, sixty years ago, eh?''

''Why, how in the world did you know?'' cried the professor.

''Why,'' retorted the king, ''from your answer—1260. The month of your birth was the twelfth, and the last two figures give your age.''

''Ha, ha, ha!'' laughed the professor, ''capital idea. I'll try it on the next person. It's a polite way of finding out people's ages without their having any knowledge of what one is attempting to do.''—Selected.

We are so very thankful for so good a showing in Thanksgiving offerings again this week. The regular offerings are off a bit, but the Thanksgiving offerings are greatly increased over last year. We thank you.

Will you please get your Sunday school to set a regular monthly goal for this conference year? Many Sunday schools and churches are trying it, with helpfulness to themselves and to the local church. Please let us know.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

CHRISTMAS CHIMES ON EVERY CONTINENT

Christian Endeavor Topic for December 18

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings:

Monday, Dec. 12—An angel chorus. Luke 2:8-14.

Tuesday, Dec. 13—Before Christmas came. Phil. 2:3-11.

Wednesday, Dec. 14—Old songs, new meaning. Psalm 100.

Thursday, Dec. 15—More songs of angels. Heb. 1:5-7.

Friday, Dec. 16—A song that thrilled the world. Rev. 7:9-17.

Saturday, Dec. 17—Pealing for peace. Rev. 21:1-6.

Scripture Text:

Isa. 11:1-5; Luke 2:25-32.

> What sweeter music can we bring
> Than a carol for us to sing
> The birth of this our Heavenly King?
> Awake the voice! Awake the string!
> —Robert Herrick, 1591-1674.

When you think of Christmas your mind conjures up images of reindeer, holly, and Santa Claus. Inseparably linked with Christmas also are stockings hanging with expectant limpness at the fireplace, yule logs, mistletoe, and of course the Christmas tree. We in America very probably think of a tree with electric lights, safe and efficient.

If your mind happens to turn to the historical, you probably will think of the Christmas tree in its proper setting, in the house of some flaxen-haired Gretchen, who twines two thick braids about her head and who calls the tree "Weihnachtsbaum." Germany, with its great deep forests, seems to have introduced the Christmas tree to the world, and from there its popularity spread to England, France, and the United States.

Christmas customs are very different in the many lands. In Mexico there are no Christmas trees, but in every home the children have joyous times. Mother buys a huge, but light weight, earthen jar called a "pinata." It is filled with small toys and candies, enough for every child in the house to have a hand full.

Then in cold Denmark the children watch for "Jule-Nissen," or Christmas elf. No one has ever seen the Jule-Nissen—but on Christmas Eve the children carry a bowl of bread and milk to him in the attic, and they hope he will bring them goodies in return for their kindness.

The children in Russia knew the story of an old woman who once sat during the cold winter by her warm fire. The story was that three kings who were carrying gifts to the Baby Jesus stopped at her door. They said: "Come with us, Babouscka." But the old woman replied: "The night is too cold." The three men went on. After they went on Babouscka changed her mind. She put on her heavy cloak and gathered up an arm full of toys to carry as gifts to the Christ Child. But the three kings had gone too far for the old woman to catch them. And so today the Russian children believe she is looking for the Christ Child with her arms full of toys.

In the tiny mountain country of Montenegro, each farmer and his helper light the animals to their stalls on Christmas Eve. This they do in remembrance of the friendly beasts who stood near Mary when Jesus was born. First the master enters the barn with a lighted wax candle. He holds it a moment in each stall, then he stands with his candle on one side of the door of the barn while the children gently drive the animals into the barn.

In France and in other countries too, the children enjoy in every church, scenes that picture the birth of Jesus. These pictures are arranged with tiny animals and of figures made of clay or wood. They are set up in a tiny stable. In many homes the children make their own scenes of the first Christmas night.

Folk ways have long and curious histories, each generation adapting traditions and customs to the needs and capacities of its own time. The most wonderful thing about Christmas—the most significant fact in the Christmas story is that God loved the world so much, that he gave his most precious gift—his only Son. That is why the spirit of Christmas will always be the spirit of love and giving.

The scene in the stable at Bethlehem represents the prophecy of a better day, based upon the principles of universal brotherhood. Yet we today instinctively shrink from universal brotherhood. Children make fun of the "Chink," the "Greaser," the "Dago," the "Sheeney," the "Nigger." Why cannot we carry the Christmas spirit of universal brotherhood through every day in the year? It would be far easier and less trying on our emotions just to sing our praises, to let it all end with beautiful words of tribute and worship to the Babe of Bethlehem. But what poor gift such praise would be to one who has dreamed of a world that can be made right by consecrated efforts of folks like you and me.

NOVEMBER THANK OFFERING GOAL IN SIGHT

The report for November Thank Offering observances will be of interest to many Methodist Protestants throughout the state, especially to those who have cooperated in the plan to "Give for Gratitude" and reach the goal of $1,000. Requests have recently been made for more literature for services, which prompts the belief that the goal will be met. Only a short time to complete the task, before January 1, when plans will be started for the observance of February Thank Offering. Until then, let all who had services, use Thank Offering boxes, giving for gratitude, for blessing individually, in auxiliaries and in circles. One circle used a box at each meeting and when the public service was held, the box was opened and $25.00 was the amount of voluntary giving. The report follows.

MRS. WILLIAM C. HAMMER,
Secretary Thank Offering.

MINNIS FUND

Conference is over and we have all joined forces to make this, new and perhaps last, year, of our work as a Methodist Protestant church, the best ever. This is appreciation time. I hope we have all begun by taking the Minnis Fund up in our churches proving our appreciation of the India work and workers. I had a most interesting letter from Mr. Minnis a short time ago. As he reads these appeals in far away India, after a hard day's work, and, I fancy, tired and sometimes lonely for his homefolk and friends in the U. S. A., he wonders if it is a burden to the Branch or if we who write and insist on the giving, do not tire of it all. I want to assure you and Mr. Minnis that it is a joy to me to keep it before you and I think it is a joy to the Branch to give. Even though we seem at long range, to be hard at it, this is one way of "Personalizing the Budget."

We have now started in on the home stretch, we want to put this over in such a big way that it will prove our appreciation and even before Branch have our World Service. We hope to have articles from the Minnises soon. Watch this column for the Minnis Fund reports and interesting articles. Read them and see that your auxiliaries send in their assessments and then make a "Love Gift" from your church, Sunday School Class, Auxiliary or any organization you think best to work. Your church will get credit on appreciation year.

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON.

OUR IMMEDIATE RESPONSIBILITY

Inasmuch as the whole of the Methodist Protestant church is concentrating on paying the World Service Budget in full, during this conference year, it seems fitting that everyone should have a thorough grasp of the meaning and use of World Service.

When Miss Mary E. Young was dean of women at High Point College, she prepared a questionnaire for use in First church Auxiliary, which sets forth the meaning and use of World Service in unmistakable terms.

The editor of this column has brought Miss Young's questionnaire up to date and submits it as a very valuable keepsake for presidents and treasurers of auxiliaries, branch officers, pastors, and church officials, and all who are in any doubt as to whether they will make an honest effort to raise World Service in full. The questionnaire follows:

What is the World Service Budget?

The W. S. Budget is the name by which we call all the funds used by the church to spread the gospel outside of our own state.

Where does it go?

The part the women raise goes to our Branch Treasurer, Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, Denton, N. C.

The part the church as a whole raises goes to Annual Conference Treasurer, Mr. J. H. Allen, Reidsville, N. C.

What do they do with it?

They send it to the General Conference Treasurer, Mr. H. C. Staley.

How does Mr. Staley use World Service funds?

After the necessary administration expense is taken out—

67% goes to the Board of Missions;

33% goes to the Board of Christian Education.

How is the 67% used by the Board of Missions?

45% goes to Foreign Missions;

22% goes to work in the United States. (If you will add this 22% to the 33% given to the Board of Education in the first division of funds by Mr. Staley, you will see that 55% of W. S. stays in the homeland, while 45% goes to foreign lands.)

Who gets the 22% that goes to home land work?

The Children's Home gets $2,000 a year. (While this Home is in North Carolina, it is the institution of the whole church, the only Methodist Protestant Children's Home in America.)

The Home for the Aged at West Lafayette, Ohio, gets $1,600 a year.

The Superannuate Fund (for aged ministers no longer in active service) gets $2,500 a year.

Alvan Drew Industrial School, Pine Ridge, Ky., gets $6,000 a year.

The Department of Evangelism gets $250 a year.

The American Bible Society gets $200 a year.

Where does the Foreign Missions 45% go?

$15,000 a year to work in Japan;
$10,000 a year to work in China;
$7,000 a year to work in India.

How is Christian Education money divided?

28% goes to our colleges and Westminster Theological Seminary;

5% goes to the Department of Religious Education for leadership training schools and such.

What about the Thank-offering?

Like all other W. S. funds, it is divided on the same 67%—33% basis.

What about the Minnis salary?

We know it is W. S. but we designate it so that our own missionary's salary will be paid with it.

Does the local church get credit for what Women's Auxiliaries raise?

Yes. The church as well as the Auxiliary gets this credit.

UNLESS EVERY CHURCH RAISES ITS SHARE, SOME OF THE ABOVE WILL NOT GET THEIR SHARE.

Please send all communications for Mrs. R. M. Andrews, President of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work, to 607 Guilford Ave., Greensboro. (See top of Woman's Missionary Column.)

APPRECIATION YEAR

The Appreciation Year brings to our mind a great, a vast unfilled need of our denomination. To take care of the personal needs of our boys and girls in our schools and of our representatives on the foreign and home mission fields the Boards of the Church made obligations during the hardest years of the depression. Nothing has so far been prepared to fill the permanent holes made then. The great vacancies exist and hamper and make uncertain all we ought to do. Let this Thanksgiving month fill up those awful sinks in the vineyard of the Lord. If we think back far enough and with sufficient realism we will see that back of the Boards were administrators worried about those whom they were under obligations to serve and back of them were those for whom nothing had been prepared except by Methodist Protestants who were then in trouble. If the trouble is over send the delayed portions and make our honor clear. In the activity of this Appreciation Year the annual Thank-offering services of the women of our church has been laid aside. We are sure that the women have not forgotten it and we hope that of the portions we are sending, some will go through the channel that has always done its part in carrying on of the benevolences of the Kingdom.—(Excerpt from an editorial by Dr. R. L. Shipley in the Methodist Protestant-Recorder.)

OUR NEW PASTOR

Some pastors may be inclined to indulge in self-pity as they consider the adjustments (in some cases frequent) they are compelled to make when assigned to new fields of labor And, let me remind you, unthoughtful laymen who may be kind enough to read this, that it is not an easy task. Every church, like every family, has its own individuality. No two are identical in personnel, in problems, in possibilities. An entirely new situation awaits the incoming pastor, into which he must "fit" as quickly as possible, if he is to shortly become familiar with and gain control of the situation.

On the other hand, there is no little adjustment to be made by church members and congregations. A new leader has been assigned to them. A new face and form appears in the pulpit each Sunday services are held. It is probable that he is quite different from his predecessor, and perhaps extremely so. His administrative policy, his pulpit efforts, his pastoral work are all unlike the brother minister he succeeded. Pastors must exercise some sympathy and patience with their new flock, while they themselves are becoming adjusted in unfamiliar fields.

A change may or may not have been expected. The incoming shepherd may or may not have desired to have been assigned to the strange fold. Or the appointment may have been a happy combination of pleased pastor and pleased people. Whatever the relationship, a minister does not have to serve many charges before he learns that there are members in every church who sooner or later tire of him. In fact, that seems to be a general trait in the constituents of this group. It is a wonder so many of this flighty variety are satisfied to remain indefinitely with their husbands, their wives, or their families.

Usually these persons are extravagant in their welcome and praise of the new pastor for a year, or even more than one, in rare cases. When they discover that he has shortcoming, the same as his predecessor; when he shows a disposition to disagree with them on church or political matters; when they learn that he desires to serve the whole church, and not their exclusive set; when their ardor wanes, their support diminishes, and they begin to talk "change."

Whether a change in pastors is advisable or not, it should be realized by pros and cons that the new man is not likely to turn the world upside down, and dump all of the desirable things in the expectant lap of the church he is serving. Few, if any, pastors are responsible for phenomena of that kind these days. If we don't expect such unreasonable, magical transformations, we shall be less likely to be disappointed, as time wears on.

Think of your newly assigned pastor, not as an improvement over the former one, but as supplementing and carrying on the work already accomplished. Each has his own policies and each stresses those phases of the work that he is best fitted to promote. The successor, if he is fore-sighted and broad-minded, will capitalize the worth-while in his predecessor's policies, and add to them that which he deems best for the furtherance of the gospel and promotion of the church. If laymen who sought a change of pastors gloat over the avowed certainty that they now have a better minister—better preacher, better pastors, better young people's worker—they had better hold their enthusiasm in check a little, until they learn that he, too, is neither infallible nor superhuman. The attiude that counts most for the progress of Christ's church and the advancement of God's kingdom may be expressed in a solemn pledge each minister may take before God in his secret chamber:

"God helping me, I will support my church and pastor to the extent of my ability, by my prayers, my contributions, my cooperation, and my presence at church services, even when I disapprove of my leader's policies, for the best interests of my church and the kingdom."

E. LESTER BALLARD.

MARRIED

Tutterow-Howard

A marriage of much interest to people of Mocksville was witnessed at the parsonage of Mocksville charge when Miss Alva Tutterow and Abe N. Howard were united in matrimony by the writer. The ceremony of the Methodist Protestant church was used, using the ring ceremony.

Mrs. Howard is the daughter of Mr. J. N. Tutterow and Mrs. Carrie Tutterow, of Mocksville. Mr. Howard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Howard, Sr., of Mocksville. It will be of interest to our readers to know that Mr. Abe Howard is a brother to our own Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr.

Only a few friends were present to witness the ceremony. These fine young people have our very best wishes for a happy life of usefulness together.

K. G. HOLT.

Baldwin-Ferguson

Miss Gracie Baldwin, of Franklinville, rural route, became the bride of David Ferguson, of near Liberty, Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock, in a charming church service at Bethany M. P. church, near Millboro. Rev. Paul Taylor, of Trinity, former pastor of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony, using the ring ceremony.

Mrs. Ferguson is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Alice Baldwin, of near Millboro, and one of our most useful members of Bethany church.

Mr. Ferguson has a position at Liberty and they expect to make their home near Liberty.

Guests at the wedding included the immediate families of the couple and Miss Frances Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stevenson, Mrs. Ola Parris, and members of the bride's Sunday school class, Alese Julian, Marie and Chloe Routh, Louvia Hall, Alpha Carter, Margaret Sapp, Mary Lou and Mebal Wood, Helen Pugh, Ruby and Gladys Johnson, Clara Jessup, Margaret and Christine Heath, Elizabeth and Mary Kindley, and Lois Caudle.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mocksville Charge, K. G. Holt, Pastor, Dec. 5.—We are glad that the conference saw fit to return us to these good people of Mocksville for another year. Upon our return from conference we were greeted with the good wishes of the people. The third Sunday in November was our regular appointment at Elbaville in the afternoon, the "new" pastor was given the good wishes of this church, but actions speak louder than words. After service the pastor found that a number of people had put a lot of useful things into the car; everyone that was at service that afternoon must have helped to fill the car. There were so many that we will not attempt to give the names of the donors. We thank each and all of you for all the things that were needed so much. Elbaville church scored again that afternoon by paying the pastor's salary in full for the month of November; and only a preacher knows how useful some cash is at the begining of the conference year.

Since the temperature has dropped we have been having plenty of fresh meat; the people of Mocksville charge believe in sharing what they have with the pastor. Mrs. W. M. Howard, Sr., mother of Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., has kept our table supplied with butter and milk since we have been on the work. We appreciate these good things more than words can tell.

We regret that Dr. Pritchard could not be with us yesterday; hope that he is much better by this time and that he can come at another time.

The first quarterly conference will meet in Bethel church Saturday, December 17, at 2:30 p.m.

K. G. HOLT.

First Church, Danville, Va., Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Pastor.—With a splendid new pastor and a brand new year to work with, we are expecting to accomplish much in the church. We wish to give Mr. Reynolds a great big welcome, and with the welcome goes our full cooperation in anything he attempts to do for our Master. Mr. Reynolds has already gained a hand with the children, and has them eager for Sunday night to come, when they can come to the Junior Christian Endeavor, which he has organized and teaches.

The Christian Endeavor society sent two baskets of produce and fruit as a Thanksgiving offering. The fruit basket was sent to an inmate of Memorial hospital, and he seemed to get so much joy out of it that we felt the time was well spent in fixing it. The Endeavorers are also working hard on a Christmas pageant to be presented at the Christmas night church service. We are looking forward to having great success with "The Enchanted Candle" and its approximately 35 characters. Let's all come out every practice possible, and do our best to have a really good Christmas play.

Our financial system of envelopes is working much better than the freewill offerings which we formerly used. Although a few were behind with their pledges, others gave them a hand and overpaid theirs, and didn't leave last year's books so far "in the hole." We turn over a new leaf now, so maybe we can all sacrifice and do better, and soon be able to start building a new church.

We congratulate the Junior class, even though they did take the banner away from our Young People's class, which has held it for two successive Sundays. The Juniors had 100% present at Sunday school last week, although there were several absent throughout the Sunday school. Come on, Juniors, and keep the good work up. Even if we do have to stretch our necks a mile to see the superintendent, Mr. G. H. Sides, we can give the necks a rest at church, because Mr. Reynolds can almost fill up the platform for us.

Our best wishes go to all for the Merriest Christmas ever, with all the peace and joy that abounded on that first Christmas morn.

ELEANOR TANNER, Reporter.

Guilford Circuit.—Notice to all the official members of the quarterly conference of each church: the first quarterly conference will meet at Fairfield church on the 17th of December at 2 o'clock, being Saturday before the third Sunday. "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

JOEL B. TROGDON, Pastor.

China Grove.—Conference is over, and we of China Grove are proud to have our pastor and his family back with us for another year. Our church attendance has improved greatly since his coming, and we hope to have a larger attendance and more work done for the upbuilding of God's Kingdom than ever before, in the coming year. Our Sabbath school is coming along nicely; is improving with young people as well as old ones.

We feel that we need the prayers of all Christian people throughout the church that we may go onward and upward with the work that God has placed upon us.

Our Ladies' Aid meets twice a month and they are doing a lot of nice work. We are now making pillow cases and selling them to help make our church a bigger success.

Our church was dedicated to God on October 3. Of that we are very proud. Dr. Pritchard delivered a very sweet message.

We are now planning a Christmas program in which there will be many young people taking part. We invite any who visit in China Grove to be with us at any time you are here.

MRS. CLYDE WRIGHT, Reporter.

Saxapahaw to Union Grove.—We take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the good people of Saxapahaw charge for helping to make the three years we spent among them both pleasant and profitable. Many improvements were added to the parsonage and some of the churches. The fine cooperation of most of the people of the charge made our work a labor of love.

On Friday evening after conference the ladies of the Saxapahaw Union church auxiliary stormed the parsonage and gave the pastor's family a real valuable shower of linens, etc. Words cannot express how much we appreciate these tokens of their love. We also thank others on the charge who during the year have given us supplies for the pantry. One of the hardest things a minister's family has to do is leave those they have learned to love and appreciate and move to another charge to form new friendships. But I am a great believer in prayer. After praying earnestly for the guidance of the Holy Spirit, I felt impressed to change charges. While we give our best in service to the new charge, when we have time to pray and think, we will remember pleasantly our friends on Saxapahaw charge and the fine fellowship we had with them. We wish for the new pastor and family and the charge a very successful year.

On Tuesday evening, November 22, we arrived at the Union Grove parsonage, to find that some of the good women of the church had a hot meal prepared for us. Some of the men came and helped to unload the trucks. By their help we are getting comfortably located in our new home.

As has been announced by Dr. Pritchard, I have been appointed pastor of Zion M. E. charge also. There are four churches on Zion charge, — Friendship, Sandy Ridge, Mountain View, and Fairmount. They have a parsonage and have been accustomed to having a pastor in their parsonage. The appointments have been so arranged that we preach twice a month at each of these churches and twice or more at Union Grove church.

The people have received us gladly. The members of Zion charge have welcomed us as our own people at Union Grove. On the evening of the 25th of November we held a union Thanksgiving service at Friendship church and planned the preaching appointments. To my surprise, they had planned also a circuit pounding for pastor and family. They loaded the pastor's car with sugar, flour, corn meal, sweet and Irish potatoes, turnips, fruits, meats, butter, etc. Several of the members have supplied us with fresh meats since the pounding. To each one who has taken part we say thank you and offer our services toward the betterment of the community and the advancement of the Kingdom.

E. A. BINGHAM.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge, Rev. M. C. Henderson, Pastor.—The new conference year is beginning very encouragingly at this church, with our new pastor. We are glad to welcome Pastor Henderson and family into our midst. We were very sorry to give up Pastor Bingham and family, for their work in the church and community had meant much to us. But as we were not fortunate enough to get them back, we are still remembering them in our hearts and prayers. We are hoping to love our present pastor and family just as much as the one who has gone to a new field. We are hoping to make this the best year yet in this church's history, for probably it will be Concord M. P. church the last year, as we will soon all be one Methodist church.

Mr. Henderson has filled both of his regular appointments here very pleasingly. The Sunday school is increasing each Sunday. A contest is on this month for the class that gets the most new members and has the greatest number present will get the prize.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet this coming Saturday night with Mrs. Raymond Davis. A committee is at work on the Christmas entertainment which will be given by the children.

Miss Edith has been appointed Herald agent for the coming year. We hope to reach our goal for the Herald early this year.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Saxapahaw Union church Saturday afternoon before the third Sunday of this month at 2:30 o'clock.

We were very glad to welcome several visitors to our services Sunday morning; and to the new people who have moved to our community we welcome you heartily to our church.

BESSIE COBLE, Reporter.

First Church, Albemarle, Rev. C. G. Isley, Pastor.—We are happy to have our pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, with us for another year. Last year was a good year for us, and we are hoping for a better one this year. Our pastor has been unable to fill his appointments for the last two weeks, due to a tonsil operation, but we were glad to have in his place Dr. W. S. Sharp, of Pfeiffer Junior College, Misenheimer, N. C., and Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, N. C. They both delivered splendid sermons, which were enjoyed by all.

The Brotherhood club held its last meeting in the dining hall of the church. A splendid program was given, with Dr. J. C. Senter as the main speaker. The Presbyterian church quartet rendered several selections. A delicious supper was served.

Our hearts were saddened by the death of one of our faithful and loyal members, Mr. C. L. Hatley. Mr. Hatley had been in declining health for several years. We extend our sympathy to his wife and children and those who mourn his loss.

MRS. COLON MAULDIN, Reporter.

Bellemont Church, Mt. Hermon Charge, Rev. J. R. Anderson, Pastor.—We are glad to have Rev. Mr. Anderson and his family back with us, and trust much good will be accomplished during the year. We began our conference year the fourth Sunday morning with a very good number present. Our pastor has been sick since conference and unable to fill his appointments. Due to his illness we were very glad indeed to have the privilege of hearing Rev. Wayne Curtiss, who brought us a very inspiring message.

Our new church officials for the year are: Trustees, Dr. J. A. Pickett, W. G. Rich, S. L. Russell, J. H. Rich, Reid Brown; stewards, Paul Lowder, Mrs. Walter Cates, L. S. Russell, J. Coy Rich; treasurer, Miss Carrie Nicholson; Sunday school superintendent, Royzell Coble; pianist, Mrs. Paul Lowder; choir director, Walter Cates; reporter, Mrs. Clay W. Holt.

We have a wide awake Sunday school now and many plans for its betterment are under way. Our newly installed heating system is proving very satisfactory, and we are proud of this addition to our church. Plans have already been made for our Christmas tree. The program, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Cates and Mrs. Craven Snuggs, will be given December 24.

Since the last report we have lost one of our oldest members, Mr. J. Heenen Hawks of Graham. We always looked for him at each fourth Sunday morning service. He will be greatly missed from our congregation.

Mrs. Mary Shoffner, who has been sick for quite a while, remains very sick.

We are always glad to have members from other churches worship with us. Among our most recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar York of Fountain Place church in Burlington, and Mrs. T. F. Overman and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Isley of Friendship church, Mt. Hermon charge.

Again may we wish for our pastor a speedy recovery, and that he will be with us again very soon.

Shiloh Church, Shiloh Charge, C. E. Ridge, Pastor.—Our work here continues to move along very well. Our Sunday school attendance today was 240.

Our pastor filled his regular appointment at 11 o'clock, which was the Holy Communion service. The sermon was a very fitting and interesting one, on the subject, "Having the Mind of Christ." The scripture was Phil. 2:5-14.

There are some of our members who are kept away from the services of the church on account of sickness. We hope they will soon be able to be back with us.

We ask the interest in the prayers of the Christian people as we strive to do the Master's will, that we may have the mind of Christ, and be as willing to do God's will as Christ was.

MRS. KYLE SINK, Reporter.

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We are glad to report our pastor, Rev. J. R. Anderson, is still improving, although as yet he has not been able to meet with us.

Rev. Lee Moser, of Fountain Place, met with us for our Sunday evening service. We enjoyed having him with us and feel his message was helpful and inspiring. His text was "Bring me up Samuel," showing that we should use our opportunities as they present themselves.

Our November thank-offering for the Auxiliary was taken Sunday, the amount being $6.37. Plans are being made for a Christmas program and Christmas tree by the Sunday school. May we as we enter this Christmas season remember that Christ came to bring "Peace on earth, good will to men," and first of all this must begin in our own hearts.

We are glad to report that Mrs. G. M. Isley, who has been ill, is improving. We hope she will soon be with us in our Sunday school again.

MRS. PAGE JUSTICE, Reporter.

Flag Spring Church, Why Not Charge.—We are very glad to have our same pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, and his wife for another year. The pastor is beginning his fifth year on this charge. Our pastor filled his regular appointment Sunday and delivered a wonderful sermon.

The Sunday school attendance is good. We have been practicing on our Christmas program for the last few Sundays. We hope to have a good program for this Christmas, which will be held December 23 at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

The first quarterly conference was held December 3 at 2:30 at New Zion church. It was decided at this conference that our preaching hour would be changed from 11:30 a.m. on the first and third Sundays to 2:30 p.m. on the first and third Sundays. Sunday school will be at 10 a.m. on the second, fourth and fifth Sundays, and on the first and third Sundays at 1:30 p.m.

We are building a parsonage which is about half finished. Have most all the outside work finished. We hope to get it completed in the near future so our pastor and his wife can move in and be with us more.

The Ladies' Aid society met December 2 at 7:30 p.m., with Mrs. Hester Richardson. Mrs. C. A. Lewallen had charge of the devotions. The president conducted the business session. At the November meeting each member drew names to give Chrlstmas presents at the December meeting, which was done, and created a lot of pleasure. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. A. Lewallen on January 6 at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Hester Richardson will have charge of the devotions.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

Canaan, North Davidson Charge, Rev. O. B. Williams, Pastor, Dec. 5.—Well, it has been quite a while since I have written, but, nevertheless, I am not out of anything to say. Just want to say this, the new pastor is right here taking up his work in a great spirit. We think he is a fine man. He came in with a smile, and is making things look bright and prosperous for the future here at Canaan. He has filled his appointments here twice, each sermon has been inspiring.

The members here are trying to carry on the work of the church. They covered and painted it in the last few weeks. The Ladies' Aid put in two new circulators, which add looks and warmth in the church.

The Sunday school is progressing nicely. Have made a good average the past year and hope to make greater this coming year. Think we will, as new interest is taking place and everybody is looking forward to the great work that is needed.

We are having our Christmas entertainment here on Friday night, December 23. We hope to have a good crowd.

MRS. CARL W. CLODFELTER, Reporter.

Worthville Church, Randleman Charge, December 5.—This writer had the pleasure of enjoying the first day of conference. The people of Worthville were pleased to have our pastor returned to us for another year. He and Mrs. Spencer recently visited in Alabama, her former home. This was their first visit in 19 years.

At the present we are in a union revival. Mr. Snyder, the M. E. pastor, and Mr. Spencer are doing the preaching. It was held last week in the union church, and will continue this week in the M. P. church. We are praying that spiritual good will come from these services.

Last week our church and community suffered a great loss in the passing of Mrs. L. P. Foust, one of our oldest members. She had a stroke of paralysis three weeks before she died, and was only partially conscious a part of that time. We feel that we should not mourn. Yet we know we shall greatly miss her. She was a Bible scholar and a spiritual blessing and help to our church. She was laid to rest in the Worthville cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers on November 30. Our sympathy goes out to her aged and devoted husband, who has gone to make his home with their niece, Mrs. Kemp Farlow, at Guilford College.

Our children collected $18 for the thank-offering to the Children's Home, and our regular monthly offering amounted to $12 yesterday.

Pray for us.

Stallings Church, Mecklenburg Charge.—We have just closed another year which we believe has been a success spiritually. All conference claims were paid in full, and several improvements have been made in our church. The Ladies' Aid bought a nice heatrola which heats the church nicely.

We were all very happy to welcome back our pastor, Rev. Mr. Robert Short, and family with us for another year. The first sermon he gave us was on Thanksgiving morning, and everyone enjoyed it very much. After the sermon all the people of the church gathered at the parsonage and Mr. Short received a wonderful pounding. Then the folks put their dinner out and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the Thanksgiving dinner.

Three ladies of the church are working on a Christmas program to be given. We feel some good work is being done and hope everyone will continue to cooperate with these ladies.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mr. C. B. Flowe last Friday night. We had a very interesting program on Thanksgiving. The ladies decided to take their monthly dues and see how much they could make of it. When they met Friday night the dues was $13.55.

We ask the Herald readers to pray for us that this might be a successful year for all of us.

Siler City Church, A. M. Smith, Pastor, December 5.—Our entire church is indeed grateful to the conference for sending Mr. Smith back to us for another year, and from the broad smile that greeted each member on his return was an assurance that he was glad to be back.

Mr. Smith filled the pulpit the third Sunday for his first service this year. This being the Thanksgiving season, the church was beautifully decorated carrying out the Thanksgiving spirit. Mr. Smith read the first 22 verses of 107 Psalm and used the 22nd verse as his text, "And let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing." This was really a wonderful Thanksgiving message, and just blended so well with the season and decorations. Miss Martha Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brady, sang an appropriate solo very effectively. We had a large congregation and many visitors were present.

At the evening hour the thank-offering service was held. Mrs. L. L. Woody, T. O. secretary, had charge. We were very fortunate and highly honored to have Dr. and Mrs. Bates with us. Mrs. Bates was the speaker for the ocasion, and she held the audience spellbound with her splendid talk on "The Well Rounded Program of the Woman's Work." Collection amounted to $6.61.

Circle No. 1 held the November meeting in the home of Mrs. L. L. Woody with 13 members present and 14 members of Circle No. 3 of the M. E. church. Mrs. Claude Fogleman and two daughters, the of M. E. church, and Mrs. R. S. Clark of the Baptist church, were visitors. The chairman, Mrs. T. L. Smith, presided over the meeting, reading for devotionals the 23rd Psalm. Mrs. Heath, wife of the M. E. pastor, led prayer. The usual routine business was transacted and the Question Box discussed. Miss Mary E. Fox gave a reading, "What Is World Friendship?" and Mrs. Woody read "Fruitfulness in Fellowship." The hostess served a delicious salad course and coffee.

The Woman's Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. C. E. Brady, Monday night, November 28, for its monthly meeting. 17 members answered roll call. Guests for the meeting were Mesdames Carl Curtis, Rosco Causey, and Mrs. Suits of the Mt. Pleasant church community. Mrs. D. L. Johnson, president, took charge of the meeting. "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was sung, with Mrs. Brady at the piano. Mrs. Brady led devotionals, using the first chapter of Timothy. Mrs. L. L. Woody gave a beautiful explanation of the chapter and Miss Sallie Smith offered the prayer. Miss Martha Brady, accompanied at the piano by her mother, sang, "Give of the Best to Your Master." The president then introdued the speaker, Mrs. Carl Curtis, chairman of the 7th district, who gave a most interesting talk on "What Kind of a Christian Am I?" She gave a word picture of some of the happenings in India, Japan, and China. Mrs. Curtis is a fine speaker, and everyone enjoyed her talk very much. We were very glad to have the visitors. The meeting closed with the praying together of the Lord's prayer. The hostess served a tempting plate during the social hour.

Union Chapel, Mocksville, Rev. K. G. Holt, Pastor.—This is the first report sent in from our church in quite a while, but we intend to do better in the future.

Our Sunday school is progressing rapidly with our new class leader, Mr. Bob Baker.

Sunday, November 27, 1938, Rev. Mr. Holt and Mrs. Holt, with little Mary Holt, worshiped with us.

Plans are being made for our Christmas entertainment, but a definite date hasn't been decided upon yet, as to when we will have it.

The health of this community is rather good for the cold, damp weather.

We are so happy to announce to everyone that our pastor, Rev. K. G. Holt, is with us for another year.

REPORTER.

Seagrove, Seagrove-Love Joy Charge, Dec. 5.—A Thanksgiving service was held in our church Thanksgiving day, followed by a turkey dinner in the basement. The turkey was furnishesd by M. C. Auman.

On Monday, November 28, our former pastor, Rev. E. G. Cowan, and Mrs. Cowan left here for Ocracoke Island. Mr. Cowan will serve as pastor there this year. We learn they arrived there safely and are liking the work fine, for which we are glad. They have our prayers and best wishes for a good year's work.

Tuesday afternoon about dark our new pastor, Rev. J. H. Trolinger, and Mrs. Trolinger arrived. Their furniture had preceded them, and the truck returned before they arrived. They spent the night with us. However they went to the parsonage Wednesday morning and have been very busy getting straightened out.

Brother Trolinger delivered a splendid message Sunday morning and we feel sure we are going to like our new Pastor and wife very much.

Plans are going forward for a Christmas program. Mrs. D. J. Johnson, Mrs. A. C. Harris, and Mr. James Greene have charge of the program.

Our Sunday school is increasing in membership and the average attendance is good; however, some have been sick with influenza and had to be absent.

Pray for us that we may have a good year.

MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS, Reporter.

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Charge, Rev. J. M. Morgan, Pastor, Dec. 5.—The reports coming in from Matthews Chapel are not so frequent, but we are still progressing.

Our pastor, Mr. Morgan, is back with us for another year. We have enjoyed having him as our pastor for the past three years, and are surely glad to have him and his family with us again. We surely hope this charge will see fit to do its best this coming year.

Mr. Morgan filled his regular appointment with us Sunday afternoon. He brought to us a very helpful message. There were quite a number of visitors present.

A large crowd attended the supper which was given Thanksgiving for the benefit of the church.

The Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday night, December 11, at 7 o'clock, with Lobelia Shell as leader.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet Saturday, December 10, at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

We sincerely wish for every church and pastor the best of success this coming year. We still ask an interest in your prayers for us in our work.

CAROLYN TAYLOR, Reporter.

Littleton Charge and Chase City Charge.—On the 25th of November Mr. Matt. Wilson, of Weaver's Chapel, brought a truck up to High Point and moved us to Littleton. After warming ourselves here at the parsonage, some of the ladies served us supper. When the truck arrived, the furniture was unloaded by friends from the churches. In a few days we were comfortably settled here in the Littleton parsonage.

We have found many friends already on the charge. And they are the kind of friends who do things. Last Thursday night we had callers from the Littleton church, namely, Mr. Tasker Williams, Mrs. Sallie Williams, Mrs. Gerda Morris, Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. Bud Perry, and Mrs. Walter Myrick, who brought us some good things to eat. Fresh meats of various kinds, sugar, potatoes, canned goods and vegetables, were included. The next morning Mr. W. L. Perkinson sent up a load of wood, and has since that time remembered us with milk. Other friends giving us necessities include Miss Nancy Wilson, Mr. Matt. Wilson, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Porter, Mr. Duncan, and a friend.

Their gifts were milk, butter, canned goods, meats, chicken, and another load of wood.

On December 4 we gave Chase City charge an extra appointment, and were greeted with a church packed almost to capacity. Their interest in the work and attentiveness to the services are indications of a good year.

We have filled all appointments according to last year's schedule. There was good attendance at most of these services. On this charge there is a warm-hearted people in general. They are interested in their work as well as making the parsonage family welcome and comfortable.

The first quarterly conference will be held at the Littleton church on December 16, at 2 p.m. We urge all official members of the quarterly conference (all church officials) and as many church members as possible to attend. This is a most important meeting. Please express your interest by attending. Have your reports ready to present to this conference.

D. D. BROOME, Pastor.

Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw Charge, M. C. Henderson, Pastor.—Another conference year has passed and gone, and we feel that in many respects it was a very good year for us. We, of course, never accomplish just what we wish we might. It was with regrets that we saw Mr. Bingham and his nice family move on to another work. We will not forget them, and they certainly will ever have our very best wishes. But as Mr. Henderson comes we know that we are giving them a hearty welcome, and our prayer is that this may be the best year that we have ever had in Kingdom service. Mr. Henderson held his first service here on the third Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and he gave us a very impressive talk. We enjoyed having Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and their daughter Ruth to take lunch with us.

MRS. J. L. MAYNARD.

Shady Grove, Connelly Springs Charge.—Our church services usually fall short during the cold, bad weather, but are holding up fine so far. Great interest is manifested in Sunday school, prayer meetings, and other services. Prayer meetings are good on Wednesday night. We hear so many good testimonies. We are so glad that people are holding the name of Jesus above all. Then for the Sunday evening prayer meeting, all the churches close around have been meeting together in the homes. If you would like to be in an old-time prayer meeting, just make it suit to be in one of these.

Rev. Mr. Yokeley filled his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A very good congregation was present to enjoy the message. One man who is beyond 80 years of age said it was the best he had heard from our pastor. He will bring us another Christmas message his next appointment. We hope to have Rev. and Mrs. Yokeley in our community in a short while.

Mrs. Ila Townsend and myself are trying to train the boys and girls for a Christmas pageant, "The Shepherd's Staff." Those who have had experience in this work know what a job is on our hands. So pray for us.

Mrs. A. V. Setzer has been very sick, but is able to sit up at the present time. Mrs. Berry is seriously ill with a cancer. She is not a member of our church, but is here in the community, and we believe she is a good Christian woman. She bears all her sufferings without complaining.

We are hoping this will be the best year for the people and the pastor.

MRS. RUTH AIKEN.

Danville.—On Saturday following conference we made our way to the city of Danville, Va., to begin the work of the new conference year. After supper in the home of Brother Ira Elliott, where we met quite a number of our church folks, we spent the night in the home of Brother W. V. Bass. On Sunday we were highly pleased with the personnel of our congregation, and overjoyed at finding such a whole-hearted, kind-hearted, and responsive people. There seems to exist here a spirit of fellowship not found in many of our older churches. We are therefore looking forward to a pleasant and profitable year. Later we will write more about our work here as we come to understand conditions better. At present we are highly pleased.

We were sorry to leave such a good people as we found on Randolph charge. The four years spent there were very pleasant years, and the many ties of friendship we formed there will not be broken by the passing of years. We are glad to know that they are waking up and that Gray's Chapel will soon build Sunday school rooms. May the spirit of progress continue.

G. L. REYNOLDS.

423 Keen St., Danville, Va.

Corinth Church, Littleton Charge, D. D. Broome,, Pastor.—Our new pastor has filled two appointments at this church. The writer has not met or heard him. She has heard through others that he delivered very inspiring messages, and our folks feel fortunate in having him and his family with us. We feel if all will cooperate together, much good can be accomplished on this work. We hated to give up Mr. Trolinger and his good wife. They had done so much for the work, and always stood ready to help in any way they could. We wish them much success on their new work. Due to the writer's illness in hospital, she didn't get to see them before they moved, but we are hoping they will come back and visit us some time. They will always hold a dear spot in our hearts.

The first quarterly conference will meet at College Street church in Littleton on December 16 at 2 p.m. Hope all official members will be present.

Mr. Broome and family were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morris Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris are happy over the arrival of a little son, Bernard II, on November 2.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

Love's Grove Church, E. A. Cook, Pastor, Dec. 4.—We of Love's Grove church are very happy indeed to have our much beloved pastor return to us for another year. Brother Cook filled his first appointment of the new year at Love's Grove November 27, with a splendid message. We know that much good has been accomplished here since Brother Cook has been our pastor, and we hope to make this year the best ever, both spiritually and financially, in the history of the church. Let us members and officials pray for the pastor and for the progress of our Sunday school and the Christian welfare of the community.

Last Sunday night, November 27, we held our thank-offering program, which was under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. This was a very impressive program and was enjoyed by all who were present. It consisted of a play, "The Lighted Highway," and many beautiful songs, quartets, duets, and solos, along with remarks by the pastor.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Love's Grove has done a wonderful work under the leadership of its president, Mrs. W. L. Little.

On next Sunday night the Ladies' Auxiliary will sponsor the thank-offering program at Friendship church at the request of the church. Come and enjoy the program.

Our Sunday school is going along nicely under the leadership of Mr. J. S. Polk. He is very much interested in the work, and is striving to make this year the best.

HENDERSON CHURCH

Which Celebrated Its Fifty-Seventh Anniversary Last Sunday

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Rev. C. E. Anderson Appointed to Gibsonville

At the request of the Gibsonville church I am appointing Rev. C. E. Anderson as pastor there. This appointment was left unsupplied at our recent session of conference because of the inability of the stationing committee to furnish the man or men who were acceptable. Brother Anderson has preached for these people three Sundays and they seem highly pleased with him. He is an ordained minister with eight years experience in the Eastern Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church. His last pastorate in that conference was at Lynbrook, N. Y. where he had served for three years when he resigned to enter High Point College three years ago. His plans are to move to Gibsonville next week and to give as much time to the work as possible until the last of May when he graduates from High Point College. After graduation he will give full time to the work. Brother Anderson has a wife and twin daughters who, I believe, are in their first year in High School. He has been a member of the High Point College A Capella Choir and has a high rating by the members of the faculty there. I trust his ministry at Gibsonville may prove a blessing both to pastor and people.

The Richland Quarterly Conference

On Friday night of last week I held the first quarterly conference of the Richland Charge, Rev. C. L. Grant, pastor. This meeting was held at the parsonage, a favorite place for holding the quarterly conference on this charge. While the attendance was not large yet all of the churches except New Union were represented. The charge consists of five churches, Giles Chapel, Cedar Falls, Brower's Chapel, New Union and Charlotte. All of these churches are grouped around the town of Asheboro, not a single one being more than five miles away. The parsonage is located just outside the limits of Asheboro. While there was nothing outstanding about the quartely conference yet there was a fine spirit manifested and I am hoping there will be much good accomplished. The pastor will call to his assistance as many helpers as he needs to put the program of the church across. This is Brother Grant's first year on this charge but he has met all of the appointments and seems to have made a fine impression. As this is my home charge I naturally am interested in it.

The Board of Church Extension Meets

On Friday afternoon of last week the Board of Church Extension met in our church in Asheboro. For some reason or another the nominating committee changed the personnel of the Board and this was not discovered until just before the meeting, so the retiring members of the Board were present and the new members were not present. As the Board meets only once a year and that after conference it is possible that the new members will not have a chance to attend a meeting. It was the policy of the Board to shave appropriations just as much as possible and to reduce the indebtedness as much as possible. The reduction this year amounted to $80.00. One note which the Board paid which we were pleased to do was the $500.00 which the Board owed the Superannuate Fund Society. While there was some criticism a few years ago of the Boards for owing the Superannuate Fund Society yet I will say that not a single year has the Board failed to pay six per cent interest and now the Society has received one hundred cents on the dollar.

Anniversary Services at Henderson

Last Sunday morning it was my high privilege to be in the anniversary services of our church at Henderson, commemorating its fifty-seven years of active service. The weather was almost ideal and a fine congregation assembled to take part in the services. Several people of other denominations came to help our people make the day a success. Greetings were read from all of the living former pastors and from the family of the late Dr. L. W. Gerringer who went to his reward from this church. It is always difficult to properly appraise the work of a church but this one especially. For in every good work this church has been in the front ranks for more than half a century. Members of this congregation furnished the money to educate a number of the ministers in our conference and several of these men came back and served this church as pastors. Three former president's of our Annual Conference who are still in the active work, Drs. R. M. Andrews, A. G. Dixon, and S. W. Taylor, have served this church as pastor. It was my privilege to serve it for five years.

One of the outstanding things about this church has been the character and quality of its leadership. From the very beginning it has numbered among its members some of the leading citizens of the city. Many who were once prominent in this church and in the life of the city have passed on to their reward while others are not able to take the active parts which they once took, but there are still those in the church who are able to carry on. While the church has never grown as much as some of our churches have done yet it has been a tower of strength. For a long period of years it was, perhaps, the best known church, in our conference. There has seldom been held a General Conference in the last half a century that did not have in it some layman and minister from the Henderson church. So, those who founded the church fifty years ago did a magnificent piece of work. Fortunate were they to be able to lay the foundation and fortunate have been the pastors who have been able to minister at the altar of this noble church.

The present pastor is the Rev. Talton Johnson Whitehead, an Alamance County man, a graduate of High Point College and the Duke school of religion. He and his good wife have the work well in hand and are very happy in it. The people speak in the highest terms of them, so it seems to be a happy situation both from the standpoint of the pastor and the people. It was a great joy to be there. Long live the Henderson Church!

Mrs. R. T. Wills

After a long illness Mrs. Mae Alderman Wills, wife of Brother R. T. Wills, secretary-treasurer of Wills Book & Stationery Co. and sister of Mrs. J. Norman Wills, took the wings of the morning and flew away to her heavenly home Saturday, December 10th. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Doctor Craven, who was assisted by Doctor Sphar, pastor-emeritus of Grace Church. Brother Wills is a charter member of Grace M. P. Church, and is one of its most faithful and loyal members. The editor extends brotherly sympathy to him and to all others bereaved by this dispensation.

Congratulations

The editor congratulates the members of our Henderson Church; the church is now fifty-seven years young. For many years this and the Winston Church were the only urban churches in our conference. But it is not remembered because of this fact so much as for the influence the church has had upon our entire denomination. It has had in its membership some very fine and influential members. People who held high standards and tried to live up to them. people with talent for leadership and who led; people who believed in and practiced the principles of the Methodist Protestant Church as consistently as we have known. Long live this church and may its history be made more glorious as the new generations rise and serve.

A Special Request

The editor is informed by Mrs. A. G. Dixon that the coupons on Granulated Soap will not be of value after December 31th. That the Granulated soap will do all that Soap Powders and Soap Chips will do, and the coupon of Granulated Soap is of value to the Home; so please buy the Granulated Soap and send in the coupon with the word Coupon printed on the cover. Be sure to buy the one with the word coupon printed on the cover. The saving of these and other coupons has been worth many hundreds dollars to the Home. Please cooperate with Mrs. Dixon and send in all the coupons you may have by the date named above, December 31st.

West End Church

After being out of the pastorate for six years, the pastor of West End Church almost lost the pastor consciousness; he certainly did lose the pastor habits, and reporting is one of them. So here is an effort to break into the old way of life again.

We have filled the regular Sunday appointments here since Conference. The congregations have been good, the interest very good and we feel that we have been kindly received by the people. The first quarterly conference was held last Wednesday night. The usual business transacted and plans made for a good year. We feel much at home in Greensboro, this is our eighteenth year here and while the years were not consecutive, yet we are glad to find many friends and acquaintances of other days to greet us upon our return.

"Whereunto Shall I Liken This Generation?"

Every generation has its assets in religion, social prestige, good morals, education, wealth, etc., of which it can justly boast; for none is wholly bad. Yet each generation either inherits from the past or initiates that which it cannot boast without bringing reproach upon itself. Jesus saw the indifference of the people of his day to spiritual values—to things of enduring quality, and he cried out whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto the fellows, and saying, "We have piped unto you and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you and ye have not lamented." A gross lack of appreciation of the experiences of those about them,—INDIFFERENCE.

Do we not find ourselves today much in the same condition? Are not our attitudes very much like those of the people of old? The obvious indifference of many to the loyalties of life, their failure to be gripped by conviction of spiritual truth; their lessening value of human life, of the home and of the Church should be cause for alarm by all serious minded

St. Paul urges that "ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable unto God." The remarkable fact about a Christian is that he is a son of God—heir of God, and joint heir with Jesus Christ. "Now are we the sons of God." Let people see and understand this amazing relationship with the Divine and they will not longer pour poison drugs and intoxicating liquors down their throats. I have never seen a man insisting that even a preacher take a dram, how much less would one offer liquor to Christ Himself.

Here is just the point. The New Testament makes nothing clearer than the tremendous fact of the actual indwelling spirit and nature of God in the soul of the believer. God is in the life of the Christian. He did not leave us comfortless. The Holy Spirit dwells in the human body, and the body is that much a part of God. It houses God. Pour liquor into the body and you are offering it to God for God lives in the body—that is in the body of the Christian. And this is the reason I insist that drinking is so utterly out of line with the religious man.

This great truth is well stated in the Scriptures: "Be not drunk with wine whereas is excess, but be filled with the spirit." Instead of being full of liquor a man may be full of God. This is sound doctrine. "For as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION OF YOUTH
(12-24 YEARS OF AGE)

The Situation

Much has been accomplished for the Youth Age Group during the thirty-one years of organized Young People's work, 1908-39. Our systems of camps, Youth Rallies, and Youth organization in the local church are significant. Much has been done. There is yet much to be done. Our leaders feel that a more adequate program must be provided not only for those now in the church but also for thousands yet unreached.

What You May Do About It

Provide for an adequate Youth Department in your Sunday school. See that other necessary Youth organizations are established.

Enlist the interest and active participation of Youth in the worship and service projects of the church.

Introduce the Young People to the "New United Youth Movement" and have them study the following booklets in Societies and Classes:

Youth Action in Personal Religious Living	15c
Youth Action in Building a Warless World	15c
Youth Action in Breaking Down Barriers	15c
Youth Action in the Use of Leisure Time	15c
Youth Action on the Liquor Problem	15c
Youth Action on the Economic Order	15c
Youth Action in Preparing for Marriage and Home Life	15c
Youth Action on Christian Patriotism	15c
Youth Action in the Local Church	15c
Christian Youth in Missionary Action	15c

Secure the committment of Young People to some definite Christian service and have them adopt a personal plan of Religious development.

Organize Leadership Education classes for youth and youth leaders.

Enlist youth in the observance of Young People's Day in January.

Provide means whereby your Youth and Youth leaders can attend summer camps and conferences.

Fellowship with other Methodist groups.

Suggested Helps

A MOST PRECIOUS METAL

If you were asked to name a metal indispensable to the world, would you think of copper?

Imagine what would happen to civilization if copper were suddenly taken from it. You would take to a world without means of communication. There would be no electric lights, telephones, telegraphs or radios. You might have no hot or cold water or way of cooking in your home. Your automobile would not function, nor perhaps your washing machine where you work would be out of commission. Your street-car would be stopped. Even the clocks in various places would cease ticking. You wouldn't know your world. So many, many things would happen to confound you; such an innumerable array of articles would have disappeared from your life; so many objects of common daily use and necessity would have vanished from your surroundings that your routine would be wrecked. You would be lost, dumbfounded.

If the total amount of copper used by the world in one year were equally divided among all earth's inhabitants, each person would have more than one pound. Once iron was considered of enough import to name an era after it. The present era ought to be called after copper, since copper easily is one of the key metals. In the United States alone much more than 1,000,000,000 pounds of the rich metal are used annually. —By CHARLES OLUF OLSEN.

WITH THE POETS

Elizabeth Vera Idol

THE ETERNAL GOODNESS

By JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER

John Greenleaf Whittier grew up in a simple Quaker home of which, happily, he has given us a delightful and intimate picture in his great "Winter Idyl", Snow-Bound; and the genuine simplicity and sincerity of that early training was only deepened and spiritualized as the years went by, developing in him a spiritual poise which brought happiness to a serene old age in which he was universally beloved. His was a deep personal religion which governed his whole life and was the life of his genius from which flowed his ideas of earthly and heavenly content. This religious note was always elevated and intense, but he was never dogmatic, and many of the very sects which he criticized for certain elements in their religious faith sing his hymns today. The motivating force in his own life was the simple beauty, rugged strength, and sincere religious feeling, to which he gives utterance in The Eternal Goodness and Our Master, two of his finest religious poems. He followed what the Quakers call the "inner light", or the direct guidance of man by God, and so he found the harsh and inflexible tenets of the early Calvinistic Puritans distasteful,—"iron creeds" with which his feeling of the nearness of God and the understanding of the spirit of Jesus were at wide variance.

In The Eternal Goodness, probably Whittier's most eloquent statement of his religious faith, the heart of the whole poem, as well as the controlling motif of his life is found in the line:

"I know that God is good."

Again and again the contrast between the sternness of the Calvinistic Puritanism, still widely prevalent in Whittier's day, is evident in this poem:

"I dare not fix with mete and bound
The love and power of God", or

"Ye praise his justice; even such
His pitying love I deem:
Ye seek a king; I fain would touch
The robe that hath no seam."

Or still again, the doctrine of man's inherent sinfulness which even children were taught as they lisped their alphabet,

"In Adam's Fall
We sinned all"

in these lines:

"Ye see the curse which overbroods
A world of pain and loss;"

and the very antithesis of this belief as he continues:

"I hear oru Lord's beatitudes
And prayer upon the cross".

The same clear note of Whittier's belief in immortality is in the lines:

"But God has led my dear ones on
And he can do no wrong"

as in the well-known lines from Snow-Bound:

"Alas for him who never sees
The stars shine through his cypress trees
……
Who hath not learned in hours of faith,
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That life is ever lord of Death,
And Love can never lose its own!"

The fullest expression of his simple faith in God's constant goodness and acceptance of God's guidance in his life shines like a clear star in the stanzas:

"I know not what the future hath
Of marvel or surprise,
Assured alone that life and death
His mercy underlies."

and

"I know not where his islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond his love and care."

His comprehending knowledge of the Bible is evident from the wealth of Scriptural expressions and allusions throughout all his religious poetry; such expressions from this poem as, "the robe that hath no seam", "our Lord's beatitudes", the "bruised reed", and others which all Bible students recognize.

Modestly, Whittier said, "I am not really a hymn-writer for the good reason that I know nothing of music," but he added, "A good hymn is the best use to which poetry can be devoted," and it is a fact that seventy-five hymns are known to have been based on his poems. H. Augustine Smith is the authority for the statement that fifty of them can be found in our modern hymn-books. Among those in our own Methodist Hymnal are: a hymn of patriotic fervor, Our thought of thee is glad with hope; a hymn of quiet trust and confidence, O Love, O Life; a beautiful expression of hope in the future life with much the same mood as Tennyson's Crossing the Bar, When on my day of life the night is falling; one of the most simple and beautiful, taken in its entirety from The Eternal Goodness, I bow my forehead in the dust; and one of the most reverent and beautiful prayer-hymns in the book, Dear Lord and Father of mankind. A knowledge of the authorship and background of these great hymns of the church should add greatly to the worshipfulness of the services.

Of the entire body of Whittier's verse one has said, "The essential spirituality of his thought suffuses his expression like sunlight in sunbanked western skies"; and Percy H. Boynton has said of The Eternal Goodness, and of these lines from Our Master, that they have in them the benediction of a vesper organ:

"The healing of His seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain.
We touch Him in life's throng and press,
And we are whole again."

Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it: except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh in vain.—Psalm 127:1.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF FIRST M. P. CHURCH HENDERSON, N. C.

The church was organized in the summer of 1881. The membership came largely from five families—William A. Harris, W. Henry Hart, John F. Harris, K. W. Coghill, and Geo. A. Harris. The first church building was erected on a lot which was given by William A. Harris. At that time this was the most spacious church building in the town which then had a population of around 2,000.

During the summer and fall of 1881 Rev. S. P. J. Harris, a local preacher, served as pastor. On November 30th, 1881, Rev. James P. Simpson of Georgia was appointed as the pastor at the session of the conference which was held at Chestnut Ridge in Orange County. On December 9th of that year the church held a meeting for the purpose of organizing the official boards of the church. The following have served as pastors since the organization of the church: D. A. Fishel and T. T. Ferree as associate pastors, F. M. Totten, J. T. Jones, S. W. Coe, T. J. Ogburn, T. M. Johnson, J. S. Williams, W. F. Kennett, A. G. Dixon, R. M. Andrews, J. D. Williams, S. W. Taylor, J. E. Pritchard, R. A. Hunter, L. W. Gerringer, L. R. Medlin, and T. J. Whitehead. In the history of the church a large number of these pastors have been elected as Annual Conference Presidents. The following have been Presidents during the fifty-seven years history of the church: J. R. Ball, R. H. Wills, T. J. Ogburn, W. A. Bunch, T. T. Ferree, W. E. Swain, T. M. Johnson, C. A. Cecil, C. S. Cecil, G. W. Holmes, R. M. Andrews, A. G. Dixon, S. W. Taylor, J. E. Pritchard.

The organization has used but two church buildings. The present building was erected in 1899-1900. It was dedicated by the pastor who directed the building campaign, Rev. J. S. Williams. In 1924 the Sunday school plant was erected during the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Pritchard.

There were about thirty-five members in the first year. Today there are 361 members on the roll. A total of eight hundred and thirty people have united with the church in its entire history.

The Henderson church has made its contribution to both denominational and community life. During the history of the church it has had a lay representative in practically every meeting of the General Conference. It has had a number of its laymen and pastors to serve on the boards and committees of both the Annual and General Conferences. A large number of its members have been leaders in the business, political, civic, and social life of the city. Through these leaders it has made its influence felt in the total environment of the city throughout the years. Throughout its entire history the church has stood by the doctrines of the Methodist Protestant Church. It has done well its work.

The North Carolina Annual Conference has been held at this church in the years 1887, 1901, 1911, 1922, and 1935.

FLAT ROCK CHARGE

First Quarterly Conference at Bethel on Sunday, December 17th, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Man is more blessed or less blessed in the same measure as he is aware of the presence of God.—John Tauler.

HOW JOHN WANAMAKER BEGAN THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

(As told to Mr. Charles M. Alexander)

I was a country boy who had come to the city. A salesman asked me if I wouldn't go to his church. I was at prayer meeting there one night, where there were perhaps two hundred persons.

It was a quiet, old-fashioned meeting. There was a handsome old man of about seventy, who got up and in the gravest way said that he was just waiting for God to take him; that he had lived his life; that God had been good to him; and it was all summed up in the statement that religion was a good thing to die by. I sat way back, and I always had a great fashion of talking to myself. I said: "Well, old man, you can't touch me; you have lived your life; you haven't any sympathy with a big boy; it has passed over my head."

Soon after a young fellow got up. He was perhaps thirty-five, and he said: "You have heard an old man tell you that religion was good to die by; I want to tell you it's good to live by. I have just begun the Christian life. Two years ago I was converted. I had just begun business, and I had had a prejudice against religion; they told me that a man had to have a face a yard long and couldn't smile or do anything that would make him happy. You see I was decided about that: I am a great deal happier since I became a Christian, because it settled things. I am a better business man; a great load has rolled off my heart and I can give myself more to my work."

I listened to him and I said to myself, "There you are; you want to be a business man, and he tells you how you can be a better business man. He tells you that religion is good to live by. Another man tells you that religion is good to die by." I said, "Suppose you were in a court and heard two statements like that, would you believe them?" "Yes," I replied to myself. "Well," I said, "do you intend ever to be a Christian?" "Yes." "Well, if it's a good thing, why don't you be it right away?" I said, "Yes, I will."

I waited in the meeting until everybody went out except the janitor and the old minister, and as he came down the aisle he met a country boy coming up, and I was the chap. I simply said to him, "I have settled it tonight to give my heart to God." And he reached out his hand and said, "God bless you, my son; you will never regret it." That was the whole business. I didn't wait to get some feeling. I accepted the fact that I was a sinner, and that there was a Saviour for sinners, and I came to Him simply on the proposition that the gift of God is eternal life.—Baptist Courier.

"That looks like an old ax," said the visitor to the town's oldest inhabitant.

"It is, sir, it is. That ax is seventy-five years old. I bought it when I was a boy."

'The ax seems just as good as when you bought it, doesn't it?"

"Well," replied the inhabitant after a thoughtful pause, "it's had three new blades and five new handles, but, except for that she's just the same, sir, just the same."—Echange.

This last item was reported once as having come from Seagrove on the same charge. We have been requested to correct, and we gladly do it.

We feel keenly grateful for the good way in which our people have responded to our goals through the Thanksgiving offerings. I think we can predict without doubt that the offerings for Thanksgiving this year will double those of last year. And for this we thank all who have contributed and praise the dear Lord.

Several fine offerings, are being reported this week, as for the last two weeks. We appreciate them all and fully realize that sometimes a small offering from a little church often calls for more self sacrifice than a large offering from a big church.

But since it is the largest offering we have received from any church during our stay here we call attention to the offering from First Church, Burlington. They also kept up their regular offering to the usual amount, and the circles in that church are clothing five children in the Home.

The total amount for Thanksgiving has passed the $4,000 mark. Our deficit Nov. 1st, 1938 was a bit over $3,800. He had lived nearly two months since then, have put in a car load of coal and bought the regular supplies together with a supply of shoes, overalls and underwear for one boy. We are just hoping and trusting and believing that somehow we will have a balanced budget for January 1st, 1939.

A Delightful Trip

Sunday, December 11th, we took 30 of our children in the bus and ran out to Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor. We presented a program at the 11:00 o'clock hour, which was kindly received, the folks gave us a good offering, and then served a fine dinner in the basement of the church. We thoroughly enjoyed the outing, the dinner and the fellowship. We count this a great country church. One of our strongest. Just as we got home four cars drove into the yard from Mt. Hermon, on Rev. J. R. Anderson's charge, and we had a pleasant visit with them. We can but feel that the interest in the Home is increasing.

The offerings along now look more like those of 1929 and 1930 than any since then. God bless all the dear ones who are helping us out with the largest family of children we have ever had.

Clothing and Other Produce

Mr. O. A. Kirkman, High Point — One farm bell.

Shiloh Church, Shiloh, Additional—One 98 pound bag of flour, one bag of Irish and one bag of sweet potatoes and 4 half-gallon cans of fruit and vegetables.

Baltimore, West Forsyth—74 half-gallon and 2 quart cans of fruits and vegetables, 2 bushel of sweet, and 4 bushels of Irish potatoes, 1 bushel turnips, 6 bushels of wheat, 4 bushels of corn, and 4 chickens.

The Merita Bread Company—84 cakes for Sunday dinner and school lunches.

Level Cross, Randleman—110 half-gallon and 2 quart cans of fruit and vegetables and one bag of sweet potatoes.

Woman's Auxiliary, Mt. Hermon, In Mt. Hermon—One quilt and two packages of cookies.

Shoals, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion—36 half-gallon cans of friuts and vegetables and 3 pumpkins.

We thank you for these gifts in substance. Just one or two more trips out for this fall. God bless each of you.

MARRIED

Knight-Jones

In a quiet ceremony solemnized in Nashville, N. C., at the Methodist parsonage, Miss Florence Lucile Jones became the bride of William Leon Knight, of Hollister and Norlina, on Saturday morning, September the twenty-fourth at eleven o'clock. Rev. W. Carleton Wilson, former pastor of the bride officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The bride wore a fall costume of wine crepe, with small veiled hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of purple orchids.

Mrs. Knight is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jones, of Norlina. She received her education in Norlina high school and Louisburg college.

Mr. Knight is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Knight, of Hollister. He received his education in Aurelian Springs high school and General Electric Refrigerator Service school, in Richmond, Va.

Following the ceremony the couple left for Washington, D. C. After October 1st. they will be at home in Norlina, where Mr. Knight holds a position with the Traylor Radio Shop.

APPRECIATION YEAR

We moved to Greensboro last Thursday. Early Friday morning, cold and rainy though it was, the city sent its hostess to welcome us to Greensboro. Merchants sent us cards to be used as cash when presented at their stores, theaters, beauty parlors, etc. Many friends, new and old, have greeted us and expressed their appreciation at having us live in Greensboro.

The Methodist Protestant Church and all its blessings have been ours for many years, will we as her members express our APPRECIATION in a tangible way or will we be indifferent?

The choice must be made by each individual.

By their fruits ye shall know them, saith the Lord.

THIRD QUARTERLY MEETING OF WOMEN'S WORK

The third quarterly meeting of Women's Work will convene at 10:30 o'clock Thursday, January 12, at State Street church in Lexington, N. C.

All Auxiliaries are entitled to as many delegates as for Annual Branch meeting. Let us have a full representation.

State Street ladies will serve lunch at a reasonable price.

BONES

The bones in the body are two hundred or more, but for sorting out people we need only four:

1. Wishbones:

They hope for, they long for, they wish for and sigh.
They want things to come but aren't willing to try.

2. Funnybones:

They laugh, grin and giggle, and twinkle the eye:
If work is a joke, sure, they'll give it a try.

3. Jawbones:

They scold, jaw and sputter, they froth, rave and cry;
They're endless on talk, but they're short on the try.

4. Backbones:

They strike from the shoulder, they never say die;
They're winners in life, for they know how to try.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

THE BIRTH OF JESUS TOLD IN POETRY AND SONG

Christian Endeavor Topic for December 25

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Daily Bible Readings

Monday, December 19—Hymn: "Joy to the world." Luke 2:10, 11.

Tuesday, December 20—"I heard the bells on Christmas Day." Longfellow. Luke 2:14.

Wednesday, December 21—Poem: "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Matt. 2:1-6.

Thursday, December 22 — Hymn: "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Isa. 9:6, 7.

Friday, December 23—Carol: "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." Luke 2:13-20.

Saturday, December 24 — Carol: "Silent Night." Luke 2:8-14.

The Scripture Lesson

Luke 1:46-55, 67-79.

There is no better way that the story of the birth of Jesus can be told than in poetry and song. There are people living around you who could quote more Christman hymns than all other hymns put together. It would not seem like Christmas to many who never set foot inside of a church, if they did not pause in the rush of getting ready for Christmas to listen to a group of happy hearted people singing the familiar Christmas carols.

With the Christmas poems we are not quite so familiar. Yet there are a large number of poems, that once we came to know them, we would hold as dear as the carol. Thomas Curtis Clark has done much toward compiling and preserving some of these.

The Star of Faith

They pinned their faith on such a little thing—
Only a star—
Yet 'twas enough to lead each eager king
From lands afar,
Through the dark forest, where the cedar shows
Its giant stem,
Over the mountains, white with winter snows
To Bethlehem.

So is our faith only a little thing—
A tiny spark—
Yet, if we follow bravely, it will bring
Us through the dark;
To where, encircled by a golden ray,
Sweet Mary kneels,
And to the travelers, at break of day,
Her son reveals!

—OLIVE CHICHESTER.

The Light of Bethlehem

Above a world entrapped by fear,
There shone a silver star.
The doubters saw it not, nor cared;
The men of faith, from afar,
Knew that the Light of Love looked down,
And followed it through field and town.

Through desert lands they made their way
Past mountains bleak and wild;
They came to humble Bethlehem
And found a little Child.
Their hearts were stirred: their feet had trod
A road to peace—they learned of God!

How blind are we who walk through night
In desert lands of sin!
Our ears are deaf: we cannot hear,
Amid the strife and din,
The voice of One who came to tell
The world of Truth—that all is well.

Our hearts are broken by the years,
But still there shines a star
Oh, that we might, from afar,
Retrace our steys through fear and night
To faith and hope, and Bethl'hem's light!

—THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

The Old Amaze

These are the things I pray the years may leave
Untarnished and untouched by dust and blight:
The old amaze, the spell of Christmas Eve,
Its rapture and delight.

The breathless wonder that the stars awake,
The unfaltering belief that a star once led
Three kings a devious way—that it still can take Men to Christ's manger bed.

And hurrying years, in passing let us keep
Some starry-eyed expectancy aglow:
The thing that children, waking from their sleep
On Christmas morning, know.

And, oh, some little flame of eagerness!
Years, leave it lighted as you pass, I pray:
A little inner flame to lift and bless
All hearts on Christmas Day.

—GRACE NOLL CROWELL.

Clippings

It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how th estrong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself of high achievement; and at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly; so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.— Theodore Roosevelt.

A little girl was showing a visitor over her father's farm, and proudly pointed to a cow which, she said, was her very own.

"And does your cow give milk?" asked the visitor.

"Well, not exactly," replied the child, "you have sort of got to take it away from her." —Ex.

No, but the next best thing is happening. She's getting tired of it.—Ex.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Caroleen, N. C., Dec. 16, 1938—Although there hasn't been a report from our church for quite awhile, we are still busy with the Master's work. We welcome wholeheartly our new pastor, Rev. Herbert Garmon, who filled his appointments here both last Sunday morning and night. He has already won the hearts of his people. Although he has two other churches (Shelby and Bessemer City) he stayed in the homes and among his people here for three days and, in that way he knows us and we know him better. His very first message was from the throne of grace and will not soon be forgotten. We are working on our Christmas program, which we expect to be a great success, and which everyone looks forward to as much as the visit of Saint Nick. Every child and adult puts their whole live into these programs, regardless of the weather, which is the reason of the great success we've had in the past. Our midweek prayer services are growing. We are studying the book of Acts, using a round table discussion, which is enjoyed by everyone. There are some of our members on the sick list, and their absence makes a weak place in our army. That's why we should all realize the importance of our presence to keep the army strong for the fight against sin. Our prayer is that they may soon be well and back to their post. May we obey the voice of God and as we work together with our new pastor, that we will have one of the greatest years in history.

Pleasant Hill, Spring Church Charge, Dec. 5—Conference brought us to the close of a fairly successful year.

The church roof has been painted, the inside of the building remodeled and painted, and new light fixtures added, the total cost of which amounted to $300. Of this amount, $81 was raised by the ladies with cake sales. The entire debt was paid before Conference for which we were thankful. Mr. J. W. Medlin deserves much credit in getting the work done, and the money raised.

We also paid the pastor's salary in full and all other claims except about $10.

Our former pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Williams left last week for Wendell, N. C. where they will make their home. Their leaving left a big vacant spot in the hearts of the Pleasant Hill people. They were faithful workers in the C. E. Society and prayer meetings, as well as in the regular preaching services, so we miss them "all the way around."

Our new pastor, Rev. J. E. Garlington, of Westminster Theological Seminary, is with us on the second and fourth Sunday nights. He has brought us two good 'sermons since conference.

The Christian Endeavor work is moving along nicely, with Bernard Cook as president. Our major C. E. project for the year was a peanut plot, which brought us in a very nice sum. We appreciate the help of Mr. Hart in making this project a success. Our ex-president, Guy Crew, left last week for Norfolk, Va. where he entered the Norfolk Business College.

Plans are underway for a Christmas pageant, "The Heart of Christmas," which we hope to present on Sunday night, Dec. 25th.

The friends of John Burgess were shocked and saddened at his sudden death which occurred on November 28th. In a football game, he was injured a few months ago, but he was back in school at the time of his death. He lived an upright Christian life, and will be greatly missed.

Mocksville Charge, Elbaville Church, Pastor, K. G. Holt, Dec. 8, 1938.—Our pastor, K. G. Holt, filled his regular appointment last Sunday morning. After preaching communion service was held. We were glad to see many of our young people take part in the communion service.

The preaching service was based on "Preparing to Meet God." We should all commune together and be prepared to meet God at any time He might call us. Death is certain, and we know not the hour it might strike us. We should always be ready and not afraid to face death at any time.

Our Young People's class held their regular class meeting Wednesday night, Nov. 30 with one of the members, Clarence Markland, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Markland. After the program refreshments were served. Everyone seemed to have had a nice time.

Many improvements have been made at our church since our last report. The church has been painted inside and out, the cemetery fencing painted, and shrubbery set around the church.

Our church officials were appointed recently. We are glad to have our faithful superintendent back, Mr. Alex Tucker; who has served at our church as superintendent for several years. We are also glad to have our old teachers back.

A hearty welcome awaits you at our church at any time.

Bethesda, N. Davidson, Rev. O. B. Williams, Pastor.—Another conference year is on its way. We were sorry to lose our good pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Neese. But we give Rev. O. B. Williams and wife a hearty welcome and trust that this will be a great year for our churches in the advancement of God's work. The Ladies Auxiliary (with some help from the men) bought a bed room suit for the parsonage. Our Sunday school is moving on nicely. We are planning a Christmas entertainment which will be given Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, at 7:00 o'clock. The girls Sunday school class met at the home of Mr. J. D. Everhart for their Christmas social with the boys class and also the young people of Mt. Carmel M. P. Church, Forsyth Charge, as guests

A very interesting program was carried out. Several contests and games were played.

Miss Doris Brinkley and Mr. James Wagner won prizes. Refreshments were served to all present.

The Ladies Auxiliary will held their Christmas meeting Thursday night of this week with Mrs. S. R. Wagner. We are planning a nice time.

Mr. H. H. Brinkley, who underwent an operation and has been sick so long is improving, we are glad to say.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wagner will celebrate their golden wedding Dec. 25 from 1 to 4 o'clock. All are invited, especially old friends and kinfolk.

Best wishes to the HERALD and all its readers a Merry Christmas.

MRS. J. O. EVERHART, Reporter.

Draper Church, J. L. Love, Pastor.—Our Sunday school continues to grow, just keeps getting larger. We have 51 in our Young People's class, all the other classes are increasing in attendance. Fine attendance at the preaching service Sunday night. The church was almost filled. We took a special thanksgiving offering last Sunday for the Children's Home, amounting to $7.00. We are hoping and praying this will be one of the best years our church has known.

Mrs. John Wray recently joined our church.

And we received two new members into our church last night, Mr. and Mrs. Reese from High Point. We are happy to have them with us. Our young people are busy on their play for Christmas. Mrs. Love, Mrs. John Wray, Mrs. Edna Wilson, are in charge of the Christmas program. One of our faithful members, Mrs. Annie Boyles, is in the Leaksville hospital. We miss her very much and are hoping and praying she will soon be back with us. Pray for us that our church may continue to grow.

Hawkins Chapel Church, Littleton Charge, Pastor, D. D. Broome, Dec. 11.—There brings a very sad time when you have to report, when your pastor has been called away. Our loss is Seagrove's gain. We can say you have a pastor, and his companion who tries to help things grow in a spiritual way. But we heartily welcome Brother D. D. Broome, his wife and three children. They already seem as if we have been knowing them for some time. Coming to us the fourth Sunday evening, and second Sunday morning brought to a large congregation a wonderful sermon for poor Lazarus and the sik man. Folk, stop, and think a beggar not the rich man entered heaven, not for a minute think you have got to be a begger to get there. But the biggest majority of people seem to think you must have on shining shoes, a sparkling dress, and etc. to be something. To be a real something, you have got to have the holy spirit. Nicodemus was well educated and one of high standing Jews. Yet he liked something above all of this. Jesus told him, Ye must be born again to enter heaven. How can that be? Ye must be born of the Holy Spirit and water.

Willis Hawkins is one of the stewards. It was left out of the last report.

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Crawley, Jr. are proud of a son, also Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Crawley, a girl.

Rev. and Mrs. Broome and children were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Baldy Green Sunday.

We are planning for a Christmas program.

Congratulations for our boy, Rev. Leo Pittard who took for his bride, Miss Margaret Smith of Winston-Salem, Nov. 19. We wish them all the happiness and success throughout their life.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Ebeneezer, Greenville Charge, J. M. Morgan, Pastor.—Our Sunday school is moving on nicely under the leadership of our faithful superintendent, Mr. J. B. Clements.

We are planning a Christmas program which will be given Dec. 24. A cordial invitation is extended to all who can and will come and enjoy the service with us.

We are indeed grateful to our heavenly Father and to conference for sending Mr. J. M. Morgan back to us another year. We surely hope this entire charge will do its best to accomplish great things for the Kingdom.

Brother Morgan has filled both appointments at this place and brought us very inspiring messages.

Among the sick list of our church family is Miss Lillie Moore, Mrs. J. B. High and little Christine Woodruff. We are hoping they will soon be able to fill their places again.

The first quarterly conference will be held at Wesleys Chapel Dec. 18 at 3:30 in the afternoon. All officials are urged to be present. Wishing every read of the HERALD a Happy Christmas, and pray for us that we may go forward.

MRS. F. A. PEARSON.

Kernersville, South Winston, Dec. 12.—Yesterday being the second Sunday we had services at South Winston at 11 a. m., Sandy Ridge at 2:30 p. m. and at Kernersville at 7:30 p. m. Charles Hauser, of the First Methodist Protestant church in Winston-Salem, attended the Sunday school and church service at South Winston. He taught the adult class in a very interesting manner. The pastor and son were entertained in the home of Brother W. H. Smith, superintendent, for dinner. Other guests in the home on the same occasion were, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Mrs. Furr and daughter, all of South Winston church. We had the usual attendance at Sandy Ridge and Kernersville churches.

The first quarterly conference will meet in the Kernersville church Saturday afternoon of this week, at 2:00 o'clock. We are expecting a good attendance of the official members and others.

We are pleased to announce that Rev. J. E. Pritchard, D.D., president of the Annual Conference, will preach at the South Winston church next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Pritchard has not visited South Winston church during his presidency, and we are looking forward to his visit. We hope to have a large congregation to greet him and hear his sermon.

The Kernersville church had a good Sunday school last Sunday. The attendance was unusually good, there being 61 present. The enrollment is 75. The painting of the interior and exterior of the church has been finished and a new choir built. The next improvement project is to secure new carpet for the floor. The Ladies Aid society organized into two circles, has done much toward the improvements on the church building.

Christmas programs are being prepared by three of the four Sunday schools on this charge, namely, Pine Grove, South Winston and Sandy Ridge. The programs will be rendered at Pine Grove and Sandy Ridge churches on Friday night, December 23, while South Winston Sunday school has not decided on the time for their program.

This writer wishes all the pastors and the readers of the HERALD a Joyful Christmas and a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

West End, Thomasville.—The conference year started off real well. Last Sunday we raised two payments on our building and loan. Today we had 180 present in our Sunday school. Our pastor is sick at this writing and was unable to fill his regular appointment. We ask the prayers of the entire conference for him a speedy recovery.

We appreciate very much having Mr. Lee Berries of Community Church to fill Mr. Loy's appointment this morning.

Our Christmas program will be held Friday night, December 23, at 7:00 o'clock. We hope to have a large attendance.

The Ladies Auxiliary Christmas tree will be December 20, at the church when the Pollyannas wil exchange gifts. We hope every member will be present and bring a poem about the past Pollyanna.

We ask an interest in the prayers of the Christian people that we may strive harder to do the Master's will.

Again we ask the interest of the Christian people of the readers of the HERALD and of the entire conference for our beloved paster that he may soon return to the work we know he loves and likes to be in. Also for his good wife and entire family.

L. BINKLEY, Reporter.

Spring Church, Spring Church Charge, Rev. J. E. Garlington, Pastor.—Mr. Garlington brought us another inspiring message yesterday. His theme being: "What Doth the Lord Require of Me?" or "How Far Can I Be Wrong and Yet Be Saved?" His scripture lesson was taken from the 6th chapter of Micah. For example he reminded us of the time in the lives of Moses, Saul, Pilate, Judas and others that went too far in sin and were punished. Mr. Garlington's sermons have all been good and helpful. They show that he puts much time, thought and study on them.

On Monday night, Dec. 26 at 7 o'clock there will be a Christmas service presented in our church. We invite all to be present.

The first quarterly conference will be held in Pleasant Hill Church on Friday night, Dec. 30 at 7 o'clock. We hope each church on the charge will be well represented.

We were very sorry to have our former pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, and his family move from this community. Each one of us had learned to think a great deal of them. We wish for them the best of luck and happiness. We sincerely trust Mr. Williams will soon be well and strong again.

Best wishes to the HERALD and its readers.

REPORTER.

Davidson Charge.—Our first quarterly conference was held at the parsonage last Saturday night. A large and fine group was present, and all business was harmoniously transacted. Brother Curry presided, and offered advice that was needful, and appreciated. A new schedule of appointments was recommended by the pastor, and was accepted.

Brother J. P. Elliott was reelected secretary.

The persons named below have remembered us with various kinds of eats: Mrs. W. A. Frank, Mrs. Jesse Taylor, Mr. M. K. Surratt, Mrs. Van Lanier, Mrs. Whitt Wood, Mrs. N. E. Loftin, and Mr Garvin Elliott, one hour's labor.

We highly appreciate all these remembrances.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Lineberry, authorized the writer to make some much needed additions inside the parsonage. They are to pay for the material.

WM. H. NEESE.

Grace Church, Greensboro, J. Elwood Carroll, Pastor.—We break a precedent by inviting Brother Carroll back for his sixth year as our pastor. Heretofore five years seems to be the unwritten law as to the limit of pastorate at one time, though Dr. R. M. Andrews served us two terms.

Brother Carroll has entered into his work with a determination to make this the best year of his six. The first Sunday in November—just prior to conference—he presented seven persons for church membership and on the second Sunday in December 14 more, making a total of 21 in about a month. It was the encouraging impression of the pastor that many more prospects are available and more persons will be joining soon. In fact, the pastor says he has two other certificates and two boys to unite on confession as soon as sickness in the homes permits them to attend church.

Those uniting with our church include Miss Audree Faye Dodson, Mrs. W. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waugh and children. Benton, James, and Doris; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burroughs, Mrs. Fairy Murray Coble, Aubrey and Clay Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Lane Thomas and son, Eugene, Miss Rosalea Sherrill, Mr. Worth Sink, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Miller, Mrs. Oscar Powell, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones.

Our two Christmas programs will include a candlelight service of music by the choir under the direction of Mrs. R. E. Morrissett, on Sunday afternoon, December 18, at 5 o'clock. Former pastor, Dr. R. M. Andrews, will pray the invocation and pronounce the benediction. Also, the church school Christmas tree and white gift service will be held at 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening, December 21. Gifts will be exchanged by all Sunday school classes and a treat will be provided for the smaller children. White gifts will be presented to the Children's Home.

Since our last report, we have held an indoor carnival in the Hut and also a minstrel, whereby we raised about $80 which was used to completely renovate, repaint the inside, and purchase draperies for the Hut. This work was directed by Church School Superintendent Ernest M. Scarboro.

Steward Chairman Ferd R. Stout, with the special assistance of Roy C. Millikan and Edward S. Wills, has about completed the every-member canvass. The Workers' council meets regularly monthly and is growing in usefulness, enjoyment, and interest. This past Monday we had 30 for the meeting. Our prayer meetings seem to be on the up and up. After nine years of efficient service Bynum R. Clapp resigned as choir director and was succeeded by Mrs. R. E. Morrissett, who has been organist for over four years.

Sympathy is extended to Brother Richard T. Wills in the passing of his wife on last Saturday morning. Mrs. Wills was a member of West Market M. E. Church, South, and Dr. S. K. Spahr conducted the funeral on Sunday afternoon, assisted by Dr. J. B. Craven, pastor.

We are wishing for a speedy recovery of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Hutton, who are ill at their home; for Mrs. J. M. Stone, who is recuperating at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Scott; and for Mrs. W. A. Fox, who is in Piedmont Memorial hospital.

Pine Bluff Church, Rev. C. G. Isley, Pastor.—We were glad indeed that our pastor could be with us Sunday afternoon after being ill with throat trouble, and he gave us such a wonderful sermon on "The Sign of the Linen Girdle," taken from the first 11 verses of the 13th chapter of Jeremiah.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. A. S. J. Linker Saturday night with a very interesting program rendered after the refreshments the program was ended by giving out Christmas gifts for which the members had drawed names at the last meeting.

The Christian Endeavor society is making great progress as the older people take a great interest in the work as well as the young folks.

The Sunday school seems to be making some progress but not as much as we would like to see, for we would like to have the people who do not attend to come and join our band of workers.

CLIFFORD BARBEE, Reporter.

Union Grove Church, Rev. Mr. Bingham, Pastor.—Merry Christmas to one and all the readers of the Methodist Protestant Herald! I hope this Christmas will be a "Merry Christmas."

Our new pastor seems to be liked by every one in our community. We are so glad to have him for our pastor and we feel that if each one will work and cooperate with him, we will do a good work this year.

Our community is sad today because we lost one of our best loved men, Mr. J. W. Daniels, of Union Grove, who passed away December 9. Mr. Daniels was liked so much by the public. He served others. What more could we say about any man?

May I close this with a poem:

Constant Christmas

The sky can still remember
  The earliest Christmas morn,
When in the cold December
  The Saviour Christ was born.
And still in darkness clouded,
  And still in noonday light,
It feels its far depth crowded
  With angels fair and bright.

O never-fading splendor!
  O never silent song!
Still keep the green earth tender,
  Still keep the brave earth dreaming of deeds that shall be done,
While children's lives come streaming
  Like sunbeams from the sun.

—Philips Brooks.

FLORA MAE WOOTEN, Reporter.

Maple Springs Church, Forsyth Charge.—The Young People's Missionary society held the December meeting with their leader, Mrs. T. L. Speas. The devotionals were conducted by Irene Motsinger, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Several Christmas readings were given by Hyacinth and Thelma Hunter. A review of a book on India was interestingly told by Patsy Miller. The meeting was closed with prayer by Nina Beck. During the business meeting it was decided to help some family at Christmas. Christmas gifts were exchanged.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. Ira W. Paity.

The devotionals were conducted by Rev. R. A. Hunter. A Christmas reading, "Keeping Christmas," was given by Miss Myrtie Kiger. The Question Box leader was Mrs. R. A. Hunter. Miss Ida Long closed the meeting with prayer.

Our last service was held on the first Sunday. The pastor used as his subject, "Living in His Presence."

Our Christmas program will be given the third Sunday night, December 18, which will be a pageant by the young folks.

REPORTER.

Community Church, Thomasville.—Nothing has appeared from Community since conference. We are delighted to be back with the people of Community church for another year. They are a delightful people to work with and everything looks good for a most successful year. Practically all the new boards have had their first meeting for organization; in fact, the new board of stewards met and organized just before conference. Brother J. W. Boyles was reelected chairman, and G. M. Hobbs secretary. The number of the board has been increased to 16 this year. Brother A. R. Finch was reelected chairman of the board of trustees. Harry B. Finch, Alvah Boyles, C. R. Reed are the new members on the board. J. W. Boyles is church school superintendent, and C. L. Berrier is chairman of the board of ushers. Wayne Surratt is head of the Christian Endeavor this year, and already his work and enthusiasm are showing results. H. C. Nicholson is chairman of the class leaders.

The Christmas program for Community church will be held on Wednesday evening, the 22nd. Mrs. C. R. Reed, Mrs. C. E. Brandon, and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman constitute the committee in charge of the program.

On next Sunday afternoon a community chorus under the direction of Dr. Harry Parker, of Winston-Salem, will sing original Christmas carols at the Community church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

A number of our people have been sick. Miss Mozelle Berrier has recently undergone an operation for appendicitis, but is on the road to recovery at this writing. Others are out again.

At a recent meeting of the board of Christian Education of Community church, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, a member of the board, was elected librarian for the year.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

Pine Grove Church, Kernersville - South Winston Charge, Dec. 11.—The people of this church, and I would say, of the entire charge, are very happy to have Rev. C. B. Way and his family with us for another year. He was a very good pastor last year, and much good was accomplished on this work; but maybe we laymen did not do as much work as we could have done. Now that we (the pastor and the people) are better acquainted, we should work together better and do more for the advancement of God's Kingdom.

Mr. Way has filled two appointments at our church and will preach again next Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

There has been a larger number than usual at Sunday school for the past few Sundays. A Christmas program is being prepared and will be given on Friday evening, December 23, at 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend this program, or any other at our church.

REPORTER.

First Church, High Point.—The last conference year ended with the First church in good shape, and we are happy to have Mr. Madison back with us for another year. The first quarterly conference met on December 12 and heard encouraging reports from the various organizations and branches of the work. At this meeting the conference adopted a full and detailed outline of the program of the church for the entire coming year. The program was prepared and submitted by the pastor.

J. H. Pritchard is our new superintendent of the church school, succeeding Ralph H. Vance, who served in the position faithfully for the past three years. Mr. Pritchard is starting the work with interest and enthusiasm, and we are looking forward to splendid results.

Mr. A. C. Lovelace, Jr., is now directing the church choir. He is a senior at High Point College and has been widely acclaimed as a talented musician.

The local board of stewards has determined, with the aid and cooperation of the congregation, to raise one thousand dollars for the building fund before January 1st. An appeal was made before the congregation last Sunday morning which resulted in $997 in cash and pledges, an amount that brings us comfortably near the goal.

Our junior church continues to do its good work. Officers have been elected, a budget adopted, and the program for the new year is going forward under the efficient direction of Miss Myrtle Davis.

Plans are going forward for the Christmas program under the direction of a special committee appointed at a recent meeting of the Workers' council.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge, Rev. T. M. Johnson, Pastor.—Our good pastor filled his regular appointments Sunday, bringing two very touching and inspiring messages.

The Willing Workers class held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, December 6, 1938, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Foster. Discussions and plans were made for the next month. The class gave a shower for two of its members who were recently married. Mrs. Jesse Johnson will be remembered as Miss Lucile Davis, and Mrs. John Nodine as Miss Inez Jones. Both received nice and useful gifts. A large crowd attended; refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Foster, and each one reported a very nice time.

We are indeed glad to report that our Sunday school is still growing. We had 105 in attendance Sunday morning and hope it will still build up on and on .

We were indeed happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Herman Compton of Mt. Lebanon community to worship with us Sunday. We appreciate having all visitors and welcome them back each Sunday.

Rev. T. M. Johnson has planned to visit his children in North Carolina this Christmas. We are wishing him a merry and happy Christmas, with a fine trip there and back.

The first quarterly conference will be held Saturday afternoon, December 17, at 2:30 o'clock at Fairview church.

Rev. T. M. Johnson brought the new Upper Room books Sunday morning, and said that it would be a nice gift for our friends who do not take this book to send them a year's subscription for a Christmas gift. We hope there will be lots of orders.

We regret to learn of several in our community being sick at this writing. Mrs. W. M. Compton, a very loyal and devoted member of the Ladies' Bible class, is ill at this writing. We pray for her and all others who are sick a speedy recovery.

The Willing Workers' class has planned to buy paint to paint the auditorium of our church.

We received the Bulletin for the month of December from our pastor. I want to express my appreciation, and for the entire church, for this Bulletin, which represents Christmas. It means lots to us, as it is so pretty, fixed with bright colors folded something like a Christmas card, showing on the front side the Star of Bethlehem with the three Wise Men, and on the other side showing Joseph and Mary with the little Babe, Jesus. May we all feel the spirit of Christmas more as we read these words from the Bulletin. Mr. Johnson wrote that "as the time approaches to celebrate the advent of the world's Savior, there comes to everyone a clear call to higher and holier living—a call that should be heard above the noisy strife of the world."

This folder or Bulletin was handed out with a prayer that each one might experience a joyous Christmas.

"Through memory's lane a-trooping down the way,
I stand a-watching for old Santa's sleigh;
When at night we hear the sleigh-bell ring,
A million hearts do wonder what they bring.
Would you, with more matured years,
Rejoice in filling eyes with tears?
Ah! no! not me, I'd rather all the waiting see;
And then, the full reality
Or Santa's annual pilgrimage of joy,
Be shouting from the sidelines, Ship ahoy!
It's Christmas."

In closing I would like to send to all the churches in our conference our best wishes for a successful year, reaizing that it will be successful only to the extent that we allow ourselves to closer comradeship.

"I have a Friend so precious,
So very dear to me,
He loves me with such tender love,
He loves me faithfully.
I could not live apart from Him,
I love to feel Him nigh,
And so we dwell together,
My Lord and I.

I tell Him all my sorrows,
I tell Him all my joys;
I tell Him all that pleases me,
I tell Him what annoys;
He tells me what I ought to do,
He tells me how to try;
And so we walk together,
My Lord and I."

First Church, Henderson.—On November 14 we received our marching orders for the last year of the Methodist Protectant denominatoin. The conference said that Henderson should be this writer's field. Needless to say,, he and his wife are most greatful for the opportunity to return for their year's work here. The people have been very kind during the past two years. We are expecting to deepen our many friendships during the coming year, and do a greater work for the Kingdom.

For six weeks before the close of the conference year we considered the Kingdom of God in all of our services. For almost two thousands years men have been seeking to build that Kingdom. For the past ten years the writer has given all of his time in preparing himself for Christian leadership and actually serving in his feeble way as one of the "Kingdom Builders." He closed that series of sermons by giving some of his observations and conclusions from these ten years of Christian service. He expected to make of this nothing more than a regular service. At the close of the service he expected the people to receive the benediction as usual and then go their ways. But the people made other plans. Brother Jasper Hicks made some very kind remarks and presented our oldest member, Brother George B. Harris. Brother Harris in turn presented the pastor with a large package. Upon opening it, we found a very beautiful silver pitcher. Words to express our appreciation we were not able to find then. Neither are we able to express fully our feeling of appreciation now. Throughout the years we shall often think of this kind expression on the part of our people.

On Sunday morning we observed Founder's Day. A brief history of the church will be found elsewhere in this issue. We read greetings from all of the former pastors who are now living. We want to thank them for their kind words. They each and every one told of happy years spent serving this church. The people here speak only in highest terms of all of their pastors. Their leadership is felt yet.

The guest speaker for the occasion was the president of the North Carolina conference. He brought an excellent message on "The Influence of the Local Church." Among other things he mentioned the influence of the Henderson church in the field of missions and education.

We are trying to get off to a good start on our "Appreciation Year" program. We are not planning to die after 57 years of service. We hope to render a greater service in the Methodist Church.

Henderson, you have had a wonderful history. Let's keep step for many more like periods.

Merry Christmas to our friends everywhere.

T. J. WHITEHEAD, Pastor.

Rankin Memorial Church, High Point, Rev. Edw. Suits, Pastor.—Although you haven't heard from us in quite a while, we are still working and expecting great things to happen during the coming year. Since this is our first letter since the annual conference, we would like to say that we are glad to have our pastor and his wife back with us, and hope this will be the best year that Rankin Memorial church has ever had.

We have recently organized an Intermediate Christian Endeavor society, since the Senior society was no longer active. Marie Workman is president of the new society, which is composed of 16 members. Much interest is being shown in the work.

Work has begun on the annual Christmas program, which will be given Wednesday night, December 21, at 7:30 o'clock. The program consists of songs, recitations, and a pageant entitled, "Christ of the Ages."

One of our members, Mrs. M. J. Embler, has been confined to her bed for several weeks. We hope she will soon be well again and able to be back with us.

First Church, Charlotte, Rev. T. E. Strickland, Pastor.—The Charlotte church has started on its new year with new enthusiasm. We are indeed glad to get our pastor, Rev. Mr. Strickland, back with us for another year. We feel very fortunate in having such a fine man as our leader.

Our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. L. W. Garmon, has been in the hospital for the last six weeks, but was back with us last Sunday morning. We were glad to know that he was able to be up and back at his post of duty in our Sunday school. We missed him while he was away, even though we had a good substitute, Mr. M. D. Fink. However, Mr. Fink has been ill this week with the flu, but is better, and we hope he will be back with us next Sunday.

We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook, and Mrs. J. H. McCall, our deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

Everyone in the church was in high hopes of having Mrs. Strickland with us last Sunday, but due to illness she had to return to High Point before church services Sunday. We are very sorry that she was not able to meet with us and wish for her a speedy recovery.

The Sunday school is planning to have the Christmas tree with Santa Claus and gifts for the children of the church next Thursday night, at which time we will have our regular Christmas program.

The Junior C. E. society took 19 representatives to the State C. E. Rally held in Concord last Sunday. Miss Marguerite Helms is leader of this group, and she is doing a fine work in this department. The Junior society is giving a Christmas banquet for the Senior C. E. society at the S & W Cafeteria Saturday, December 17.

The class rooms of the Sunday school are being renovated and remodeled to make them more inviting to strangers. New curtains, chair covers, pictures, and wall vases with flowers make the rooms look like a different place. Visitors are all welcomed to come and visit any of the classes.

Wishing everyone a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

Shady Grove Church, Connelly Springs Charge.—The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Macie Garmon's, Friday, December 9, 1938. There were 15 members present and $14.40 was received. The society is doing fine under the leadership of Mrs. Ila Townsend.

Record for our Sunday school, December 11, 1938, was 106 scholars present and 6 teachers; offering, $27.13. The offering every second Sunday goes on the church debt; all except $1.00 which goes to the Children's Home.

Union prayer meetings are being held at different churches one Saturday night in each month. It was at Shoupe's Grove Baptist church December 10. There were people from 11 churches represented. It will be at our church on Saturday night, December 31st. All churches are invited to be present. I feel sure you will enjoy the meeting.

MRS. RUTH AIKEN.

Concord. Rev. E. O. Peeler, Pastor, December 12.—Our Ladies' Aid society met at the church on Monday night with a very good attendance. Our president, Mrs. Fred Sides, used the Christmas lesson for our scripture. At this meeting we made plans to send fruit baskets to our shut-in members and Christmas cheer to some needy people. On Friday night after Thanksgiving, Circle No. 2 of our auxiliary held a bazaar in the basement of the church. Some real nice handwork was on display, and a beautiful quilt. Some of the things were sold, and some home-made candy and pies and cakes. We still have our quilt and some of the fancy handwork that we hope to sell soon. Our chairman of Circle No. 2, Mrs. Hoy Misenheimer, was sick, so Mrs. Fannie Cochran, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Helen Nash had charge of the program. We all had a good time. Mrs. Esther Litaker is very busy working on our Christmas program, and we know it will be good. We just feel like that is one of Mrs. Litaker's talents, getting up good programs.

We started the first Sudnay having our evening service at 5 o'clock. The young people's meeting comes in with us, and their leader has charge of the devotional part. The first Sunday night Miss Melda Scarboro had charge of the devotional, and the Intermediate girls sang in the choir. Last night Miss Nancy Laughlin had charge of the devotional. Mr. Peeler is using for his theme in these services, "All the Way With Christ, My Savior." The first Sunday night his theme was "All the Way With Christ in Worship." Last night his theme was "All the Way With Christ in Service."

We will hold our first quarterly conference on the first Sunday afternoon in January.

Our pastor was called to the bedside of his mother, who is very ill. Our hearts go out in sympathy for them, and we pray that if it is the Father's will, she may be restored to her health. We are sorry that Mrs. C. D. Sides is very sick and has been in the hospital part of the time. We pray that she may get well without having to have an operation. We were glad to see Mr. Cornelia Gray back at church Sunday. He has been in the Duke hospital for two weeks taking treatment.

We were happy to have Rev. Mr. Green wood worship with us yesterday. He was the guest of Mr. P. H. Scarboro. We are happy to have Miss Margie Pittman back with us. She is making her home with Mrs. Edna Houpt and Mrs. Merrington. Mrs. Haupt is so lonely and despondent, we beg the prayers of all the readers of the Herald for her ,that the Father may help her to take her burdens to Him and leave them there. Edna has such a beautiful life, and her life has meant so much to us all. Oh, it hurts our hearts to see her grieved so much.

BERTHA EARNHARDT, Reporter.

Mt. Pleasant Church, Mt. Pleasant Charge, Rev. J. W. Braxton, Pastor.—Rev. Mr. Braxton brought us an impressive message the second Sunday, his subject being "Our Need of Reserve Power." He pointed out to us that unless we had a spiritual reserve, we could not meet difficult situations and overcome them. As long as life runs along smoothly it does not take much spiritual power, but when we meet the crisis we must have spiritual reserve to tide us over. Holy Communion was observed at this service.

The November thank-offering program was given after the Sunday school hour on the fourth Sunday. The president of the local auxiliary, Miss Callene Phillips, gave a report telling just what our money had been used for, and that our budget was paid up to date. The speaker was Mrs. Carl Curtis, who used as her subject, "Do I Have Anything to Be Thankful For?" Special music was furnished by the girls' quartet. Our offering was $13.

The November meeting of the Business Girls' circle held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Harvey Phillips. A program on "Home" was rendered after which delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Elmer Smith entertained the Willing Workers at her home Saturday night, December 3. A good time was reported by all. Games were played under the direction of Mrs. Smith, who always has them so well planned that the evening has slipped away before you knew it.

A bazaar was held in the basement of the church Saturday night, December 10, under the direction of Mrs. Floyd Amick and Miss Sallie Amick. The proceeds go to the auxiliary.

The first quarterly conference was held at Mt. Pleasant church December 4.

Plans are under way for our Christmas program. Mr. Stafford, our superintendent, has planned the work this year so that each class may have a part. Already beautiful wreaths have been made and hung in the church by Mrs. Daphne Linens and her committee.

We were glad to have Mrs. Nannie Loudermilk worship with us Sunday; also Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Russell and family, from Rock Creek church, on the first Sunday.

NOTICE!

There will be a contata "The Christmas King" given at Hebron Church Wednesday, December 21 at 7:30 p. m. We invite you to attend.

Little Angela rushed into the house sobbing as though her heart was breaking.

"Why, what's the matter, darling?" asked her mother.

"Oh, mother," said the little girl, beginning to cry again, "God doesn't love me."

"Of course He does," her mother said. "What ever makes you think He doesn't? He loves everybody."

"No, He doesn't," the child persisted. "He doesn't love me. I know He doesn't. I tried Him with a daisy!"—Ex.

How to Keep Christmas

HENRY VAN DYKE

There is a better thing than the observance of Christmas day—and that is keeping Christmas.

Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you?

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children; to remember the weakness and the loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask whether you love them enough; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so it will give more light and less smoke and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you; to make a grave for your ugly thoughts and a garden for your kindly feelings with the gate open—are you willing to do these things for even a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death—and that the Blessed Life which began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred and thirty-eight years ago is the image and brightness of the Eternal Son?

Then you can keep Christmas, and if you can keep it for a day, why not always? But you can never keep it alone.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Eight Hundred Instead of Eighty

In reporting last week the proceedings of the meeting of the Board of Church Extension I tried to say that the Board reduced its indebtedness in the sum of eight hundred dollars, but the types made me say eighty dollars. Well, eighty would be better than nothing but the eight hundred in this case looked much better.

The Guilford Quarterly Conference

On last Saturday afternoon I held the quarterly conference of the Guilford charge, Rev. J. B. Trogdon, pastor, at the Fairfield church. While the attendance was not large there was an interested group and I was much pleased with the way they went about their work. This is Brother Trogdon's second year on the charge and he has the work well in hand. Last conference year the charge over-paid the salary and paid practically all of the Annual Conference claims. This time the pastor recommended that the charge make a desperate effort to raise the World Service budget in full. This recommendation was adopted without a dissenting vote. It was decided that the pastor take the matter up with each church as to the personnel of the committee of three to boost World Service. It was stated that when this is divided among the four churches it will be only about a hundred and forty dollars for each church. The pastor reminded them that the charge raised $2,000.00 for building and repairs last year, and that the World Service budget would be small in comparison with what they raised last year. I trust this charge may set the pace for a great many others. One thing which made a good impression on me was that one of the treasurers wanted a schedule of months when various interests are to be raised, saying they had found it a lot easier to raise the finances when they followed the schedule laid down by the conference.

A Sunday Morning at First Church, Winston-Salem

Last Sunday morning was spent with the First Church, Winston-Salem, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, pastor. It was like going back home to go to this church for I served it as pastor from November, 1930 to November, 1933. This is one of our oldest city churches. For a long period of years the most of the churches in our conference were in the rural districts. Then we entered Winston-Salem and Henderson. Later we established churches in a great many towns and cities. But the Winston-Salem church was the first church in all of the N. C. conference to be made a station, that is, to have the all time services of a pastor. But while this is our oldest church it also has a problem, partially brought about by its age. For while the church building has remained in the same place all of these years yet the city has grown many times larger, so now it is what we usually know as a downtown church while the most of the members have moved out into the residential districts. This makes it necessary for the people to come a long distance to church and in many cases they pass by church buildings which are much more modern than their own. This always makes it difficult to get a large congregation. But while our church is not as large as some, I doubt whether any church can boast of a more loyal group than we have there. As a former pastor I can say that many of them are among the finest to be found anywhere. In the years gone by death and removals have depleted the ranks considerably yet the church carries on. But the lot on which the building now stands is becoming more valuable as the years go by and some of these days it can be sold for enough to build a modern church in a residential section. Brother Trollinger has done faithful work there and is held in high esteem by the people. He is now beginning his third year with this people and he reports the prospects better this year than at the beginning of the other years. I trust they may have the best year yet.

A Sunday Evening at the Southside Church

Last Sunday evening was spent with the Southside Church in Winston-Salem, Rev. C. B. Way, pastor. This church is a part of the Kernersville-South Winston charge, the pastor's residence being at Kernersville. The congregation here Sunday evening was small, due in part, it was said, to the fact that a great many people had gone to the Christmas services of other churches. But the faithful ones, plus a few visitors were there and it was a pleasure to be with them. This church building was erected in 1931 or 1932. Anyway it is comparatively new and has not yet been entirely finished. It is of wooden construction with a basement and with a few Sunday school rooms. It is in a residential section of the city and there are plenty of people within easy reach in the immediate section in which ours is located. Having watched this church from the time the foundation was laid to the present time I have come to the conclusion that what it needs most is an all time pastor living right among the people. And I doubt whether it ever can grow very much until this can take place. Had our Board of Church Extension been able to supplement the salary sufficiently for a man to give all of his time to this work I believe we would now have a reasonably strong church. I trust that some of these days these faithful ones may be able to have a man living in their midst. In the meantime it will take a good deal of perserverence and hard work to keep things going. Brother Way is a good worker and can be depended on to do his best under the circumstances.

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway Celebrate

After attending the meeting of the Piedmont Ministers in Grace church on last Monday morning and after partaking of a fine turkey dinner served by the women we drove out to the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway on the Reidsville road, just out of Greensboro to extend our congratulations to them on their fiftieth wedding anniversary. It was also the 77th birthday of Brother Millaway. While the the clock of memory was turned back and I recalled that in 1890 my father was delegate to the Annual Conference at Winston-Salem from what was then called the Cedar Falls circuit and that he came home and said that a young man by the man of Millaway had joined the conference and that he had been sent to our charge. My, what a preacher the people thought he was! The people came for miles to hear him preach. And when he went away

A Collect

Oh God,
At this Christmas season
Give to the Church . . . Wisdom.
To the Rulers of the nations . . . Vision.
To the women of the world . . . Patience.
To the men of the world . . . Steadiness.
And to all who bow before thee
Holiness like of the Christ Child.

I am glad that the Lord to whose hands I trust
This spirit of mine when the day is won,
Was a man who tasted the highway dust,
And who hungered for rest when the day was done.

Piedmont Ministers Association Meets

Last Monday a group of the ministers in this Association and their wives enjoyed a Turkey dinner served by the ladies of Grace Church. Previous to the dinner the regular meeting was held and presiding elder L. B. Hayes was the guest speaker. Several of the brethren evidenced a keen interest in the modus operandi in what expect to happen shall be disposed of, and Brother Hayes made a very pleasing impression upon them. New officers were elected but we failed to get the list, hope to publish it later.

Following the Star

The story of the three wise men finding Jesus in Bethlehem by following the star is retold with an ever increasing interest. It is the one story which continues to grip the heart of the small and the great, of young and old alike. See them present their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. What a scene of indescribable beauty for the artist as with bended knee they bow before the Babe in the manger. And this scene is rich in its suggestiveness to every pious soul today. For man has ever needed a guide to find the best in life. Those who travel alone through life so often stumble and lose their way. And man needs a heavenly light to make the path plain before his eyes. The wise men came from afar and are known as the magi-men with superior wisdom; and yet they must follow the star to find the Christ.

Surely there is no better thing for us in this Christmas time than to view again that scene in the Bethlehem stable. Mary with the Babe, Joseph standing close by, while the three wise men in robes befitting their positions present their gifts to the Christ.

Here lies a babe whom Herod could not destroy and the grave could not hold him; of humble birth but the object of the sincerest adoration of the high and the lowly.

It would greatly enrich our story could we recount the names of all the noble of earth who by following the star have made the way for others straight and their lives happier. Think of the numerous philanthropies—the wide extended and efficiently operated charities which bring food, shelter and health to the needy. The hospitals, the orphan homes, the homes for the aged, the rescue stations for the fallen, boards of welfare and relief for the hungry. The founders of all such organized charities were followers of the star which led the wise men to Jesus. It led David Livingstone into the heart of the Dark Continent! it brought Gen. Booth in the midst of crime and poverty indescribable in London's slums to lift up the sign of the cross; it sent the bearers of the Red Cross among the wounded and the dying on the fields of battles. These and hundreds of others were led into those larger ministries of love by the star which led the wise men with their gifts and devotion of Christ. Let each of us in our humbler sphere of service walk in the Light as we go from our daily tasks be they ever so lowly.

Stressing Herald Subscriptions

After consulting with members of the Herald Committee, it was decided to emphasis the place of the Herald in our Church or conference affairs at an early date. We hope to publish several articles at the beginning of that period which will set forth the service the Herald renders the local church and the conference projects. You will hear more of this latter; the period is set for the middle of January, to run for four weeks. We hope to send out to all pastors or Herald agents lists of the subscribers in your area and if you fail to get the list let us know. Please work it as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible.

Brother J. L. Trollinger, pastor of First Church, Winston, will conduct the worship period over radio station WSJS, during the week of Dec. 26-31. Theme for the week is "Living Successfully in the New Year." Tune in at 7:45 each morning and hear him.

Dr. C. W. Bates is on official business in Washington City this week. He is kept rather busy with his numerous offices in the Church.

Skipping Church

It must be an old story, this complaint of pastors, of how their members skip Church. I have been hearing it most all my life. And I still hear it, especially from the town and city pastors. The charge is made that these "skippers" attend Sunday school but not the preaching service. I am told that members of the adult organized classes are more given to this practice than others.

It is a fact that these classes attract men and women who were never accustomed to attend the preaching services and were it not for these classes they now would have no contact with the Church whatever. This fact is obvious to every observing pastor. But it is also contended that many of these who go home immediately after the classes dismiss are really members of the Church, who have taken the vow to be loyal to it and to attend its regular services. Even teachers in these classes do this. It is very natural that the pastor should be much aggrieved at their lack of loyalty. But just what to do still puzzles these unhappy pastors. Most of them, we believe, have found it profitless to denounce the practice in the morning sermon when those guilty are absent.

We have tried to discover reasons why people should go to church, rather than to lambast them for not going. Really what does the absentee lose by his absence? He or she evidently misses the privilege of fellowship with those present. These people are about the best folk in the community and they are ready to extend the glad hand to all there. The absentee loses touch with them and naturally gets with the other absentees on the golf course, on the highway, or in some clubhouse. There the conversation is rarely, if ever, about spiritual experiences. So the absentee loses his appreciation of spiritual things.

Then too, the absentee misses the opportunity to dedicate his life and his possessions, to God and to the nobler things of earth. He soon becomes a materialist and thinks, speaks, and lives among and for things; many of them most sordid. It is most difficulty for any one to live true to the best he knows and never have a holy of holies where he can get away from the many disturbing elements of life. Also the absentee from religious worship is saying most emphatically by his conduct that what the Church offers is infreior to what the world offers. And he speaks this so loudly that his children and friends are influenced by his conduct to follow in his footsteps. We have often wondered if any of these members of the church who skip its services habitually have ever thought of what it is costing them to do this. Hear Paul as he says, "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is."

A Merry Christmas to All of You

While it is impossible for the editor to send every reader of the HERALD a Christmas geeting in a separate envelope, he can write these lines to say it with all sincerity, We wish you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. And to those who have already sent us greetings, we want to thank you. It is a great joy to the editor to send out weekly the many messages from our people to our readers and he is delighted when he adds a message which reaches a receptive mind and spirit is greatly pleased. It relieves the grind to know that there are those who enjoy reading the HERALD. So we would repeat the song the angels sang, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth, peace and good-will to men."

She was literary but he was not.

He had spent a harrowing evening discussing authors of whom he knew nothing, and their books of which he knew less.

Presently she asked: "Of course, you've read 'Romeo and Juliet'?"

He floundered helplessly for a moment and then, having a brilliant thought, blurted out happily: "I've—I've only read 'Romeo.' "—Exchange.

GOD'S GREAT LOVE

International Sunday School Lesson for December 25, 1938

By REV. O. L. EASTER

Lesson Text—Matthew 2:1-12.

Golden Text—God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

In our last lesson we found that Love was the saving element needed by man to enable him to more perfectly keep the Law, and that this element must be instilled in the heart of man rather than in the tablets of the law itself. Now we want to turn not only to the study of this element of Love but mainly to its source—the fountain-head from which all love flows down to man. And this study will lead us to God himself as revealed by Christ. If Jesus had said nothing more to the world than that God is Love he would have gone very far in re-making the conditions and policies of the sinful world into which he was born those many years ago. As man's idea of God has gone so has gone his idea of life. The corrupt deities of the Romans were a great factor in wrecking the lives of the Romans which in turn wrecked the great Roman empire. The humanistic gods of Greece had their great influence upon the Greeks; their gods were athletic in nature and so were the Greeks, the gods were conceived as perfect in physical make-up and the Greek had for one of his ideals a beautiful body. Thus we can through history trace this fact of man's conceptions of his gods and their affect upon his behavior. Now if man's God is pictured as being a force motivated by revenge, hate, justice then man is going to pattern his life after these elements and will hold them in honor or at least in expediency in his human relationships. Having said this we then see that when Jesus brings to the world this more or less new idea of God being altogether love that that of itself will have a telling effect upon the conduct of the world.

In our knowledge of Old Testament history we see that even there without the divine revelation of Jesus men were missing the mark in social and moral ideas because their conception of God even the True and Living God were not true and complete. At first they were guilty of race hatred because they conceived their God as being a tribal god who only inhabited their own land. You remember that part of the sorrow of exiled Jacob consisted of his belief that in being driven from his homeland he was leaving Jehovah behind. God in his mercy broke through this ignorance by the vision of the ladder and caused Jacob to exclaim that surely God was in that place. If you will take the pains you can trace a gradual growth or awakening in the minds and hearts of the Hebrew race as to the true nature of this great God that they had discovered more readily than the other peoples of that time. They thought of Him as a wrathful God and were afraid of Him while through a prophetic soul here and there God cried out to them "Come, now, and let us reason together, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow—"

The great trouble was that God was Infinite in nature and man was finite and could see Him only through human mediums that were very limited. So God saw that the Godhead must somehow appear to men in the flesh to reveal itself fully to him since this was the medium which man could comprehend. So much did God want man to know and love him for what he really was that it might be well with mankind that he devised this marvelous plan of the Incarnation as we are celebrating it at this Christmas season.

To accomplish this great plan God had to give to the earth the greatest gifts of Heaven—even his only begotten Son. Why, we would ask, in all that noble array of angelic beings that must be found in the realm of God could He not find one creature save Christ to serve in revealing God to man? Because they were limited creatures who were created by the hand of God as man was, and they were not capable of fully embodying God. Christ the Son as one of the Holy Trinity was very God Himself. What a gesture for God to make! Could He love sinful man so much? The best answer is found in the words of the Christmas Angel to the simple shepherds of long ago: ''Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour * * * and this shall be a sign unto you, you will find the Babe * * *.''

That gift of His Son is God's eternal sign to mankind everywhere the Christmas story shall be told that He is Love and that that love is poured out upon all mankind. Only a divine love could give such a gift. The Incarnation is a tremendous idea and it takes strong spiritual fairth for us to believe it. The birth of the eternal God in the form of a little human babe is truly the greatest fact that has ever been herald into the mind and heart of mankind. It is no wonder the angels herald it, that the astronomers from the East travelled far to see this thing which had come to pass. Nor is it any wonder today that all over the Christian world small and great, rich and poor alike are going again even unto Bethlehem to see this thing which has come to pass, and that wherever the true Christmas is celebrated that men like the shepherds will return to their own fields glorifying and praising God for all they have seen and heard.

> ''I know not how the Bethleh'ms Babe
> Could in the Godhead be;
> I only know the manger-child
> Has brought God's life to me.''

CLASSROOM ECHOES

MAN AND THE MUSKRAT

Education, I tell my students, is a process of increasing the difference between man and the muskrat. There is some difference between these two animals, and it ought to be widened—but not at the expense of the muskrat. Let the lower creature do the best he can, improve himself if possible, but still it is the duty of man to increase in those qualities that are peculiarly his. Education then is the process of enlarging, refining, those capacities with which the muskrat is not endowed. Man should be made more of a man. This is education.

This view, of course, implies that education has to do with the improving, the perfecting, the enlarging of the finest capacities inherent in man's nature. Enriching of human possibilities is the end sought. Education is to help make the man. To be something as well as to do something is essential. What has the child become is more important than what has the child done. All learning, all study, all memorizing is to be measured in terms of what it causes the person to be. Man's potentialities themselves, therefore, set the standard for true education. Look no more to the fleet foot, the ready arrow, the pile of money made as the mark of learning. These may be well and good, but they reflect not the true meaning of education. They aid in one doing; they show little in what the person has really become.

Again, this view throws importance upon individual power and choice in the process of becoming—the process of education. True education honors the sacredness of personal choice. This inner, divine trait of decision belongs solely to man. To educate man, then, means that you cause him to increase in the accuracy and use of this quality. The better man grows in the working of this high trait the farther has he been removed from the muskrat. Lower animals possess not the right of free moral direction. This belongs to man, and thus to educate man you cause him to increase in this great ability. You widen the distance between him and the rat.

In a word, the animal is instinct-directed and man is intellect-directed. One acts from impulse, the other, theoretically at least, acts by reason. When you educate man you make this reflective ability more reliable. You can train a rat, but you can not educate him. He will never act from reason. That high quality belongs to man, and the better a man acts from intellect instead of impulse the better is he educated.

The same can be said concerning other superior powers. Take, for instance, the ability to appreciate music. Muskrats, I imagine, care nothing for operas and grand marches. Concerts mean nothing to them. They have no capacity for these things. But man, on the other hand, does possess a characteristic which, when developed, brings richest delights in the enjoyment of these higher things. To educate man, then, is to enlarge his capacity for beauty and art, harmony and color. And the farther man is removed from the rodent in this regard, the better is he educated.

Or, again, man has the gift of sympathy, love, devotion. Some of his grandest honors spring from this trait. Noble souls go down in history as they imprint themselves upon the admiration of fellowmen. Loyalty, sacrifice for what they love, show their real worth. The degree of their devotion proves their higher nature. Let, thus, this noble nature be enlarged and man, to that extent, is educated. Love belongs to human souls, not to animals. Make great this potentiality and you have again lifted man from the family of the rat.

Moreover, man carries the image of the Maker. He may fellowship with the Eternal. He may commune with God. Yea, he is intended to become a child of God. This most marvelous feature of all sets him off from all creation. At this point he may swing fartherest of all from the animal zone. Intensify this highest of all qualities and you bring him to his best. Spiritually, not physically, man touches the highest flights. Educate him in this area of action and he marches far and away above all creation, fellowships with the Great Spirit, and lives as a man was intended to live. Education, therefore, must above all else enlarge this special, divine, capacity of man. Make the human being more like God and you make him more and more like a real man and less and less like the animals beneath him.

HOW TO CATCH EAGLES

The Dakota Indians had to have eagle feathers for the elaborate headdress worn by the chiefs. The process of catching the eagles came to be almost a religious rite, accompanied with bathing and fasting. A hole three feet deep was dug in the prairie far away from an encampment, and the earth which had been removed was scattered widely, so there would be nothing to indicate a trap. Then after an Indian, previously ceremonially prepared for the long and difficult effort, had crouched in the hole, the top was covered with brush, and above was laid the carcass of a jack rabbit or some other prairie animal. Soon the small birds would begin to examine the bait, but they had to be kept from carrying it off until their activities had attracted an eagle soaring far off in the sky. It might be hours before such a bird approached the trap, and even then there would be need for extreme caution and quick, energetic action. When the eagle swooped down to carry off the carcass, the Indian was ready to thrust up his hands through the brush and seize the legs of the big bird. He held on against the fierce struggles of the eagle until the bird was weakened and he was able to wear it down and finally choke it to death.

The Indian minister at Cherry Creek, S. D., tells the story of a man who attempted to hold and capture two eagles who came down together on top of the thin brush screen above his head as he crowded in the hole. They were quarreling about possession of the bait, when he reached up and seized each of them by one leg. The first impulse was to fly, and the two powerful birls, by unexpected but very efficient team work, were able to lift the Indian right out of the pit and carry him on a swift and rather fearsome trip to the bottom of the hill. I did not learn whether this human flight by improvised biplane was earlier than that of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, but it is one of the stories handed down in the Indian folklore.—G. W. Hinman in Exchange.

THE GREAT GUEST COMES

While the cobbler mused there passed his pane
A beggar drenched by the driving rain,
He called him in from the stony street
And gave him shoes for his bruised feet.
The beggar went and there came a crone,
Her face with wrinkles of sorrow sown.
A bundle of faggots bowed her back,
And she was spent with the wrench and rack.
He gave her his loaf and steadied her load
As she took her way on the weary road.
Then to his door came a little child,
Lost and afraid in the world so wild,
In the big, dark world. Catching it up—,
He gave it the milk in the waiting cup,
And led it home to its mother's arms,
Out of the reach of the world's alarms.

The day went down in the crimson west
And with it the hope of the blessed Guest.
And Conrad sighed as the world turned gray:
"Why is it, Lord, that your feet delay?
Did you forget that this was the day-"
Then soft in the silence a voice he heard;
"Lift up your heart, for I kept my word.
Three times I came to your friendly door;
Three times my shadow was on your floor,
I was the beggar with bruised feet;
I was the woman you gave to eat;
I was the child on the homeless street."

EDWIN MARKHAM.

When a meek-looking man applied for settlement of a claim for fire insurance, the agent asked: "Much damage?"

"Not much," the man said; "just a door."

"How much would a new door cost?"

"About five dollars."

"When did the fire occur?"

The man hesitated a moment, then replied:

"About thirty years ago."

"Thirty years ago?"

"Yes."

"And you've waited all these years to report it?"

"Yes."

"How did it happen?"

"Well," said the man, "my wife has been at me to do something about that door ever since it was burned, and I couldn't stand it any longer."—Exchange.

Elizabeth Vera Idol

SILENT NIGHT, HOLY NIGHT

By Franz Xaver Gruber

Two thousand years ago the joyous songs of angels brought to the ears of quiet shepherds keeping watch over their flocks by night on the hills of Judea the glorious news of the birth of the Christ-Child, and ever since that night one of the happiest parts of Christmas has been the singing of songs composed in its honor. From every Christian land all through the ages they have come, in the tongues of all the people who have accepted the Christ who was born that night as the promised Messiah.

Happily, they are not now restricted to the languages in which they were written, but have been so universally translated into the English language that they are available to scholar and unlearned alike. Christmas is not Christmas without the singing by school children or great church choirs of such beautiful and traditional folksongs as those whose authorship is unknown, but that have come straight from the hearts of the people themselves, such as, The First Nowell, God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen, or I Saw Three Ships; even the smallest child in America can know and sing such a matchless lullaby as Martin Luther's simple cradle-hymn, Away In a Manager; and every man on the streets can hum the tune, if he does not know the words, as he hears from organ or chimes such a dearly loved hymn as Charles Wesley's Hark, The Herald Angels Sing, the quiet, reverential, prayer-like O Little Town of Bethlehem, written by our own Phillips Brooks, or one of the best loved of them all, O Come All Ye Faithful, of which the history and even the authorship are not entirely clear. But best known and most loved of them all is Silent Nacht, Heilige Nacht—Silent Night, Holy Night.

In every village, town, and city the world over, the strains of this hymn sound throughout the Christmas season. For over a hundred years it has been steadily growing in favor, but it was the dearly loved opera singer, the late Mme. Schumann-Heink, who did more than anybody else to acquaint the land with its beauty and meaning, as she sang it in concert and over the radio every Christmas Eve for many, many years.

The story behind its composition is an interesting one. Hendrik Van Loon tells it thus. In the little village of Oberndorf, in the Bavarian mountains, it was discovered on the day before Christmas that the organ of the little church had broken down. A blizzard had cut the village off from the rest of the world and when Franz Gruber, the village schoolmaster and church organist discovered that there would be no music on Christmas Day he went to Josef Mohr, the assistant priest, and suggested that he write a special song for the festivities of the next day, something so simple that it could be sung without a rehearsal. Mohr set to work and by that afternoon Silent Night, Holy Night had been written. In the evening Gruber wrote an unpretentious melody to fit the words, and on Christmas morning of 1818 it was sung for the first time, accompanied by a young man, a citizen of Oberndorf, who knew a few chords on the guitar. Later Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht reached the people of Zillerthal, even then famous as singers and yodelers; and from them it spread throughout the world. It was a group of Tirolean singers who in the middle of the nineteenth century first brought the song to America on concert programs.

There are many variations in the translations from the German into the English, but all of them follow closely the Biblical text as recorded by Matthew and Luke, and the essential qualities that make for the great beauty and effectiveness of the hymn are not lost.

The hymn begins with great calm and peace:

"Silent Night, Holy Night,
All is calm, all is bright,
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child,
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace."

Then the bursting of the great light that has come with the heavenly host of angels and that has shed its light throughout the world in the ages since, as the shepherds on the hillsides heard the song:

"Alleluia! hail the King!
Christ the Saviour is born,
Christ the Saviour is born."

In the next stanza the wise men appear, following the "Guiding Star" from the East, bringing gifts to the Babe whom they accept as the promised King, and also bringing that which is even more important than gifts—worship:

"See the eastern wise men bring Gifts and homage to our King."

Then the poem ends with a note of prayer and worship. Not only does it belong to our own time but it will reach the hearts of people in a future that is as timeless as time and as universal as humankind for it reveals the very heart of Christianity:

"Silent night, holy night,
Wondrous Star, lend thy light;
With the angels let us sing
Alleluia to our King!
Christ the Saviour is born,
Christ the Saviour is born!"

Pat: "I say, Doctor, did you ever doctor another doctor?"

Doctor: "Oh, yes, very often."

Pat: "Well, tell me this: Does a doctor doctor a doctor the way the doctored doctor wants to be doctored, or does the doctor doing the doctoring doctor the other doctor according to his own way of doctoring?"—Exchange.

MISSIONARY COLUMN

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS, Editor
607 Guilford Avenue
Greensboro, N. C.

YOUR PART IN THIRD QUARTERLY BRANCH MEETING

Instead of asking the departmental secretaries to report their acivities during the past quarter we would like to have reports, not to exceed one minute, from each Auxiliary president. Please tell us at Lexington on January 12, the thing you have done in your Auxiliary that has helped most in your work. You may choose a spiritual, educational, financial, or any other phase of your work. Other auxiliaries need helps of all sorts and this seems to me a profitable sharing of experience. We will need to be brief in our reporting as we have more than one hundred Auxiliaries and do not want this period of the program to become tiresome.

This does not mean the departmental secretaries will not be given an opportunity to present anything they wish, but inasmuch as full reports for the year will be given at annual meeting, it does not seem necessary to have detailed reports at this meeting.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS, President.

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Since it is impossible for your president and editor to greet you all personally it gives her pleasure to send you through this column a Christmas message in the works of Henry Van Dyke, which she would like each reader of this column to consider as a personal message.

"I am thinking of you today, because it is Christmas, and I wish you happiness.

"And tomorrow, because it will be the day after Christmas, I shall still wish you happiness; and so on, clear through the year. I may not be able to tell you about it every day, because I may be far away; or because both of us may be very busy; or perhaps because I cannot even afford to pay postage on so many letters, or find time to write them. But that makes no difference. The thought and the wish will be here just the same. Without pretense, and in plain words, good-will to you is what I mean, in the spirit of Christmas."

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS, President
of N. C. Branch Women's Work.

A CHRISTMAS TREE

To me a Christmas tree has a two-fold meaning. First, it shows God's love for us in that it is ever green. It's light is a symbol of Christ's coming as a light to our pathway. All the beautiful decorations stand out in their beauty to remind us of God's wonderful blessings, He is so constantly bestowing upon us. The birds that grace the limbs express to us God's love in giving to us the "birds" that flit from tree to tree with their cheerful songs and gladen the hearts and lives of all if we will stop to listen, and "Santa" himself who is in reality love, friendship, kindness and cheer reminds us that he comes around once a year to rekindle in our hearts these qualities that should last all the time. Yet Christmas is a time in which these flames are revived. Don't tell me there is no Santa Claus—he means too much to us—from the little tots to the aged.

How graceful is the topmost peak or spire, so to speak, that ever points heavenward. Then, too, who is not thrilled by the "Star" (without which no tree is complete) as it so wonderfully speaks to us of that first night when the Wise Men saw the "Star" and immediately left all to be guided by its light to make their journey to worship and bring vision of Christmas and see once again the gifts to the Christ-child. May we get a new Star and bring gifts to the Christ who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Then too, I feel that the Christmas tree should be an "inspiration" to those of us who are Christians to let our Light shine and our lives be made beautiful by acts of love, kindness and cheer, and then by no means least point some heavenward and to Christ; for after all there is no joy that equals having someone tell us "you led me to Christ or you are the cause of my being a Christian" or in some way letting us know that we have been used in God's hands in causing someone to be saved. Who is not thrilled by the beautiful Christmas trees in stores and lawns? May the time never come when the Christmas tree fails to find a place to our homes and churches. May their beauty and significance inspire us to a higher plane of Christian living. And when the Christmas trees are lighted this year, may we be able to look back over the year with some degree of satisfaction feeling that we have in a measure lived for others.

MRS. LOULA THACKER.

ATHLETICS AND YOUTH

Today we must teach our youth to play as well as work.

I wish every Methodist Protestant could see our "Home" boys on the athletic fields.

Three years ago the Jamestown High School played to the finals in soccer, for the past two years they have won the county and state championships—more than half of these players are from our "Home." These boys play a fair, clean game and go out to win. Don't you think this training will help them to play the game of life fair and square and be satisfied with nothing less than success?

Now the basketball season is on. The only court these boys and girls of ours have is in the attic of the girls building.

There was one who gave 11 years of his life in building this home, he has passed on to his reward, and I know of no way we could honor his memory better than to build a gymnasium as a memorial to H. A. Garrett in which these boys and girls may develop their bodies. To be a good athlete the bodies must be kept free from bad habits of all kinds. Lets do this for our children and help them to develop and protect their bodies that they may be able to do more for the Master.

I hope the Board will give this their thought and appoint someone to head this move so as not to put more work on our already overworked superintendent and wife.

I will pledge the first $10.00 if a sum large enough to build this memorial can be raised.

I know of one party who is waiting to pledge $100.00.

MABEL W. RUSSELL.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Mrs. Jessie May Steelman

Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie May Steelman were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Union Chapel Methodist Protestant church. Mrs. Steelman was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Taylor of Davie county.

Mrs. Steelman died at her home, near Mocksville Saturday morning Dec. 3 Those surviving are the husband, Dink Eugene Steelman, six children, Jim, Alpha, Luther, Mabel, Annie Lee of the home, and Mrs, Hazel Stleris of Durham. Three brothers and two sisters also survive; Lum, Baxter and Tom Taylor; Mrs. Ola Jones and Mrs. Minnie Taylor.

Mrs. Steelman joined Union Chapel church several years ago and remained a member until death. She will be greatly missed as a neighbor and friend, but most of all will she be missed in the home. It is our prayer that the husband and children may have the comfort of the Holy Spirit.

A large number of friends attended the funeral services. Interment was in the church cemetery.

K. G. HOLT.

In Memorium

We, the members of Circle Number Two of the Denton Methodist Protestant Auxiliary, wish to pay loving tribute to the memory of one of our beloved members and friends, Mrs. Carrie Adeline Davis—Sexton, who passed away October 10, 1938.

She was a kind and helpful neighbor, always cheerful and always anxious to help someone else enjoy life better. She was dearly beloved by the children of the neighborhood, always taking time to listen to their stories and never too busy to talk with them.

She leaves to mourn her loss, the husband, H. P. Sexton, two sons, Bob Murdock and Clinard Sexton, and one daughter, Miss Pauline Sexton. Also three step daughters and one step son. She will be greatly missed in her home where she had been a patient sufferer for many months. She will be missed by her neighbors and friends who have known her so long and have learned much about patience and meakness from her last sickness.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we send a copy of this resolution to the family and one to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, and one to be recorded in the minutes of our Circle.

The guest had become impatient and irritated waiting for his meal. Finally he called to the waiter.

"Look here! How long am I going to wait for the half-portion of duck I ordered?"

The waiter smiled politely and answered, "Till somebody orders the other half. We can't go out and kill half a duck."—Ex.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Bethel Church, Mocksville, 10 half gallon and 21 quart cans of fruits and vegetables, 2 glasses of jelly, 1 bu. sweet potatoes, 1 bu. corn, 1 pk. Irish potatoes, 2 pumpkins, and 2 quilts.

Graham, white gifts donation. Three large boxes containing 175 lbs. sugar, oat meal, soap, salt, tooth paste, towels, wash cloths and handkerchiefs.

West End, Greensboro, white gifts donation. One large box containing 41 cans of fruit and vegetables, oranges, sugar, and onions. These were fine donations.

Several boxes have come in for Christmas. These are being held back for distribution on Saturday evening of this week, Christmas Eve, when we have our Christmas program and distribution of presents. They are being answered by mail direct.

Because of our little tots this program will be held at 6:30 on Saturday evening of this week. We shall be glad to have any of you come who can.

Our Thanks and Best Wishes

We are thankful for every consideration any of you have given to this Home, in its care for dependent children during 1938. Every member of our large family joins in saying THANK YOU to all of you.

And right at this time the beautiful and expressive Christmas cards are coming in from all sections of the Methodist Protestant Church. We greatly appreciate them, and they cheer our hearts. We wish we could answer each one separately, but this being our rush season we cannot reply with cards as we would like. We simply say Thank You and God Bless You Every One.

Our Largest Thanksgiving Offerings

Measured by the standard which our Lord set when He uttered the parable of the widow and her two mites, perhaps the largest Thanksgiving offerings we have received this year have come from three widows. One is 85 years old and earns a bit of money by tatting. Another is a widow of one of our deceased ministers. And the third is a dear friend whom we met when a college student. Her husband went Home several years ago, and she now is "brushing the dews on Jordan's banks"; but like the other two she divides her living with this Home.

Many others may have sacrificed just as much; but knowing the circumstances in these three cases, their gifts touched our hearts. After writing the above our hearts were made to rejoice by the gift of "Two Friends" which came in today's mail. This is their second gift of the same size within a month.

We wish all our friends everywhere a very happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year filled with joy in service for the Master.

Yours in His blessed service,
MR. and MRS. A. G. DIXON.

FROM MISS GAYNELLE PRICE

W. N. C. Sanatorium,
Black Mountain, N. C.,
December 19, 1938.

Dear Dr. Andrews and Readers of the M. P. Herald:

May I, only one of the many readers of the M. P. Herald, have a small space in the paper this week? Thank you.

As one member of the large M. P. family, I wish to express to the editor and all those who help to make up our most interesting and useful church paper, my sincere interest and appreciation.

I am a member of the Little M. P. church in Kannapolis, N. C., of which Rev. D. T. Huss is pastor, and I am proud of the progress it has made. While attending this church I have found and learned to love many new friends.

But now, not like you readers who can still attend your church, I am a patient in the Western N. C. Sanatorium at Black Mountain, N. C. Please do not think I am unhappy, though, for even if at times I do feel blue, I just remember that I have Jesus to watch and care for me. I find that it isn't hard if one has faith and trust in God. And for my many friends, I am very grateful. May I, while speaking of friends, express my sincere gratitude to the dear people of my little church for all the kindness they have shown since I have been a patient in the sanatorium? My Sunday school class of senior girls, of which Mrs. G. L. Slawson is teacher, is sending me the M. P. Herald regularly. I find it to be very interesting and useful, as I read my Sunday school lesson in it. Then, too, I read the reports from all the other churches, or in other words, I could say, I read it from cover to cover. So you see, although I can't go to church, as I read the M. P. Herald it brings me closer to you. I miss going to church so very much, although, and may I advise all you readers who do not attend as often as you could, just to stop and give it a thought, and say, "I should be thankful for my health, to be able to attend." There are so many who would go, were they given your privilege and opportunity.

My pastor and some children from the church have been to see me several times and brought me many lovely gifts. They also write to me and keep me informed of our church activities. In other words, my church is certainly helping to make my stay here a more happy one.

Here in the sanatorium each patient has a set of head phones, by which he or she enjoys the radio programs immensely. We have a large auditorium in which church services are held each Sunday morning and evening. The services are conducted by the pastors of the nearby Black Mountain community. We have a microphone "hook up set" which enables bed patients to hear the services. During the Christmas season volunteers have broadcast for our enjoyment Christmas programs and carols.

The pastors who conduct our services also visit us in the wards and bring us church literature. I have been adopted as guest Sunday school member of a little class in the Methodist church of Black Mountain, and they have treated me so nicely. We, too, join everyone in carrying on the Christmas spirit. The patients who are up will have a party. And my ward of six young girls, all in our twenties, have a very pretty Christmas tree on our porch along with the other decorations. Santa will make his round and bring us all a treat Christmas eve. On Christmas day we have no rest hour at all to observe, no medicine and no rules. We who are able may visit throughout the building. Now don't you think this is nice?

And now I suspect I have told you enough of my life here, but I hope what I have written will help each of you to see that regardless of the present handicap, we are able to remain happy.

My closing wish for each of you is a Merry Christmas and a New Year filled with continued happiness. May the true spirit of Christmas so shine in your lives that you will help others to find joy and by so doing find an unequaled and greater happiness for yourselves as another anniversary of the birth of Christ comes to us.

Sincerely,
MISS GAYNELLE PRICE.

Easy Solution

"Now, then, Tommy Brown," said the teacher, "I want to set you a little problem. Suppose there were five children and their mother had only four potatoes to share among them. She wanted to give each child an equal share. How would she do it?"

"Mash the potatoes," said the boy.

Knows His Kin

Teacher: "If your father could do a piece of work in six days and your uncle could do it in four, how long would it take both of them to do it?"

Johnny: "They'd never get it done. They'd sit down under a shade tree and tell fish stories."

Just a Slip

Indignant Caller: "What do you mean by saying in the paper that I looked quite nutty as I stood on the platform?"

Reporter: "Nutty? My dear sir, I am very sorry. I wrote 'natty'."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HELPS

MAKING THIS A "HAPPY NEW YEAR"

C. E. Topic for January 1, 1939

By REV. JOSEPH COBLE

Monday, Dec. 26—The Everlasting God. Psalm 90.

Tuesday, Dec. 27—The Triumph of the Gospel. Rev. 21:1-7.

Wednesday, Dec. 28—Christ's way to happiness. Matt. 5:3-12.

Thursday, Dec. 29—Happiness and obedience. Luke 11:28.

Friday, Dec. 30—Happiness and faith. John 20:29.

Saturday, Dec. 31—He who serves is happy. John 13:1-17.

The Scripture Lesson: Psalm 16:8-11; Hebrews 3:12-15.

There is not a one of us as we approach the New Year who will not make an agreement with ourselves that we are going to do certain things to make our lives more meaningful or more happy during the coming year. This high ideal that we set up for ourselves is a noble thing if we go about making it become a reality with the right spirit.

We must not forget that happiness rests more within ourselves than upon outward conditions. Happiness rests in dispositions, such as purity, meekness, righteousness, and peace, rather than in possessions, such as wealth, health, and fame. True Christian happiness, like all of the other Christian graces, is inward.

Christ had a method of finding happiness which he gives to us in what is known as the Beatitudes. In this Jesus is telling us how we are to find true happiness. "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven." Matthew 5:3-12.

While Jesus had much to suffer for, and was called the Man of Sorrows, he was not unhappy. From the moment of his birth until the present time He has brought joy into the hearts of mankind. "Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy." As He went about healing people, He left in the place of sin and suffering, joy and peace.

Perhaps the best way that we could assure ourselves of finding true happiness throughout this coming year would be to take the suggestion that Dr. Charles M. Sheldon makes in his book, "In His Steps." This is that we do everything throughout the coming year after asking ourselves first the question, "What would Jesus do?" We want happiness but this is a little more than most of us are willing to pay for it, and yet it is the only way to be completely happy.

Our prayer should carry the same thought as does that great hymn by Lawrence Tuttiett:

Father, let me dedicate
All this year to Thee,
In whatever worldly state
Thou wilt have me be:
Not from sorrow, pain or care,
Freedom dare I claim:
This alone shall be my prayer:
"Glorify Thy Name."

Can a child presume to choose
Where or how to live?
Can a Father's love refuse
All the best to give?
More Thou givest every day
Than the best can claim,
Nor withholdest aught that may
Glorify Thy Name.

If in mercy Thou wilt spare
Joys that yet are mine:
If on life, serene and fair,
Brighter rays may shine:
Let my glad heart, while it sings,
Thee in all proclaim.
And, whate'er the future brings,
Glorify Thy Name.

If Thou callest to the cross,
And its shadow come.
Turning all my gain to loss,
Shrouding heart and home;
Let me think how Thy dear Son
To His glory came.
And in deepest woe pray on:
"Glorify Thy Name."

MRS. L. R. PEARSON WRITES

I want to write to this dear old church paper one time more before we unite. It has been a long time since I wrote before.

I had a serious operation, but am glad the Lord has spared my life. I guess I have not yet finished my life work. I think sometimes God sees fit to let the devil do his pleasure with us and puts us into the position when we will have time to consider. For a lot of people never think of the Lord till sickness or death or something terrible comes upon us.

What we most need today is to allow God to make man again in His own image. For men should look like Christ, and you never see men made in his image going around with a bottle in his pocket and a smoke stack in his mouth. It is awful to see young girls smoking, it puts a terrible feeling in me. And to see mothers smoking with a new-born baby in her arms is worse still. I am going to oppose everything I believe to be wrong in this world. I want to walk the straight and narrow way to God, and I know you can't do that and go with the multitude to do evil. Let's all clean up our lives during Christmas as we do our premises.

Why do we have the ABC stores in our towns? Jesus said, "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what we will and it shall be done unto you." Let us all pray earnestly that God may remove them from our entire state.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Love Joy, Seagrove-Love Joy Charge, Rev. J. H. Trolinger, Pastor.—Our church work has started off very nicely for the new conference year. We are glad to welcome Rev. and Mrs. Trolinger into our community.

Sunday, December 11, was the first time our new pastor has been with us. We had a good congregation and everyone was well pleased with the good message delivered.

We are glad to learn that our former pastor, Rev. E. G. Cowan, and wife, are liking their new work at Ocracoke Island. We are praying that the Lord will richly bless them in their new field of labor.

Our Christmas service will be Saturday night, December 24, at 7:30 o'clock. Our program is under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Atkins, Edna Grider, and Elgie Freeman.

The Friendship circle will hold its special Christmas meeting Tuesday night, December 20, in the home of Mrs. Cora Burns. We hope to have a good crowd for this meeting.

We ask an interest in your prayers that we as a church may work and cooperate with our good pastor in making this a successful year.

I am passing on a little poem that I read some time ago. I think we should be very careful about our every-day life, for it means more than we can ever say in words.

We are writing a book,
A chapter each day—
By the deeds that we do
And the words that we say.
Men are reading this book,
Whether faithless or true;
Friend, what is the gospel
According to you?

MRS. L. L. RUSSELL, Reporter.

Moriah, Rev. J. Leo Pittard, Pastor.—This being the first report of the new Reporter, and the first since conference, it will be a varied report.

We were very happy to have our pastor back to serve us for another year. His work at this church has been very successful, and again we went to conference "paid up."

Many of our people attended the wedding of our pastor, Rev. J. Leo Pittard, to Miss Margaret Smith, at the First Methodist church in Winston-Salem on November 19. They are now at home in Durham, Rev. Mr. Pittard being in school at Duke. Most of our people knew Mrs. Pittard, and we are very happy to have her with us, and to enjoy her companionship that we may know her better.

The Senior Bible class held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Macon Moser on the last Thursday night in November. A good attendance was reported. This class has done some wonderful work in our church the last year. The newly elected officers presided at the meeting.

Our Christian Endeavor is going right along, with a good attendance. The new officers have been elected, Gene Lee being president, Branch Moser vice-president, and Kate Kirkman secretary.

We had a nice offering to send the Children's Home for Thanksgiving, consisting of money, fruit, potatoes, flour, pumpkins, and what have you?

We are planning a Christmas program for Christmas night. The committee on this program who are Mrs. J. Freeman, Mrs. W. Macon Moser, Gene Lee, and W. A. Sherrill, tell us this is to be a real old-fashioned Christmas program with a pageant, tree, and treat for the children.

Our pastor brought us one of the best sermons last Sunday your reporter has ever heard. He spoke on "The Bible and Its Use." And while we are at the beginning of the new year, let's resolve to read and study our Bibles more.

We wish the Herald and its readers a Merry Christmas and Health and Happiness in the New Year.

"Christmas brings joy to every heart,
Sets old and young rejoicing.
What angels sang once to all the earth,
Oh! hear the children voicing.
Bright is the tree with lights aglow,
Like birds that perch together.
The child that holdeth Christmas dear
Shall keep these joys forever.

MRS. WILBUR A. SHERRILL, Reporter.

State Street Church, State Street Charge, Lexington, N. C., Dec. 19.—We are happy in our work back on State Street charge, and are glad to say that the new conference year is starting off well. Attendance at all churches is good, and interest high. We are charging and shall not listen to such words as halt or retreat, because we have a people who are willing to sacrifice and serve and who are following the Great Captain who knows not defeat. It is a pleasure to serve a people who are so keenly interested in their churches that they will deny themselves and work as the members on this charge have. Both West End, Thomasville, and State Street, Lexington, are so burdened with debts that they cannot even exist without that spirit that causes men to forget self and selfish interest in life, put Christ and the church first in their love and devotions. Through this spirit we have gone forward and are happy over our achievements.

Last year State Street church paid pastor in full, paid $650.00 interest in church debt and $1,000.00 on the principal. To do this and pay other interest we raised $26.00 per member in our church. West End also paid pastor and kept building and loan paid and are now almost two months ahead with it and have pastor paid up to date for this year. They also gave the pastor a splendid pounding recently. This was the largest pounding the writer has received in a long time. The gifts were too numerous to mention, but each was useful and needed. To each given we are grateful. We are hopeful that the pastor will look a bit better nourished after consuming the substances of this kitchen shower.

At Yadkin College our attendance is small, but inspiring. The pastor always looks forward to going there for his appointment each third Sunday afternoon. We have some very loyal Methodist Protestants there who have carried on for our denomination under very discouraging conditions. We also appreciate the loyal support of the other denominations of the community, and especially the members of the M. E. church. We are sorry to report that Miss Cora Totten has not been in good health since we came to this charge, but are glad to report that she is getting very well at present.

We are planning Christmas entertainments at our churches, a Christmas tree at West End Friday night and at State Street Saturday night. If you see Santa Claus, please give him this information, as we are anxious that he be present for both occasions. We are also giving special programs at both churches on Christmas Day. At State Street at 11:00 a. m., and West End at 7:00 p. m.

For all who read this, we wish a Merry Christmas. O. C. LOY.

Shiloh Church, Shiloh Charge, Rev. C. E. Ridge, Pastor.—Our pastor filled his regular appointment Sunday at 11 o'clock bringing to us an inspiring message on the subject, "A Great Challenge."

Our church is saddened because of the continued illness of some of our folk, and the recent illness of Billie Leatherman, we remember them in our prayers and wish for them a speedy recovery.

The first quarterly conference of Shiloh charge will meet at Friendship Church, Saturday, December 31. All members are urged to be present.

My heart goes out to all, far and near.

And for all I wish a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

MRS. KYLE SINK, Reporter.

Friendship, Rev. Earl A. Cook, Pastor, Dec. 19.—We wish to welcome our faithful pastor and family back for another year. As usual Mr. Cook has already begun his work. Last week a goodly number of the members met at the church and set tulip bulbs, under the supervision of the pastor. Our regular worship services were held on last Sunday. Our pews many of them being vacant. Mr. Cook made it very clear why they were not all filled, because of carelessness. There are entirely too many careless members in our church. We hope the coming year will bring many old faces to the church who have stayed away because of carelessness.

On December 11, the members of Love's Grove church presented a beautiful pageant here, "The Lighted Highway." Solo, duet, and quartet music gave a finishing touch to the program. A large audience enjoyed the service. We wish to thank the people of Love's Grove for a grand evening, and welcome them to our church again soon.

The young women have organized a Ladies Auxiliary and are urging all that do not belong to the Ladies Aid to join. They do not wish to interfere with the work of the Ladies Aid as it has been a great help to the church, but they are very anxious to make a go of the auxiliary. A noodle supper will be given on Saturday night, December 31, sponsored by the Auxiliary. All members are urged to come. Visitors have a special invitation.

God has been very gracious to the most of us in the year of 1938. As Christmas draws near, let us not forget the less fortunate than we. Give to those who are not expecting gifts, and make this a happy Christmas for all. God will not only bless you, but your life will be made happier. As ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me. And as the New Year approaches let us resolve to not neglect our duty of cheering some lonely heart, and if they do not attend church, invited them to worship with you each Sunday.

Palestine, Flat Rock, Dec. 18—Our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess filled his second appointment for this new conference year at our church today. Our people are glad indeed to has Pastor Burgess returned to Flat Rock charge for another year. Our people have learned to love Pastor and Mrs. Burgess, they seem just like one of us. If we will pray, cooperate, and all pull forward I am sure by God's help this will be a wonderful year's work when conference comes.

Rev. J. A. Burgess was dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Tucker today.

Miss Attie Walker has been real sick the past week.

L. A. Tucker, father of the reporter, was too feeble to attend services today.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to both Editor and readers.

GRACE TUCKER, Reporter.

Pleasant Hill, Seagrove-Love Joy Charge.—Rev. J. H. Trolinger filled his regular appointment Sunday, December 18, with several attending the service. He read for his scripture lesson the second chapter of Matthew. His text was taken from Matthew, second chapter, second verse. The subject was "The Birth of Jesus Christ." This was a sermon everyone enjoyed. Our Sunday school is increasing. We have about an average of 60 or more.

FLORA BROWN, Reporter.

Chapel Hill Church, Davidson Charge, Rev. Wm. H. Neese, Pastor, Dec. 19.—Our work here at this church is moving along nicely at this season of the year. We are going to try to carry our share of the conference work if it is possible for us to do so; nearer than ever before. We are hoping that we may hold faithful until the end of the year.

Sunday school is holding on very good for the season of the year. The hour is 10 o'clock every Sunday. We invite everybody to come each Sunday. The Sunday school set to raise one dollar a month for the Children's Home, and more if we can do better on our offering.

Our pastor filled his regular third Sunday appointment at this church at 11 o'clock yesterday. Taking for the basis of his text Philippians 2:9, 10, 11 verses. From these verses of scripture he brought us a fine sermon of the life and service of our Lord Jesus. The sermon was enjoyed by all present. The people are trying to work together with our new pastor for the advancement of the work on this charge. We hope this will be the best year in the history of the church.

The Ladies Auxiliary met last Tuesday night with Mrs. Edd Morris and daughter, Sylvia, as hostesses. The regular program was carried out.

During the business part of the program we discussed ways to raise money to buy a stove for our church. We are in need of a way to get some more heat into our church so to get a new heating system is the way out for us. At Sunday school we went to work for donation of money on our stove bill. When the services were over the president had raised $15.10 on this bill. Later in the day another dollar was given making a total of $16.10. We are proud of the fine response that was given in this work.

The next Ladies Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Wade Smith, January, 10, 1939. We are very glad to have Mrs. Neese to join with us in our Auxiliary work. We feel she will be a great help to us in the church and Auxiliary also.

We ask an interest in your prayers for another good year to work for our Saviour. So our records will all be fulfilled when the conference years closes. Wishing all a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

MRS. VANN SURRATT, Ass't. Reporter.

West Forsyth Charge.—We are beginning our fifth year on this work, and have been well received by each church. And there seems to be a fine spirit of cooperation, and a good year's work ahead. We can accomplish something worthwhile, if we will begin our work now, and not wait until the end of the year to start. On last Tuesday evening the members of Pleasant Hill church remembered pastor and family with a good pounding, with such things that are needed for a parsonage table. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Pleasant Hill church also held their monthly meeting at the parsonage the same evening at 7:30 o'clock, and presented a beautiful dinner set as a Christmas gift to pastor and family. We want to thank those who had a part in the pounding, and also the Ladies Auxiliary for the beautiful dinner set. The first quarterly meeting will meet at Baltimore Church the first Sunday at 2:30 p. m. We are expecting the official members to be present. May all the pastors and people have a joyful Christmas and a Happy New Year.

G. B. FERREE, Pastor.

Denton Charge, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, Pastor. —Amid a setting of indesribable beauty, Christmas came to Denton M. P. church on Sunday night, the 18th. This was the "White Christmas" program planned and executed by Mrs. Geo. L. Curry, Mrs. Coy L. Kearns, and Miss Marjorie Cranford, and from the candlelight procession of the vested choir to the presentation of the gifts by white-garbed representatives of the various Sunday school classes, it thrilled and held each member of the audience. With silver pines, strung with blue lights, as a background, the old, old Christmas story took on a new meaning, and was a fitting beginning of Christmas week. Gifts presented by the various classes included packages for the Children's Home, supplies for local needy families, and donations to superannuates and the Minnis Fund.

Since this is our first report since the begining of the new conference year, perhaps it is not too late to say we are delighted to have the Curry family returned for another year. They are earnest, consecrated workers, and have greatly endeared themselves to our people during their stay here.

Circle No. 2 held its annual Christmas party on Monday night at the home of Mrs. C. L. Kearns. The older women of the church who are no longer active in Auxiliary work were honor guest, and each was presented a gift in appreciation of their services in the past. Heart sisters were revealed and gifts exchanged as is our custom.

The Denton church has felt the touch of the Grim Reaper, losing two of its official members just a week apart. The first called was Walter G. Morris, and the second Chas. M. Cranford. Our deep and heartfelt sympathy is extended to each of the bereaved families.

MRS. GEO. C. HALTOM, Reporter.

Weaver's Chapel Church, Littleton Charge, D. D. Broome, Pastor, Dec. 19.—This being my first report I don't know just what to say. We are glad to welcome our new pastor and his family into our midst, and we feel fortunate to have them with us for another year. Although we are sorry indeed to have to give up our beloved pastor, Mr. Trolinger and his wife, but they have our prayers with them as they go into their new work.

We are planning to have a Christmas tree on December 26. The sick and old people of the community will not be forgotten.

Of interest to the people in the community is the marriage of Miss Nellie Henry of Roanoke Rapids to Mr. Paul Whitby of Roanoke Rapids and Littleton, which took place on November 19. Paul is one of our members.

The first quarterly meeting for the Littleton charge was held on December 16 at College Street church in Littleton.

We are sorry to know that Mrs. N. E. Wilson who has been sick all the summer and fall is not getting on so well at the time of this writing.

ALICE MAE WHITBY, Ass't. Reporter.

North Davidson Charge.—Well here we are! On our new charge, and we like it just fine; we have filled all appointments this conference year; all services are bringing together large congregations; Sunday schools, and the other organizations are having good attendance. We have been received with a very fine welcome; and we see such a fine spirit of cooperation, it just gladens our hearts to be pastor of such a fine people. The parsonage is being nicely furnished for our comfort; the Ladies Aid societies, and the Auxiliary, have raised the money and are paying for the furniture as soon as it is placed in the parsonage; a living room suite; a bed room suite; a breakfast room suite; a chifforobe; new curtains, and curtain rods, etc. The fine cooperation shown in this makes us believe we shall succeed in all good undertakings among this fine people; to you men of our conference who said to me after the stationing committee signed me to this charge that "It is one of the best charges in our conference" you must have known a great deal about the people here. So I am not disappointed in the least, but am greatly encouraged and am finding it very easy to put my best efforts in the work here. POUNDED: That means that we have received so many good things for the pantry; that we are already beginning to forget the way to the grocery store. Now I thought I would mention the gifts, and the givers; but as I look at this list, I can see that it would be too long to print in this letter to the HERALD; the Lord knows every one; and He knows that we thank Him for you; and that we thank you for the gifts, that make comfort for your pastor and his family. We hope that we may be as useful to you as your gifts are to us. We hear words of appreciation and praise for all former pastors, and their families; which always encourage us, to try to do as well as they.

We held our first quarter conference last Saturday afternoon at Spring Hill church; reports were good, showing that some fine improvements have been made and paid for at Canaan church; and pastors salary paid up to date. All officers that were needed to complete the official list were elected. There are many other things worthy of being reported in this; but since we have HERALD reporters duly elected from each church I will leave these important items for their reports to the HERALD.

Announcements: On Friday evening at 7 o'clock Christmas services will be held at Canaan church; and at Spring Hill church, and on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock the Christmas exercises will be held at Bethesda; and at Mount Pleasant churches; a welcome awaits all. Wishing the HERALD and all readers of it: A joyous Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

O. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Pine Grove Church, Kernersville-South Winston Charge.—The women of our church have organized a Ladies Aid Society. The organization meeting was held at the church last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Ned Ingram was elected president, and Mrs. Mary Perdue was elected secretary-treasurer. The meetings will be held every third Saturday afternoon in each month.

Painting of the exterior of the church building has been started, and we hope that it will be fair weather so the work can be finished soon.

Our Christmas program will be rendered on Friday night of this week, at 7 o'clock. We are expecting an interesting program and the children are anticipating a great time when the Christmas tree is "unloaded" and the gifts distributed.

We had a very good attendance in our church service last Sunday afternoon. The hour for this appointment has been changed from 3:00 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., on each third Sunday. REPORTER.

First Church, Burlington, N. C., Dr. Fred W. Paschal, Pastor.—On Sunday, December 11, our junior choir furnished the music for both services, this was the first time we have heard from them, and everyone was delighted at the way they are progressing. They are being directed by Miss Wiseman, who is a very talented director.

The Baracca class recently gave a banquet in the hut, with their wives and the Philathea class, as their guest. A good supper was served, games and various contests followed several humorous readings were given, also special musical selections. A wonderful spirit of fellowship existed.

The Philathea class met on Monday night, December 12th, with a good attendance. New officers were elected for the coming year. A splendid yearly report was read, showing many activities. They are truly living up to their motto: "We Do Things." The class voted to send cheer baskets for Christmas. At the close of the business session, a social hour was enjoyed. Games were played, pollyanna gifts were exchanged, and a delicious and colorful plate in Christmas colors served.

The adult choir gave a Christmas cantata entitled: "The Light of the World" on Sunday evening, December 18. The church was beautifully decorated with cedars, holly, poinsettas, and groups candlebras, a lighted star being the only light used, besides the candles. The choir entered on either side from the front door, carrying lighted candles, singing "Come All Ye Faithful." There was a capacity audience. At the close of the service a special offering was taken for Westminster Theological Seminary.

We feel that we are getting off to a grand start in all our church activities for the new year.

Wishing for each of you a very happy and joyous Christmas.

MRS. J. W. WILLIAMSON, Reporter.

Gibsonville Charge, Rev. C. E. Anderson, Pastor.—One reporter, Miss Margaret Wynne, was away for several weekends before and after conference on account of the serious illness and death of her aunt, Mrs. A. J. Parsons, of Iola, Kansas. That accounts for not having a report from this place. Mrs. Parsons was taken sick at her home in Kansas in September. The first of November she was brought to the home of her sister, Mrs. Will Trexler, in Salisbury. She passed away early in the morning on November the 26th in Rowan Memorial Hospital. The next afternoon (Sunday) at 2 o'clock, the funeral was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Trexler. Her body was laid to rest in the old family burying ground, Lake View, in Moore County. Mrs. Parsons before her marriage 3 years ago to A. J. Parsons of Randleman, and Greensboro, was Miss Jessie Ferguson, of Greensboro. She was secretary to the treasurer, L. M. Johnson of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company. She was a frequent visitor to her sister, Mrs. Richard Wynne, of this place. Many of our people learned to know and love her. Mrs. Parsons was a members of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Greensboro, where she joined in early childhood.

Next Thursday evening the Sunday school will present a Christmas program. There will also be a Christmas tree and treat for all members. All church organizations are progressing nicely. We have been without a regular pastor since conference. Rev. C. E. Anderson, of High Point, was appointed as pastor last week by our president, Dr. J. E. Pritchard, and will move here with his family this week. Mr. Anderson is an ordained minister with eight years experience in the ministry. His last work was in Lynbrook, New York, where he served three years. Dr. P. E. Lindley, of High Point College, a former pastor, preached for us the first Sunday in November. Rev. O. B. Williams, who served this work last year was assigned to the North Davidson pastorate. Mrs. Williams was shown several courtesies by the Auxiliary circles before they left. The going of Rev. and Mrs. Williams left a vacant spot in the hearts of many people here. Mrs. Belle Loy, a member of our Sunday school fell at her home here about two weeks ago and was taken to Alamance General Hospital, Burlington. Mrs. "Buck" Allred, one of our most faithful church members celebrated her 80th birthday last Tuesday, the 13th. Mrs. Allred is a regular attendant at Sunday school and enjoys the activities of the church and Sunday school as much as many of the younger folks. MRS. W. J. JENNINGS.

Mt. Moriah Church, Cleveland Charge, Rev. T. G. Madison, Pastor.—The new conference year is beginning very encouragingly at this church. We are very proud to have our pastor back with us for another year, and we are hoping to make this the best year both for the people and the pastor that this church has ever known.

Our pastor filled his regular appointments Sunday, December 11, at 11 a. m. He brought us a very helpful message. There was quite a number present at this service. Mr. Madison and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hasting.

The Sunday school is progressing nicely. We are having a very good attendance, but hoping to have more this coming year. We hope every member will do his part to improve our Sunday school as well as our attendance.

The Women's Auiliary is moving along nicely. They meet twice a month. May God bless their work.

Our best wishes go to all for the merriest Christmas ever, and pray for us that we may have a good year.

DESSIE WATERS, Reporter.

Spring Church.—Our Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. George Mitchell with Mrs. Jim Mitchell as joint hostess. There were twelve ladies present with a lot of interest given to the program.

Mrs. H. E. Vassor led the devotional in her very attractive way by singing "Silent Night."

After the meditation Mrs. Grant led the program.

Mrs. Hart led the question box discussion. I was glad to see so many ready to answer all questions and discuss them. The Auxiliary gave a gift of money for Christmas to one of our friends that is in the sanitarium.

The ladies will meet at the parsonage Thursday to set the house in order for our new pastor for the the Christmas holidays. The Auxiliary ordered a heater and drugget and some bed linen for the parsonage.

The hostesses served a sandwich and fruit course, and all enjoyed the social hour together. MRS. W. W. GRANT, Cor. Sec.

Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary, N. Davidson Charge, O. B. Williams, Pastor.—Mrs. L. H. Hilton was hostess to the Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary at her home, Thomasville, N. C., Route No. 1, Thursday afternoon, December 1st. Mrs| V. G. Morris, president, presided. Mrs. P. C. Reid had charge of devotionals using the guide book, with different members taking a part.

We missed Mr. and Mrs. Neese very much for they were always with us and we had always looked to Mrs. Neese for guidance in all our efforts. I know Mrs. Neese has been looking for this report before now. But I have been hindered from reporting, so Mrs. Neese I promise to do better next time.

We were very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Williams, our new pastor and wife, meet with us, also Mrs. Williams to join our Auxiliary, for I am sure she will be a great help to us.

The Auxiliary made plans to sponsor an entertainment at Midway High School as early as entertainers could be secured. We also made plans to make a quilt during Christmas holidays. If anyone wishes to purchase a beautiful log cabin quilt please notify us. Plans for furnishing the parsonage were discussed but no definite action taken.

When the roll was called we were very glad to hear every member answer "present." We had two visitors. Several visits and trays were reported made and sent to sick. We are sorry to have sick friends but very glad to know our Auxiliary is doing all they can to spread sunshine along the way.

During the social hour Mrs. Paul Green excelled in the contest.

Mrs. Hilton assisted by her daughter, Miss Dorothy Hilton, and Mrs. Lester Leonard, served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Lester Leonard very graciously invited the Auxiliary to meet in her home next time.

MRS. ALFRED R. CRAVEN, Cor. Sec.

Cedar Falls, Richland Charge, Rev. Mr. Grant, Pastor.—With a splendid new pastor and a new year to work with, we are expecting to accomplish much in the church. We wish to give Mr. Grant a warm welcome, and with the welcome goes our full cooperation in anything he attempts to do for our Master. Mr. Grant has filled two appointments at our church. His messages were enjoyed very much. Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are moving along very nicely.

On Christmas day our church will celebrate its 60th anniversary. A special program is being prepared. There will be special music. Mr. McCulloch will be the speaker. The history of the church will be read. Everyone is invited to attend this service.

Littleton Charge, Rev. D. D. Broome, Pastor.—On December 11 we attended Sunday school and church service at Hawkins Chapel. At the church service the house was almost filled to capacity by good listeners. At this service plans were made to begin tearing down a school house which was bought for the purpose of building Sunday school rooms. A group of men met Tuesday and Wednesday and began this project. This church is planning a Christmas program under the direction of a most competent and patient leader, Mrs. Baldy Green. It will be held December 25 at 7 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock on December 11 we held service at the Vaughn church where we met an interested congregation. After service the congregation lingered to talk and detained the preacher and family unusually long. Then we were given an invitation, insisting that we accept, to the home of Mrs. Cary Porter. Of course we gladly accepted and upon arriving found a room full of people and a corner full of good things to eat. The "corner full" consisted of sugar, flour, butter, milk, meal, fresh meats, preserves, syrup, nuts, coffee, soda, rice, canned goods, sweet and Irish potatoes, onions, and money. These gifts were not only donated by our members there, but by two Wilson families from Weaver's church, and some Baptist friends as well. We thank one and all. We are planning a rearrangement of services which we hope will be satisfactory to Vaughn as well as all the other churches. This new arrangement we hope to put into effect the first of January.

Our first quarterly conference was held Friday afternoon, December 16, at 2 o'clock. The usual business was transacted. The conference accepted the budget as handed down from the annual conference, also a number of resolutions presented by the pastor which, if carried out, we believe will result in a good year.

The Littleton church is planning to give a Christmas play and program during the Christmas season. This church reported a large increase in Sunday school and church attendance Sunday. We hope it will continue. The youngest member of the Sunday school, five-year-old Master Harris, was presented with a Bible by Mrs. Glasgow.

We are being continually provided with table necessities by churches and individual members on the charge.

Weaver's came next in line, and loaded the car on Sunday afternoon with meal, butter, fresh meats, potatoes, sugar, canned goods, sausage, flour, coffee, vegetables, and a citron melon. The Weaver's church is planning a Christmas program for Monday night, December 26.

We are glad that Mrs. B. F. Morris is able to be out again, and that Miss Mildred Thornton is at home and continues to improve. Mrs. M. J. Morris was able to worship with the Corinth people Sunday for the first time in about a month. Mrs. Wilson of the Weaver's Chapel community, who has been confined for several months, appreciates visits from any one who can visit her. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Efland, Orange, C. P. Morris, Pastor, Dec. 19.—Efland is not pouting because the conference sent them the same pastor for another year; quite to the contrary, we are very much pleased and are trying to get the work started so that we may have the best year yet.

In his sermon Sunday morning on "The Ideal Church," Mr. Morris told us that ours could be an ideal church, and in his very impressive way told us how we could make it one. We pray that God will guide us to this goal.

The play, "The Consolation," was presented Sunday evening. Using a public speaking broadcasting system, the scenes were brought to us by unseen speakers and songs. Assisting the pastor were Messrs. O. G. Thompson, R. B. Studebaker, Hubert McAdams, Perry Brown, and Mrs. Claude Murray, Mrs. R. B. Studebaker, and Miss Wills Mae Lee, soloist, and Miss Margaret Efland, pianist. In story and song this was a very impressive program. Our Christmas offering for the Children's Home was made at this service.

The young men's and young ladies' classes of the Sunday school visited the County Home Sunday evening and took each member a gift. This custom was started several years ago by Mrs. J. M. Dunn, of beloved memory, who was the teacher of the young ladies' class. This class is now known as the Pearl Dunn Class in her memory.

Sunday morning our Sunday school worship program will be a mixed program, each class having one number to present. We are not having a tree this year, but each member will be given a treat of Christmas candies, fruit, etc.

We hope the Editor and each reader of the Herald will enjoy the Christmas season and begin the new year with greater determination to do the Master's will.

PATTYE J. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

Fairview Church, Anderson Charge, Rev. T. M. Johnson, Pastor.—We are very fortunate in having Rev. T. M. Johnson for our pastor for the new conference year. Under his inspiring leadership, we feel that our church will make progress in the coming year.

On December 2 the District Rally of the Young People's Fellowship Club met at our church. We had as our speaker Rev. Norman Long, pastor of the Corinth Baptist church.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society took 14 members to Harmony church and helped organize a society there. Janie Sue Freeman and Annie Lou Pepper are leaders of this group, and they are doing fine work in this department.

In addition to the other work done on the church grounds, the ladies have recently planted some rose and crepe myrtle bushes. Plans are now under way for a Christmas program to be given Friday night, December 23.

ALEEN JOHNSON, Reporter.

Spencer-China Grove Charge, A. Ridge, Pastor, Dec. 19, 1938.—I am glad to say I have met the appointments at both churches. We are very happy over the fact of being returned to work with this good people another year. The pastor and family have been given a very cordial welcome to the charge for the second year of our pastorate. There seems to be a delightful spirit among the people, and we shall expect a good year's work by both churches. We have some as good people here as you can find in the world. They are the salt of the earth. There has been a lot done here the past year, and we are hoping for lots more to be done this year.

The first quarterly conference has been held and plans made for the new year. There was a good attendance at China Grove last night, December 17, and we had a good service. They are interested in their work, and may the good Lord bless them. We love our Heavenly Father and we thank Him for His many blessings. And may God bless you all richly. A. RIDGE, Pastor.

Cleveland Charge, T. G. Madison, Pastor.—You know when the people of a charge do something extra nice for the minister's family they expect the minister to make a nice little speech of appreciation and report the good news to the Herald. And that is all right, for we all like to see a "write-up" in the paper about ourselves, if it is a good one. But this time it happens that the minister's wife is reporting the good news, due to the fact that the minister has so many other things to do just now.

To make a long story short, many of our friends from Oak Grove, Kistler's Union,

MARRIED

Davis — Johnson

A marriage annoucement which has been received with much interest is that of Miss Annie Lucille Davis and Jesse Marchant Johnson.

The impressive ceremony was quietly solemnized Thursday, November 24, at 6 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. The marriage was performed by the Rev. J. R. George of Greer. Only a few close friends and relatives of the young couple witnessed the rites.

Mrs. Johnson is the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davis of Liberty Hill Community, and is a young woman of personality. She received her education at the Duncan high school. She has been a member of Liberty Hill M. P. church since childhood. She has been the pianist for many years and has been a faithful worker for the Lord in this church.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson of Duncan. He is a member of the Abner Creek Baptist church and is one of the deacons and Sunday School teachers. He was educated at the Duncan high school.

The young couple will make their home near Abner Creek. Their many friends wish them a long, prosperous and happy life together.

Sykes-Hayes

In a quiet ceremony solemnized in Efland, at the parsonage on Orange Charge, Miss Elevene Hayes became the bride of Odell Sykes of Mebane, Saturday evening, December 17th, at 7:30 o'clock. C. P. Morris, pastor of both the bride and groom, officiated, using the ring ceremony. The vows were spoken in the presence of Miss Aileen Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Odis Dodson, Mr. Tyson Hayes, and Mrs. C. P. Morris.

Mrs. Sykes is the daughter of Mr. S. N. Hayes and the late Mrs. Cora Belle Hayes. Mr. Sykes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sykes. Both the bride and the groom are members of the Chestnut Ridge church.

C. P. MORRIS.

Hedrick-Swicegood — Swicegood-Leonard

There was a double wedding that is of interest to the people of Mt. Carmel and surrounding communities. This double wedding was in the home of the pastor of the brides, Rev. L. E. Mabry, Saturday, November 26, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. L. E. Mabry witnessed the ceremony. Miss Meredith Hedrick became the bride of Luther Swicegood, and Miss Ruth Swicegood became the bride of Robert Leonard.

Miss Hedrick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Early Hedrick, and a faithful member and teacher in the Mt. Carmel church. Miss Swicegood is the daughter of the late John Swicegood and Julia Swicegood, and also a faithful worker in the interest of the young people of the church. Mr. Swicegood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Swicegood, a prominent young man in the community. He is employed in the Erlanger Cotton Mills, where he and his bride will live. Mr. Leonard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Leonard, of Linwood, N. C., and a very promising young man.

Buchanan—Baskett

Miss Mary Lucile Baskett, one of the fine young ladies of Spring Valley church was united in marriage at the church on November 1, at 8 a. m. to William Ray Buchanan of Cokesbury community. The service was one of usual beauty and performed by Rev. J. D. Cranford, pastor of the bride.

The bride and groom entered unattended, to the strains of the bridal march. The bride wore a tailored dress and jacket of teal blue, her accessories were black and she wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses.

Wedding music was furnished by Miss Blanche Hester, pianoist of the church, Miss Vera Butner, friend of the bride, of Winston Salem, N. C. and Mrs. J. T. Buchanan, the grooms sister-in-law.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Baskett, received her education from the Henderson high school and Henderson Business College. Mr. Buchanan is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Buchanan. He received his education from Middleburg high school. He is connected with his brother in the grocery business at Oxford, N. C. They are making their home in Oxford.

CHRISTMAS POEM

By Margaret Tucker, Flat Rock Charge
Member Palestine Church

WHEN JESUS WAS BORN IN BETHLEHEM

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem
In the days of Herod, the king,
Behold, there came wise men from the East,
Bringing gifts to worship Him.

The wise men crossed the Bethlehem plains,
Guided by the Star of the East,
And searching diligently for the new born
King,
They stopped neither for rest nor feast.

The star which was guiding them this holy night,
Went before them till its radiant beam
Fell on a lowly manger;
In a cradle was the Joy of their dream.

There in the small wooden cradle
Covered with straw of the field,
Lay a Baby wrapped in swaddling clothes,
With Mary beside Him, calm and still.

While angels above watched over Him
And the Wise Men rejoiced in His birth,
She sang a song, sweet lullaby,
As they presented Him with gold and myrrh.

"George, dear, do you remember what Wordsworth said about daffodils?"

"No; what's the use of bothering when we pay a gardener?"—Ex.

STEWARDSHIP DEFINITIONS

By T. W. EDDINS

1—A Steward is one having possession of something not his own.

2—STEWARD came from two words—STY and WEARD — meaning "A WAY TO GUARD, GUIDE."

3—Stewards are responsible for the care, use and development of possessions.

4—Stewardship is a PRINCIPLE instilled, not a METHOD installed.

5—Stewardship teaches you not to put your trust in money, but money in trust.

6—Stewardship measures by character building and souls being saved and kept.

7—Stewardship is planned on personal ability—"According to several ability."

8—Stewardship is more concerned with large visions, well-fed souls, than with full stomachs and coffers; quality of hearts than quantity of checks.

9—Stewardship is a TASK to be performed, not a tax to be paid.

11—Stewardship is NOT something man does for God, but something God does for and by man.

12—The question is NOT "What shall I do with my money?" but "What shall my money do with me?" It makes more slaves to it than masters of it.

13—Stewardship insists on benevolences emerging from spiritual vision.

14—Good stewards put the Golden Rule into life—Not the Rule of Gold.

15—He is no fool who parts with what he cannot keep to get what he cannot lose.

17—Man's attitude toward God is revealed in his attitude toward property.

19—A steward may be a partner, employee, trustee, manager, even a son, but never a slave.

20—The gift without the giver is bare—Christ gave himself.

What Is Money?

1—Money is not filthy lucre.

2—Money is coined energy. We put brawn and brain into work and get money.

3—Money is power. It commands farm and factory to supply our needs.

4—Money is danger. Nearly all New Testament references are warnings thus.

6—Money is obligation. The state, church, and conscience say so.

7—Money is a servant for righteousness or destruction, depending on how we direct its influence and power.

8—The love of money is the root of all evil; the Love for Christ is the panacea for all ills—evil.

FROM PASTORS AND PEOPLE

and Lawndale churches made a surprise visit to the parsonage December 12, and gave us an old-fashioned pounding, which means that we will not need to go to the grocery store for many things for a long time. We will not try to list all the different things given, and we can not give the names of the donors, because some of the packages did not have any name on them.

This pounding is only one of the many nice things that have been done for us during our stay here. We sincerely appreciate all these expressions of kindness, even though some of them have not been mentioned in the Herald.
